Fairview Community Picnics At Chemong

FAIRVIEW, July 4 — (ENS) — Fowler's Picnic grounds, Chemong Lake was the scene of a very happy event Friday with ideal weather for the annual community picnic. Following the noon day meal swimming and bathing was enjoyed by many. A splendid program of sports and ball games was enjoyed by all.

Results of the races were as follows:

Girls pre school age—Gayle Kennedy, Stewart Gilbert, Marie Olver.

Boys pre school age—Garry Rollins, Carman Bulmer, Ernie Trotter.

Girls, 6 years—Barbara Mann, Shirley Boyce.

Boys, 6 years—Jimmie Ferguson.

Girls, 7-8—Noreen Ferguson, Mary Hudson, Linda Dundas.

Boys 7-8—Arnold Olver, Billie Gilbert, Bobby Boyce.

Girls 9-10—Violet Sanderson, Lucille Brooks, Sylvia Hudson.

Boys 9-10—Reggie Fowler, Richard Dundas, Bobby Olver.

Girls 11-12—Helen Patton, Clara Gillespie, Geraldine Williams.

Boys 11-12—Allan Patton.

Boys and girls 12-15—Marry Milburn, Elsie Gillespie.

Boys three-legged—Donald Milburn and Gerald Harrison, Tom Milburn and Norman Field, Arnold Olver and Bobby Boyce.

Girls' three-legged—Elsie Gillespie and Mildred Bulmer; Naomi Trotter and Muriel Chamberlain; Lucille Brooks and Clara Gillespie.

Wheelbarrow race — John Lewis and Norman Field; Bob Cockburn and Tom Smart; Neil Fowler and Reggie Fowler.

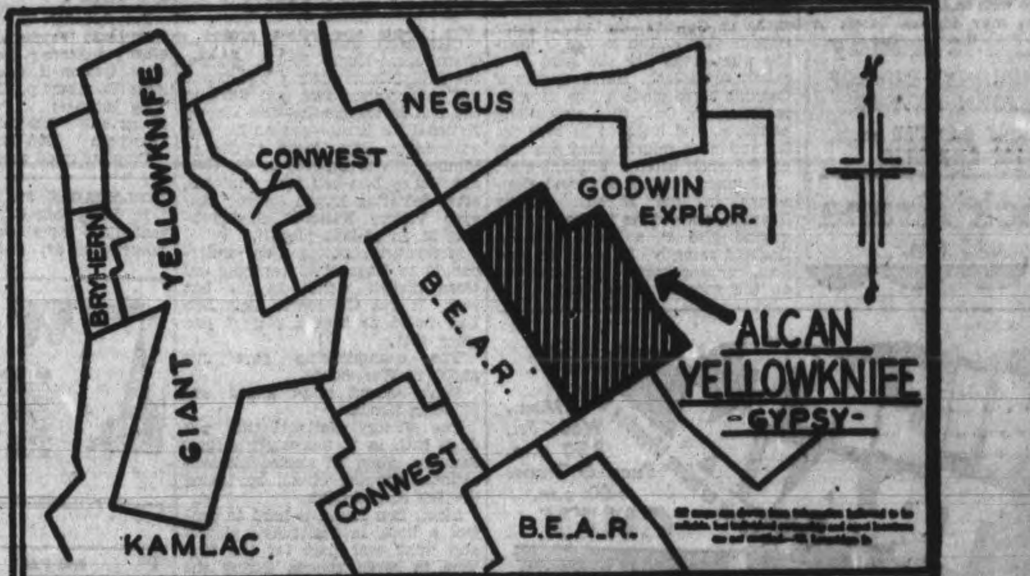
ALCAN YELLOWKNIFE GOLD MINES LIMITED

A strategically located property in the heart of the Yellowknife area having interesting speculative possibilities



Capitalization

3,000,000 shares, no par value, of which 1,250,000 are vendors' shares, all of which are pooled.

Officers and Directors

President ..... Michael J. Boylen, Mining Prospector.
Vice-Pres. ...... J. P. Manley, K.C.
Sec.-Treas. .... F. M. Campbell
Director ...... D. D. MacLachlan
Director .... C. J. Peart

PROPERTY

The property of the Alcan Yellowknife Mines Limited consists of 14 mineral claims named the Tat Group. They are situated on the eastern side of Yellowknife Bay about one-half mile inland from the shoreline. The central point of the group is 2 miles northeast of Yellowknife village, 3 miles southwest of the Ptarmigan Mine, owned by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, 2 miles north of the former Burwash Yellowknife mine and 2½ miles due east of the main showing on the Giant Yellowknife Mines property. The group is thus centrally located and easy of access from Great Slave Lake.

GEOLOGY

Extracts from report of Christopher Riley, Mining Geologist, June 24th, 1944.

"The claims lie in a fault block formed by two of the major Yellowknife faults, one known as the Atchaiko Fault and the other as the Duck Fault. One unnamed fault is shown on the government maps as crossing the group."

"Geological conditions on the Tat claims are right for the occurrence of gold veins. Such veins have been found in the same rocks on such nearby properties as the Burwash Yellowknife, the Ptarmigan Mine, the Cassidy property, the Morie property and others.

"Structural conditions are favorable for ore showings. Most of the known Yellowknife deposits are found in fault blocks such as the one formed on the Tat group by the Atchaiko and the Duck faults."

400,000 Shares Are Offered AT 30c PER SHARE

We believe these shares have interesting speculative possibilities.

DANGEROUSLY ILL

FO. Stefan Frederick Thorvaldson, whose wife resides in Bancroft, is dangerously ill as a result of injuries sustained on active service, the R.C.A.F. reports.

TAXI DAMAGED

A taxi driven by C. Sullivan, 260 Charlotte street, was damaged to the extent of $20 Saturday in a collision at Brock and George streets with an automobile driven by Arnold Thompson, 17, of R.R. 1, Warsaw.

NO POLICE COURT

There was no session of the police court this morning. With no regular magistrate available for Tuesdays during the holiday season nothing has been scheduled for today.

GARDEN DAMAGED

The police department has received a complaint that a garden operated by two women at 476 Bonaccord street has been wantonly damaged. The other night sixteen hills of potatoes were pulled up.

HUGE DELPHINIUMS

John Williams, who lives just off Lansdowne street west beyond May's School has a garden of delphiniums that is a rare picture. White Delphiniums are more than seven feet tall, and he has at least six other colors of this stately flower.

SAILOR ROBBED

While swimming in the canal Saturday Ordinary Seaman P. J. Rody, 576 Harvey street, home on leave from Kingston had $10 stolen from his wallet. Rody had left the money in his clothes on the bank and when he returned in a few minutes he found the $10 bill missing.

IT GOT AWAY

Maskinonge fishing in Lake Katchewanooka over the holiday week-end is reported as having been good. Among those who came close to catching a nice one was Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield who hooked on to a beauty that he estimated to be in the neighborhood of 15 pounds—and then failed to land it.

STARTS A ROUNDUP

Gerald Dunford, inspector of the Royal Humane Society started this morning to round up dog-owners who have been delinquent in buying 1944 tags for their pets. Accompanied by Officer Harold Mesley the inspector began a checkup that will probably land a number of offenders in police court. Fewer than half of the city's 1,300 dogs are supplied with this year's tag.

LEAVE FOR CAMP

Bright and early Wednesday morning 74 Air Cadets of Peterborough Squadron 164 will set out for their 10-day summer camp at Burtch Wireless School, No. 5 S.F.T.S., Brantford. Included with the syllabus of training, the boys will have an opportunity to witness formation flying, and the big thrill for all who have their parents' permission will be going aloft for a flight. The Air Cadet Committee has received an invitation to be the guests of the station on next Sunday. Parents who wish to keep in touch with their boys may address letters to No. 5, S.F.T.S., R.C.A.F., Brantford, c/o R. 1, Burtch.

MOTORCYCLE, CAR COLLIDE

When a motorcycle driven north on George street by Orville Braden, Indian River, Saturday collided with an automobile driven by Charles Gibson, 131 Morrow street, at the intersection of Perry street, a wheel was broken off the car and the motorcycle also suffered considerable damage. Fortunately no one was injured.

QUICK MAIL SERVICE

Alderman R. M. Glover has received a letter from his son, Cpl. Max H. Glover, serving with the First Division in Italy, in what must be record time for the arrival of regular mail from the Mediterranean theatre. The soldier's note to his father, in which he said that everything was coming along fine, was mailed on June 19 and arrived in the city June 26.

Casualty List Has 9 Names

Two district soldiers, one from Haliburton, the other from Millbrook, have been killed in action, the Department of National Defence announced over the week-end, in a series of casualty lists that added the names of 9 more district men to Canada's roll of honor. Those who lost their lives, both fighting with a Central Ontario regiment, were Pte. Thomas Bertrum Borton, whose wife is Mrs. Thelma Jean Borton, of Haliburton, and L.-Cpl. Melville George Perrin, the son of Mrs. Mary E. Perrin, of Millbrook.

Those wounded and injured include the names of three soldiers from Belleville; Gnr. Frederick Harold Smith, whose mother is Mrs. Isabel Smith, R.R. No. 7, Belleville, was slightly injured while serving with the Royal Canadian Artillery; L.-Cpl. Patrick Morden, of an Eastern Ontario regiment, wounded but remaining on duty, is the husband of Mrs. Ruby Morden, 113 North Front street; A. L.-Cpl. Warren Morgan Gannon, whose wife is Mrs. Clara Florence Gannon, 217 Colman street, was slightly wounded with an Eastern Ontario regiment also.

The lists contain the names of two Cobourg men, both slightly wounded; L.-Cpl. Wilbert James Hie, son of Mrs. Winifred Hie, 382 Ann street, and a member of the Canadian Provost Corps; and Pte. Robert William Richardson of the Nova Scotia and P.E.I. Regiment, whose wife is Mrs. Ivy Richardson, 170 A. Blake street. Another native of Cobourg wounded in fighting is Pte. Eugene Ogilvey Mitchell, the husband of Mrs. Beatrice Mitchell, 160 Green street.

Slightly injured serving with the Royal Canadian Artillery was Gnr. Norman Edward Tufts, the son of Mrs. Lily Tufts, of Coboconk.

MAMMOTH PICNIC—More than 10,000 people jammed Nicholls Oval Monday for the annual C.G.E.-Genelco picnic for employees and their children. Perfect weather prevailed and the outing was a great success. In the TOP picture a section of the huge crowd is shown, and at the BOTTOM Mrs. Dave Price delights a crowd of children as she feeds the elephant. This huge elephant was part of a circus brought to the city for entertainment at the picnic.

C.G.E. And Genelco Employees Hold Big Picnic At The Oval

A circus, complete with elephants, races, sports of all kinds, refreshments and prizes, proved enough attraction to draw nearly 10,000 people to the Canadian General Electric's and Genelco's annual picnic held Monday at Nicholls Oval.

Lou Skuce, world-famed Ottawa-born cartoonist was the surprise attraction on the frolic and his drawings and caricatures, projected on a screen, held everyone spell-bound.

The grounds were opened at 10.00 a.m., and from then until after midnight "fun and frolic" was the slogan that kept every moment of both young and old, occupied in some amusement. Children were treated to a merry-go-round, chair-o-plane, and a circus, brought from Toronto especially to perform at the picnic. Among the feature attractions of the circus, were performing dogs, who seemed quite capable of doing anything, including boxing, hoop jumping, and calisthenics of all kinds, military ponies, who went through precise drill routines under the direction of Will Hills animal trainer, and the Cycling Kirks, . . . five Australian trick cyclists who use all types of bicycles in their act.

The Mathews, aerial trapeze artists, and their 12-year-old daughter Geraldine, thrilled the crowd with whirls and twirls on the high trapeze, and the DeMarcelles, two French boys, displayed juggling, hoop-jumping and dancing, on a moving tight-rope.

Bill Arnott, magician mystified the youngsters with all the popular gags, including pulling birds, flowers and rabbits from a hat, and makes things disappear left and right. Two elephants went through a perfect dance-routine, and "Judy", showed the crowd that she is the only elephant in the world that can walk a four-inch plank, and make a complete turn while doing so.

Two C.W.A.C. Bands

During the afternoon, and again in the evening, the C.W.A.C. Pipe, and Military Bands gave performances. The two bands are touring Canada. The Military Band of 45 pieces is under the direction of Bandmaster Nadia Svarich. The 27-piece Pipe band is under the direction of Pipe Major Lillian Grant.

Ian McRae, works manager of C.G.E. and Genelco, introduced Mayor James Hamilton, who addressed the crowd briefly. Mayor Hamilton congratulated the Social and Athletic club of C. G. E. and said the picnics were getting bigger and better every year. He lauded the Canadian General Electric company and Genelco, for the speedy way they took up Churchill's challenge, "Give us the tools, and we will finish the job."

A St. John's Ambulance tent checked parcels for the fun-makers, administered first-aid and acted as a clearing house for lost children.

Florence Trotter, St. John's Ambulance worker, estimated more than 500 children became lost or separated from their parents during the day. Other attendants, who were kept busy all day treating minor cuts and scratches with first-aid were Mrs. F. C. Wallwork, Mrs. C. Meehan, and Mrs. Custance.

Four refreshment booths, selling ice-cream, soft-drinks, candy, pop-corn and many other confections, were kept busy from morning until midnight.

Fifi, the clown, was on the grounds all day, dispensing fun and entertainment to the younger set with his humorous antics and appearance.

The employees' draw for a refrigerator, was won by G. Stanley. The washing mahine draw for the employees' wives, was won by Mrs. A. L. Callender.

J. O'Dette won first prize in the bait-casting contest, and Ted Chambers took second prize.

Volley ball winners were H. Gadd, B. Fanjoy, G. Palmer, A. Rooke, E. McDonald, W. Waterman and Ted Chambers.

A ball game and horseshoes rounded out a full day of sports activities. After the final performance of the circus, the spot-light shifted to the dance floor where many people, who had been on the grounds since morning, ended the picnic by dancing into the early hours of the morning, to the music of Ken Good and his Commanders.

A NEW HIGH

It has been said that J. K. Hughes has taken in hens, baby carriages, and horses in deals on used cars and with this in mind the garage gang got a shock this morning when they looked out the back and saw two huge elephants standing near the garage doors. One wag immediately pipes up with: "Look what he got on a deal for a used truck." But this wasn't the truth at all. The big truck which is used to convey the elephants broke down so they were unloaded at the garage while repairs were being made, thus the genial car dealers came in for quite a bit of kidding.

Apsley Concert Gives Aid To War Victims

Sweet music is probably capable of being made the means of giving expression to almost every kind or type of human emotion, and naturally in primarily intended to give pleasure particularly to those who are in attendance to both hear and see the performers, and as much plays an important part from both educational and entertainment standpoint in the life of any community.

When however its performance is deliberately planned so as to be made the means of giving pleasure to other pleople thousands of miles away, who can neither see or hear the performers, the pleasure it thus gives takes on a much greater significance which is still further enriched when it happens to be for people who have come to desperate straits through no fault of their own.

Such is the background for a concert held in Apsley Parish Hall on Friday, June 23 by the combined schools of the Apsley area with Lasswade under the direction of Mrs. M. Kilborn, supervisor of music in the schools of that district taught by Mrs. D. Kiff, Mrs. N. Wilson, Mrs. R. Tucker, Mrs. A. Earnshaw, J. G. Reynolds and G. Northey, so as to give succor to the bomb victims of enemy air raid attacks over Britain, through the local and district fund which functions for that purpose.

In spite of the fact that a tremendous storm occurred that evening to keep many supporters in their homes, to-day the fund is able to report a donation of $9.00 on behalf of the objects for which they worked, in addition to which, one of these schools No. 4 of Burleigh and Anstruther better known as Apsley School taught by Mrs. A. Earnshaw has sent a gift of $3.53 on its own account.

Prince of Wales School Room 14, Grade 2 is also credited in to-day's list with $1.30, and two young girls Mary Elizabeth Hunter and Mary Eleanor Smart brought in $2.35 which they had earned by helping mother around the house, a lot of money for youngsters to turn over in this manner, made all the sweeter because they actually earned it.

Two regular assistants to-day give a helping hand with the penny box at the Bell Telephone Co. Ltd. office adding another $2.60 to its total which now stands at $119.58 through the interest of B. Conley, cashier, and a pre-vacation collection of the box at Norham's Bakery added another $2.01 to its previous good record.

Readers will perhaps recall a donation listed a short while ago under "Just Grannma", another such is again appearing to-day for a like amount, displaying this kindly lady's interest with these who have been so hardly hit of late by the new rocket or pilotless bombs released by the enemy from the coasts of France against whatever may stand in its way in the south of England, no matter whether it be institutions for infants, sick people in hospitals or a helpless civilian population.

Tag Day Saturday, July 8

To assist the much enlarged need occasioned by these inhuman attacks, the fund management is making a plea for generous support next Saturday, July 8 for a tag day being held on its behalf, and would also appreciate the assistance of individuals or groups who could offer to serve for a two hour period for that purpose. Please telephone the secretary of the fund at 4641, or 9896.

Havelock Boy Killed In Italy

HAVELOCK, July 4 (ENS)—L.-Cpl. W. F. (Teddy) Drew, serving in Italy with the Canadian Armoured Corps since last April, has been killed in action, according to a cable received by the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Drew of this village.

Only 20 years of age, L.-Cpl. Drew enlisted in September, 1941, at Kingston, taking his training at Peterborough and Camp Borden. He went overseas in August, 1943, and landed in Italy in April. Educated at Havelock, he attended Trade School in Peterborough and then took a job at the Arsenal in Lindsay before his enlistment. He was a member of St. John's Anglican Church.

Besides his parents, L.-Cpl. Drew is survived by a brother, Pte. Douglas Drew, fighting with the Hastings, Prince Edward Regiment in Italy, and by two sisters, Miss Gwen Drew of Belleville and Mrs. G. H. Cordy of Barnet, B.C.

Farmer Killed When Thrown From Hay Wagon

LAKEFIELD, July 4 —(ENS)— George Patterson, 63-year-old Smith township farmer was instantly killed early Monday evening, when he was thrown from a hay wagon, and run over after the team bolted in the hay field.

The victim was haying alone on the farm of his son-in-law. The farm is on the 9th Line of Smith.

Dr. J. C. Smith was called and he in turn notified the coroner, Dr. Donald Munro, who stated death was accidental and no inquest would be necessary.

Born In Otonabee

The late Mr. Patterson was born in Otonabee township, a son of the late Alexander Patterson and Jane Morrison. His wife who was formerly Nettie Shearer died last year. He lived in Millbrook until last fall when he moved to Smith township to his daughter's residence. He farmed all his life and was in good health up to the time of his death.

Surviving is one son, William Patterson of Queensboro; three daughters, Mrs. Sherman Northey (Jean); Mrs. Luther Olan (Edith) of Millbrook, and Margaret of R.R. 1, Port Hope. Four brothers, Norman and William of Otonabee, Herbert of Victoria, B.C., and Harold of Rochester, N.Y., and two sisters, Mrs. S. Scandrett, Keeler, Sask., and Miss Susan of Victoria, B.C., also survive.

The late Mr. Patterson was a member of Millbrook United Church and also an elder.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 o'clock from the home of his son-in-law Sherman Northey to Fife's Cemetery in Otonabee for interment. Rev. A. L. Sisco of Millbrook United Church will officiate at the funeral.

Honor Bride-To-Be

DOURO, July 4.—(ENS).—Honoring two of their members, Miss Madelyn Sullivan and Robert Leahy, the members of St. Joseph's Dramatic Society joined with St. Joseph's choir, of which Miss Sullivan was also a member, for a presentation, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olan Leahy. An address was read by Mrs. Joseph O'Leary and an occasional chair was presented to the young couple, whose wedding takes place on July 11. Mr. Leahy thanked the gathering of some ninety people for their kindness. Dancing was enjoyed and a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Olan Leahy.

Lily Lake W.A.

Mrs. Ernest Ireland and Miss Margaret Robson were joint hostesses for the June meeting of the Lily Lake Women's Association, held at the former's home. After the devotional period, Mrs. Arthur Hancock gave an interesting resume of the life of Princess Elizabeth. It was decided to send two woollen blankets to the corvette Peterborough as part of the Lily Lake contribution for the furnishings. After the announcement that the July meeting would take the form of a picnic at Jackson Park, the hostesses served refreshments. Mrs. William Steinkrauss presided.

Couple Honored On Silver Wedding

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Belfrey, R.R. 11, Peterborough, gathered at their home Saturday to honor them, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. On behalf of the group, Mrs. James Thorn presented the couple with a beautiful silver tray and candle sticks, set with rose tapers, and a lovely glass casserole. The address was given by Beecher Matchett. In addition, Mrs. Belfrey received a bouquet of flowers from Mrs. Ormiston Stewart.

One of the highlights of the evening was the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. George Trotter, of Frobisher, Sask., former residents of the district, and an informal get-together was enjoyed. Another feature was the mock wedding. A wedding cake, surrounded with orange blossoms, and decorated with 25 candles, centred the tea table when lunch was served.

Mary O'Neill Wed In Marmora

MARMORA, July 4.—(ENS). — A pretty wedding was solemnized at Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, on Monday morning, July 3rd, when Mary Bridget O'Neill, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill, of Marmora Township, became the bride of Cecil Howard Kilpatrick, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kilpatrick, of Madoc. The ceremony was performed and the nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. H. J. Farrell. The wedding music was played by Miss Rita Deacon and Mrs. Desmond McGrath, of Oshawa, sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a street length dress of pale blue, white hat and accessories, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and fern.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. N. Stover, of Peterborough, who wore a dress of old rose with matching hat and accessories, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and fern. The groomsman was Mr. Edward O'Neill, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a wedding was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received wearing a dress of black and white assisted by the groom's mother, wearing a black dress. The couple left on a trip to Toronto, the bride wearing a brown suit, brown and white hat and matching accessories. On their return they will take up residence in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. Kilpatrick, Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. N. Stover, Peterborough, and Mrs. D. McGrath, Oshawa.

Two Members of RCAF Wed In Princess Alice Barracks

OTTAWA, July 4. — (Special to Examiner).—At the first wedding performed in the Princess Alice Barracks of the Women's Division, R.C. A.F., Sergeant Jessie McLeod, of Kinistino, Sask., became the bride of Officer Cadet Douglas Grant, of Peterborough, here Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McLeod, of Kinistino, Sask., is stationed at Air Force Headquarters. Son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Grant, of Peterborough, the bridegroom was formerly stationed at No. 17 Equipment Depot, Ottawa, and is now on the officers' training course at Trenton.

In the large recreation room of the barracks before an altar banked with pastel summer flowers, the ceremony was performed by Flight Lieut. J. Scott, Rockcliffe Air Station padre Flight Officer Marion Graham, of Saskatoon, officer commanding the barracks, gave the bride in marriage. The bride was attended by Sgt. A. E. Drennan, of Montreal. Flying Officer George Broadley, of Rockcliffe, was best man.

Both bride and groom wore R.C. A.F. uniforms. The bride wore a corsage of pink Talisman roses at her lapel and the bridesmaid wore a corsage of blue daisies.

Wedding music was played by Flight Sgt Audrey Miller, of Windsor. During the signing of the register, Section Officer Edith Motley sang, "I Love Thee."

After the ceremony a reception was held in the sergeants' mess and later the bride and groom left on a short trip.

Out-of-town guests at the ceremony included the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Grant and his sister, Mrs. D. Church, all of Peterborough.

C.W.A.C. Bands Visit City Given Picnic at Chemong

Peterborough gave her heart to a group of girls in khaki over the week-end, when the C.W.A.C. military and pipe bands, in the district on a nation-wide concert tour, stopped off to give a program, and enjoy the hospitality of Peterborough's citizens. Very smart in their summer uniforms, the C.W.A.C.'s proved pleasing to the ear as well as the eye, as they presented a varied musical program, interspersed with lively numbers by the smart-stepping pipe band on Saturday evening, on the lawns of the Armouries.

Under the baton of Sgt. Major Nadia Svarich, the band master, who holds her A.T.C.M., the C.W.A.C.'s showed their versatility by playing stirring marches like "Officer of the Day," but slipping easily into different tempo and toning for "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen," and again for novelty numbers, like "Trombone Toboggan." Pipe Major Lillian Grant, the only woman pipe major in the world, led the band through a series of familiar Scotch and marching airs. A feature of this part of the program was the fact that pipers and drummers marched as they played, executing intricate figures, and switching easily to a different tempo and melody on a signal from the major.

Lieut. Nora Booth, recruiting officer of the C.W.A.C., spoke briefly to the large crowd assembled on the lawn, telling about the wide field of opportunity open to women joining the C.W.A.C., always bringing out the fact that each C.W.A.C. released a man for active duty Mrs. N. D. Seaton, chairman of the Women's Voluntary Services for Peterborough, introduced Lieut. Booth. Mayor James Hamilton brought greetings to the visitors from the city, and complimented them on their music and appearance and personality. At the conclusion of the program, refreshments were served to members of the bands, in the Armouries.

With the kind permission of Lt. Col. James Turnbull, the Citizens' Committee on Sunday afternoon entertained the members of the C.W.A.C. pipe and brass bands at a picnic. Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hughes graciously put their cottage at Chemong at the disposal of the Committee. Arrangements were under the general supervision of Women's Voluntary Services, of which Mrs. N. D. Seaton is chairman. In all, about eighty girls enjoyed the outing.

Swimming, boating, lounging in the sun gave the girls a chance to relax after their busy days on tour of Canadian cities. Boats for sailing, rowing and canoeing were loaned by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Belleghem, Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., and Mr. and Mrs. F. Roy. Mrs. C. Collins took the girls for jaunts up and down the lake in her launch. The floating bridge attracted considerable attention and trips were arranged across it. A picnic lunch was served out-of-doors by Mrs. J. Wharry and her committee.

Several officers from the Training Centre were present, as well as members of the executive of the Citizens' Committee, and the executive of the Women's Voluntary Services, but arrangements were in the hands of the W.V.S.

Camp Inglestane Opens for Season

Camp time has rolled around again, and activities at the Y.W. C.A. Camp Inglestane on Stoney Lake are well under way, under the leadership of the director, Miss Roberta Kiefer, girls' work secretary of the Peterborough Y.W.C.A. Councillors for this season are Misses Nancy Eastwood, Shirley Pringle and Beverly Pringle, and Mrs. J. Forbes of Peterborough, Miss Janet Cuthbertson of Toronto, Miss Dianna Lowe of Kitchener and Miss Yvonne Keeler of Belleville. Mrs. C. Rudd is the nurse and Mrs. M. Peace is the cook.

Vansickle Family Holds Reunion

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Vansickle, at Crow Lake, was the scene of a great family re-union Saturday evening, when over sixty people, including all their family, and several friends, gathered to honor them on their birthdays. Mrs. Vansickle was celebrating her birthday, but Mr. Vansickle's birthday is in April. However, it was thought wiser to wait until the summer before calling the family together. Mr. and Mrs. Vansickle will celebrate their 64th wedding anniversary on July 12.

Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. George Vansickle and Jack and Annabelle Vansickle, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Johns, of Port Hope; Mrs. Bert Harrison, and Stewart and Karl Harrison, of Pickering; Mrs. John Ferguson, Arnold and Gordon Ferguson. Miss Iris Darling, Mr. and Mrs. Russel Ferguson and John and Gale Ferguson, Mrs. Ottie Ferguson, and Ottie Ferguson, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. David Vansickle and Phyllis Vansickle, all of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. David Ferguson, and Joan Ferguson, of Springville; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Colby, Trevor, Vernon, Orvil and Yvonne Colby, and Miss Hubble, of Trent Bridge; Mr. and Mrs. Don McGregor, Douglas and Isobel McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Vansickle and Betty Vansickle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Post, and Thelma Post, and Mrs. Campany, of Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vansickle, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campion and Arlene and Joyce Campion, of Cordova; Mrs. Graham Vansickle, and Diana Vansickle, of Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Vansickle, Anna, Connie, Bobby and Betty Vansickle, of Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. Randall Vansickle and Sandra Vansickle, and Mrs. Morrow and Miss Morrow, of Havelock.

Three grandsons, now overseas with Canada's armed forces, were not present: Graham Vansickle, with the R.C.A.F. in England; Pte. Ottie Ferguson, with the Eighth Army in Italy, and Pte. Everett Vansickle, now in England.

Soldiers Give Sacred Program

At the request of Major John Wood and his program committee, boys from the local Training Centre and hostesses from the Uptown Recreation Centre presented a radio program over CHEX of hymns and sacred music Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. A representative group of soldiers and hostesses took part in the half-hour program, which opened with the soldiers' favorite hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross," sung by a group of boys representing the provinces of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Nova Scotia.

Solos presented during the program included "The Holy City," by Sgt. Beatrice Curtis, C.W.A.C.; "Come Thou Almighty King," by Pte. Raymond Strain; "O Saviour Hear Me," by Margaret Westbye; and "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Pte. Wallace Hunt. A group of three hostesses, Misses Marie Cairns, Helen Lytle and Eleanor Craig, sang "Sweet Hour of Prayer." Mrs. B. Smith at the organ, and Mrs. C. Norman at the piano, played an organ-piano duet, of "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Also on the program was a short address by Cpl. Carr, and the "Thought for Today," given by Ernest Irwin, who was M.C. for the broadcast. Mrs. Norman was accompanist for the numbers.

At the Uptown Recreation Centre on Sunday, about 26 hostesses were on duty during the day, which was filled with the usual round of games and singing. Pte. Harold Wright again led the sacred sing-song in the evening, and Jack Gibson was soloist, singing "Prayer Perfect," and "Where'er You Walk." Refreshments were served by the hostesses during the evening.

SWIFT'S WEEKLY FOOD HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly, wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Monday

by Martha Logan

Eggs are Versatile

Nutritious, quick and easy to prepare, eggs are a godsend to a harassed housewife

There are so many occasions, nowadays when an egg dish can fill an unexpected gap, that a few different ways of cooking eggs must always be welcome. All the recipes that follow are for four people.

Eggs Laurentian

¼ lb. old Canadian Cheese
4 eggs
Parsley
¼ cup breadcrumbs
¼ cup grated cheese
Mild flavoured drippings
1 tsp. paprika
Salt and pepper

Grease well a baking dish. Line it with the cheese cut very thin. Break the eggs into it carefully. Mix grated cheese, finely chopped parsley, bread-crumbs, seasoning and drippings and sprinkle over the eggs. Place in shallow pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) until whites are set and topping browned (15 to 20 minutes).

Eggs à la Tripe

4 eggs
1 medium-sized onion sliced
1 cup medium thick white sauce
1 cup milk
1 tsp. paprika
Salt and pepper

Hard cook the eggs. Chill and peel. Separate onion slices into rings to fry lightly. Slice the eggs and place with onion rings in the combined milk and sauce in double boiler and heat. Season and serve!

Eggs Bercy

4 eggs
½ lb. sausages
4 tbsps. tomato paste or ketchup
½ cup top milk or cream
Salt and pepper

This dish is best prepared in individual servings. First, fry sausages till they are cooked but not dark brown. Now grease shallow heat-proof dishes with sausage drippings. Break one egg into each. Arrange two halves of a big sausage or two small sausages on each side of the egg. Put a dab of tomato paste or ketchup on each serving. Add milk or cream into each dish and cook beneath the grill 10 minutes or until whites have set.

NEED REVIVAL OF HOME LIFE
No Delinquency Problem When Decent Families Did Not Produce Gangsters

WE have recently been celebrating what was called National Family Week, and it must have given everyone with even a rudimentary funnybone a sour laugh to realize that it was thought necessary to use propaganda to sell the general public of the advantages of the home circle.

But the idea isn't as skrewy as it seems, for the modern youngster, who was born in a hospital and reared on a shelf in an apartment until he was big enough to crawl out on the street, who calls his parents "Sally" or "Jim" or the "Old Man" or the "Old Woman", knows no more about what a real home and real family life is like than he does about the igloos of the Eskimos, or the manners and customs of the Tibetans.

Conditions Strange To Youths

If you should tell your teen-age children about the old-fashioned home that was big and comfortable and that had thick walls and doors behind which the members of a family could retire and have privacy; if you should regale them with tales of a table groaning under good food that mother cooked, instead of a few odds and ends in paper bags brought in from a delicatessen shop; if you should assure them that mothers and fathers actually did once upon a time spend their evenings at home with their children, instead of stepping out to night clubs, and that at night the whole family gathered around a light while somebody read a good book aloud, they wouldn't believe you. They would think you were kidding them.

Yet in the not so distant past there were millions of such homes and out of them came the men and women who have made our country great. Parents had time and opportunity then to form their children's manners and morals, and boys and girls tried to pattern themselves after the great heroes of fiction and history instead of the current cinema stars.

No Delinquency in These Families

Human nature is human nature and there were always some wild and out-breaking youngsters, but they were few and far between in the days when the home functioned as an institution. There was no juvenile delinquency problem then. The teen-agers did not supply the greatest number of criminals. The boys of decent families did not turn into gangsters, nor did school girls become pick-ups.

It was only when the home became a place of call to which people went when everywhere else was shut up, or to snatch a sandwich or change their clothes, and where the members of the family each went their different ways, with their different friends and amusements and interests, and met so seldom they had scarcely a speaking acquaintance with each other, that the general moral of youngsters began to deteriorate.

For in their formative years they have been deprived of home influence, which is the most important factor in shaping every individual for good or ill. The greatest crime that parents can commit against their children is not to give them a real home in which they can grow in an atmosphere of love and peace and righteousness. And when fathers and mothers fail to do this, they may well go on their knees asking their erring children's forgiveness.

So trying to revive the more or less defunct family circle may not be such a bad idea after all.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Vegetable dishes make agreeable variations in the diet and frequently reduce the food bill. They are welcome on any table in any household where the menu calls for meat only once a day. Dishes containing a large percentage of milk, eggs or cheese, together with dried legumes, nuts or gelatine are nutritious and typical vegetable dishes. You will find several of these recipes in our column to-day.

Peanut Balls.

One tablespoon fat, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, pepper, 2 cups cooked rice, ¼ cup ground peanuts, 1 egg. Make white sauce from fat, flour, milk and the seasoning. Mix rice, peanuts, white sauce, and beaten egg, and shape into small balls. Saute in a greased frying-pan, turning frequently so the balls are browned all over, or roll in beaten egg, then in crumbs and fry in deep fat. This dish is low in both iron and protein, therefore milk, eggs or cheese should appear elsewhere in the menu. These balls are delicious served with cheese sauce.

Vegetable Luncheon.

One pound kidney beans, 1 cup diced carrot, 1 green pepper chopped, 1 large onion, 2 cups cooked tomatoes, fresh or canned, ½ cup rice, ½ dozen large mushrooms. Soak the beans in cold water over night, drain and cook in boiling water slowly about 4 hours. A ham bone or piece of bacon cooked with them adds flavor. Drain, add carrot, pepper, tomatoes and thin slices of onion. Simmer until tender. Boil rice separated in salt water, drain and add to the vegetables. (This rice water should be used in soups or gravies.) Garnish with sauteed green peppers and mushrooms.

Vegetable Loaf.

Half cup cooked green peas, ½ cup cooked green string beans, ½ cup chopped boiled carrots, 1½ cups milk, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, 1 egg. Press peas through a sieve, cut beans in small pieces, then combine all vegetables. All to them the milk, slightly beaten egg, crumbs, and seasoning. Turn into greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (350-400 degrees F.) until firm.

Carrot Loaf or Ring.

Two cups ground carrot, 2 cups bread crumbs, 2-3 cup chopped nuts, 3 eggs, 2 cups strained tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons minced onion. Mix the ingredients in the order given. Shape the mixture into a loaf and put into a greased baking pan. Steam the loaf for 1 hour and then brown it in the oven (400 degrees F.), or pour into a greased ring mold, set in a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until firm, about 40 minutes. Unmold on a hot plate and fill centre with hot cooked peas.

NO SALT SHORTAGE.

IN MEMORIAM

PRESTON—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Flora who passed away July 4, 1938.

You are not forgotten Elva dear,
Nor ever shall you be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.

—Ever remembered by Father and Mother, sisters Valeta, Audrey, and Hugh who is serving in Italy.

HUGGINS—In fondest memory of our dear mother Mrs. T. R. Huggins (nee Mary Ann Murney) who passed away July 4, 1923.

We have only your memory dear Mother,
To remember our whole life through
But the sweetness will linger forever
As we treasure the image of you.
Your presence is ever near us,
Your love remains with us yet,
You were the kind of a mother
Your loved ones would never forget —Ever remembered by her family.

Bride Entertained By Many Friends

Prior to her recent marriage, Mrs. Keith Esson, nee Laura Taylor, was entertained on several occasions by her friends and fellow employees. Mrs. W. A. Anderson entertained friends and neighbors at a miscellaneous shower in honor of the bride-elect, and she received several gifts in a decorated basket. Mrs. Walter Clysdale entertained about 25 friends at a cup and saucer shower for Mrs. Esson.

Mr. C. Collins, and the staff of R. Neill Limited, presented the bride-elect with a solid walnut Gibbard coffee table. Members of the staff also gathered at the home of Mrs. Joseph Clancey, where the guest of honor received many useful pieces in red and white enamel.

Friends and neighbors gathered at Mather's Corners Hall to honor Mr. and Mrs. Keith Esson, with a miscellaneous shower. During an evening of dancing, to music by James Miller and his orchestra, the young couple received many lovely gifts, and refreshments were served, concluding a happy evening.

Keene Teams Win Softball Tourney

The fair grounds at Keene was the scene of the renewed Field Day on Saturday. It was ten years since the last one was held. The Softball League committee, under the chairman ship, Tom Gall, sponsored the day, and it seemed like old times to attend the ball games again.

Four teams entered the softball tournament, from Hastings, Indian River, Bethel and Keene. There were two ladies' softball teams, Indai River and Keene. This game attracted much attention, Keene ladies winning by a score of eleven to nine.

The first men's game brought Hastings and Indian River together. The teams were well matched, the scoring showed just how closely they were tied. They finished with Hastings winning nine to seven. Keene and Bethel came on the scene and both played good ball but the pitching gave Keene the better of the game with the result of six to three.

The final game was between Hastings and Keene, with Keene winning by a score of six to four.

One game that created much interest was the older boys versus the present team at Keene. During the afternoon races were run with girls and boys, young ladies and married ladies taking part. The booth, which was well patronized was in charge of the Tillicum class.

Make A Way

Canadian soldiers are a versatile lot. If they are unable to converse in the language of the men with whom they work and fight, they either learn that language or seek another which is common to both. Such an experience is related by Lieut. Charles Wilson, Ottawa, who is fighting in Italy with an Indian regiment.

When Lieut. Wilson arrived in Italy from North Africa, he was stationed with an Indian unit of the Eighth Army and was instructed to teach his men the intricacies of Canadian fighting methods.

His platoon spoke Urdu, a composite Indian dialect unknown to him, while he was able to give commands in English, with an occasional Italian order. Both these languages were strange to most of his men. The problem was solved when commander and command mastered military orders and directions in Italian. The system was well founded when Lieut. Wilson led his platoon into battle, giving commands in Italian and being answered by his men. His ingenuity was recognized in an issue of the "Indian News Review," the official organ of the Indian units in the 8th Army.

Cooking Classes

Ste. Anne de Bellevue—Field cooking is part of the training members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps now are receiving in preparation for service in active theatres of war.

In a special three-day course being given here at the C.W.A.C. advanced training centre girls are taught the manufacture and use of field cooking units.

Purpose of the course is to groom C.W.A.C. personnel to take the place of men in actual zones of operation as cooks in battalion kitchens, officers' messes and casualty clearing section kitchens in the rear of Allied troops.

Greatest Sacrifice?

During the past two years a greater awareness has existed for civilians of the important part the men of the merchant marine have been playing in the war effort. Under the most adverse conditions and in much more unpleasant surroundings than the men in the Navy, merchant seamen ply the seas keeping the Allied lifeline open, wanting only a chance to make a decent living following the war.

In the first three years of the war, one report issued in Great Britain showed that 16,000 officers and men of the Merchant Navy gave their lives so that the people in the Allied Nations could live and carry on the fight. During the same period, merchant ships lost to Britain and her Allies, including a few neutrals, totalled 7,000,000 tons.

Up to March 4, 1943, a partial list of Allied boats lost was issued. There were 26 cruisers, 94 destroyers, 44 submarines, 22 minesweepers, 156 trawlers and 14 armed merchant cruisers.

Too Much Charm.

Ready to eat, but no one to eat it. That's the situation in Italy. 2 months ago L-Bdr. Ralf Brown of Beamsville, Ont., found a stray piglet and thinking it would some day make a meal or two for his friends, he took it back to camp. Plenty of good scraps from the men's mess table soon had the little fellow fat and growing like a weed. He now weighs in at something over 200 pounds—a good weight for pork chops and plenty of lean bacon.

The only trouble is—No one wants to kill the animal. In two months, the pig has become a favorite pet of the men and they now refer to it as thir mascot. It plays with them much the same as a dog, loves to be scratched and goes about the place grunting, happy as a pig period.

When last seen it was tied to the front axle of an anti-tank gun — still grunting, still happy in all the dust made by the gun as it moved down the road.

The name of the mascot? You guessed it—Salome.

Gives Concerts In Italy.

CPL. LOUIS SHERMAN, who is touring Italy with the Canadian Army show, has been giving at least two shows a day since he landed in the Mediterranean area two months ago. He wrote his wife, manager and owner of the Stand-and Farm Supplies, that thousands of soldiers come from miles around to see the performance.

Before enlisting 1½ years ago, Cpl. Sherman was a violinist with the Toronto Symphony orchestra. He went overseas in December and arrived in Italy only two months ago. He said that he often sleeps under the stars and finds the buildings in large Italian centres very interesting. Cpl. Sherman commented that their ultra modern buildings in these bigger centres made Canadian and American architecture look sick. He also told of the beautiful landscaping he was seeing.

Thoughtful Gesture.

The family of Sergt. Wellington Lobb of Norwood were pleased recently when Mrs. Lobb received a letter from the pilot of the bomber crew of which he is gunner. Other members of the crew are from New Zealand:—

"I have never written to you before, and am not likely to write again, but I just thought you might like to know from an outsider that your son is doing very well and is quite fit and happy. People left at home, mothers especially, have the hardest and toughest jobs in this war, I think, and a little note is often quite assuring.

"I am the pilot in the same crew as your son, and therefore referred to as the captain, but it is only a word in our crew, as each and every one is just as important, having our own respective jobs to do, and none of us are any good without the help of the others. It is very nice to know that a competent gunner is there to take care of any emergencies, and your son is just that.

"I guess you are still enjoying nice weather in Canada and we are having it pretty nice over here too. Good weather means plenty of work for us, but it is not really hard. We have done 29 ops now as a crew and have struck no snags at all, which is mainly because of good crew co-operation and, of course, a certain amount of good luck.

"Well, I must close now and hope that this finds you all in the very best of health and spirits. Should I go back to New Zealand via Canada, I hope to be able to visit you, but that is probably a long way off yet. Cheerio and best wishes from our crew.—Yours sincerely, with hits when they counted and in addition Cavotti's support failed him in the early stages.

Des Martin.

C.G.E. All-Stars

Peterborough C.G.E. scored a run in the second. Burton led off with a double into right. Tucker and Playford went out but Ashmore cracked a single through short to send the run in.

It was a field day in the second. Heal opened by beating out a bunt, went to second on Cavotti's high throw and to third when Mariani threw badly to second. Hawks tripled to left centre and completed the circuit when Elliott took the relay and threw high to the plate. Starr flied out to centre but Pryde beat out a tap to third and went to second on a bad throw. Burton's double past third sent the run in. Tucker rolled out but Playford walked and he an Burton ran home ahead of Ashmore on the first baseman's long homer to centre.

In the fourth Heal walked. Hawks struck out and Starr forced Heal at second. However Pryde came through with a single and Burton's single over short scored Starr.

Hawks' double to centre in the fifth scored Playford who had walked. Cavotti managed to blank the Petes for the next two innings but in the eighth they broke through for three more runs. Hawks doubled to left, Mowry walked and so did Brockley, filling the bases. Carpenter fouled to Meyers and Tucker hit to short forcing Hawks at the plate. Mowry however scored on a wild pitch and Playford doubled to left, scoring Brockley and Tucker.

Royce Avenue only had a couple of real chances. One was in the fifth when Elliott led off with a double and Ferrie singled. The Petes however cut off a run at the plate on Tucker's throw home and Starr tossed a runner out at second.

The visitors filled the bases in the seventh with two out on a walk and a couple of scratch hits but Hall flied out to end their best chance.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LEARN BRIDGE FAST
88—Combative Bidding

TWO DEVICES of the fine player are used principally only on deals in which it appears pretty certain that the opponents have the balance of power. At such times, it is likely that the stronger side will be able to score against you. Your purpose then is to make the score they get as small as possible. To use the vernacular, you want to "save the bacon" if you can, or as much of it as possible. Remember that winning bridge consists of scoring as much as you can, when you score, and keeping your losses as small as possible when the opponents score.

The two devices for this specific purpose are sacrifice bids and "psychic" bids. Let's take them in order.

A sacrifice bid is one which you or your partner may make with the deliberate intent of having the opponents play against you and defeat your contract, probably doubled by them, instead of making their own contract. Such a bid is sound only when it seems pretty likely the opponents can make their contract, for a sizable score, and it appears probable that they cannot score as much by beating your contract. Usually such a sacrifice is made when your side has either a very long suit in one hand, or else a very well-fitting suit, but not much in high card defensive strength. In other words, when you cannot take many tricks against your opponents.

Before making such a deliberate sacrifice, the fine player estimates the score the opponents will get at their contract and sacrifices only if his estimate of the amount they will get by beating his will be less. You will find that as a rule, a simple measure applies, when the opponents' contract is a game. Then, if you are not vulnerable, you can afford to go down two in preference to letting them score a not vulnerable game and three to prevent a vulnerable game. If you are vulnerable you can afford to be set only one trick to stop their not vulnerable game, two to stop their vulnerable one. If their bid is a slam, you can afford a set of several more tricks. Figure out that problem as best you can estimate it when it arrives.

The other side of the sacrifice problem comes when your side has the stronger cards. Is it better to double their sacrifice, or go on to greater heights yourself? To answer that, make the best estimate you can on the prospective gain either way.

"Psychic" bids are not really what the name implies, but psychological bids. They consist of making a bid which conveys the idea you hold something entirely different from what you actually have. Their purpose is to mislead your opponents, and it is strictly ethical to do this, since you are risking misleading your partner. Of course a secret understanding with him about them would be completely crooked and entitle you to ostracism from the society of decent players. But an occasional psychic without anybody else's knowledge enlivens the game and sometimes pays dividends, though more points undoubtedly have been lost by them than are gained.

Suppose your partner passed as dealer, so did the next opponent, and you held seven spades headed by the queen-Jack-ten, no hearts, and three small cards each in the minor suits. You can be pretty sure the next opponent has a big hand. Some players would bid 1-Heart on that to mix up the opponents. If they got doubled, they would take out to spades. It might bother the opponents, or it might not. Other players would make what is called a "semi-psychic" by calling 1-Spade, being truthful as to suit but not as to high card strength.

There are many varieties of psychics, but until you have bucked up against a number of them at the table and have your own ideas about how they work out, the best thing is to refrain from trying them, and usually try to have what you say you have when you bid, not even "shading" a bid except maybe once in a great while.

Veterans Want Planned Security

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., July 4—(CP).—Mayor Garfield Anderson of Fort William told members of the Army and Navy veterans of Canada in convention here Saturday that only by a planned social order could the fear of insecurity be removed.

He urged veterans to fight for the four freedoms and said "We lost the peace in the last Great War because we did not pay enough attention to what was going on in the world around us."

Mr. Anderson said "We saw elevators at the Lakehead bulging with more than 100,000,000 bushels of grain while we had unnecessary poverty, and even today we have veterans from the last war living in basements on a miserable pittance of $32 a week.

Dominion President L. G. Howard of Selkirk, Man., issued a call for a re-affirmation of service in behalf of veterans of the present and first Great Wars.

Crewless Submarine Goebbels' Brainchild

MADRID, July 4 — (AP) — The Berlin correspondent of the Madrid newspaper Ya today reported on the latest brainchild of the secret weapon department of Paul Joseph Goebbels—propaganda ministry.

The German flying bomb will soon be used against New York by still another secret device— the crewless submarine—he reported.

"There are those in Berlin who believe there are many other German secret arms closely related to the principle of flying bomb," he said. "Rumour reports that it is possible to transport the flying bomb aboard submarines which lying many miles off the American coast, many miles off the American ering it with projectiles.

"It is also rumored that one of these crewless projectiles which will be used by Germany will be a submarine itself."

Jap Cruiser And Destroyer 15 Smaller Vessels Bagged By American Subs

Rocket-firing Carrier-based Planes Shatter Japanese Bases Americans Hold Almost All Of Saipan

WASHINGTON, July 5—(AP)—Navy Secretary Forrestal reported today the sinking of 17 Japanese vessels, including a light cruiser and a destroyer, by American submarines operating in Pacific waters.

He disclosed the latest bag of American underseas craft at a news conference at which he reported that the submarines deserve "the lion's share of the credit for knocking the props from under Japan's conquest."

Mr. Forrestal said that the rate of sinking of the Japanese merchant fleet would be accelerated "and has caught up with the Jap retreat."

Japan, he said, "is losing merchant ships faster than she can afford to" and continuation of the current trends "will leave her by the end of 1944 with a sizeable and growing deficit."

The new sinkings by American subs raised to 791 the number of ap craft of all types sunk, probably sunk or damaged by American subs alone. The breakdown shows that of that total 640 definitely have been destroyed.

Closer To Tokio

PEARL HARBOR, July 5—(AP)—Guns of American warships and rockets of carrier planes yesterday shattered Japanese bases 700 miles south of Tokyo.

Saipan, on the invasion route to Japan, is seven-eighths in the hands of still-advancing U.S. Marines and soldiers.

Noemfoor, on the invasion route to the Philippines, is falling in a lightning operation to infantrymen, reinforced by paratroopers.

The latest task force thrust toward Nippon, aimed at the Volcano (Kazan) and Bonin islands, resulted in the sinking or beaching of three Jap destroyers, the sinking of two other ships and the destruction in sky battles of from 64 to 80 planes at a cost of nine American carrier aircraft.

These fast-breaking developments along a Western Pacific war front of more than 2,000 miles—from the Bonins to Netherlands New Guinea's Gelevink Bay—were reported in a series of communiques last night and today.

Guam Raided

Tokyo radio added the unconfirmed reports that carrier-based American planes raided Guam, south of Saipan, Monday, and that a powerful American naval task force still ws operating in the waters around Chichi Jima in the Bonin islands, and declared "severe fighting" was continuing in that area.

The Volcano-Bonin attack was a two-day operation which raised to 36 the number of Jap ships sunk and to 826 the total of enemy planes destroyed since the western Pacific offensive opened June 10. American losses for the same period were listed as 160 planes, and four warships damaged, but none sunk.

Admiral Nimitz said the attack also left an enemy destroyer dead in the water and burning, damaged several small cargo ships and set fire to harbor installations and warehouses.

On Saipan, invaded June 14, marines and infantry veterans left

Leghorn Battle Imminent; 8th Makes Gains

BY NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ROME, July 5 — (AP) — British 8th Army troops, converging from the southwest and south, have driven within five miles of the important communications centre of Arezzo on the road to Florence while American units on Italy's west coast have moved up to the outskirts of Rosignano, less than 13 miles airline from Livorno Allied Headquarters announced today.

Both advances were recorded against stiff German resistance and the Nazis gave every indication they intended to battle to retain the valuable port of Livorno as long as possible.

Heavy guns situated on dominant hills opened fire on approaching American infantry and tanks around Rosignano. At the same time heavy road movements westward were seen behind the enemy lines, indicating that reserves were being moved into position.

Strongly supported by artillery, the Americans finally broke into the town in strength and reinforced their position yesterday, while north of the town tanks established road blocks against expected German counter-attacks.

Bag 2 Tigers

American artillery knocked out two Tiger tanks during this fighting while American tanks destroyed two Nazi field guns and 15 vehicles.

By road the advanced troops were only 15 miles from Livorno but an official spokesman declared that only a slow advance could be expected.

Resistance Stiffens In Italy Allied Armies Grind North

BY DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE BRITISH 8th ARMY IN ITALY, July 5 — (CP) — The line grinds north. Over those lazy hills ahead the infantry and the tanks advance, make contact, flush the enemy from another in his endless series of rearguards advance anew.

A bridge is blown. The advance halts. A diversion is built or found. The advance goes on. For days it was this way. The enemy that fled, beaten and disorganized, from his last defence line before Rome was an enemy in flight until the Allies began to approach Pisa and Livorno, and the strong natural Gothic Line that crosses from north of Pisa on the Tyrrhenian coast to south of Rimini on the Adriatic.

Since then resistance has stiffened and the enemy again is clinging doggedly to every defense point, striving to slow the Allied push. The push is slowed but not halted.

This is being written in the home of an Italian stationmaster. Outside, the wheat and the fruit trees rustle in the gentle wind of the Italian summer. Scant yards away there are huge an powerful artillery pieces that shatter the rural quiet with occasional violence.

A few miles back the headquarters of an army sits amid the grain that has matured upon a height that allows you to see broad miles of this rustic pageantry. Tomorrow it will move. All is mobility.

One of the roads the 8th is using skirts the railway and vanishes into the green trees and the elegant slopes ahead. It is never quiet. Fresh tanks are moving up, fresh tanks from the bottomless stock of armor the Allies marshalled for this great Italian offensive. In front of them, behind them, and among them the convoys of trucks, jeeps, staff cars, the whole endless chain of an army's supply lines keeps them company.

The men drowse in the rear of their trucks or read magazines from home or just stare back along the new miles they have come.

The line grinds north.

Quarter Million Nazi Soldiers Killed Or Captured In 13 Days

By DEWITT MacKENZIE, Associated Press War Analyst

The Red avalanche, having torn the Germans loose from the strategic strongholds of Minsk and Polotsk, has continued to roll the Nazi line back in what bids fair to be the greatest disaster that yet has overtaken the man who three years ago marched his conquering legions over this old invasion route in quest of world domination.

Berlin itself has admitted that the Russian advances have been so rapid that big German units have been left in the rear of the Muscovites. The Nazi losses have been colossal—something like a quarter of a million men killed or captured in the last 13 days. This sacrifice has been imposed by Hitler himself who has ordered his men to fight to the death and, according to captured Nazi General Bauemler, has been enforcing this by exacting reprisals for disobedience.

A Decisive Battle

We have here a picture of German distress which strengthens the belief of observers that the battle of Minsk will prove to be one of the decisive engagements of the entire war. The London Times yesterday in describing the position said that "part of the eastern front today presents a spectacle that has not been seen in Europe since 1918—that of a broken Germany army."

This Analyst doesn't make it his business to prophesy, but only to indicate trends—possibilities and probabilities. There's the possibility of a German debacle in White Russia. However, the facts don't warrant us in assuming a collapse at the moment. A bit more time will tell whether Prussian military skill will again enable a withdraw to other defences.

In any event, the disaster already visited on the Hitlerites, and the great military advantage gained by the victory in the Minsk sector, rank this as one of the decisive contributions to Hitler's rapidly approaching downfall. Possession of the ancient citadel of Minsk is permitting the Red armies to roll westward towards East Prussia, Warsaw —and Berlin! Polotsk is the opening sesame to Latvia and Lithuania.

Robot Bombs Avert Crisis

MADRID, July 5 — (AP). — A big achievement of the German flying bomb offensive has been that it has saved the Nazi regime—at least temporarily—from an internal crisis of the utmost gravity, according to reports from Germany.

The situation is frankly stated in the latest issue of Das Schwarze Korps, mouthpiece of the Elite Corps.

In an article discussing aspects of internal morale during months of waiting for fulfillment of Hitler's pledge of retaliation for Allied destruction of German cities, the publication declares this pledge involved for the Nazis "a question of prestige and a test of strength of the highest order."

A failure to launch the promised retaliation, Das Schwarze Korps adds, would have been catastrophic

Ship Blows Up In Danish Port

STOCKHOLM, July 5 — (AP) — The Free Danish Press Service today asserted that a German munitions ship blew up in the harbor at Aarhus, second city of Denmark, Tuesday causing vast damage.

This was the first report definitely attributing a "heavy explosion" at Aarhus, reported by the Nazi-controlled Danish home radio last night, to an ammunition ship.

Underground sources indicated that at least 80 were killed and 300 injured by the blast, which damaged possibly 1,000 buildings and set fire

MINSK CAPTURED—German defences in White Russia are collapsing under the overpowering Red ground fighting forces and the continued Russian Air Force bombings. And while Nazis take a beating in White Russia in what is described as the "greatest defeat in history," the Germans' warring partners, the Finns, also are being routed from the last stretch of the Murmansk-Leningrad railway.

Reds Advance On Latvia And Lithuania

Moving So Fast Hun Units Pocketed in Rear

STOCKHOLM, July 5.—(AP). — Russian troops have begun a large-scale landing operation on the northern shores of Viipuri Bay and in Southern Finland in an apparent attempt to establish a bridgehead behind Finnish lines, the Finnish communique said to-day.

Red army troops began landing from many boats early Tuesday, the Finnish High Command said, supported by coastal batteries firing from the southern shores and by smoke screen.

The town of Viipuri at the head of the Bay was captured recently by Russian troops.

The Finnish bulletin also reported landings on islands in the Bay of Narva and said the Soviets had been thrown back into the sea on two of them.

Landings are continuing with violent fighting the bulletin added.

Drive On Warsaw

MOCOW, July 5—(AP)—Two huge Russian armies advanced rapidly today upon the Baltic Republics of Latvia and Lithuania at a pace that may carry one or both to the frontiers within three or four days.

(The Berlin radio acknowledged that "the Soviet advance is sweeping so fast a considerable number of German forces suddenly found themselves in the rear of the Soviet lines."

(By London estimates the advancing Red Army troops were within 10 miles of the Latvian border and 15 or 17 miles from Lithuania.)

The railway connecting Berlin and Warsaw with Leningrad—a line which runs through Poland hitting Bialystok, Grodno and Wilno and connecting at Daugvapils with the line to Riga—lies immediately before the advancing Russian armies.

This is one of Europe's best railways and is highly important to any German hopes of holding the Baltics or Eastern Poland. Without it either task would be extremely difficult.

The sector where the Red Army is exerting the most pressure toward the route is through the lake-dotted country between Wilno and Daugavpils, the northern prong of this advance carrying westward toward the latter city from Polotsk, which fell yesterday.

OTTAWA, July 5. — (CP). — Liberals across Canada will join Aug. 7 in celebrating the 25th anniversary of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's leadership of the Liberal party, it was announced last night by the National Liberal Federation. Mr. King was chosen leader Aug. 7, 1919. Mr. King will deliver an address that will be broadcast over the National, New York, of the CBC.

Churchill May Release Casualty List

LONDON, July 5.—(AP). — The volume of flying-bomb attacks on Southern England diminished last night as it had the night before and belief was expressed in some quarters today Prime Minister Churchill might hint at the reason in a statement to the House of Commons tomorrow. His statement originally was set for yesterday, but was postponed.

Some members were understood to be ready to ask for a secret session if Mr. Churchill does not give what they consider sufficient information. Both the public and Parliament showed a certain impatience with the delay.

It already was well known Allied fighters have been blasting dozens of the robot planes out of the sky before they get far inland, but whether the Prime Minister would deem it wise to go into details of other means of combatting them was questionable.

It seemed certain Mr. Churchill would scornfully dismiss any German suggestions of a deal to stop the rocket-bomb attacks and would rule out any immediate reprisals that would require even the slightest diversion of forces from the battlefield.

No Diversion

Throughout the region under attack it was notable there was no suggestion a single bomber or other weapon be diverted to meet the flying bombs if it meant taking anything away from the fighting front.

There was a general feeling some indication of the casualties—and perhaps a more specific definition of the area being attacked—might be given.

In the House of Commons today Foreign Secretary Eden said Britain had received no official information from the U.S.S.R. saying German flying bombs were developed in Spain.

Mr. Eden made a lengthy statement after he had been asked if his attention had been drawn to reports of continued assistance given by the Franco government to Germany at Pampiona in testing explosives and pilotless planes, use of Spanish shipyards for war production, organizing nitrogen factories by German engineers, training German air force personnel and export to Germany of iron ore, tin and zinc.

Taking up each point specifically, the foreign secretary said the Spanish Ambassador had just informed him, on instructions of his government, that reports of assistance to enemy scientific research at Pampiona "are absolutely untrue."

He said German engineers were reported working on construction of two nitrate plants in Spain, "produc-

Dispatch Rider Bags 12 Nazis

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, July 5 (CP)—Dispatch riders see plenty of front line action in the way of shells, mortars and small arms fire, but they don't often get close enough to the enemy to take prisoners. George (Dusty) Miller of Kirkland Lake, Ont., is an exception. He captured 12.

The Maple Leaf, daily paper of the Canadian forces in Italy, said Miller was attached to the engineers "to do rush intercommunication work and, as he bounced his way down a wooded track in the forward area he was most amazed to be halted by one dirty, battle-weary German."

"One German left him entirely unmoved," the paper added, "but when out of the bush stepped 11 more who ranged themselves alongside the initial road-block, it was too much and beside's Miller's weapon wasn't handy.

"In his very best imitation of an oberleutenant he gave them a 'right turn' and herded them along to the proper authority."

Americans Fight Fiercely In La Haye du Puits; Canadian Advance Halted

Canadians Consolidate Newest Gains Hold Valuable Salient Germans Attack With 40 Huge Tanks

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 5—(CP)—American troops fought a hand-to-hand battle late today through the streets of La Haye du Puits, German anchor on the western end of the Allied bridgehead, while British and Canadian forces in the Caen sector met fierce German resistance.

American soldiers seized the railway station 300 yards from the heart of La Haye, road and rail junction town near the west coast of the Cherbourg peninsula, and battled on into the town.

Supreme Headquarters disclosed that more than 58 French cities, towns and villages have been liberated during the first month of the invasion, launched June 6.

At the eastern end of the Normandy front, Field Marshal Rommel attacked heavily against the lower tip of the British wedge southwest of Caen, seeking to break through the Allied line.

Canadian troops were forced to give up part of the Caen airfield on to which they advanced yesterday from the north after capturing the village of Carpiquet, three miles west of the centre of Caen.

The Germans held all but the northern hangars of the airfield after counter-attacking with 30 to 40 tanks, a field dispatch said, and the Canadians withdrew a few hundred yards. But the Canadians consolidated their hold on the village of Carpiquet itself, one of the fortress points guarding the bomb-blasted city of Caen on the Orne River.

Besides battering into La Haye du Puits, American troops scored advances of more than two miles along the entire front near the town six miles inland from the western coast.

The Germans counter-attacked with infantry and tanks throwing in giant tiger tanks for the first time on the U.S. sector in Normandy in an effort to save La Haye, a field dispatch added.

The Americans closed in on La Haye from three sides. The Germans resisted bitterly on the Cherbourg Peninsula front, and little progress was made in the swampy country farther east from St. Jores to Carentan.

The drive on the peninsula had freed 17 villages and hamlets in 24 hours before the final assault that broke into the high centre.

Cover Airfield

At Carpiquet, Field Marshal Rommel had tanks dug in on a ridge overlooking the airfield. These tanks swept the field with fire and even rocket-firing typhoons failed to dislodge them. Digging tanks in to the turret is a devise the Germans used with considerable success in Russia and at Cassino in Italy during the past winter.

Latest reports from the front said the Canadians were fighting at close quarters for the airfield, which is only 300 yards south of the town which the Canadians now hold firmly.

However, the British-Canadian advance had placed the Germans north and east of Carpiquet in a dangerous salient where they may be cut off.

British warships standing off the coast supported the fighting in the 500 U.S. Bombers Hit Holland And Belgium

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associtaed Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 5.—(AP).— American heavy bombers bombed airfields in Holland and Belgium, rocket bomb nests and other targets in the Pas de Calais Department of France to-day in swift continuance of devastating night attacks by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. from the channel coast to the German Ruhr.

Up to 500 U.S. planes, half heavy bombers and half convoying fighters, carried out the forenoon assault in cloudy weather with opposition so scant that all returned. Other fighter formations dive-bombed and strafed a variety of targets at undisclosed points in Europe, again without loss.

R.A.F. and Canadian heavy, Mosquito and light bombers struck before dawn at railroads, troop bivouacs and rocket bomb launching platforms, and a synthetic oil plant in the Ruhr.

During the sweeping overnight operations, which climaxed display of aerial might in which nearly 5,000 planes ranged over the Continent yesterday, R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavies pounded railway yards at Villeneuve St. Georges on the south-eastern outskirts of Paris and at Orleans, 75 miles to the south.

British Subs Sink 9 Ships

LONDON, July 5 (CP)—British submarines have sunk nine supply ships and damaged two others during recent patrols in far eastern waters, the Admiralty announced today.

They also bombarded enemy shore installations at Lhoe Seumawe on the northern coast of Sumatra and Ross Island off Malaya.

One of the submarines was commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. F. H. Sherwood, 29, of Ottawa.

Sherwood, who holds the D.S.C., was a star pupil of Cmdr. Ben Bryant—ace among the submarine captains—and later was given command of a new submarine.

He is the first member of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve to hold such an appointment.

Speedy Mosquito Bombers Block Vital Kiel Canal

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Copyright 1944 by The Canadian Press

LONDON, July 5 (CP Cable) — In one of the most daring efforts ever carried out by the R.A.F. bomber command, a section of Germany's Kiel canal was blocked by a low-flying mine-laying force of Mosquitos late in May, effectively tying up the canal and stranding hundreds of tons of shipping at its Baltic end, The Canadian Press learned today.

So far there has been no official announcement of this undertaking—only citations for officers and men decorated for their part in the hazardous mission.

Several Canadians flew in this section of the bomber command's vaunted precision force which thus—a short time before D-Day—sealed up a large portion of Germany's shipping in the Baltic.

Magnitude and importance of the operation cannot be over-estimated, particularly when it is considered that a large amount of Allied Naval power was thus released for invasion duties which otherwise would have had to be assigned to taking care of German ships slipping from the mouth of the canal into the North Sea.

It is believed that this was the first time that Mosquitos were used for mine-laying. They were chosen because of their terrific speed with which they could get into what is from the air a minute target—a stretch of canal only 3½ miles long —and get out again safely.

It is undesstood the force was not large and that losses were extremely small. It was an absolutely individual effort for each Mosquito crew and the mission was comparable to the famous Hohne dam-busting exploit of a year ago in the need for pin-point precision.

The specially-picked force were told only 17 hours before they were over the target what their job would

C.C.F. Leader Names Alberta Cabinet

REGINA, July 5.—(CP). — The first C.C.F. Government in history will take office in Saskatchewan next Monday with a 12-man cabinet led by Premier-elect T. C. Douglas, 39, one of the youngest political leaders in the Dominion.

Mr. Douglas chose his cabinet from several walks of life. A Baptist minister himself, he will have five farmers, three teachers, a lawyer, a railwayman and a co-operative expert as immediate advisors.

The cabinet members, announced at the close of the first caucus of C.C.F. members-elect last night, occupation and constituencies in brackets, follows:

Premier and Minister of Health—T. C. Douglas, 39, minister (Weyburn).

Provincial Treasurer—C. M. Fines, teacher (Regina).

Attorney-General—J. W. Corman, K.C., lawyer (Moose Jaw).

Minister of Municipal Affairs — J. H. Brockelbank, 47, farmer (Tisdale).

Provincial Secretary and Minister of Social Welfare—O. W. Valleau, 52, farmer (Melfort).

Minister of Highways and Public Works—J. T. Douglas, farmer (Rosetown).

Minister of Rehabilitation and Reconstruction—J. H. Sturdy, teacher (Saskatoon).

Minister of Co-operatives and Industrial Development—L. F. McIntosh, pool service field man (Prince Albert).

Minister of Labor—C. C. Williams, railwayman (Regina).

Minister of Agriculture—Maj. G. H. Williams, 49, farmer-soldier (Wadena).

Minister of Education—Woodrow Lloyd, teacher (Biggar).

Two of the ministers are mayors —Mr. Williams in Regina and Mr. Corman in Moose Jaw. Maj. Williams, former provincial C.C.F. leader and now on active service, recently returned from overseas. Mr. Brockelbank was C.C.F. House leader in the 9th Legislature. T. C. Douglas, until a month ago, was member of Parliament for Weyburn.

The C.C.F. cabinet, with three more members than the Liberal administration, has two new departments — Labor, and Co-operatives and Industrial Development. The Provincial Treasurer, held by Premier W. J. Patterson, will become a separate portfolio.

The C.C.F. who increased their membership in the landslide June 15 from 10 to 47, will have the smallest opposition since the province was formed in 1905.

Mr. Patterson is expected to lead the five Liberals re-elected providing there is no upset Thursday in the recount of ballots in Cannington, his constituency where he had an official majority of only six over Mrs. Gladys Strum, C.C.F.

The next Legislature of 55 members will have three representatives of Saskatchewan armed forces personnel serving outside the province. The three will be elected later.

Mr. Douglas has announced the first session of the 10th Legislature may be called this year, but not before October.

Caen area.

The American 1st Army battled the Germans out of 17 villages and hamlets in its explosive assault down the Cherbourg Peninsula during the past 24 hours, driving the Germans back to within one mile of La Haye du Puits.

On 20 Mile Arc

Lt.-Gen. Bradley's forces, attacking in a jagged 20-mile arch from Carentan to the west coast of the Cherbourg peninsula, advanced from a half-mile to 2½ miles in swampy, canal-creased country.

American columns converging on La Haye du Puits, an important six-road junction, were within two miles of the town on the west, three miles on the north, a mile on the northeast and three miles on the east. Capture of the town appeared imminent.

Progress was far from easy. The Germans resisted heavily in all sectors, and a particularly violent engagement was going on half a mile south of newly-captured St. Jores, east of La Haye.

The long-quiet Carentan sector erupted into bloody fighting when the Americans launched an attack down the Carentan-Perieres road. They advanced half a mile in an attack starting at noon yesterday.

Each foot of the advance had to be covered with artillery. Swamps and canals channelized the fighting to the narrow area along the road.

On the Carentan-Tilly Sur Seulles sector of the front there was only patrol activity.

Break 2 Counters

East of Gavrus at the butt of the Odon river bridgehead the Germans launched a night counter-attack, but it was smashed by General Montgomery's big gun batteries. Another similar attack to the south three hours later also was smashed.

"The Germans have lost a large number of men killed and considerable numbers of tanks," the Allied Supreme Command said in describing the repulse of a long series of German counter attacks.

There was an upsurge in Naval activity along the coast. After some days of inactivity German E-boats appeared again and tried to attack the eastern flank of the convoy route off Le Havre, but were beaten off in darkness.

British light coastal forces engaged two convoys around the Channel Islands and in one convoy of five German ships off St. Mao two were sunk by torpedoes and others damaged. Some British casualties were sustained.

Another convoy off the Isle of Jersey was driven inshore under the protection of shore batteries.

The Buffalo Goes to War

BUFFALO which roamed the plains of Western Canada in the days of the pioneer settlers are now a factor in the war effort of the United Nations. At many points along the lines of the Canadian National Railways salvage dumps, as shown above, have been established to which farmers bring the skulls and bones of buffalo as well as moose and elk antlers, some of them long since turned up by their ploughshares. Bones are valuable in making ammunition.

Scrap iron and steel from discarded farm machines are also hauled to the railway sidings by farmers and their families to be delivered to the Government scrap depots. This youngster, at right, is busy in the war salvage job at Borradaile in Alberta.

The blows renewed a campaign—recently interrupted by bad weather—to disrupt the movement of enemy supplies and reinforcements to the Normandy battlefront.

Another formation of British heavies plastered launching ramps for flying bombs in Northern France—the second heavy attack in less than 24 hours on the lair of the robot raiders which continued to drone across the Channel during the night.

Fourteen heavy bombers were reported lost in the attack on rail yards south of Paris—including nine Canadian craft—while 13 planes were lost in raids on the Ruhr and the rocket-bomb nests and in mine-laying operations. The Germans asserted 40 four-engined bombers were downed during the night.

Medium bombers of the 2nd Tactical Air Force also ranged over France during the night, making what Allied Air headquarters described as a record number of attacks on German communications.

Canadian Mosquitos on patrol destroyed a JU88 over Normandy.

In a rumbling day-long parade that filled Britain's skies, bombers and fighters attacked scores of targets Tuesday in close support of the British-Canadian and American ground drives in Normandy as the weather at last showed signs of improvement.

At the same time up to 500 American heavy bombers from Italy blasted an oil refinery at Brasov, Romania, and a bridge and railroad shops at Pitesti in the same country.

A tally of yesterday's operations, still incomplete, listed 15 Britain-based Allied planes including two heavy bombers lost against not less than 23 German planes shot down, 17 of them by American Thunderbolts in a 15-minute dogfight over a Nazi Air Field in France.

17 Huge Nazi Tanks Dug In Stall Canadians At Airport

By ROSS MUNRO, Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 5.—(CP Cable). —Canadians in Carpiquet village strengthened and dug in their positions last night and stood to under a fitful moon, wary of German attacks under cover of darkness, while across the broad airfield south of the village other Canadian infantry units were forced by German tanks to relinquish their hold on the shell-shattered hangars at the edge of the field.

Western Canada infantry which attacked over the airfield yesterday morning and fought their way to the first group of hangars saw heavy action all day.

They fought some hand-to-hand engagements almost on the fringe of the airfield, and came under relentless fire from a group of 17 German tanks dug in behind the administration and control tower at the eastern end of the field.

Rocket-firing R.A.F. Typhoons struck several times at these dug-in tanks—chief menace to the Canadians' positions.

These tanks proved difficult to hit, however, and results of the attacks are still uncertain. British and Canadian guns continue to shell them at every opportunity.

Snipers Busy.

Canadian snipers are picking off any members of the crews of these dug-in tanks who dare to show their heads out of the turrets.

Some German tanks in addition to those dug in descended upon the Western infantry and added to the fierceness of the struggle around and through the hangars.

Royal Canadian Engineers also entered Carpiquet and during the clean-up of the village and the strong positions around it they drove a number of Germans from underground and concrete posts by using high-explosive charges.

Report of one such successful blow told of the application of a small persuader in the form of several potent demolition charges which blasted 20 of the enemy out of a fort right into the arms of a Central Ontario Regiment. Eleven others could not get out.

It finally was quiet around Carpiquet at midnight last night.

On the Canadian right flank to the south British troops occupied Verson on the Caen-Villers Bocage Highway, but that sector too was comparatively quiet during the early part of the night.

cutting of the railway would seriously affect the supply, maintenance and retreat of the German 16th and 18th armies in the north, possibly forcing them to retire to East Prussia or face entrapment.)

The Wilno-Kaunas sector is the key to the Baltics.

Wilno (sixth largest city in pre-war Poland) stands astride th Warsaw-Leningrad railway, while Kaunas is an important junction on the route from East Prussia. The cities are 50 miles apart.

Some Red army units to-day were reported less than 60 miles from Wilno to the northeast and there were no indications that the Germans were stiffening. A huge fleet of Russian bombers hit Wilno Monday night.

The Nazis appeared strongest along the 66-mile long highway and railway connecting Wilo with Molodeczno, to the southwest. Hard fighting was reported at numerous sectors along this line, the main route between Minsk and Wilno. The battle for Molodeczno, while in its last stages, was said to be still violent.

Take 900 Places.

The Russian communique said that altogether nearly 900 places were captured in Tuesday's fighting, 40 of these on the northern front, where the Finns were being pressed back northeast of Petrozavodsk.

Southwest of Minsk Marshal Konstant K. Rokossovsky's 1st White Russian army drove a wedge to within 25 miles of Baranowicze (Baranovich) by capturing the town of Kletsy.

Red Star dispatches said the Germans had introduced a fresh tank division here but reported six strong counter-attacks in the last 24 hours were opposed by "the first calm tactics" of Rokossovsky.

A broadcast Berlin dispatch heard in London said to-day that the Germans have evacuated thir Kowel salient in pre-war Poland west of the Pripyat marshes, a sector in which the Russians have failed to report any activity for some days.

Another Berlin broadcast declared German fighter planes shot down 28 of a force of 80 Russian planes stabbing last night toward the Norwegian harbor of Kirkenes, north of the Arctic Circle. The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, claimed the Germans suffered no loss.

"Livorno itself is defended by thick concrete pillboxes, extensive minefields, wire, anti-landing mines and ack-ack," he went on. "Further indications of our approach to long-prepared enemy defence lines is seen with the German employment again of heavy 170-mm. guns which have not been used against the 5th Army since Rome."

In other sectors along the entire front the Germans were being rolled back steadily against the outer fringes of the so-called Gothic Line believed to extend from the mountains south of Rimini westward toward the Pisa-Livorno area.

French Gain Steadily

French troops moved more than three miles north of Siena despite fierce resistance and many minefields. Seven miles to the east 8th Army units fighting through heavy rain captured the town of Castelnuova Berardegna and the villages of Palagguola and Monte Sansavino astride the Siena-Arezzo highway.

In the drive on Arezzo the 8th Army also occupied Castiglion, Fiorentino and the villages of Rapolana and Oliveto.

In the mountains area farther east the Germans fought fiercely to retain key positions needed for safe withdrawal of main forces who, the Allied spokesman declared, "sometimes are more eager to be captured than to continue fighting."

One column was still thrusting up the Tiber valley toward Umbertide and to the east slow progress was made toward Gubbio.

The Appenine town of Cerreto, five miles north of Matelica was taken. The captors caught a party of German troops looting the town.

Headquarters of General Alexander announced the German command had issued an order that roads in the battle areas "must be kept open and in good condition, even if it involves ruthless exploitation of the civilian population for labor service."

Unsettled weather which hampered ground operations in some sectors also curtailed air operations in Italy but a force of up to 500 United States heavy bombers fought through enemy fighters and bombed rail and oil targets at Brasov and Pitesti in Romania.

be. They were briefed in the morning. During the afternoon they flew a couple of practice trips over canals in England, and at night they took off on the 600-mile flight to Kiel.

The plan was believed to call for all the mines to be sown within three minutes. Each aircraft had only 1½ minutes to do its job and there was only a short stretch of Canal where it was considered possible for the aircraft to get in against the super defences, lay the mines and get out again.

Lancasters which did the Mohne dam-busting would have been too slow and too heavy to carry out this task successfully. Some of the Mosquitos had to fly directly between enemy flak ships to reach the target.

The force used included Canadians, Britons and New Zealanders.

There is no formation flying on a mission like this. After the briefing each crew was on its own for the actual target effort.

It is understood that reconnaissance photographs taken later showed that a barge which attempted to negotiate the canal struck a mine and blew up. This was probably the first indication the Germans had that the speedy hit-and-run raid had mined the all-important canal they had planned to use to shift needed naval units from the Baltic to the North Sea to counter the Allied invasion armadas.

Bottle 100 Ships

As a result of the barge explosion all traffic into the canal was held up and photographs showed 100 or more ships halted there.

Since then a report from Stockholm said that one of these giant mines was found in a spot where it could be removed. It was taken to Kiel and is said to have blown up while being dismantled, killing 47 Germans.

Immediate awards followed the mission, but no details of the operation were given out. The citation said: "one night in May 1944 several crews of Mosquito aircraft were detailed for a dificult and dangerous mine-laying mission. The operation called for the highest standard of skill and accuracy."

"In the face of intense anti-aircraft fire, balloon defences and considerable searchlight activity the attack was pressed home with great precision at low level. That complete success was achieved in spite of such hazards is a high tribute to the calm courage and iron determination shown by the following officers who participated in various capacities and members of aircraft crews . . ."

The Canadians mentioned included Flt. Lt. J. H. Barrow and F.O. V. P. B. Hille, who were awarded D.F.C.S.

Hitler Calls For Courage From Germans

LONDON, July 5.—(CP).—Adolf Hitler, in a second speech within a week, declared that "we shall not capitulate before any difficulty," but acknowledged that "enormous courage and strength of nerves are necessary to stand up in these times," Berlin radio said today.

His speech, not delivered to the German people, was reported by Nazi broadcasts, which said it was made to a meeting of the Reich's war production leaders. The time was not disclosed, nor was the text broadcast, Berlin giving only what excerpts it wanted to reach foreign ears.

Not since Jan. 30 has the German leader spoken directly to his people. He warned them then that they faced the "hardest task imaginable."

Last Saturday night, the German radio reported a speech given by Hitler at the funeral of Gen. Eduard Dietl, Nazi commander in Finland, in which he sounded the same note of "difficult" situations facing Germany. The date and place of that address were not given.

A German Transocean Broadcast recorded today by the Associated Press said Hitler received the production chief at his headquarters following a conference with Prof. Albert Speer, Minister of Munitions.

"This war cannot be judged on daily events," Hitler was quoted as saying. "In a battle of such historical extent a timely success or defeat does not make any difference. In this war of destiny for the German people everyone must fight and work for final victory.

"I know that enormous courage and strength of nerves are necessary to stand up in these times, but we shall not capitulate before any difficulty."

Speaking of "the courageous German soldiers" at the front he asked: "Should the German leadership which has been lucky enough to say for four years that we have had only successes now say that we will fail?"

In answer he said:

"No. We will triumph this time and in the end win this war."

Hitler asserted this war was not only one of soldiers "but also of engineers" and technicians. He said in this respect the Allies sometimes were as efficient and on rare occasions better than the Germans "but the German inventive spirit is on its way to regain the balance again."

Speaker Names Lacombe In Commons

OTTAWA, July 5.—(CP).—As the result of a motion unanimously adopted by the House of Commons last night, Liguori Lacombe (CDN-Laval-Two Mountains) has been barred from attending its sittings for a week after interrupting a speech being made by Maxime Raymond (BP-Beauharnois-Laprairie).

During the speech Mr. Raymond said the French-Canadian press was regarding "with a sort of cynical amusement" attacks being directed against the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in connection with the speech made by John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, at Hamilton some months ago.

(The CBC at that time refused to broadcast the speech on the grounds it went beyond the bounds of an account of political stewardship).

Mr. Raymond said it was not "treasonable" nor even contrary to defence of Canada regulations to vote or argue on the "no" side of the plebiscite campaign, but the CBC carried "yes" arguments alone on the question of empowering the government to send overseas troops called up for military service.

Mr. Lacombe was called to order at least a half dozen times within a five-minute period during Mr. Raymond's speech, and Mr. Raymond asked that the interruptions be stopped. When they resumed, Speaker J. A. Glen then rose and said:

Escorted Out

"I have said that I would tolerate no further interruptions from the member for Laval-Two Mountains. It is evident the member does not intend to follow my ruling. I am obliged to name him and I do name him Liguori Lacombe."

Before he was escorted from the chamber by the sergeant-at-arms, J. Laundy, the House, on motion of Pensions Minister Mackenzie and Postmaster General Mulock, unanimously adopted a motion barring him from attending House sittings for seven days.

Mr. Lacombe later told reporters that while he had been suspended from the Chamber "I propose to return when the seven days are over." He added that he had not sought to hinder Mr. Raymond's speech but merely to make "a few remarks" on what the Bloc Populaire leader had said.

Speaker Glen named Mr. Lacombe March 24, 1942, when he interrupted during a speech by G. S. White (P.C.—Hastings Peterborough). On that occasion the Speaker said several times that Mr. Lacombe must cease interrupting, and then received a motion that he be suspended for the duration of the sitting. Mr. Lacombe returned to the House a few days later.

War Different This Time To 1914 Style

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 5.—(CP Cable.) — Canadians are fighting again in France and Germans are the enemy, but otherwise there seems to be few similarities between this war and its battles and the First Great War.

The first major operation was the landing and the defeat of German coastal defences, accomplished with equipment undreamed of 25 years ago. One of the many spectacular features was the use of airborne and parachute troops.

The First Great War's multiple rows of barbed wire defences would be as tissue paper against tanks, and bear slight comparison with this war's minefields. However, the minefields are more a weapon of delay than a complete obstacle because there are methods of detecting and removing them. Bridges are demolished in this war as in the last.

This war is like all wars in that man fights and often personal qualities are the deciding factor. But there is a difference in the tactical employment of highly-mobile weapons that is mostly dictated by the improvement in equipment.

There has been no digging-in in the First Great War sense of elaborate trench systems.

Little Barbed Wire.

Generally speaking little barbed wire is used and mobility of forces is the answer to maintenance of what is called a solid line. For instance, tracked carriers with troops and armored forces can be juggled here and there to plug holes that one side might drive into the other's front.

Because this ground war is preponderantly a war on wheels roads are essential to movements on any large scale and consequently they figure in all major planning.

This war's battlegrounds are not the scenes of utter devastation that were the battlegrounds when Canadians fought in Europe, although modern airpower with its bombing obliterates towns in a manner only shelling over a long period would do then.

They say that in those days you could watch a dog-fight without losing sight of the combatting planes for five minutes at the most. Nowadays dog-fights are fought so high and at such split-second speed that often you can't see them but only hear the distant stutter of guns and the growl of speeding engines.

Even big shell crates are not to be seen to-day because most projectiles are designed to explode and spray their fragments horizontally on contact.

In the First Great War there was no jeep to perform the hundred tasks given the sturdy little car. So far in France no pack horses or mules common to the last war have been used.

In this war the food is good if monotonous, and much better altogether than the last war's rations.

Father Sees His Two Sons For First Time In 40 Years

COBOURG, July 5—(ENS)—Away from Cobourg for the past 40 years, Fred Thornton Hobart, engineer with an oil company on Trinidad, visited his old home town this week and saw his two sons, Charles and Clarence, whom he had not seen since they were youngsters. It was a happy re-union for father and sons and when his next leave of absence from the company occurs, which will be three years from now, he plans another visit to Cobourg.

Mr. Hobart found many of the old-timers dead, but very much alive was his old friend, ex-chief John C. Ruse. Mr. Hobart, who is 72 years of age, is very wiry and active and looks like a well-preserved man in his late fifties or early sixties.

"It is good to be back in the old town again," he confided to The Examiner, "but in a way it is somewhat sad to find that so many whom I knew years ago are passed away. Take the old band for instance. I was 16 and played the trombone in the old Cobourg band. There was Charlie McGuire, John Cauley, Jack Ruse and others. I guess Jack Ruse and I are the only ones alive. What a time we had those days in the fire department. There were two companies in Cobourg and it seemed it was just one fire after another. Competition between the two companies was very keen also."

Mr. Hobart found the town more beautiful.

"When I left, the east end was just a series of vacant lots but now I find that some large mansions have been built at the east end. Of course in my time there was the Arlington Hotel and some of the temperance folk used to duck in and have a little nip now and then. I miss the great grain elevators they had at the east pier. Those were the days when much grain was shipped out of Cobourg. I remember the Rooney's and the Plunkett's. I understand Dan Rooney is still here. There were two Dan's, young Dan and Old Dan," related.

Mr. Hobart related an incident which occurred back in 1898 and which was linked with another incident occurring yesterday. The first took place in Chicago.

"I was serving as a marine engineer at the time and while in Chicago I rode through Jackson Park on a bicycle. As I passed two girl cyclists, both of whom were dressed in black, I had a vague notion that I knew them. But then I knew nobody in Chicago but as I proceeded, curiosity got the best of me and I stopped and sat down on a park bench and waited for them to pass. I was pretty nervy those days, being a young fellow and I stared right at them and they looked at me. Again I had that feeling of seeing them before so I got up and as they stopped I said 'haven't I seen you girls before?' and one of them replied that they wondered if they knew me but concluded that they didn't. Well I told them I was Fred Hobart of Cobourg and one of them threw up her hands and started to laugh as she remembered. We had a great chat and it seemed so good to see somebody from Cobourg in that big city. The two were Mary and Sarah Stiles. Sarah was married, I believe. Well, it is a long time since those days and yesterday I went into Stiles tailor ship in Cobourg and saw that Mary was behind the counter. I asked her if she knew me and at first she didn't recognize me and then she remembered. We had a great old chat," declared Mr. Hobart.

Mr. Hobart was born in Cleveland, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Mathew Thornton Hobart, and came to Cobourg while a young boy. When 16 he went to Buffalo and later returned. At that time the Hobart family operated an undertaking and furniture establishment in Cobourg. Mr. Hobart's first wife was from the States and she died in 1904 at Freeport. His second wife was Caroline Hughes of Deseronto. After serving as a marine engineer for some time on various steamship lines, he entered the employ in 1917 of the Trinidad Leaseholds Ltd. and since then has been located at the company's holdings on Point Apierre. Every three years he receives 125 days leave of absence although each year there is a two week's vacation. This time he decided to visit the old home town and the two sons whom he has not seen in 40 years.

"If I am still alive when the next three years roll around, I think I will make another trip up to Cobourg," he declared.

Have a Coca-Cola = Bear a hand

. . . or inviting friendship in the fo'c'sle

When shipmates relax in a destroyer's wardroom, the hearty Have a "Coke" of a buddy is an invitation to get together. At sea or on shore, this friendly phrase strikes the spark of comradeship. From home ports to the Seven Seas, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the high-sign of friendliness the world over.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

Bouquet From New Zealand

It is understandable that New Zealand should be thinking of Canada while her Premier is a visitor in this country, and we reprint some passages from a leading article which appeared in the Auckland Herald yesterday, and which have reached us by cable.

"The growing stature of Canada is insufficiently appreciated here," said the Herald. "Before the war she ranked high among world traders and during the war her economic development has been phenomenal. Canada now is classable as a great small power—small in population, great in production.

"Yet this access to power has not been marred by parvenu policies. Canada has not shown any disposition to pile up and vaunt her fortune. Instead she has pursued a generous, statesmanlike course, sharing with her Allies. In the same magnanimous spirit Canada has concluded mutual aid agreements with Britain, the United States, Russia, Australia and now with New Zealand.

"Under them no question of debts will arise after the war. Canada is undertaking, subject to certain reasonable conditions, to cancel any balances in her favor.

"By contrast with her open-handedness economically and financially, Canada prefers to play her own hand in imperial affairs. The facts of Canada's situation and the knowledge that she is a posting station between Britain and the United States makes her feel she must always be free to deal with the latter.

"In the domestic sphere Prime Minister Mackenzie King has to deal with the narrow nationalism and isolationism of French-Canadians who eschew all overseas commitments, imperial or otherwise.

"Yet it is difficult to understand why Mr. Mackenzie King, and now Premier Fraser, as revealed in his speech at Ottawa, should reject imperial unity as undesirable or impracticable yet embrace internationalism—a project much harder to realize. Surely the one could be made an instalment of the other, a working model of world-wide organization for peace."

These kind words from a sister Dominion will be gratefully received here. But we think that the Herald is barking up the wrong tree when it talks of Imperial unity and internationalism. Imperial unity is in itself a kind of internationalism, and at the London Conference several Empire leaders took the view that the path to real internationalism did not lie in a watertight imperialism. There is a large imperialism and a little imperialism, and at the London Conference the larger view was taken.

The Sentence Of Death

In a discussion of the Criminal Code in the House of Commons last Wednesday Mr. J. G. Diefenbaker, the Progressive Conservative member for Lake Centre, urged that the mandatory sentence for murder should be revised. Canadians had been horrified, he said, that this severest of sentences should be passed on young people, mere children, who have been convicted of murder.

We do not attach too much importance to public protestations of horror. When a very young man is sentenced to hang the public is horrified; when a woman is sentenced to hang the public is horrified; in the eyes of a section of the public, only adult males are sufficiently wicked to suffer hanging for murder. Indeed, however brutal a murder may be, there are always people who want to spare the murderer a death on the scaffold.

But what is the alternative? It is imprisonment for life. Frankly, we think that any human being of spirit would prefer a few weeks of misery ending on the gallows, to a possible fifty years in a penitentiary. It may be argued that life imprisonment is a more inhuman sentence than death by hanging.

During the last century jurists have altered their ideas about crime and punishment, and the Mosaic demand of a life for a life is not the justification of the death sentence. It is recognized that many murderers are the victims of circumstances, and that most murderers commit their crime while mentally unbalanced. But admitting these things it is still a fact that we all have a measure of free will, and that the thought of a severe punishment is a deterrent from crime. Murder is an appalling crime, the most drastic invasion which one human being can make upon the rights of another; few people ever experience the desire to murder, because they realize the enormity of the offense and the severity with which society punishes it. To relax that severity, as Mr. Diefenbaker would like us to do, might prove to be unwise, or it might not. We cannot say without trying it.

But we can say this: if a man commits a crime which society cannot forgive he must be removed from society. That means that we can either kill him and be done with him, or keep him in a cage for decades, paying substantially for his maintenance. The latter seems to us to be the more cruel course, and it is also a very expensive one. Have we money to waste in keeping criminals better than we keep the free poor?

Lines And Victory

All nations, when they are losing wars, talk about 'infallible tactics' and 'impregnable lines'. At the beginning of the war the United Nations did so; who can forget our insistence on the impregnable quality of the Maginot line, although it was obvious to anyone with a map that it was quite possible to run around the end of it; Singapore, we shouted, could not be taken because its defences were impregnable, although we knew that it had no defences against land attack. Now the war is going well for us and we no longer need to deceive ourselves with such stories.

Our need has been transferred to the Germans, and for a year or more they have been insisting upon the impregnable quality of lines which we have subsequently broken. The Kharkov Line, the Dnieper Line, the Kiev Line, the Prut Line in Romania, the Mareth Line in Tunisia and the Gustav and Hitler Lines in Italy have all been extravagantly touted by German propaganda, and they have all fallen. The Mannerheim Line in Finland, the Fatherland Line in Russia and the Atlantic Wall are all under attack at this moment, and all are breaking.

There are other lines yet to be encountered. The Germans have a Carpathian Line in the Balkans, and they are hurriedly establishing a Gothic Line across Italy. When our troops move upon Germany itself no doubt the Siegfried Line will be in the news again. All these lines will be broken.

Lines in themselves are of no particular value, as we have learned to our cost. No line can withstand determined and skillful attack, co-ordinated with superior air forces. When a party to a war begins to boast about lines, that party is losing, and knows it. For a long time at the beginning of this war we lost almost every campaign and it was only by the greatest efforts that we were able to make the change from loser to winner. But now we have made the change, and as the Germans boast of their lines we shatter them, one by one.

Brothers Under Their Skins

We have nothing but admiration for people who maintain a sense of humour after four years of German occupation. Here is a story from the Belgian underground paper L'Alouette which we think will give our readers great pleasure:

"A young man called Bebert was called up for compulsory labour service. His uncle, a keeper at a zoo at Antwerp, enabled him to go into hiding by disguising him as an orang-outang. One day his mother came to see him. Bebert was delighted, and jumped about on his trapeze to show how well he had learned his part. Suddenly he fell into the next cage, where two lions were prowling up and down. Bebert's mother yelled with terror. At first the lions took no notice. Then one of them came up to the bars and said: 'For goodness sake be quiet, Madame. Do you want to give the whole lot of us away?'"

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Harrisburg, Pa., a couple have been married on roller skates. Presumably they fell for each other.

"Coffee Crashes Through Six Floors" says a headline. We like ours a little weaker than that.

A Great Man Writes A Novel

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

ALTHOUGH he is one of the great men of our day not many people in this country appear to be familiar even with the name of Salvador de Madariaga. But as a statesman, a scholar and man of letters he belongs in the first rank, and as a writer on English literature he is superior to all but a few native critics. Writing in English he has produced what is possibly the best appraisal in our language of one of the classics of his own land, and has shown us Don Quixote as a Spaniard sees him. Being a man of large and comprehensive mind he was naturally unable to bear the atmosphere of Fascist Spain, and Fascist Spain—reluctantly, it must be said—decided that it could not afford the luxury of a man as great as de Madariaga. And so he is now in the United States, and there he has written and published a novel called "The Heart of Jade"; it is the work of a great man and in some respects it is a great novel. Quite decidedly it is not a novel to be missed by anyone who cares for great story-telling.

THE author has conceived his novel on the grand scale. It is 640 pages long and contains exactly one hundred characters. It is written in an excellent English style, and it moves with admirable swiftness and directness from beginning to end. If there is a fault to be found with the writing, it is that the action is somewhat crowded in the last two hundred pages, as though the author feared to be boring, and decided to hurry on the end at an increased speed. If that were so, his fear was groundless. "The Heart of Jade" never grows tiresome. As de Madariaga is an eminent scholar it is probable that he was influenced in the construction of his novel by some great model. It may have been a Spanish model; it most decidedly was not an American one. For "The Heart of Jade" is what "Anthony Adverse," "Gone With The Wind," and "Northwest Passage" have all tried to be—that is, an absorbing historical novel. But it is as different from these as daylight is from dark.

THE chief difference, of course, lies in the fact that de Madariaga is a wise and learned man who has had great experience of life, whereas most writers of historical novels are secluded literary men and women who have boned up enough history to make a background for what is, essentially, a modern magazine serial inflated to enormous size. What is more, de Madariaga is an artist—comparatively few writers are artists in any deep sense of the word—and as an artist he is not afraid to impose a pattern on his novel which is obvious to the most naive reader. To be more explicit, most novelists write as though life were a meaningless jumble of events in which no pattern is clearly discernible, and in which coincidence is unthinkable: de Madariaga writes as though the pattern of life were perfectly clear, and coincidence a matter of hourly occurrence. What is more, he makes this unusual point of view entirely credible. It would be fruitless to attempt to explain how he does this, in a brief review. It must suffice to say that he does it, and in doing it he will undoubtedly give a new concept of the nature of life and human destiny to many of his readers.

BRIEFLY, "The Heart of Jade" is about the conquest of Mexico by Cortez and his Spaniards. This historical event is not treated as the overthrow of a savage empire by enlightened Europeans, but as the impact upon a very high and perfected civilization of another which bore striking resemblance to it. The irony with which de Madariaga relates Aztec theology, with its ghastly insistence upon the shedding of blood, to Spanish Catholicism, with its equally ghastly insistence upon the Inquisition and the 'auto da fe', and the excellent case which he makes out for both, may offend othodox readers: the stupidities of Aztec civilization are obvious, but we are less eager to recognize the stupidities of Europe. Man, in de Madariaga's view, is an incorrigible shedder of blood, and is always able to find an excuse, and a good one, to indulge his taste.

AN historical novel would be a poor thing without a love story, and "The Heart of Jade" is concerned in a large measure with the love of Alonso Manrique, a Spanish nobleman, for Xuchitl, the daughter of Nezahualpilli, an Aztec grandee. Although this love story is admirably told, it lacks intensity, and it is for this reason that the adjective 'great', in its full sense, must be withheld from this novel. If de Madariaga had given less importance to his love story and had played up some other aspects of his novel, the effect might have been better. But as the book stands it is so good that minor criticisms are out of place. No better story of adventure has appeared, or is likely to appear, for a long time, and those who love pirates, battles, and buried treasure, will find in it all that they long for. More adult tastes will be equally pleased, for none of de Madariaga's wonders are gratuitous. The book is clear proof, if any were needed, that it takes a distinguished man to write a distinguished book, and that hard work and goodwill are not substitutes for talent, learning, and experience of life.

Birds and Tigers

A young English officer, who has migrated from the Home Counties to Burma, has made acquaintance with an old naturalist who has specialized in jungle craft; and one theory or practice of his seems to me and his young friend of peculiar interest. The old forester has so perfected his skill in imitating jungle languages, especially the chatter of monkeys and cries and songs of birds that he can summon the animals of his neighbourhood. This has been done by many people, and many instruments have been made, especially I believe in America, which will produce sounds sufficiently accurate to deceive the birds; but this Burma naturalist has gone a step further, or it is thought that he has. In his view the language of one species of animal is understood or half-understood by others, as if it were a dialect or kindred tongue. Mammals may note and interpret the calls of birds. By working on this supposition the old naturalist has summoned even tigers; and though these animals, being cats, prefer to walk their lone lorn, he has been able to photograph seven of them in a jungle group. The idea behind these successes is fascinating, a serious development of the old jest that you could attract squirrels by making a noise like a turnip!—London Spectator.

The French V For Vichy Villains —By Thomas

The ABC Of ABCA

(By IVOR BROWN in the LONDON OBSERVER)

EIGHT Army officers are in a class-room. One, a Canadian, gets up and talks about the French problem in Canada. He is modest in his claims to knowledge, but not a nervous mumbler; he explains briefly, fairly, and—considering his time-limit—fully the history, traditions, birth-rate, geography, resources, and opinions of French Canada. He does more in fifteen minutes than the average academic professor would manage in three lectures of an hour. Indeed, he is finished and under fire before the professor would have cranked himself up to reach even the fringe of the subject.

Is the speaker applauded? Scarcely. He is approved in part, then set upon. He is firmly told what he has missed, what the private soldier would want to know, whether he has laid the best foundation of a useful argument. A junior officer of A.T.S. makes pertinent intervention. And so, for forty crowded minutes, French Canada or any topic of the day, How to Pay for the War, The Power of the Press, or Flats versus Houses, is built into an "ABCA Period."

The young men and women I have described were not, at that moment, leading an ABCA group. They were being led into that leadership (education, after all, literally means leading out). They have done their job with their units already, done well at it, and so have been selected for a special course at the War Office ABCA School. This takes them to the hills and the sea, but they do not have much time to look at either. The course is very short—would the War Office could double is five days!—very well devised and conducted, and also very strenuous. Not even after dinner can its members relax.

MOST people know vaguely of a thing called ABCA, lumping it, I suppose, with NAAFI, ENSA, and a lot of other "initialese" additions to, or mitigations of, Army life ABCA, standing for Army Bureau of Current Affairs, was, in fact, invented by Mr. W. E. Williams, of the British Institute of Adult Education.

He had powerful support and owed much to the wisdom and sympathy of the Secretary of State for War, Sir James Grigg, and the Adjutant-General, Sir Ronald Adam. Owing to a clash over a "Beveridge" ABCA Bulletin, Sir James came to be regarded in some quarters as an opponent of ABCA. This is all wrong. He has been one of its best friends.

So here is ABCA with its weekly Army period for discussion of contemporary and controversial topics. By its use of the discussion method it seeks to keep the soldier not only informed but thinking about the purpose and progress of the war. It is compulsory, but it comes out of training time: to the men and women it is therefore, at the worst, a change of burdens and not a superfluous infliction. At best it may be a really great stimulus to endurance of the hardships, the sacrifices, and the monotony of Army life; and to sensible thinking about tomorrow's opportunities in "Civvy Street."

One point that especially attracts me about ABCA is its flexibility. The ABCA officer in any unit has plenty of scope to meet particular needs. There is an ABCA Bulletin once a week, which expounds a special topic and so suggests a lead-off. But it need not be used. The officer can be guided by the interests and curiosities of his Unit and keep on with one set of themes which particularly attracts them.

Obviously this kind of discussion can be spoiled either by glum boredom and shy silences on the one side or by the gas-bag and the grievance-monger on the other. The officer is not a teacher: he is (or strives to be) a sensible instructor with a special flair for man-management. He must curb the garrulous without snubbing, put a rein on the glib, strike a spark in the glum, and reassure the man who is ashamed of his own ignorance. (Man here, of course, includes woman. The A.T.S. is fully involved.)

Conducting ABCA periods is in fact a part of the ordinary military duties of every regimental officer. ABCA is not carried out by educational specialists, but by working soldiers who tackle this extra job because they believe in it. While many officers attend one, two, or three-day local courses in ABCA method, only a few officers get to the special course I have described; those who do can go back and help their fellows in the technique of group-leadership.

THAT there is a technique, and that it is very carefully worked out, is of prime importance. Far too much education, in this country, especially on the University and Adult level, has been based on the assumption that great learning makes a good lecturer. An undergraduate who got a first in June is considered ripe to be an instructor and to give lectures in October, without any training in the craft of teaching. Behind the ABCA School Course lie not only a first-rate staff but a carefully planned method for uniting in the "period" freedom of viewpoint with reasonable control of the argument's course. Anarchic discussions are a sheer waste of time. To make the point clear and then keep to it is the job.

ABCA's purpose is to build self-reliance and flexibility of mind in soldiers who are also citizens. No doubt there are failures; there must sometimes be groups which are difficult or badly handled by officers who haven't the knack or the interest. But, by every report, ABCA is growing in depth as in width.

Certainly it offers a big challenge in tact and technique to any leader of the group discussion. The new Education Bill will be useless without first-rate administrators and teachers. Here the men and women who are doing well in Service Education, and ABCA in particular, should be most valuable later on. A most difficult task will be the staffing of the Colleges for the part-time further education of boys and girls who have left school. Ordinary class-work they will resent. Special encouragement and mental stimulus they will need. Something like ABCA they will want—and may enjoy. ABCA may now be solving this problem of finding the exceptional men and women without whom so much of the educational future will remain only a program of paper and of dreams.

Waste Of Life

Belated reports of the disaster which befell the first B-29 Super-Fortress indicate that a short-sighted and almost foolhardy practice was followed in the development and testing of the huge new planes. The whole building program was almost wrecked because the original craft crashed and killed all the flight testing personnel of the company making the bomber. The question naturally to be asked is why one plane carried such a precious cargo. Every man who had any intimate knowledge of the craft was loaded aboard an experimental machine and sent into the air, so the one crash wiped out virtually all the specialized training necessary to carry on the manufacture. No more tragic example of putting all the eggs in one basket could be conceived.—Windsor Daily Star.

Not So Ancient

There are many old Indians in British Columbia. But not so many as the Indians themselves try to make out. The patriarchal instinct is strong amongst our natives. They are apt to increase their weight of years, instead of trying to reduce visible evidence of the passing of time, as "white folks" do.

Thus you may read of the death of Lazarus Moody, oldest citizen of the Naas river valley, at the ripe age of 105. He may have been that, for all we know. But after reaching 80 or so, the memories of some of our native citizens become afflicted with a certain terminological inexactitude. It's like our old friend Dad Quick, who enjoyed a great period of public interest in Vancouver by living to an estimated 115, which the documents pared down to about 98.

The old boys of 100 or so of the Naas and Skeena valleys in Northern British Columbia enjoy a great distinction lightly boasting of their prowess in conquering the years.

"I was here before that," said one old fellow to a visiting tourist, pointing at a mountain-top.—Vancouver Sun.

Better Hay

Here is one new wrinkle from these "slow" English farmers which might be of some use here in a wet season. The South of England farmer who frequently has difficulty in curing his hay crops has produced a new grass-drying system.

The hay is cut when it is green and sappy. It is dried quickly with hot air so that all its nutrients, colour or flavour are retained. When it is done it looks like green chaff. It is bagged and stored for winter use. As a feed it contains all the advantages of new-mown grass, is palatable and liked by all classes of live stock. The chief objection is the cost which in wartime is running at about $30 a ton.

It is hoped that after the war, when larger co-operative plans are built, to lower this figure. The benefits are that even in a wet summer it can be cut and processed, and that it does not suffer from heating or from mildew as hay will if put into mows when damp. The process is new and probably needs a good deal of testing but it may point a way to a more efficient way of handling one of the most important of our farm crops.—London Free Press.

FEEDING THE ARMIES

One of the oldest maxims of war is that an army marches on its belly. The vast scale and the mechanization of modern warfare have given food production a greater military importance than ever. Without supplies from the Dominions we should have fared ill and the total power of the United Nations would be far below its present strength. Mr. Curtin's full statement recently on the strategical basis of Australia's war effort in the allocation of labour power to the armed forces and to fields and factories sets forth sacrifices and achievements of which his country may well be proud. The proportion of Australian manhood in the forces and in essential production was 72 per cent last year, when 75 per cent was our figure. In the other Dominions, Canada, South Africa, New Zealand, with their varying circumstances, the records are of the same order.—London Daily Telegraph.

NEW JOB FOR WOMEN

There is a Post Office in London which has been open for over 60 years but which few members of the public have seen. It is in the House of Commons and is for the exclusive use of M.P.'s and officials of the Palace of Westminster.

Of its 12 original expert clerks, nine are with the Forces and women have taken their places.

Up to now it has been a tradition that only men should work at this office.

"Members have been very helpful and friendly," said a Post Office official, "and the girls have certainly brought a little colour into things with their bright jumpers."

The Post Office still can judge by the volume of work what interests the public. On the recent Education Bill, for instance, a great mass of correspondence, including many telegrams, proved a big strain on a severely "cut" staff.

The office is one of the busiest in London. Letters are delivered at more than 100 different points throughout the building, and there are 20 posting boxes.—London Evening Standard.

A Bible Message

I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

The Jews therefore strove among themselves, saying, How can this man give us his flesh to eat?

Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you. ....As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me. This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever....

Many therefore of his disciples, when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying; who can hear it?

When Jesus knew in himself that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you? What and if ye shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before? It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life (John 6; 51-53, 57, 58, 60-63.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The village milkman bought a horse for the morning round. It was not exactly a thoroughbred, but it had four legs.

One day he took his bargain to the blacksmith to have him shod. The smith regarded the weary-looking animal critically, paying particular attention to his lean body and spindly legs.

"You ought to have a horse there some day," he said at length. "I see you've got the scaffolding up."

The sergeant was drilling a batch of recruits, and saw that one of them was marching out of step. The sergeant, being one of the sarcastic sort, went up to the man and said:

"Do you know they are all out of step except you?"

"What?" asked the recruit innocently.

"I said they are all out of step except you," repeated the sergeant, thoroughly angry now.

"Well," was the retort, "I can't do anything about it. It's your job to tell them—you're in charge."

New Automatic Devices To Release Carley Floats And Liferafts Being Installed On Ships

OTTAWA, July 5 — (CP). — Devices which will automatically release Carley floats and liferafts are being installed on ships of the Royal Canadian Navy, Naval Headquarters announced here to-day.

Up to now life saving equipment had to be launched with the aid of human effort and in cases where a ship sank suddenly no time was available for freeing the rafts and they usually went down with the ship. This left many of the crew with no means of keeping afloat.

The R.C.A.F. already has similar equipment installed on aircraft flying over water routes. If the plane crashes the float automatically releases itself and bobs to the surface where the crew can climb on board.

The Navy has applied the automatic release principle to the Carley float.

The float, shaped like an elongated doughnut, is the piece of life-saving equipment which has been almost universally adopted in naval vessels in preference to lifeboats and wooden rafts. One of its chief advantages is that it is so well compartmented that it can be practically shot to pieces and still retain enough buoyancy to keep the survivors afloat. Another is the fact that it can be released quickly from a sinking vessel — a factor which is further augmented by the new automatic release device.

If the crew have time to fall in at "abandon ship" stations, the floats can be released by hand. If the ship sinks in a matter of seconds, as many have done, the floats are released by the pressure of the water.

Another device which is being produced for installation on Carley floats is a six-by-four-feet sheet of fabric which can be adapted for use as a sail, shelter from the sun, for the collection of rain water for drinking, and with camouflage on one side and bright orange on the other, it can be used either to conceal the raft from the enemy or to attract the attention of rescuers.

Soldiers In France Get First Mail Within 48 Hours

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON July 5—(CP)—Forty-eight hours after they had helped breach Hitler's west wall with a slam-bang barrage, men of the British, Canadian and American navies were reading mail from home, ferried to the beachhead by two Royal Canadian Navy fleet mail officers.

It was the first mail to reach the beachhead, and credit for this goes to Lt.-Cmdr. Bill Just of Ottawa, and Lieut. Bob Knox of Kelowna, B.C., and Vancouver.

The two began their preparations some weeks before D-Day.

When D-Day came they were ready, and 30 hours after the first soldiers had swarmed over the beaches they started out on a ferry boat that had just come back from carrying Canadian troops to France. The cargo this time was 150 bulging mail sacks.

Three hours out in the Channel they were attacked. "All hell broke loose," Just said, while Knox said depth charges bumped the ferry so badly he thought "we had run into a sub."

Barely had this excitement died down when E-boats came at the convoy out of the Channel darkness but with daylight this attack was beaten off, too.

Weary from their sleepless night, the two officers then directed the placing of the mail sacks in landing craft.

"First thing the men asked for was mail and newspapers from home," Just said. "The trip was really worth while, especially when it is realized that personnel officers of the forces look upon mail as the most important part of a serviceman's life—even ahead of pay and food."

Germans Forecast Roosevelt Visit

LONDON, July 5 — (CP) — A German transocean agency broadcast recorded by Reuter News Agency today said President Roosevelt is expected to arrive at Cherbourg within the next few days" and "will attend the hoisting of an American flag on the Citadel of Cherbourg."

"Then he will go to Scotland where he will meet Mr. Churchill," said the broadcast. "The two will then probably proceed to Rome to meet Stalin."

The broadcast was totally without confirmation from Allied sources. In the past Axis agencies frequently have broadcast such reports in an effort to elicit information.

Sport Turn-out Exceeds Million Mark

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, July 5—(AP)—More than 1,100,000 sport fans in the United States—1,102,192 to be exact—pushed their way into baseball parks and race tracks over the three-day July 4 holiday. This is an increase of 184,219 over the 917,973 spectators who turned out during the three-day Memorial Day holiday.

Led by a two-day turnout of 346,828 for 16 major league double-headers, a total of 593,411 paid their way into the ball parks of the American and National leagues as well as those of the five top minor circuits, the American Association, International, Pacific Coast, East and Southern Association. Other thousands attended games in the Class B Pony, Interstate and Piedmont loops.

Turf followers to the number of 508,781 jostled into 13 race tracks over the three-day span, betting an aggregate of $24,950,000, an increase of $2,715,689 over the $22,234,311 tossed into the pari-mutuel machines Memorial Day.

Other thousands of sports-hungry fans saw fights in New York, Los Angeles, Galveston, Chicago, Baltimore and Newark, N.J. Still more attended the People's Regatta on the Schuylkill river in Philadelphia and the Red Cross tennis exhibition matches at Forest Hills.

The largest turnout in yesterday's 172,891 major league attendance was at the Yankee Stadium where 37,579 saw Cleveland whip the Yanks twice.

Yesterday's betting at the country's race racks—$8,947,344 by 199,418 persons—was the second largest on record. It is topped only by the $10,326,027 wagered Memorial Day. The biggest race crowd yesterday was 37,876 at Jamaica.

Good Pitching Beats Lindsay

OMEMEE, July 5—(ENS)—Omemee moved into a tie for first place in the Town League by defeating the Lindsay Live Wires, who have been holding top place, 5-3, here Monday night in a hard fought game. Stephenson pitched a magnificent game for Omemee, striking out eight, walking one, and allowing only three hits. For the Live Wires Aikens had one strikeout and allowed 11 hits. Each team contributed several errors.

The Lindsay boys, holding Omemee scoreless, made two runs, one in the first and one in the third. In the fourth Brooks, first to bat for the O.'s singled, and Weir following, tripled to deep left field, scoring Brooks. R. Deyell drove a fly to left field and Weir scored after the ball was caught. In the first of the fifth Angiers, first up for the Live Wires, gained first on an error. Deyell attempting a bunt, was called out, Angiers advancing to second. Sequire struck out, and the runner gained third on a passed ball. Grills singled, scoring Angiers to put the Lindsay outfit one ahead. This ended the scoring for the Live Wires.

Crawford first up for Omemee in the fifth, singled, but was forced out at second when Parsons gained first. Williamson flied to centre field and was caught out. Brooks drove a double, scoring Parsons to tie up the game. Weir gained first when McCullough fumbled the ball, Brooks bringing in the winning run on the play. Omemee added another to their score in the sixth inning when Bradley and Stephenson singled, Williamson following with a double which scored Bradley.

Line-ups:

Lindsay Live Wires: Deyell, cf; Seguire, 3b; Grills, rf; Aikens, p; Karrys, lf; Schell, 1b; McCullough, ss; Worsley, 2b; Angiers, c.

Omemee Creamery: Crawford, 2b; Williamson, 1b; Parsons, 3b; Brooks, c; Weir, cf; R. Deyell, rf; Johnson, lf; Stephenson, p; McQuade batted for Johnson in the 4th.

Score by innings:

Omemee	000 221 x—5
Lindsay	101 010 0—3

Sig Jakucki, Browns and Luke Hamlin, A's—Jakucki tossed third shutout in last four starts by blanking Mackmen, 4-0; Hamlin drove in three runs with two singles while scattering nine St. Louis blows for 8-3 edge.

Johnny Niggeling, Senators and Roy Schalk, White Sox—Niggeling shutout Washington with four blows, 2-0; Schalk broke up second game with 12th inning single for Chicago's 3-2 nod.

Hal Newhowser, Tigers and Bobby Doerr, Red Sox—Newhouser chucked 12th victory in 4-3 first game; Doerr drove in five runs, three on his 8th homer, as Boston rallied for 7-4 even split.

Soldiers Whip St. Peter's By Score Of 10 to 6

Soldiers tightened their grip on third place in the City Softball League by turning back St. Peter's 10 to 6 at Riverside Park Tuesday evening in a loosely-played but always interesting battle in which the winners had twice to come from behind to turn the trick. It was the third victory in a row for the Soldiers and the same number for Earl Revoir, big pitcher of the Training Centre club.

Revoir went the distance for the Soldiers, allowing ten hits and issuing five bases on balls, but tightening up in the clutches and getting more effective as the game progressed.

Gene Reynolds, starting pitcher for the Saints, blanked the winners for the first four innings, but ran into grief from then on with his supporting cast making it tough for him with some juicy errors. Bill Moorhead took over in the eighth, and was touched up for three runs to increase the Soldier margin.

Mike Conroy, left fielder for the Saints, had the fielding play of the night in the ninth when he ran far over to his left to make a diving catch of Tony McIlveen's hard-hit drive. Morgan, Soldier first sacker, had a fine running catch of a low foul.

Ossie Anderson, with four hits in five trips to the plate, led the winners at the bat, while Mike Conroy with a double and two singles was the leading St. Peter's hitter.

Saints Score First

The Saints broke in front with three runs in the second. Pearson walked and Conroy and Stewart bunted safely. Murphy flied to Herrick and when fielder's throw got away from Cavanagh Pearson and Conroy scored. Carlson flied to McIlveen. Reynolds lifted a fly to right and when Herrick dropped the ball, Stewart scored the third run of the inning.

Soldiers tied it up in the fifth. Revoir got a life when Murphy fumbled his roller and then threw high to first. Anderson singled to third. Jenner bunted to Reynolds and was out. McIlveen's fly to centre was dropped by Hollingsworth and Revoir scored. McIlveen stole second. On a short passed ball Anderson scored and when no one covered the plate McIlveen also dashed in. Procyk doubled past third but the next two were easy.

St. Peter's scored the first earned run of the game in their half of the inning to take the lead again. With two away Pearson bounced a single through short and ran home on Mike Conroy's long triple to centre.

Soldiers scored three in the sixth to go out in front 6 to 4 on Cavanaghs' double to centre. Junkin's single to short, Anderson's double over third, and an infield out.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, July 5 — (AP) — Southern scribes and baseball men are all stirred up about the Dick Callahan "case," first because the $15,000 bonus the Red Sox paid the New Orleans youngster was more than any Independent Minor League Club could hand out and because it set other kids thinking in terms of $15,000, and because of the "handling" of Callahan . . . Bill Keefe of the New Orleans Times-Picayune argues that the shellacking Dick took in his debut at Louisville may have set back his career a couple of years . . . on top of that, 15-year-old Joe Nuxhall, after a brief trial with the Reds, was sent to the class A Birmingham Club . . . He had to get a permit from the State Child Labor Board to work there last Sunday then lasted two-thirds of an inning, giving one hit, five walks and six runs.

No Sure Cure

The Tigers are expected to present a proposal at next week's major league meeting in Pittsburgh which would prohibit Major League Clubs from signing a free agent unless he had at least one full season's experience in Class A or higher. And would allow the big leagues to buy players from the Minors only through unrestricted draft . . . But baseball men say Judge Landis likely would turn down any plan that would limit a player's chances to collect a bonus and you can imagine the howls from the minors if they were deprived of big-money sales.

Switchgear, leading club in the City Softball League will play their second last game in the regular schedule tonight when they clash with U.E.W. at Riverside Park. The Union outfit had a bad game the last time out when they were smothered by Plazas but they hope to come back tonight and remain in the running for a playoff berth by taking a fall out of Murph Chambers' team who have lost only one battle this season in ten starts. Eakins will likely pitch for the Union outfit while the chances are that Freddy Elliott will get the call from the Switchgear management. Tomorrow night St. Peter's who are battling wih Soldiers for third place will tie into Plazas in a decidedly important battle. The two clubs have met twice before this season with the Plazas taking the first one without much trouble but being forced to go twelve innings in the second fixture before eking out a 6 to 5 triumph over the Saints. Either Gene Reynolds or Bill Moorhead will be on the hilltop for the Saints while it looks like Dave Wilson's turn to pitch for the Plazas. Both these games shape up like real struggles and there should be good crowds out at the ball yard tonight and tomorrow night.

Johnson Motors girls and the Peterborough Lock Company team meet in a Girls' Softball League battle at the Ashburnham Bowl tonight and it looks like a neat argument between the much improved Outboard Marines who are developing into a very smooth softball machine and the Lock girls who have also been looking stronger each time out. Helen Mark will be the likely starter for Johnson Motors while the probable pitcher for Peterborough Lock will be Beryl Lee. The game should be an interesting struggle all the way. Tomorrow night Aircraft whose last-minute victory over Westclox last Friday night still has the fans talking will be gunning for another win when they battle the Johnson Motors girls at the Bowl. Norma Strickland will likely be on the mound for the Aircrafters while Outboard Marines may use Maxine Munson against the swing skirters. The Johnson team would give a lot to take a fall out of the fast Aircraft machine and they will be trying all the way. These games are called for 7 o'clock.

Stars All Coming

Tip Tops, famous Toronto fastball team who are coming down to Peterborough a week from Friday to meet a picked All-Star team in a benefit game for the Kinsmen's Charities; are making their part in the big fixture no empty gesture. They have sent down a list of 18 players who will make the trip here, indicating that they are taking the whole affair very seriously and intend to give the fans a chance to look at all their stars,—and do they have stars—in action. The list of players not including Cam Ecclestone who on that occasion becomes a Peterborough citizen and will be on the firing line for the local selects is as follows: Susie Turner, Dowie, Eckler, MacKinnon, Titanic, Heys, Glen, Stukus, Deadey, Box, Jeffers, Cranham, McKinney, Walsh, Spero and Hastings. Many of that list are well known here. Leo Deadey for example played rugby and baseball for Peterborough teams for several seasons and Jeffers made numerous trips here when he was with Napanee in the Central League. Pete Glen, Hastings, Spero and several others have played baseball against Pterborough teams. The outfit is one of the fastest and smoothest softball aggregations in Canada and they play colorful ball at all times. With Cam Ecclestone, loaned by Tip Tops for the occasion pitching for the Petes against this star-packed outfit Peterborough should see some thrilling softball.

"When Roger Bresnahan, oldtime Giant catcher, called his battery mate of playing years, Christy Matthewson, the greatest pitcher of all time, he started something that will bring disagreements from many quarters," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Gazette. "The records show Matty in high categories, and there will be many who will agree that he surpassed all others, but such long-time campaigners as Clark Griffith and Connie Mack have other ideas on this subject. Griff thinks there never was another like Walter Johnson and Connie calls Lefty Grove for top spot. Mack became converted to Grove in more recent years after being a Matthewson booster. The late Jimmy Collins who was around the game for many years, once told the writer that Cy Young would be his pick as the leading mound artist and as far as a winning mark is concerned, few could dispute such a contention. Leo Durocher [illegible] Carl Hubbell the headliner in hurling, but he was not around when such dandies as Matty and Young were in flower and he only saw Johnson when the latter was in his late playing years. Grover Alexander has likewise been nominated for first place by many experts, and his backers also have a swell talking point."

Night Ball Has It

"What to do with our afternoons looms up as a problem in sport. Jack Cuddy in his Sport Parade article today predicts for the immediate future the next to utter abandonment of daytime play and the crowding of everything pertaining to sport to the shades of night and the gleam of arclight," says J. P. Fitzgerald, sports editor of the Telegram. "Perhaps Mr. Cuddy should have qualified his predictions by inserting the saving clause, "commercial sport." There is no question at all as to professional baseball. Long since the minor leagues abandoned day games except on Sundays and holidays. The major leagues are heading that way so fast that a full-time night schedule already is in the offing. Figures as of yesterday show that night ball has drawn 1,156,087 customers or 27 per cent of the entire attendance of 4,241,486. Games by daylight have been much more numerous than by night so that the only sane way of comparing the drawing power of each is by averages. Night games have averaged 13,931 as against 4,919 in daylight. When it is considered that Sunday and twilight ball have accounted for two-thirds of the daytime crowds, the average week-day attendance have fallen off to next to nothing."

With Independence Day double-headers in the big show yesterday there was plenty of baseball but the games did not greatly change the situation in either league so far as the top brackets were concerned. The St. Louis Cards with Mort Cooper getting his ninth win of the year and Harry Brecheen working smoothly in the other end of the twin bill had little trouble beating the Giants twice while the Pittsburg Pirates slipped back a bit by breaking even with the Phillies. The game they lost was another reverse for Rip Sewell. Cincinnati Reds took a double fall out of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Cubs climbed out of the cellar by beating Boston twice. In the American League Cleveland Indians spoiled the day for Yankee fans, taking both ends of a double-header from the New Yorkers. Bobby Doerr's potent bat gave Boston Red Sox an even break with Detroit, the hard-hitting second baseman driving in five runs. St. Louis Browns also broke even with the A's and Washington and Chicago split their holiday double-header.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Three well-known Peterborough athletes serving in the Canadian Navy are home on furlough....The trio consists of Dutch Pammett, hockey and lacrosse player, Les Ascott, football lineman star who are home from the Atlantic area and Jimmy Thorburn, basketball high-scorer who is here from the Pacific....Jack Jakuchi, former soldier, is pitching great ball for the St. Louis Browns. Yesterday he reeled off his third shutout in four starts as he stopped A's 4 to 0....St. Peter's set a new record last night by allowing two runs to score on a short passed ball....Tony McIlveen sprinted all the way from second to slide in while the Saints were fooling around with the ball....Managers had better tell runners to tag up on third on flies to the outfield before two are out....This column has noticed three runs thrown away in the past week by base-runners who were caught up the line and hadn't time to go back to the bag and then score after the catch....There is no excuse for that kind of stuff.

VANCOUVER GOES TO THE RACES — Vancouver, B.C., resorted to horse power to get to Lansdowne Park race track on Dominion Day. The park is about 12 miles from the centre of the city, so the management collected ten assorted horse-drawn vehicles and hauled its customers to the track. An estimated crowd of 14,000 attended and bet $170,000 through the mutuels that day. The jolly load ABOVE doesn't seem much disturbed by the novel form of conveyance.

Brintons Wallop Quakers 17 to 2

Brintons samped Quaker Oats 17-2 in a ladies' softball game played Tuesday evening at Ashburnham Bowl.

Brintons started the attack in the first, when one run was turned in. In the second, Quaker came up with a single counter. In the third frame the hard-hitting carpet-weavers dashed off 6 runs, while Quakers failed to gain more than one, to bring the score at the end of the first three innings 7-2 in favor of the Brintons. Neither team scored in the fourth frame, but Brintons made two more runs in the fifth. The Porridge team failed to register another run in the game. Brintons went on in the seventh to score five times, and three more in the eighth to chalk up the 17-2 count.

Helen English pitched for Brintons, striking out three and walking six.

Gertrude Masters was on the hill for Quakers, and she struck out three and walked four.

Clever centre fielding was handled by Doris Walker, and three lusty hits on the part of the Quakers dropped into her hands. Thelma Batley hit the only home-run of the game, in the seventh, bringing in two other players. A couple of long doubles were divided by Doris Walker and Thelma Batley, for Brintons.

The third base assignment for Quakers was handled neatly by Carlotta Laing, and Mary Duval on first base also played a good game.

The teams:

A distinct upset occurred in the $59,350 Stars and Stripes handicap, the holiday feature at Arlington Park, Chicago, when Georgie Drum, owned by George Drumheller of Walla Walla, Wash. showed his heels to Equifox, Rounders and Pensive in a nine-horse field. Pensive, the favorite after winning the derby and Preakness, was 7½ lengths back of the winner at the finish. Georgie Drum paid $8.60 to win, with Equifox returning $7.00 for place.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

Hindoo Wrestler, Nanjo Singh, Extends McCready

Nanjo Singh, the stormy petrel of last week's show, and big Earl McCready wrestled to a draw in the main bout of the Tunney mat rodeo at the Brock Street Arena Tuesday night.

It was a gruelling battle with honors about even. Singh took the first fall in 15 minutes with his famous cobra hold. The Aurora farmer evened it up with a grape vine and toe hold that nearly broke a leg off the Hindoo Horror, after 21 torrid minutes. Then the two fought it out until the end of the bout without another fall and so a draw it was.

Matched against the accomplished and powerful McCready Singh did not get a chance to cut loose as he had done against Katan last week, but the grappler from the Far East managed to work in plenty of underhand stuff. He pulled McCready's hair, got in the odd kick and slipped in a punch or two every chance he had to get away with it. When the Moose went on the attack and made it hot for the Hindoo the latter showed surprising agility in seeking the sanctuary of the ropes and Referee Maxwell got in wrong with the fans by continually calling upon the Moose to break almost every time the big fellow had the former British Empire champion in a jam near the ropes.

A Tough Battle

It was a tough bout. Both battlers have been going to the wrestling wars for a long time and both know all the answers and the result was plenty of action, with not much to choose between the two at any stage. McCready was the popular favorite and the fans resented the skulduggery that Singh came up with and the apparent inability of Referee Maxwell to do very much about it.

The Hindoo went on the attack in the opening round and although McCready showed all his usual cleverness and more than his usual speed in breaking out of jams the Hindoo had him in a tough spot two or three times, going after his pet cobra hold which works somewhat on the principle of Whipper Billy Watson's celebrated commando grip. McCready succeeded in working loose and he took a hand in the attacking by slapping on a hammer-lock that didn't do the Singh right arm any good. However after 15 minutes of hard battling Singh finally got a chance to whip on his cobra hold properly and this time it did the trick. McCready fought valiantly to break it but couldn't succeed, and was finally nailed for the fall. Then Singh incensed the crowd by booting his prostrate opponent two or three times.

Moose Evens It Up

Singh came right back after the rest with more head locks but McCready fought him off and began putting on the pressure himself. He had the Hindoo in a tight corner three or four times but Singh scuttled for the sanctuary of the ropes and McCready reluctantly had to break his holds. However after 21 minutes tough battling the Moose got his chance. He slipped a leg hold on the Hindoo, ready to start his famous rocking chair grip.

Singh blocked that move but found himself helpless in a grapevine hold, followed by a toe hold that McCready put on with so much power that Singh conceded the fall to escape further punishment.

When the battlers returned for the final round, Singh, rattled by the reverse, started to leap around the ring in the frenzied manner he had displayed against Katan. However the bounding Hindoo did not throw any terror into McCready. He kept on coming in and had Singh in a tight corner several times. Just before the final bell the Hindoo tried another of his wild leaps and McCready calmly cuffed him down so hard that he bounced. The Moose did not have time to follow up his advantage.

Strongmen Battle

Both claiming to be the strongest man in the wrestling game, Al Bunny Dunlop of Toronto and John Arthur of Chicago had a strenuous half-hour in the semi-final. It was rough and tough with both battlers sparing no punches and mixing it freely all the way. Dunlop got a chance to toss in all his favorite modes of attack but got a receipt for most of it. Arthur proved just about as tough as the big Toronto grappler. On one occasion he hurled Dunlop out through the ropes and Bunny had a hard time getting back in there again. Then he trussed the Toronto rough-house artist up in the corner and again Dunlop got the worst of that exchange. However he came back with an attack that had Arthur in difficulties. The draw decision at the end of the half hour was a true picture of the battling.

In the preliminary Verne Baxter worsted tall Joe Christie by the simple medium of throwing him out of the ring and clipping him on the jaw every time he tried to climb back in. After Christie had led with his chin four times in a row as he attempted to climb through the ropes he finally curled up on the floor of the Arena and was counted out by Referee Maxwell. In the fifteen minutes before that Christie had been doing most of the catching, getting a rough passage from the free-swinging Baxter, who was bringing them up from the floor.

Bert Maxwell was the much-booed referee and Fred Scates kept the official time and did the announcing without hostile demonstrations so far as he was concerned.

Cards Leading By 10 Games; Dodgers Lose 2

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

Pennants aren't won on the 5th of July and they don't pay off until October but Billy Southworth and Luke Sewell are the envy of every manager in baseball today as the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns set on top of the world. With the traditional July 4 landmark behind them.

The Red Birds are regarded as a shoo-in to the National pennant with a 10½ game lead but the Brownies face the toughest sort of a struggle from all sides, currently from the Boston Red Sox who trail by only 1½ games after winning seven of 11 since returning to Fenway Park.

Southworth's Cards have won six in a row, the latest pair at the expense of the New York Giants, 6-2 and 9-1. Mort Cooper, who has been overlooked because of a shaky start due to a sore arm, rang the bell for his seventh straight in trimming Harry Feldman and Harry Brecheen boosted his record to 6-1 in the second game.

Brooklyn's toboggan slide continued as the Dodgers slumped to their eighth straight loss by bowing twice to Cincinnati, 6-2 and 2-1 in 10 innings. Rookie Arnie Carter and Harry Gumbert were the winners.

Chicago Wins Two

Chicago hopped out of the basement by 3 percentage points over the Boston Braves by stopping Bob Coleman's crew, 7-1 and 4-2 on neat mound jobs by Les Fleming and Claude Passeau.

Pittsburgh hung to second place by five slim percentage points over the Reds by taking the second game from the Phillies, 4-0 after bowing to Al Gerheauser in the opener, 3-2.

The Browns divided two with Philadelphia, winning the early game 4-0 as Sig Jakucki tossed his third shutout in his last four starts to decision Bobo Newsom. Al Hollingsworth failed in the finale as Luke Hamlin 'cuffed the leaders, 8-3.

Cleveland beat the New York Yankees' prize rookies, Walt Dubiel and Joe Page, 3-1 and 7-2, with Manager Lou Boudreau showing the way in the field and at bat.

Boston clung to the runnerup spot as Joe Bowman decisioned Johnny Gorsica, 7-4 and Bobby Doerr batted in five runs after Hal Newhouser had hung up his 12th win at Clem Hausmann's expense 4-3. Washington split with Chicago, the Nats scoring 2-0 behind Johnny Niggeling with the Sox copping the second, 3-2.

Royals Sweep Two Games

(By The Associated Press)

Baltimore Orioles woke up today to find they had lost first place in the International League as well as their ball park.

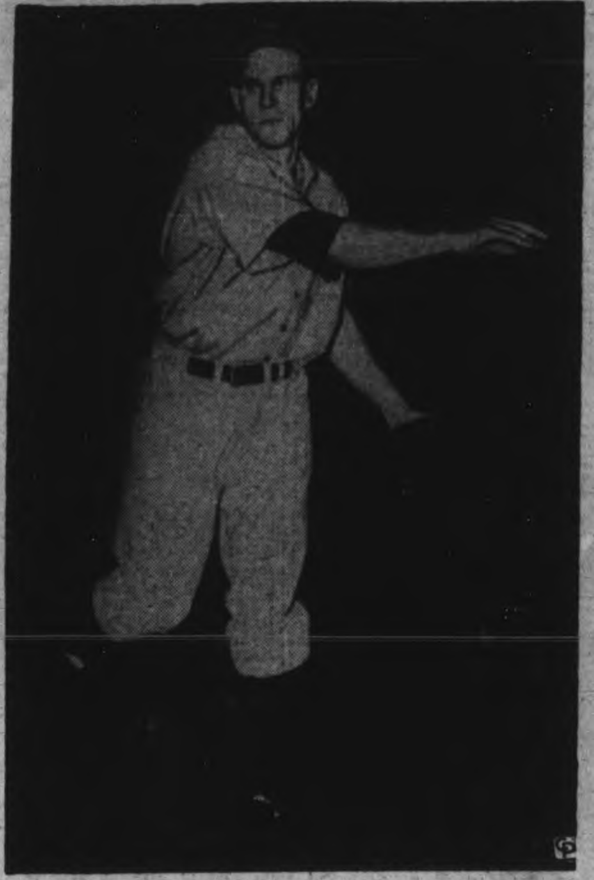
The Orioles yesterday were burned out of a holiday twin bill with Syracuse because of an eight-alarm fire that destroyed the park at an estimated loss of $150,000. Later they also doubtless burned up when Montreal Royals swept a double-header from Rochester and moved into first place by half a game over the Orioles.

Montreal's Tom Sunkel and Tommy Warren teamed up in the first game to limit the Wings to five hits as the Royals won, 3-2. Wayne Collins went the distance in the nightcap aided by Walt Chipple's fifth inning home run, taking credit for the second one-run victory, 4-3.

Newark flattened Jersey City twice, 6-5 and 8-2, putting the little Giants two games out of the lead in third place.

Not only did Toronto Maple Leafs lose a double-header to Buffalo, 14-8 and 4-0, but they probably lost the services of Outfielder Jim Gruzdis for the rest of the season. In attempting to make a diving catch of a line drive, Gruzdis suffered a broken collar bone and a dislocated shoulder.

The Bisons combed five Leaf pitchers for 14 hits in the free-hitting opener. The second game was at the other extreme, a fine shutout performance by Jack Tising as he limited the Leafs to five singles.



YANKS MAY HAVE ANOTHER STAR—Marse Joe McCarthy has uncovered a good pitching prospect this year in Walter John Dubiel, right-handed rookie flinger from Newark of the International League. Dubiel, off to a slow start, has shown improvement as he goes along, his latest effort being a fine two-hitter against the league-leading St. Louis Browns. Dubiel, a native of Hartford, Conn., won 16 games for Newark in 1943.

John Thomas Wins Over Henry Armstrong

LOS ANGELES, July 4—(AP)—John Thomas won a unanimous 10-round decision Tuesday night over Henry Armstrong, former triple title-holder, evening the score for a defeat administered by Armstrong here a month ago.

Thomas weighed 139, Armstrong 139¼. Both are local fighters.

Armstrong won only the first, seventh and 10th rounds, against seven in his victory last month.

TORONTO, July 5 — (CP). — When parimutuel betting was suspended on the Canadian Derby in Winnipeg the machines lost a good chance to clean up. Acara, with his Hatch Stable running mate Ompalo, was an overwhelming favorite, and would have gone "to 1 to 50 at least," Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning reported shortly before the race started.

Herb opined that "there's no profit in that for anyone, and considerable loss if the race were not run truly."

At any rate, the punters were saved a flock of that folding, scarce green stuff when the track called off the dogs, but its a sure bet the boys who would have backed the long shots are mad about the whole thing.

What, that again?

The Hall of Fame is back in the news. Ex-Halifax Alderman "Gee" Ahern has returned to his old job as sports editor of the Halifax Herald and is proposing that the seaport establish its own Fame Hall. Gee was one of the leading lights in the campaign to place the Hall in Halifax, but the Nova Scotia, as well as Montreal, claims were turned down by the C.A.H.A. and the N.H.L., for one reason, Kingston, Ont., was considered in a more central position to lure the tourists.

West gone soft?

Those pioneers who blazed the Western trails would turn in their graves if they knew this. The Westerners no longer have the daring of yesteryear, in fact of yestermonth. Because of transportation troubles, arrangements were made to carry the fans to the race tracks in Vancouver in tally-hoes and old conveyances of one kind or another. But came race-time, and by hook or by crook the race followers got there somehow, anyhow except by the horse-drawn vehicles which were patronized by a mere 10 per cent of the crowd.

Incidentally:

Speaking of tracks on the coast, they have the infield of Vancouver's Lansdowne Park planted in potatoes this year. The way some of the nags run, the jockeys will be able to help in the harvest this fall......Aileen Meagher, one-time British Empire Games sprint star from Halifax and Dartmouth, is still teaching in Halifax....Though H. C. Hatch lost out in this year's Canadian Derby, he thinks he has next year's winner in Uttermost, who took the Winnipeg Futurity this year......Soccer fans on the West Coast are a bit cut up over the player transfers and substitutions that are being allowed this summer. That puts the heel-and-noggin sport in the same class as hockey and baseball, they say.

Success Marks Bewdley Fair

BEWDLEY, July 5 — (ENS) — Bewdley's First Dominion Day street Fair lived up to all expectations and proved a huge success in every way. The heavy rain for a short time soon after opening in the afternoon did not dampen the spirits of thousands on the grounds while the Bingo table, various other games and the lunch booth did a thriving business throughout the afternoon and evening.

The Sea Cadets of Port Hope and the Port Hope Band were in attendance, also a jolly clown, all adding to the spirit of the day. Wilf. Lindsay of Campbellford with his team and a coach gave many rides and little Miss Elaine Jones with her pony delighted many of the children with pony-back rides. These generous attractions were appreciated by the Bewdley War Workers.

The evening program high-lighted the whole affair. Billy Arnott was Master of Ceremonies presenting many celebrated artists to the vast audience. Miss Marjorie Pethic and her dancers, Miss Mary Marlin, soprano soloist and Miss Muriel Kilby, a Xylophonist, delighted the music lovers. Billy and Kay Arnott's Magical Deception Act, a thrilling Wire Walker, Ted Rust, a famous Ventriloquist and Lou Skuce a cartoonist showing illuminated cartoons were all well received. Such a program has never before been given here.

About 11.30 the long awaited draw was made. The Deputy-reeve of this (Hamilton) township, Leslie Carruthers, was selected to make the draws.

A few of the nineteen prizes stayed in the community. Mrs. Janet Cole of Bewdley was the lucky winner of the first prize ($125.) Others near who were winners were Alex White, Percy Stalter, Robert Kidd Robert Hancock, and a coincidence was the drawer pulling his own ticket in one instance. Percy Parr called the winners.

The men and women of this community with valuable help from many interested outside friends have worked hard and faithfully to make this affair the success it has been.

Banting's Wife Serves In Army

LONDON, Ont., July 5 — (CP) — Victoria Hospital here was notified today that "Pte. H. E. Banting, medical student," of Toronto, would report in the next few days for training as an interne.

Pte. Banting is Lady Banting, widow of Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of the insulin treatment for diabetes who was killed in a plane crash early in the war while making a flight to England in connection with research work for the Royal Air Force.

She enrolled as a medical student at the University of Toronto after Sir Frederick's death and now is in her final year in medicine. A private in the Canadian Women's Army Corps her posting to Victoria Hospital is a routine matter in the same way that other final year medicine students in the Army are serving in hospitals all over Canada.

Pte. Banting, before her marriage Henrietta Ball of Newcastle, N.B., will serve here for six or eight weeks.

12 Killed, 26 Hurt In Santa Fe Crash

LOS ANGELES, July 5—(AP)—Twelve persons were killed and 26 injured, a Santa Fe Railway spokesman announced, when the locomotive and at least 10 cars of the line's westbound Chief were derailed and overturned early Tuesday near Williams, Ariz.

Ambulances were dispatched, he said, from Williams, Flagstaff and Winslow and from an army post at Bellemont. The injured were taken to the Bellemont camp and to Williams.

Nine persons died at the crash scene, two at Bellemont and one at Williams, a spokesman said.

H. M. Gill, assistant chief clerk said nothing was known yet of the cause of the crash.

Pass 5 Suggestions For Pay Awards

MARMORA, July 5—(ENS)—The monthly meeting of the Deloro Safetly committee took place Monday in the electric shop with C. H. Buskard presiding. Fifteen suggestions were received during the past month and five were considered worthy of an award. The star was awarded the Stellite plant. W. M. Regan gave the report of the inspection committee. H. O. Loveless was appointed floating member for July. J. A. Rice reported for the health and investigation committee and the monthly statement of the Benevolent Relief Funds was presented by the chairman.

Gen. De Gaulle Expected Soon

BY FLORA LEWIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 5 — (AP) — General Charles de Gaulle has made definite and final arrangements for his visit here, it has been learned, and is expected late this week. He will also visit Canada.

The French leader in previous discussions about the trip had qualified his plans with a big "If"—as to whether he found he could make it.

Gen. De Gaulle is understood to have sent a note on the subject of the talks with President Roosevelt and others, which are to be on general policy rather than specific issues.

The United States government had already transmitted to Algiers its views on the conversations stressing military topics bear "on the conduct of the war."

Washington officials look to the visit with increased optimism following the marked strain between the United States government and the French committee two weeks ago.

However, there is no sign of any change in the American policy against according full recognition to any French government before the French people are able to speak for themselves from metropolitan France.

New U.S. Attack

NEW YORK, July 5 — (AP) — Tokyo reported that aircraft from a naval task force this morning attacked Iwo Jima and Chichi Jima in the Bonin Islands, less than 500 miles south-east of Japan, and declared that "at present heavy fighting is in progress."

There was no immediate Allied confirmation of this report, but on June 16 planes from an American task force delivered a heavy blow to airfields on the two islands.

The Tokyo broadcast asserted at least 30 of the planes were shot down.

"He's been following us ever since we left Smith's Grocery!"

"It's not us he's following, Matilda. It's these giant packages of delicious nourishing Grape-Nuts Flakes. He knows they're a treat to set lips smacking."

"You've guessed it, Lily. And he must also know they supply such good nourishment as carbohydrates and proteins, useful quantities of iron and phosphorus and other food essentials. And that they're easy to digest. I'll bet he'll buy some Grape-Nuts Flakes on his way home."

Use CERTO and get ONE-HALF MORE JAM or JELLY from the Fruit you buy

MAKE your jams and jellies with Certo this season and you'll put 50% more jam or jelly on your pantry shelf than you will if you use the old-fashioned, long boil method.

And with Certo you'll not only get extra quantity but extra quality, too. For Certo jams and jellies taste far better—look more appetizing. You make them in about one-third the time and you get sure results.

Why Certo is Such a Help in Wartime

CUTS DOWN BOILING TIME
Making jam and jelly with Certo is quick and easy. For jam you need only a one to two-minute full rolling boil . . . for jelly only a half-minute to a minute. This saving of your time, energy and fuel is important in wartime.

MORE JAM OR JELLY
The Certo boil is so short that practically no fruit juice can go off in steam as it does during the old-fashioned long boil. The saving is so great that you get about one-half more jam or jelly without any increase in the amount of fruit you use.

NATURAL TASTE AND COLOUR
The short Certo boil does not affect natural fruit taste and colour as long boiling does. Jams and jellies made with Certo retain all the luscious taste and colour of the fresh fruit.

SURE RESULTS—NO GUESSWORK
With Certo you get a book of tested recipes—a different recipe for each fruit. Follow exactly the recipe for the particular fruit you are using and you can't go-wrong. You'll make delicious jam or jelly with the greatest of ease.

WHAT CERTO IS
Certo is fruit pectin—the natural jellying substance in fruit—extracted from fruit in which it is most plentiful. It allows you to make jam or jelly from fully ripe fruit instead of the under-ripe fruit called for in old-fashioned recipes.

A pound of jam or jelly made the Certo way contains no more sugar than a pound made the old, long boil way.

Look for Book of 72 Tested Recipes under the label of every Certo bottle.

CAR IS DAMAGED

An automobile driven by June Rennie, Keene, was damaged at King and George streets Tuesday night when it was struck by another car, the number of which was reported by the Keene driver to the police.

CLOSE TO A RECORD

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, 223 Dublin street reports that she received a letter from her husband, Gnr. Robt. Smith in Italy which was posted June 25 and reached Peterborough June 29. This is exceptionally fast time. Prior to getting this letter she received one which took five days to come across. Both were ordinary mail.

A 14 POUNDER

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Cullen shared the honor of landing a stream-lined 14 pound muskie at Lake Katchewanooka on Tuesday evening. It was a beautiful fish, perfectly proportioned. Mrs. Cullen was trolling with a June bug spinner and worms when the fish struck. He turned out to be a sulker and only broke water once diving down and staying there, thus making it a long battle.

SERVING OVERSEAS

Mrs. M. G. Hanna, of Campbellcroft, has just received word from her daughter, Lieut. Nursing Sister Carolyn E. Hanna, saying that she is now on duty overseas. Lieut. Hanna began her training at St. Joseph's Hospital, but, for reasons of health was obliged to discontinue her training for some time. She completed her course in Midland, and was on the night staff of the hospital in Port Hope when she joined the forces in January, 1944.

WAS NEARLY HIT

A woman suffering from hysteria caused some excitement around the corner of Park and Murray streets last night when she ran out into the roadway in front of several cars and was almost hit several times before she could be taken to safety.

HIGHLANDER KILLED.

Pte. Clifford Ray Haight of Sunderland, has been killed in action fighting with the Stormont Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders. His wife, Mrs. Frances Haight, lives at R.R. No. 1, Sunderland. Pte. Haight enlisted with Headquarters Company of the Highlanders when it was mobilized in Peterborough.

RIGHT AT HOME.

Dwellers in East City walking over the Hunter street bridge to work this morning were amused by the spectacle of two elephants and the troop of performing ponies that visited the C.G.E. picnic "grazing" peacefully on the west bank of the Otonabee about a city block south of the bridge. Unconfined, the elephants appeared as much at ease and at home as if they had been deep in their native African jungle.

FAVOR ROOSEVELT

A poll of what American tourists think of the coming presidential campaign in the United States disclosed that while Thomas Dewey, Republican presidential nominee is immensely popular in the States, the most important part of the election campaign hinges on whom is nominated by the Democrats for the White House top spot. Many felt that if Roosevelt is again nominated, he should go back without difficulty.

American Tourists Are Finding Gas Problems Not Too Serious

With more and more American tourists coming in to Peterborough, Main street often takes on the appearance of an American city, what with American cars parked in rows, and American accents heard in restaurants, etc. With this in mind, the Examiner set about to find just what the average tourist friend from south of the border thinks about Peterborough and the surrounding country. All indications point to the fact that this part of Ontario is becoming increasingly popular with our neighbors down south, and tourists who have been visiting here as often as 26 consecutive years mingle with those for the first time. Here are the opinions expressed by a few Americans, interviewed along Main street, today.

Mighty Popular Spot

According to Bill Pratt, Gerard, Ohio, Peterborough and the woodlands and lakes surrounding it, are mighty popular vacation choices in his part of the U.S.A., and Bill himself has been vacationing here for nearly 26 years. With him are his son, Bob, and Jim Baird, Bob's pal rom back in Gerard.

"Peterborough was always a great place for us to buy men's wear, blankets and ladies' wear, but this year I've noticed a shortage of these articles," said Mr. Pratt. "Just the same," he smiled, Peterborough is always our shopping centre, and it sure is a nice place."

He says he hasn't caught any "big" fish yet, although he has caught his limit of bass. This doesn't mean he's not going to hook a big one, though, and he promised when he finally catches the "one that got away," he's bring it to The Examiner and show it personally.

Bill is staying at Bayview summer resort, Deer Bay. He'll be here for about 10 days, and said he hopes to be able to make it back to the States on the gas he has. Mr. Pratt said he didn't mind the gas situation, although it is rather "skimpy."

"I wouldn't mind staying here for life," says R. P. Hocking of Akron, Ohio. Here for a couple of weeks, with R. E. Schlegel, also from Akron the two aspiring fishermen are staying at Keene, on Rice Lake, and although they haven't a chance to try their casting skill, their hopes run along the blissful lines of landing a "whopper." It's the third time Schlegel and Mr. Hocking have visited Peterborough.

Fifth Time in District.

M. Lempy and Mrs. Lempy, who hail from Buffalo, N.Y., said everybody in Peterborough is most friendly and helpful to them, when they seek information about anything. This is the fifth time here, and as far as they know, they intend to continue visiting these parts until the roads or something wear out. Mr. and Mrs. Lempy are staying at Lorne Davis' resort on Pigeon Lake, and hope to catch some fish very soon. With just about enough gas to make it here and get back again, the two are sure they will have an enjoyable vacation.

Charles Brissel and Chester Houston, who when holiday time is over will head home to Nansfield, Ohio, were in Peterborough to-day, prior to "going out and getting some of those fish." They arrived on Monday and have been shopping in Peterborough for a couple of days. Mr. Brissell and Mr. Houston are staying at Lakeview House, Young's Point. It is the second time here for Mr. Houston and the third time for Mr. Brissell.

Visiting Peterborough regularly since 1929, Mrs. C. Wise, Kent, Ohio, is staying at Round Lake near Havelock. Her daughter Winifred, and grandson Wayne are with her, and they find the gas situation all right for them. "It's a wonderful country," quoth Mrs. Wise.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Harkerole, who call Levisberg, Ohio, their home town, are visiting here with their family for the third time. Mr. Harkerole finds the gas problem not difficult, and thinks the country around the city is "wonderful." They are staying near Rice Lake.

SURPRISE VISIT—Capt. R. J. Devey and Mrs. Devey, 593 Murray street, who have not seen their son, AB. Donald J. Devey since July, 1943, were pleasantly surprised recently when he arrived home unannounced. Before enlisting in May, 1943, AB. Devey worked in the payroll departments of Genelco and the C.G.E., and he has been serving on corvettes and destroyers.

Four Airmen Receive Air Force Cross

OTTAWA, July 5.—(CP).—Four airmen received the Air Force Cross and a fifth the Air Force Medal at an investiture yesterday when the Earl of Athlone officially opened a new hospital at nearby Rockcliffe R.C.A.F. station.

All members of the crew of a Flying Fortress mail plane involved in a collision with an unidentified aircraft on a flight from Britain to Gibraltar early this year, the five were:

FO. Horace B. Hillcoat, A.F.M., the captain, Regina.

FO. Eli Rosenbaum, second pilot, Winnipeg

FO. Frederick B. Labrish, navigator, Regina.

FO. Cecil A. Dickson, wireless air gunner, Chatham, N.B.

(All of whom received the A.F.C.)

Cpl. Albert De Marco, engineer, Lakeview, Ont., who received the A.F.M.

The Governor-General chatted with FO. V. A. Murray, Penetanguishene, Ont., only survivor of a crash in Sicily.

Eisenhower Flies Over Beachhead

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 5 —(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower returned to his headquarters today after flying with Maj.-Gen. Elwood Quesada on an observation trip over the Normandy battle area yesterday.

Gen. Eisenhower flew in a Mustang over the combat area with Gen Quesada, chief of the U.S. 9th Air Force Fighter Command.

The Allied supreme commander also made a trip by road which took him past an enemy pocket of resistance on the American sector of western Cherbourg peninsula.

On the aerial jaunt Gen. Eisenhower and young Gen. Quesada led a flight which included six other planes.

It was believed to have been the commander's first flight over the area, and the first in which two generals flew in a plane built for one person.

During his visit in France, Gen. Eisenhower conferred with Gen. Montgomery, commanding all ground forces.

5 Persons Hurt When Car Hits City Bus

Five persons were injured when an automobile crashed into the rear of a city bus on Park street in front of the C.G.E. plant on Tuesday evening.

The bus, driven by Terrence Doyle, 578 Stewart street, was travelling south and had stopped in front of the C.G.E. to let off passengers when a car also going south and driven by C. A. Neill, 466 Patterson street, collided with the rear of the bigger vehicle.

Neill suffered cuts on his hand and several broken ribs, while Gerald Doyle, 17 a passenger in the automobile sustained cuts around the face and head.

William McIlmoyle, a passenger on the bus, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, suffering from head injuries and two other passengers who received minor injuries were given treatment in the C.G.E. surgery.

The front of Neill's car was wrecked and the rear of the bus badly damaged.

While city police were investigating the crash another accident happened almost at the same spot.

Morley James, 182 Adeline street, made a right turn off Townsend street to go north on Park street and his car collided with three-year-old Royden Riel, 131 Rubidge street, who was running across Park street toward the car that had been wrecked in the other accident. The boy was knocked down but escaped with a bump on the head.

Chandos Man Is Fined $25

David James McDonald, Glenalda Chandos township, was convicted in police court today of having resisted Constable Leo Murphy as the officer was arresting him on an intoxication charge and was fined $25 and $1.75 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C. with the alternative of 20 days in jail.

McDonald had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Officer Murphy testified that when he went to arrest McDonald in a laneway off King Street, the accused had dropped down, grabbed the constable by the legs and upset him, with the result that a flashlight in the officer's pocket was broken. The witness said that McDonald had struck him with his fist several times in the battle that followed.

Constable Reg. McMillan corroborated Constable Murphy's story. McDonald said that he was sober at the time and that he only resisted when he found himself getting "banged up". He said he did not realize at first that Murphy was an officer, until he had noticed his cap. He said that he had been hit over the head with a flashlight and there was glass in his hair afterward.

Magistrate Langley registered a conviction and Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K. C., asked that the penalty should be enough to protect police officers against being assaulted.

McDonald pleaded guilty to a second charge of having an extra beer license book.

"He really had two extra books" Mr. Kerr pointed out and Magistrate Langley looking over the permits remarked that two had been obtained in Kingston within three days of each other and the third in Peterborough within two weeks.

McDonald said that he thought that when he got out of the army his soldier permit was no good and he would have to have another.

On that count he was fined $30 and $2.50 costs or 25 days in jail.

WREN GWYNETH FLOWERS

Wren Is Injured In Bombing Raid On Britain

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Flowers, 417 Dublin street, have just received word that their daughter, Wren Gwyneth Flowers W. R. N. S., has suffered serious head injuries and is confined to naval hospital in England. The letter, written by a friend, was dated June 22, and says, "It happened three nights ago, and I was thrown right out of bed by the blast when the bomb landed, and look a very queer sight now, swamped in bandages, but don't worry. No less than a rear-admiral examined the wounds", which were shrapnel wounds and cuts. She was staying overnight at a hostel when the place was wrecked by a direct hit.

A former resident of Peterborough Wren Flowers has been in the Royal Navy for over a year, stationed "somewhere in England" doing a special job with Radio Location. Last November she also was wounded by shrapnel, and is to received a gold band to wear on her left sleeve, as a war wound mark. In Peterborough, she attended Gueen Mary School and St. John's Sunday School, while living with her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Flowers, 417 Dublin street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Flowers, her parents, who left Canada for England before war was declared, returned here just 12 months ago, their daughter remaining in England. Mr. Flowers, well known in local athletic circles was in France with the C.E.F. in the last war, and in this war with the R.C.A.S.C., receiving his discharge after Dunkerque. He also has the King's silver badge for loyal service, which is presented to all wounded personnel in the Imperial services.

Young Soldier Given Month

Pte. Leonard Charles, St. Charles of the R.C.A.M.C. who pleaded guilty last week to a theft of $15 from another soldier was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court today to a month in the county jail.

On a second charge of having in his possession a false certificate of discharge the young soldier was also sentenced to a month's imprisonment, the two sentences to run concurrently.

Harold Hampton, who pleaded guilty today to breaking and entering the storehouse of the Churchill Restaurant in March and committing theft and also to breaking and entering the same place Tuesday night was remanded for a week for sentence.

Hampton was found in the Churchill premises early today hiding in a room on the second floor and the door of the store room had been forced. John Mousmoles of the staff of the restaurant found the man when he went to the stock room to get some supplies and Hampton was held until police arrived.

LONDON, July 5.—(CP).— Mrs. Helen Duncan, self-styled medium, lost her recent appeal against conviction and sentence of nine months' jail under the Witchcraft Act of 1735.

Students Want Hard Work With Good Pay

More than 165 Peterborough students have been placed in suitable positions for the long summer vacation, according to William Mellis, regional director of National Selective Service. Mr. Mellis said past experience has shown that as a rule, the students will stay at the jobs throughout the summer.

Some students, both boys and girls, often show a tendency to be placed in "soft" jobs, but usually this is over-shadowed by their desire for really hard work, and to make plenty of money while they can, he observed. Mr. Mellis said boys from vocational classes at the P.C.V.S. usually try to get a job that follows along what they have been studying in school, and girls in the commercial classes most often choose some form of clerical work.

Mr. Mellis pointed out that many boys wish to enter a position they are not qualified to take, and gave, as an instance, a youth who wanted to be a tool-maker. The boy did not have a matriculation diploma, and was not even qualified to serve as an apprentice. Given a job in that connection, and advised to go back to school and obtain a matriculation equivalent, the boy will probably some day realize his ambition to be a tool-maker.

Three Types of Jobs

Miss Gladys Costello, who places many of the girl students, said that there are three types of work a girl usually wishes to do during the summer. Sales work proves popular with the girls, office and clerical positions are preferred by many, but most girls take factory jobs, where they will be able to make more money, and work harder. Miss Costello said the girls were most cooperative in assisting Selective Service to place them, and the few girls difficult to place, are far outnumbered by those more easily pleased.

"Often three or four girls march in together, and say they wish to work at the same place, because they are pals," said Miss Costello. "In this case, we do the best we can to make arrangements with the different firms, and usually wind up with them all happily working with the same company."

No student has expressed any desire to break into acting, writing, or professional music, during the summer, asserted Miss Costello. She added that nearly all the girls who apply to Selective Service for a job, have their minds made up as to where they want to work, but if there is no work order on file from a particular company, very few girls persist, and most take some other position.

Want to Register

Officials at Selective Service pointed out many youngsters under the age limit for Selective Service, frequently apply for positions when they are free to go out and find a job wherever they wish. When told this at the S.S. office, some even insist they be registered for work. A few youngsters apply to Selective Service to get the "low-down" as to where there is a probable position.

Miss Costello said she is very pleased with the attitude the students take when they come to Selective Service for jobs. Some of the girls are positively "sweet," she confided.

Canning Coupons Valid On Thursday

TORONTO, July 5.—The second five of the 10 canning sugar coupons in Ration Book 3 become valid tomorrow. That is the answer to what has become the $64 question in the ration quiz according to F. C. Butt, Ontario rationing director for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

"Housewives," he said, "can't seem to remember that the first 10 F coupons in the ration book were set aside for canning sugar. The first five became valid May 25. The second block, F6 to F10, become good July 6. To exchange canning sugar coupons for preserves coupons, take the ration book to the nearest local ration board where the exchange will be made without delay."

Ration books for baby may be obtained by any adult by taking the birth or baptismal certificate to the ration board or by signing a simple affidavit. Adequate supplies of canned evaporated milk for babies have been arranged For instance, in "restricted" areas such as Southern Ontario, special evaporated milk coupons for children under 2 are obtainable from local ration boards, each good for 96 fluid ounces in six 16-ounce cans. Other persons needing it for their diets may obtain it with a medical certificate, according to the WPTB.

Trinity College School Cadets Capture Senior Imperial Challenge Shield

OTTAWA, July 5.—(CP). — The Defence Department announced last night that Royal Canadian Army Cadets placed second in the annual "Youth of the Empire" rifle competitions conducted by the National Rifle Association of Great Britain during the last year.

Canada's entry, totalling 3,726 contestants, obtained an average of 67.691. South Africa was first with 78.573 and Great Britain third with 65.190.

The Senior Imperial Challenge Shield, awarded the unit having the best average in the Empire, was won by No. 96 (Trinity College School), R.C.A.C., Port Hope, Ont., with an average of 92.706. Of the 178 T.C.S. cadets competing, 60 have been ranked as Empire marksmen and 48 as Empire 1st class shots. Other R.C.A.C. units gained Canada 14 of the 50 first places in the contest.

MISSING IN ACTION — Word has been received by Mrs. Sidney Pellow, Lansdowne street, that her son, Pte. Don. A. Pellow, has been missing in action since June 22. Pte. Pellow enlisted in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders in June, 1940, and previous to his enlistment worked at C.G.E. He attended Auburn Public School. A sister, Pte. Joan Pellow, C.W.A.C., is stationed at Ottawa at the present.

Fred E. Cripps Closing Studio

One of Peterborough's most prominent and best-known business men, Fred E. Cripps, who has been active in several service organizations during the past year, has accepted a position with Ansco of Canada, formerly the Agfa-Ansco. He will be a photography technician and demonstrator, and thus associated with the advancement of natural color photography.

FRED E. CRIPPS

Since he returned to Peterborough from Brampton eight years ago, Mr. Cripps has conducted his photography studio at 376½ George street, always maintaining a high standard, which has made him popular and well-known. He spent his early years here, and was prominent in hockey and baseball, being on both senior and intermediate O.H.A. and O.B.A. teams. After serving his apprenticeship at the Roy Studio, he attended the Winonah School of Photography, in Winonah, Indiana, graduating in 1930.

Always vitally interested in service clubs, Mr. Cripps is a past-president of the Lions Club, and also a past deputy district governor of the Lions. A past-president of the Peterborough Business Men's Association, he is also a member of the Ontario Photographers' Association, and is at present serving on its executive. As he is planning to start his new duties about August 1, his studio will soon be closed. Peterborough will be sorry to lose him, his active personality and fine workmanship.

Assault Charge Is Remanded One Week

David Forbes, charged in police court this morning with assaulting Charles W. Holland, was remanded for a week on bail when it was stated that the complainant was unable to appear today.

W. C. Grant appeared in behalf of Dennis Plumpton who had previously pleaded guilty to non-support, and suggested a suspended sentence.

This was finally arranged when Plumpton undertook to pay half his wages in future to his wife.

At the suggestion of Magistrate O. A. Langley seven charges against R. L. McIntosh of failing to attend drills of the Prince of Wales Rangers were withdrawn by Major V. M. Eastwood on the condition that McIntosh attend parades for the balance of this month when his term as a member of the reserve expires. McIntosh had already been convicted on one charge and fined and the other charges had been adjourned until today.

700 Harvesters

TORONTO, July 5.—(CP).—Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Agricultural Minister of Ontario said yesterday Western Canadian farmers are arriving in Ontario at the rate of between 10 and 20 a day and a total of 600 to 700 are expected to come East to help Ontario harvesters.

Convent Pupils Give $15 To War Victims

Teaching children the finer things of life undoubtedly is in the best interests of both the children and the whole community at large, for it cannot but react to the advantage of all concerned in the years that lie ahead, and the influence that it has in solid character building in this manner might well spread to generations that are as yet unborn.

The true precepts of Christianity are very aptly displayed by the practice of the three great virtues, of which the rendering of aid to the afflicted is the greatest, and children who learn this in their tender years in a most practical way, hardly ever fail to carry its teachings and practice into effect for the rest of their existence in this life.

At the close of the education period for the summer recess the pupils of St. Mary's Convent during the past three years have given a practical demonstration of these teachings and principles, by the giving of aid to relieve the distress of those afflicted by enemy bombings over the British Isles, through the local and district fund operating for that purpose, and it was indeed a pleasure to talk to Rev. Sister Philomena, their principal, when calling to collect the money and learn how well these very principles lay behind their giving of this gift to assist these unfortunate sufferers in this manner.

The children raised this money from a bazaar, the $15.00 credited in their name today representing a part of the proceeds, for other worthy funds having a bearing on the war effort also were given assistance in like manner.

Personal Donations

True individual personality can only be displayed by oneself on behalf of whatever is involved, and in respect to the objects for which the fund works, it is undoubtedly best shown in an interest which takes form in personal assistance given to aid the wants and necessities occasioned the unfortunate through the devastation which follows in the steps of a cruel war.

Two personal gifts are included in this day's list, of whom Mrs. A. J. Hall of 457 Mark street, might have been noticed on former occasions, her gift being one that has appeared at regular intervals during the fund's period of operation, displaying at this time an increased interest, no doubt accentuated by the increased need at the moment through the heavy bombing of the south of England by rocket or pilotless planes from the Pas de Calais area of France, while the other gift is listed as coming from "A Friend," receipt No. 3732.

The Fund management is still in need of a number of assistants who will take a two hours shift at tagging this coming Saturday, July 8, and would appreciate hearing from anyone who would do this for the objects the fund seeks to assist.

Gordon Hanes Is Wounded

Pte. Gordon Hanes, Peterborough soldier serving with the North Nova Scotia Highlanders, was wounded in action in the invasion on June 11, a letter received yesterday by his family from a Canadian hospital in England revealed for the first time. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hanes, 201 Stewart street, and the husband of Mrs. Barbara Hanes, of the same address.

In the first wave of Canadian troops to climb ashore on "D-Day," Pte. Hanes wrote that his regiment had advanced further inland than any other at the time he was put out of action by shrapnel that pierced his arm. His unit was shelled constantly for three consecutive days, and he was suffering from shellshock when removed from the battle line.

Pte. Hanes joined the Army a year and a half ago, and spent the first six months of his military career at the local training centre. He went overseas on Sept. 2 last. Brought up in the city, he attended the Collegiate, worked at Genelco for two years and at W. R. Turner's for a short time before enlisting.

Quebec Court Fines Mr. X Over $200

LEVIS, Que., July 5.—(Special).—Harry F. McLean, identified as the "Mr. X" who has dispensed fabulous sums in many Canadian cities, pleaded guilty before Recorder Valmore De Billy Tuesday to charges of drunkenness and assault on a provincial detective and was fined $25 and costs, which amounted to $200.

McLean was arrested last night after an attack on a provincial detective in a Levis restaurant, and spent the night in the local jail. Levis is on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River, opposite Quebec City.

McLean was reported to be returning from a fishing expedition to Grand River, Gaspe, with his secretary. In the evening Mr. McLean and his secretary entered the restaurant, where McLean is alleged to have grabbed Provincial Detective Joseph Cote by the shirtfront.

Later in front of the hotel McLean is alleged to have quarrelled with several bystanders, including a soldier, following which he was taken into custody.

One hundred dollars of the costs were awarded to Detective Cote.

McLean was identified as the Merrickvale, Ont., construction millionaire by the recorder before whom he appeared, and by Police Chief Guay of Levis.

Chief Guay said McLean, whose cash handouts to strangers has run into thousands of dollars, had 75 cents in his pockets when arrested last night.

After the hearing, McLean left Levis.

Ordinary Taxpayer Should Get Book

OTTAWA, July 5.—(CP).—G. K. Fraser (P.C.-Peterborough West) said last night in the Commons that if income tax officials needed a book to figure out income tax the public should have an equal break—and a book, too.

Mr. Fraser said that income tax officials were given a book on the Income Tax Act, printed in Montreal and costing $1.25.

"In other words, the Government feels that the income tax officials in Ottawa and throughout the country cannot possibly work out the income tax problems unless they have this book costing $1.25," he continued.

"If they give these books to the officials, why should not the ordinary taxpayer be supplied with one? He certainly is the goat; he is the one who has to pay."

STATIONED IN WEST—LAC. Irwin A. Hawthorne, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hawthorne, Warsaw, is serving as a mechanic with the R.C.A.F. at Brandon, Man. He enlisted December 10, 1941, and had previously been working with his father. His father and grandfather, Edward Hawthorne, are both former wardens of Peterborough County.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

As the first of the pickling season is not far distant, I will devote my recipes today to different kinds of pickles and relishes. Try them all, you will enjoy them in the winter with cold meat.

Pickled Watermelon Rind

2 pounds watermelon rind, 2 pounds sugar, 1 pint vinegar, 1 pint water, 1 lemon sliced thin, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon allspice. Soak the watermelon rind over night in salt water (¼ cup of salt to one quart water). Drain off the brine. Cook the watermelon rind in clear water until it is tender. Make a hot pickling solution of the other ingredients, add the drained rind, and boil it rapidly until it is clear. The spices should be tied in bags and removed before the pickle is bottled. Seal in hot jars. Green tomatoes cut crosswise in thin slices may be used in place of watermelon rind if desired.

Dixie Relish

1 pint chopped sweet green peppers, 1 pint chopped sweet red peppers, 1 quart chopped cabbage, 1 pint white onions, 2 tablespoons salt, 4 tablespoons mustard seed, 3 or 4 whole hot red peppers, ¾ cup sugar, 1 quart vinegar. Soak green and red peppers in brine for 24 hours, using 1 cup of salt to 1 gallon water. Take from the brine and freshen in clear cold water from one to two huors. Drain well, cut open, remove seeds and white sections, and chop the peppers. Put cabbage and onions through the food chopper separately and measure before mixing. Add chopped cabbage and onions to chopped peppers. Add salt, spices, whole peppers, sugar and vinegar. Let the mixture stand over night in a covered crock or enamelled vessel. Drain and heat the liquid. When hot add the other ingredients and cook for 10 minutes. Seal in hot jars.

Beet Relish

1 quart chopped cabbage, 1 quart of chopped cooked beets, 1 cup grated horse radish, 2 cups vinegar, 1 cup sugar, salt. Combine the cabbage, beets and horseradish and season with salt. Scald the vinegar, dissolve the sugar in it and add it to the first mixture. Cook until clear. Seal in hot jars. This is particularly tasty with mutton.

Pickled Horseradish

1 cup grated horseradish, 2 tablespoons white sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 cups cold vinegar. To the grated horseradish add the sugar, salt and vinegar. Mix well and seal in cold jars.

Peterboro Girl Wed In Toronto

A pretty wedding of local interest took place Saturday in St. James' Church, Toronto, with Rev. Father Hayden officiating, when Mary Marguerite Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Reynolds, 493 Albert street, Peterborough, became the bride of Donald Felker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Felker, Stoney Creek, Ontario.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly gowned in floor-length brocaded satin, with fitted bodice, finished at the back and front with tiny self-covered buttons, sweetheart neckline, leg-o'-mutton sleeves, and full skirt, gathered at the waist. Her finger-tip veil of embroidered net fell from a satin halo, caught with a tiny wreath of forget-me-nots, and she carried American Beauty roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Gene Carlton was matron of honor, in street-length pink taffeta, on similar lines to the bride's gown, with white accessories, and a bouquet of pink and white carnations and baby's breath. Gene Carlton was best man.

Following the ceremony, at the reception held at 99 Mayfield avenue, the bride's mother, assisted by the bride and groom, received the guests in navy flowered sheer, with matching accessories, and a corsage of roses and sweet peas.

In the evening, the happy couple left by plane from Malton airport for a wedding trip to North Bay, Sudbury and points north, the bride travelling in a two-piece dress of powder blue crepe, a beige coat, white accessories, and a corsage of roses and baby's breath. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Felker will make their home at 99 Mayfield avenue, Toronto.

The groom's gift to the bride was a three-strand pearl necklace and matching earrings. The matron of honor received a pair of gold earrings, and the best man, a gold watch chain.

Community Party Given Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dyer, nee Ina Robinson, were entertained at a community shower at Forester's Hall, Bridgenorth. Little Sylvia Nichols and Donna Doughty brought in a decorated basket filled with gifts from members of the community, and Miss Jean Moore read the address, wishing the young couple every happiness, on behalf of the community. Several people were called upon for a few words, including W. J. Robinson, Miss Lillian Uddy and Don Jopling.

Chairmen for the evening were Fred Jopling and Ralph Jopling, who also supervised the musical program, which was as follows: a piano solo, Miss Marjorie Forsyth; a vocal solo, Mrs. Jean Ray, and Mrs. Clayton Telford; a reading, Jim Jopling, and Miss Olive Sidey. Following the program, refreshments were served by the women, and a social hour enjoyed.

Flier Describes Mass Escape From Hun Camp

TORONTO, July 4 (CP)—Preparations for the attempted mass escape of 80 Allied airmen from the German prisoner-of-war camp Stalag III were described in a copyright story written by Sqdn. Ldr. Foss H. Boulton, D.F.C., of Coleman, Alta., and published today by the Toronto Star. The attempted escape cost the lives of 50 airmen, six of whom were Canadians—all shot down by the Gestapo.

Sqdn. Ldr. Boulton, a member of the City of Oshawa Squadron of the R.C.A.F., recently was repatriated from Stalag III. He was not among those chosen to make the attempted break through an elaborate tunnel dug by the imprisoned airmen because he was due for repatriation.

Describing the escape preparations, Sqdn. Ldr. Boulton wrote:

"Here's what our boys did:

"For 16 months they worked by night digging a tunnel. The entrance shaft, which went down 20 feet vertically, was under one of the huts. Some of our boys had worked in Canadian mines—others had been in the mines of South Africa. To them fell the task of engineering the tunnel proper which would run 100 yards or more through sandy soil to emerge in a forest beyond the roadway which ran across one end of the compound, outside the wire...."

The escape through the tunnel began at nine o'clock on the night of March 24 and the discovery came at five the next morning. Some of the boys who were last to leave the tunnel were caught immediately and led back to camp. Others were picked up farther afield.

Sqdn. Ldr. Boulton then described how all those caught were moved from local jails to Gorlitz, near Dresden, for questioning by the Gestapo. He then related how on April 4 the German commandant informed the prisoners' senior officer—Group Capt. Massey — that 50 of "our boys" had been killed.

Gets Penicillin

PROVOST, Alta., July 5—(CP)—Ampules of Penicillin were dropped by parachute over the General Hospital here for treatment of five-year-old D'Arcy Rosesky, believed suffering from Anthrax. The Penicillin was flown from Edmonton, a distance of 790 miles, by PO. John Nesbitt of Ottawa, North West Air Command, R.C.A.F. A supply of Anthrax serum is being flown from New York.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

LOVE PRISONERS ARE MARTYRS

Husband Finds Best Relief From Surplus of Kisses is Job on the Road.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a man 21 years old. Have been married two years and am bored to death with marriage. My wife is a good woman and I am not a philandering husband. Neither am I interested in anyone else, but I feel that I can't stand my wife any longer because she is so possessive that I do not own my own soul. I cannot leave the house without her tagging me if it is possible for her to go along.

When we are at home together she insists on loving me constantly and wants to be kissed every minute. My every move must be accounted for, from the time I leave the office until I arrive home, or she starts a fuss and pouts and accuses me of being out with other women.

My attempts to carry on have worn me out. I have tried to get away from it by enlisting in the army, but I was not physically fit and was discharged. Please give me some advice.

WORRIED.

Travelling Job Would Help

ANSWER—There is no possible way of shaking a possessive wife because she clings closer than a mustard plaster and is twice as irritating. The only suggestion that I can make that might relieve the situation to a certain extent would be for you to get a job that would take you away from home most of the time. Being a travelling salesman, or something wandering like that. But even at that she would probably dog your footsteps.

Cases like that are not uncommon, and perhaps there are no men who are greater martyrs than the ones who are prisoners of love and who are stuffed on caresses and surfeited with kisses until their very stomachs turn against their too adoring wives.

It is a strange thing that a woman has never found out that when she has to ask a man if he loves her, he doesn't, and that when she has to beg him to kiss her, he feels like biting her instead, and that the more she follows him around, the more he sprints away from her.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am 16 years old and worried about going to college. I have the money to go on, but I cannot seem to put my mind to studying. I hate even to look at a book because of high school.

N. D. O. M.

College Would Be Of No Value

ANSWER—Well, if you are that allergic to education, I would certainly advise you not to waste any time and money on going to college, because you would get nothing out of it but a college yell, bad habits and a superiority complex that would make you unwilling to do the manual labor that would be the only thing you are fitted to do.

But don't think that your not going to college is an invitation to loaf. If you are not going to use your brains, get busy with your hands and make yourself skillful in something that you like to do. But don't forget that when you throw away a chance at an education, you discard the best tool you can ever have.

DEAR MISS DIX—Every night when I kneel down to say my prayers I make this plea to my divorced parents:

Dad! Mom! where are you? I want you and need you so very much. To whom can I turn for guidance and protection when I have no home and no father and no mother? Who but a loving parent can soothe my troubled heart and lead me down the straight and narrow road? Surely you must care a

MacNicol Wants Irrigation For The West

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 5 — (CP). — Water and more of it for Southern Saskatchewan is one of the pet projects of John R. MacNicol (PC-Toronto-Davenport).

Mr. MacNicol yesterday took advantage of the budget debate in the Commons to renew his previously-voiced arguments for large dams, irrigation and power developments on the South Saskatchewan River.

The sitting was enlivened by the unusual event of a member being "named" and suspended for seven days. The named person was Liguori Lacombe, member for Laval-Two Mountains, founder, leader and sole parliamentary representative of the Canadian Party. The Speaker moved against Mr. Lacombe for interruptions in a speech by Maxime Raymond, Bloc Populaire Leader.

Mr. McGeer Again.

As the budget debate rolled through its fourth day private members covered a variety of topics from monetary reform to improper literature. G. G. McGeer (L-Vancouver-Burrard) and Norman Jacques (SC-Wetaskiwin) called for a new monetary system which would make debt-free money available.

Karl Homuth (PC-Waterloo South) said discontent and disunity had grown up in Canada in recent years.

He cited the various groups now in the House, and said the Liberal Party itself was divided into three groups — "The dead guinea pig party," the "nothing party," and the official Liberal Party.

He said the Income Tax Act had resulted in absenteeism. The workers had been able to calculate that if they worked overtime or on Saturday afternoons they would have little additional earnings. Women who went out to assist war work had their homes "penalized" by the tax structure.

Mr. Homuth said he wondered how often labor and industrial leaders were called into consultation when income tax regulations were being prepared. Such practical men could have devised a taxation system which would have increased production.

There should "be an easier and better way of collecting income tax." The present complicated income tax returns were a "headache."

Criticizing the government's manpower policy, Mr. Homuth said men were being called to compulsory service from the farms.

"We are not calling men from the farm," interjected Labor Minister Mitchell.

"Oh yes, you are calling them from the farm," said Mr. Homuth.

Watch Hand-outs

There had been an attempt to bludgeon men under 18½ years of age to select some active service unit before they received their compulsory service call.

If men in the home defence army were needed to fight overseas, they should be told so.

Labor should closely watch "hand-outs from this government," said Mr. Homuth, speaking of the proposed children's allowances. Subsidizing of wages by grants from the public treasury put labor in a "dangerous position."

Rev. Dan McIvor (L.—Fort William) complained two publications issued in Toronto, which he did not name, should not be allowed to circulate and urged steps to encourage the people to read the Bible more and salacious literature less.

Mr. McIvor also offered a solution of the private financial problem of members of parliament: how to stretch a sessional indemnity of $4,000 which is reduced by income tax to $2,800 over the expenses of living six months of the year away from home and conducting an election campaign every four years.

His suggestion was that the indemnity be reduced to $2,000 and that members be given a tax-free motor car allowance of $2,000 as cabinet ministers and the leader of the opposition are given it.

Gordon Fraser (P.C.—Peterborough West) criticized waste in government expenditures and sent Finance Minister Ilsley a couple of files for his inspection. He said the files were perfectly good and serviceable, barely worn, and yet had been discarded at a government-owned aircraft factory.

Mr. Fraser said butter production in Ontario had gone down because cream could only be collected from farmers once every two weeks, while in Quebec collections were allowed three times a week.

But after he had asked a question last week, collections three times weekly were allowed by the Prices Board. It should not be necessary for a member of parliament to raise such questions before action was taken by the Prices Board.

The government should not charge interest on unpaid balances of succession duties on income tax unless an account had been sent the estate or the taxpayer by the government.

An effort should be made to collect 100 per cent of the income tax at the source, so an additional amount would not have to be paid at the end of the year.

Mr. Fraser said an existing government tax on alarm clocks costing less than $4.50 should be removed.

Mr. Raymond argued the income tax burden on fathers of families should be eased and complained that farmers' sons were still being called up for military service.

P. E. Wright (C.C.F.—Melfort) said the implement companies had 25 years' notice of the intention of the Liberal party to remove the tariff from farm machinery. It was not surprising they had made arrangements to nullify the effect of the tariff change.

The only way to give the farmers a square deal on their implement prices was to establish a government plant for making farm implements or assist co-operatives in entering production.

ARE THEY HAPPY!—The smiles of these two Canadians are the result of news from home. They receive the mail in the front line area. It comes up daily with the rations. The boys are brothers, Captains Doug. and Pete Kennedy, of Waterloo, Doug. on the LEFT.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, July 6

OPPOSITION from all sides and in many guises seems to be the rule of the day, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects of major planets. Even a moderate degree of success must be wrested from dubious, complex, and complicated circumstances. Elders, employers or others in power may be disposed to withhold desired co-operation, and from other channels there may be snares, duplicity and tricky manifestations. It will probably take acumen, shrewdness and viligance to defeat this and to turn the menaced situation into a sudden constructive and gratifying climax. This applies to home, affectional, financial and business opportunities.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which their personal shrewdness, clever insight into difficult situations, together with well-organized strategies and ingenuity may turn aside certain tricky schemes or intrigues and avert loss, estrangements, strife and a generally unfortunate crisis. This surprising event may call for firm action and keen intelligence as well as a high spirit of adventure in which romance may not be lacking. Innovation and originality may win the day and amend the misfortunes threatened. Keep nerves curbed.

A child born on this day may have many difficult and dangerous moments to tax its discretion and cleverness, by which it may incite pleasant openings for fair fortune and romantic adventure.

Plans Completed For Formation Canadian Council Of Churches

TORONTO, July 5—(Special to Peterborough Examiner)—As a culmination of a long process of negotiation and planning Canadian Protestantism will take a long step forward in the formation of a Canadian Council of Churches. Eight communions have signified their intention of joining the Council at its inaugural meeting to be held in Toronto on September 26-28. They are: The Church of England in Canada; The United Baptist Convention of the Maritime Provinces; the United Church of Canada, by action of the executive of the General Council; The Presbyterian Church in Canada; the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec; The Canada Conference of the Evangelical Church; the All Canada Conference of the Disciples, and the Salvation Army.

Representatives of the Canadian Churches, the Christian Social Council of Canada, the Religious Education Council of Canada and the Mission Board of the Churches, which have been co-operating for some time, have been shaping the movement under the chairmanship of Bishop Broughall of Niagara, with Rev. Dr. W. J. Gallagher of Toronto as Secretary. The Committee on program has been holding meetings in the Anglican Church House, Toronto.

The constitution states the objects of the new body as "to make available to the churches of Canada an instrument for common planning and action, to meet more adequately the needs of our people in our time to co-ordinate the co-operative movements and agencies of the churches now existing, and to make them more effective; and so far as is possible to make their fullest contribution to the life and thought of the nation."; "To give visibility to the essential unity of the Church; assist the growth of the ecumenical consciousness, and to maintain fellowship and co-operation with the Councils of Churches in Great Britain, the United States of America, and the World Council of Churches. The President of the organization will hold office for two years and the office will rotate around the constituent Communions.

It is recommended that the first president be an Anglican. Dr. W. J. Gallagher will likely be its secretary. The basis of membership for each communion is four members plus one extra member for every 25,000 members. The authority of constituent churches is safeguarded, and the council will have no legislative or administrative authority over the churches or power to limit their autonomy in any way.

Provision is made in the constitution for setting up of Boards and commissions to study special phases of work.

HOT SOUP'S the way to start a cold meal ....

COLD MEALS are what folks like these summer days—but most everybody likes hot soup to start with. And the soup that folks are serving more and more is Campbell's Chicken Noodle.

No need to ask a man how he likes it. At the very first spoonful a big grin will spread across his face. "Um-m good. Grandest Chicken Noodle Soup I ever tasted!" he'll say.

For this soup is made from plump chickens, slowly simmered to get the kind of good, rich broth you used to get with chicken noodle soup in the good old days. There is deliciously tender chicken meat, and lots and lots of tasty egg noodles too.

It's the kind of satisfying soup men really go for . . . a good, wholesome, nourishing soup for all the family.

Remember, it's not just noodle soup—but Chicken Noodle Soup. Look for the Red-and-White Label.

Soldiers Whip

Tied Up Again.

The Saints roared back with two in their half to sew it up again. Murphy singled through short and after Carlson had sacrificed Reynolds walked. Condon double to left scoring Murphy. Reynolds went home on an infield out.

With one out in the first of the seventh successive doubles to left by Herrick and Cavanagh scord a run to put the Soldiers in the van. When Junkin rolled to short and Cavanagh collided with Stewart as the latter was attempting to field the tap, the base-runner was called out. Soldiers kicked vigorously at the decision with the usual result. The decision stood.

With Moorhead on the rubber in the eighth Anderson led off with a triple to left centre and scored when Moorhead made a bad throw to first on Jenner's bunt. A pass to McIlveen and safe bunts by Morgan and Herrick with a miss by Murphy sent two more runs in to make it 10 to 6, and it remained that way.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

It will be men's rinks for the Friday night tournament. Chairman R. Hendry passed this information on to us last evening.

Next Wednesday, July 12th, the ladies' section is holding a Tip Top Tailor tournament. While all the details are not yet available, there is one rule that will prevail and that is, the rinks must be schedule rinks or of schedule strength, and each rink must have four players. However we'll have the complete information in a day or two.

We have been asked by Mrs. A. Boorne, convener of the ladies' social committee, to announce that the new flag, now flying from our flag pole, is a gift from the ladies' section of the club.

A number of our lady bowlers are taking part in the tournament at Port Hope to-day.

Notwithstanding the heavy day on Monday, the boys were out again in full force Tuesday night, and it is expected that we will be at it again to-night. Besides the regular schedule games, two provincial games are scheduled. In the doubles R. Downey and H. Freeman will battle with W. Jeffries and H. Coleman, while the rink competition will be between G. Coleman and G. Gimblett.

Men's Scores.

Umiddad Wins Gold Cup Race

NEWMARKET, July 5 (CP Cable) —The Aga Khan's Umiddad, in a thrilling finish that ranked with the best in the annals of Britain's distance races, won the coveted Gold Cup over a gruelling 2½-mile course today. Umiddad won by a head from Bright Lady, the only mare in the field of five.

The duel between the first two runners over the final furlong had the crowd shrieking. Bright Lady had set up a five-length lead before the stretch was reached. Then Umiddad made his final effort under the guidance of veteran Gordon Richards, Britain's perennial jockey champion, and gradually closed the distance.

Time for the winner, the odds-on favorite, was not announced. In third place, six lengths back, was Milling, owned by the flour magnate James Rank.

The race is next in importance to classics such as the Derby and the Oakes.

Packers Nose Out Outboard Marines

On Tuesday at the Bonner Recreation Field the Packers nosed out Marines by the score of 15 to 14. The game was feature by three home runs, two by Packers from the bat of J. Seymour and one by the Marines. There was some very nice fielding by both teams but the feature fielding play of the night was a gem and robbed the Marines of at least one run. The ball was hit on a line through short and Art Downer playing short stop for the Packers dived and made a spectacular one-hand catch. Also in the ninth innings when the Packers were one-run in the lead and Stewart of Marines was up to bat with the Marines needing one run to tie the count he hit a long fly ball to centre field and Newt Downer had quite a run on his hands to make the catch.

The score by innings:

Packers	320 613 000	15
Marines	231 040 202	14

Teams:

Packers—N. Downer, S. Detlor, A. Todd, J. Begley, J. Seymour, E. Godfrey, F. Foley, A. Downer, D. Trayner.

Marines—Simpson, McHugh, Bennett, Holborne, Stewart, Thompson, Mattice, Hickey, Cooper.

PAT JAMES THARBY

Although Italians in the sections of Italy where Germans still control the country may be starving, this Hastings and Prince Edward soldier from Norwood has found that in other parts of the country, the natives are not faming too badly.

Pat Tharby was the second Norwood boy to go overseas and this is his fourth year. Although he went through the Sicilian campaign without a scratch, he was injured in Italy by an enemy mortar gun and for a time his hearing was affected. He has now returned to his unit again.

In a recent letter he told of visiting an Italian home for dinner. The table was set with a knife, fork, plate and glass for each person and in the centre was a large jug of wine. A large basket was brought in containing a bowl of macaroni which was set along side of two loaves of bread. Each person reached and filled his plate and breaks off a piece of bread, the soldier writes. After everyone had three servings then a bowl of uncooked greens was brought in followed by a large platter of salami and mutton. After the meat course, another plate of uncooked greens appeared covered with olive oil and cheese sprinkled on it. Nuts, figs and oranges brought the meal to a close.

Pat Tharby said that he recently met two other boys from Norwood. They are Frank Gill and Wilson Webb.

Ground Fighters Too

It used to be that when an airman won his wings after several months of training was sent overseas and prepared to take part in the big battle of the skies without the benefit of much drilling. Now a new system has been worked out at commando schools established especially for airmen before they go overseas.

Two of the main reasons airmen are being given this course are to teach him the importance of cooperation between the army and the air force and to make him an asset to an infantry unit if they are shot down and not able to reach his base immediately. The following is a description of the work by one flier:

"Out on manoeuvres the party leader despatches a group of his men as a "recce" patrol. Scattering out, they "monkey run" where cover permits and "leopard crawl" in partially open territory. The recco lads finally work themselves to points of vantage, observe the enemy and return with reports of his number and activity.

"A plan of attack is formulated and the whole party goes into action. A frontal assault has been decided on, with the attackers creeping in as close as possible before exposing themselves. Forward they go. Slightly over-enthused, one member raises his head to take a peek around. Half a dozen slugs whine warningly by, and he flattens.

"Finally in position, the party breaks cover, and with an ear-splitting yell that would have echoed back from the rim of creation, they charge the enemy position, using all the commando tactics they've learned in an effort to oust the position. Mortars, Sten and rifle fire add realism to the uproar. A winner is declared and the trainees gather around their instructors who point out mistakes made in the attack and answer questions on different types of approach. Each airman has learned that in an army platoon every soldier has a certain duty to carry out, exactly the same as in an aircrew team.

Monkey Act

"The afternoon's operations start with a game that would make a monkey out of a monkey. Tied to trees about twenty feet above the ground, two ropes form a horizontal cross. At the base of each tree a team falls in, the first member shinnies up and out on the rope. His job is to crawl across it to the other tree, but of course members of the other teams are also starting across from their trees. The idea is to shake the other fellow off and get across yourself. It has all the patent medicines beat to a frazzle as a cure for after-dinner indigestion."

They are shown how to disarm the enemy by some handy trick usually involves breaking his arm and literally beating him over the head with it. The methods are all quite practical although somewhat at variance with the Marquis of Queensbury rules.

Favorite sport is the night scheme in which a group of men are driven from the station after darkness in a blacked-out van to a desolate spot and dropped there. They must be back in camp the next morning by 0700 hours. To make it a little more interesting a number of SPs are scattered around the countryside to guard bridges and crossroads and pick up any of the group they may nab. The town police are notified when the manoeuvre is in progress, and are instructed to toss any "prowlers" they may catch into the local jail.

Considerable initiative has been displayed by the boys in getting back. In one case, the night party learned in advance their time of departure. They did a hurried bit of phoning. When the van left the station carrying the coverall-clad party, a cruising taxi immediately started to follow at a safe distance. The boys were deposited in a desolated spot and the van disappeared. Minutes later the taxi appeared on the scene, and the jubilant crew followed the station van back to town. Having until morning to report, they decided to brush up on a few of the latest steps at the town struttery. At this point, however, their scheme ran amuk. Still wearing their very informal khaki dress, they were quite conspicuous, especially to an SP who dropped in. He promptly slapped the enterprising gentlemen in the sin-bin.

Obituary

MRS. S. W. WILDMAN

NORWOOD, July 5—(ENS)—The funeral was held on Monday afternoon of Mrs. S. W. Wildman, a resident of Norwood for many years. Born in Asphodel the daughter of John Fife and Margaret Drummond, Mary Fife lived in Asphodel until her marriage, coming to Norwood 32 years ago.

Mrs. Wildman has been in bed for the last three years.

She is survived by her husband and three daughters, Mrs. H. W. Walton (Marjorie) of Toronto; Mrs. J. E. Voyce (Blanche) of Toronto, and one daughter, Ruth, at home. One granddaughter, Lois Voyce of Toronto and a brother, James A. Fife of Edmonton survive. She was a member of the Presbyterian church.

The funeral took place from her late residence, Rev. Davey officiating, with interment in the Norwood cemetery. The pall-bearers were nephews, Harry Carter, Donald and Wilbert Hoare, Scott and Howard Fife and Stanley Fife.

little of what becomes of me. Oh, Mother, if you only knew how much I yearn for you arms about me. Oh, Father, if you only knew what I would give to have your wisdom and your strength to lean on, you would NEVER have left me. My heart is heavy because I am alone in the world.

IF YOU ONLY KNEW!

ANSWER—Let us hope that this pathetic prayer will reach the hearts of many a man and woman who are about to sacrifice their children to their own passions and pleasures, and that it will keep them from adding the helpless little creatures they brought into the world to the multitude of boys and girls who are the pitiful victims of every divorce.

39—Advanced Signals

BESIDES THE frequently used signals of the defense—in which your lowest card of a suit played in following suit or as a discard indicates lack of desire for leads of that suit, and an unnecessarily high one encourages its lead, and the second card of such a suit completes either a positive come-on echo or a discouraging one—the expert defensive player has quite an equipment of additional signals.

Here is one which occurs fairly often—if you lead the top of a trebleton, of three spot cards, your second play of the suit should be the middle card. Playing the bottom one would conventionally tell your partner you have no more. That information is occasionally vital against a suit contract especially, letting your partner know you are now out of the suit and can ruff the next lead of it.

Another one, called the "three trump echo," is employed only when the declarer's trump suit is being led. Playing a high-low then, consisting of your middle card followed by your lowest, tells your partner you have a third trump which is higher. As many fine players employ this, they never give this signal unless there is elsewhere in their hand a blank suit where the third trump can be used for ruffing. In such a case, the partner can generally tell what suit it is which can be ruffed.

A very unusual one, but quite important at the right time, is called the "block dummy" signal. Suppose the declarer in a No Trump contract has the lead in the dummy, which contains no side entries but a suit such as five headed by the king-queen-jack, while you have the ace with two other cards. As he leads one of those, you want to know when to play the ace. It is up to your partner to signal you as a guide. If he has exactly three cards of the suit, he should play his lowest first, then his next one. With any other number of cards, he should give you a high-low to say he has some other number than three cards.

Here's how this works out. If your partner puts the 6 on the first trick of the suit and the 2 on the second, you know he has not three. Therefore he must have two, and the declarer three. Hence, you must hold up your ace until the third round in order to block the dummy.

But suppose he played the 2 on the first trick and the 6 on the second. He is saying now that he has three cards of the suit. Hence the declarer has only two. So you come in with your ace on the second trick. To let that trick go by without using your ace would amount to giving the declarer a pure gift of a trick he could not take otherwise.

Sometimes you can tell from your partner's very first card exactly what he holds. If the situation were exactly as outlined, except that the dummy had a six-card major suit which he had rebid twice, and the declarer kept bidding his minor instead of supporting it, you know the declarer could not have three cards of it. If then your partner puts the 2 on the first lead, you know positively that he has three and the declarer only one, so you come in with your ace on the first trick.

Another rare signal is the suit-preference re-entry signal when seeking ruffs. Suppose you held against a spade game these seven diamonds, J-9-8-6-5-4-2, and nothing else of consequence except the heart ace. You lead a diamond, your partner ruffs it, and he wants to put you in the lead to give him another ruff. What will he return? A heart or a club? You must tell him. If your first lead was the 8 or 9, a high one, he must return the higher ranking suit, hearts. If it was your lowest, the 2, he must return a club. Every once in a while you will see a case in which this signal will defeat an otherwise unbeatable contract.

If you are fortunate enough to get partners who understand such advanced tactics, and you use them properly yourself, you will save thousands of points in a season.

Pastor's Brother Heads College

TORONTO, July 5 — (Special to Peterborough Examiner)—The appointment has been announced by President Walter T. Brown of Victoria University of Rev. Professor Fred W. Langford, B.A., M.R.E., D.D., to fill the newly created office of Dean of Emmanuel College, Theological institution of the United Church of Canada at Toronto, of which he has been professor for 25 years, Registrar for 12 years and is the Professor of Religious Pedagogy. His duties began on July first when he took over the training of the 24 ministerial candidates now finishing their accelerated wartime course and be ready for Ordination next month instead of next spring.

On the retirement of the late Principal Richard Davidson a year ago, the office of Principal was not filled. Dr. Langford, as Senior Professor, became chairman of the Council of the College for a year. Under the terms of a new Charter, obtained at the last session of the Ontario Legislature, Victoria University was empowered to have a Chancellor a vice-chancellor, who will be president and chief administrative officer. The Arts College, Victoria, and Theological College, Emmanuel, each will be headed by a Dean. Registrar Dr. Harold Bennett became Dean of Victoria Arts College, and now Dr. Langford Dean of Theology at Emmanuel. Dr. W. T. Brown has become Vice-Chancellor and President of the University, while the office of Chancellor is as yet unfilled.

Dr. Fred Langford is the last surviving member of a trio of brothers, all of whom attained positions of eminence as ministers and officials in the Methodist and United churches; the others were: Dr. Albert J. Langford, one time minister of Trinity United church, Peterborough, and Dr. Frank Langford, outstanding Religious Educationalist and Secretary for Religious Education of the Methodist and United churches.

In New Zealand

AUCKLAND, N.Z., July 5—(CP Cable)—Two officers of the Canadian forces recently inspected New Zealand forces in the Pacific, it was disclosed yesterday, indicating Canada's interest in the war against the Japanese. The officers are Maj. J. R. Boulanger of Quebec City and Capt. Roy Murdoch of Victoria, B.C.

Boulanger and Murdoch spent some weeks in the Solomon Islands with the 3rd Division of the New Zealand Expeditionary Force.

LONDON, July 5—(CP)—Fifteen-year-old Gwendoline nearly drove her family crazy that day some five years ago as she posed them on the beach of Normandy for a holiday picture. But she got a good snap—such a good one that on invasion day it, drove the Germans crazy.

Gwendoline didn't know that then. When the snap was developed, she put it away in the family album. It stayed there until about a year ago when an appeal went out for photographs of the French coast. Then, with 500,000 similar holiday pictures, it went to the British Admiralty to be studied by experts—who found what they had been looking for.

The picture showed the sea wall, letting them figure out its exact slope and height. In the corner of the picture, over the top of the picnic teapot, were spotted gaps in the seemingly impregnable cliffs.

The experts could see the slope of the beach, figure out the amount of seaweed. The excavation made by Gwendoline's baby brother even told them about the nature and texture of the beach itself.

That holiday snap had become a vital link in the whole chain of facts and figures without which the Normandy landings on D-day would have been impossible.

Germans Murder Soviet Children

LONDON, July 5 — (AP) — A story of the death of thousands of Russian children in German "blood donor camps" was told to-day by the Moscow radio.

Every child above the age of eight in the recently liberated Rogachev Bobruisk district was carried away in March and April, said the broadcast recorded by the Soviet Monitor.

The broadcast added:

"The Fascist child murderers pumped blood from the children into wounded officers and men. As a result of the great loss of blood, thousands of Soviet children perished.

"Many older children tried to run away. When the trains slowed down, they jumped out. The Germans opened fire."

ROBOT BOMBS KILL 2,752 BRITONS

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—German flying bombs have killed 2,752 persons and wounded 8,000 others since blind robot attacks, centred on London, started three weeks ago, Prime Minister Churchill disclosed to the House of Commons today. More than 10,000 of the casualties were in London, he said, announcing that children already were being sent from the capital as they were in the blitz days four years ago. As the Prime Minister gave a grim account for the first time of Hitler's new weapon the R. A. F. again smashed at launching bases on the French coast whence 2,750 of the robot bombs have been discharged on England in the past three weeks. Mr. Churchill said that "so far" about 50,000 tons of Allied bombs have been dropped on these targets.

More Britons have been killed by flying bombs in southern England than were killed in the first 15 days of the Battle of Normandy, Mr. Churchill disclosed. Although putting London on a blitz basis, with casualty lists to be announced monthly, the Prime Minister served notice that military operations in France came first.

"I do not want there to be any misunderstanding about it," he said. "We shall not allow the battle operations in Normandy or the attacks we are making against special targets in Germany to suffer."

To a House that had been demanding vengeance for robot warfare on civilians and had been uneasy over the government's secrecy, Mr. Churchill said this was his answer to "what are you going to do about it?"

Use Secret Defence

"Everything in human power, and we have never failed yet."

He did not describe the "various methods" being used against the winged bombs, other than air attacks, but he disclosed that a special committee with "a great number of scientists and engineers" at its disposal had been set up to advise on "offensive and defensive" methods of dealing with the bombs. The committee reports to Mr. Churchill personally.

Mr. Churchill rejected a request for a secret discussion saying he thought that would give an impression he had "not been frank."

Deep shelters hitherto regarded as a reserve now will be brought into use, he said, adding that Home Secretary Herbert Morrison ought to be congratulated "on having these up his sleeve."

The total of deaths Mr. Churchill reported would figure at the rate of More than 3,600 monthly—not so heavy as those inflicted by the Luftwaffe at its prime four years ago.

Monthly casualties during the blitz included: September, 1940, 6,976 deaths; October, 6,311; November, 5,003; December, 3,992; January, 1941, 1,648; February, 860; March 4,610; April 6,469; May 5,601; June 406.

Mr. Churchill disclosed about 8,000 persons had been injured seriously enough to be kept in hospitals.

This figure showed more Britons had been killed by flying bombs in Southern England than were killed in the first 15 days of the Battle of Normandy. A total of 1,842 Britons were killed in that period in France.

Mr. Churchill disclosed that flying bomb casualties occurred almost wholly in London. He said that "a very high proportion of the casual-

Reds Unleash Great Thrust Toward Pinsk City Units 45 Miles From Wilno

Terrific Air-Artillery Barrage Started As Offensive Rolls Nearer Boundaries of Lithuania and Latvia

By EDDY GILMORE, Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 6.—(AP).—The Red Army unleashed a great new thrust today in the direction of Pinsk and Brest Litovsk, while vanguards of Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's 3rd White Russian Army were reported within 45 miles of Wilno, gate- publics.

Like the beginning of the White Russian campaign, the new drive was launched with terrific artillery barrages operating with mighty air support. It was too early, however, to tell whether it was a general offensive.

Cherniakhovsky's advance on Wilno from the southeast carried through Smorgonie, where his cavalry units were only 140 miles from the borders of East Prussia, front dispatches said.

Other Soviet troops mopping up the Minsk region proceeded with the liquidation of the battered remnants of the German 12th and 27th Corps and the 39th Tank Corps.

Molodezno, the latest major point to fall to the sweeping Russian offensive, was one of the mainstays of the Germans' 90-mile Vileika-Nesvizh Line, and a junction of the Minsk-Vilno and Polotsk-Lida railroads.

The way now appeared open for a simultaneous advance by Cherniakhovsky's 3rd White Russian Army and Gen. Ivan Begramian's 1st Baltic Army in Lithuania and Latvia.

There was no confirmation in Moscow of a German report that the vital communications centre of Kowel, 215 miles southwest of Minsk had been evacuated by Nazi troops.

(The Moscow radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Soviet Monitor in London, said the Germans were counter-attacking in the Baranowicze area 81 miles southwest of Minsk, using infantry, tanks and aircraft. "Particularly fierce fighting is going on," the broadcast said.

(Reuter News Agency quoted the Moscow radio as saying other German counter-attacks were reported west of Molodezno, but declaring "the Red Army, however, is sweeping the Germans away in its drive to the west.")

Great waves of dive bombers hunted out German salients in the Pinsk marshes, blasting them from low levels and driving the Nazis along the few roads leading back toward the Gorin River and Pinsk.

Military observers in Moscow saw in this new activity through the difficult marshes a challenge to Hitler's whole central position and, if coupled with the southern White Russian offensive, believed it should carry straight to Brest, Litovsk and Warsaw.

Yesterday Bagramtan was 38 to 40 miles east of the railway in the region of St. Myadziol, 40 miles north of Molodezno, and today Cherniakhovsky approached points nearly the same distance away as he moved on from Smorgonie.

To the south of these two powerful pushes, Russian troops rolling on west of Minsk toward Baranowize, in a fierce, storming fight reached a place 18 miles away, dispatches said.

The Red Army is crossing the Viliya River west of Smorgonie, according to a dispatch from Red Star Correspondent Nyakov Miletzky, and numerous Germans are fleeing down sideroads with the main escape route to Wilno shut.

8th Army Units Closing In On Arezzo City

BY NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ROME, July 6 — (AP) — Indian troops of the British 8th Army have reached the outskirts of Umbertide in the Upper Tiber Valley and are threatening the main road to Florence west of Arezzo, Allied headquarters announced today as stiffening German resistance brought the Allied 5th Army's advance up the Italian west coast to a virtual standstill.

American advance units along the coast were reported in the vicinity of Castiglioncello, some 10 miles south of Livorno (Leghorn), but they were encountering heavy fire from all types of German weapons, including 170-mm. rifles with a range up to 20 miles.

The Germans launched four fierce counter-attacks yesterday against Americans holding half the town of Rosignano, but all were beaten off.

Gain 1½ Miles

Further inland heavy fighting also was reported in the outskirts of Castellina, but United States tank forces succeeded in driving 1½ miles northeast of Monte Catini under sharp fire from enemy troops lodged on high ground outside the town.

An official spokesman declared "the enemy is particularly nervous about 5th Army movements and is keeping all highways under constant artillery fire."

Northwest of Siena the 5th Army was reported encountering remnants of the 162nd Turcoman and 29th Panzer Divisions.

Umbertide, an important highway junction, was reached by 8th Army troops yesterday after they had

British Civilians Constantly Watch Skies Dive To Ground When Robot Bombs Heard

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press War Correspondent

IN SOUTHERN ENGLAND, July 6 (AP)—British civilians are developing "fighter pilot's neck" by constantly turning their heads to watch the skies for robot bombs, just as fighter pilots keep turning to watch for enemy planes.

Cartoonists are having fun drawing pictures of civilians with one ear bigger than the other because it is constantly turned skyward. Pedestrians freeze and strain to filter out ordinary traffic noises from the sickening hum of the flying bombs. When the motor is heard, everyone stands still and holds his breath until it gets louder and louder. If the motor cuts off, everyone in the area hits the ground or the floor. The roar of the bombs is so loud that everyone within a square mile feels as though it is passingly directly over his particular head.

I you are driving a car you can't hear, so must watch the people in the streets....If they start to gaze skyward or run for doorways, you grab your hand brake and dive into the gutter.

Some buildings now have roof spotters who press buttons when it looks as if a bomb is coming directly overhead. The occupants then step into the corridors.

Canadians In Carpiquet Repulse 4 German Drives

By ROSS MUNRO, Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 6.—(CP Cable).—Canadians in the shell-shattered village of Carpiquet have thrown back four German counter-attacks and a Canadian general said "the position is being maintained and improved."

He added: "The troops are showing grim determination under heavy fire and there has been savage fighting."

All afternoon (Wednesday) there have been exchanges of gun and mortar fire on this Carpiquet sector. The Germans are using their Nebelwerfers, multi-barrelled pocket mortars, and these "Moaning Minnies" are raining big wailing projectiles every 10 minutes or so in and around Carpiquet or along the wooded areas and slopes to the west of the village.

The enemy also is shelling the Carpiquet area, but the Canadian infantry, tank crews machine-gunners and sappers who captured the village in hard fighting have not given up a yard despite the fact the enemy now holds the southern side of the airfield and still has guns and mortars in the towns north of the village.

The Canadians also were subjected to fire from the Caen area, but they are dug in deeply and are making the village a little fortress. In some instances they improved the elaborate German positions, some of them going underground 20 to 30 feet.

Later six enemy tanks struck at Carpiquet from the south-east against positions held by French-speaking Canadians supported by a gallant machine-gun platoon. This attack also was driven off with one tank definitely destroyed and two damaged.

The Germans kept milling around three sides of the Canadian salient and two more attacks were put in before they finally were pulled back about 9 a.m. The enemy then concentrated on mortaring and shelling.

Enemy Using Mobile Guns.

Canadian and British artillery regiments massed around Carpiquet are shooting up every gun and mortar position they can spot, but the enemy is using some mobile guns and mortars and after firing a few salvos jumps to another position.

From 3 a.m. to 9 a.m. Wednesday German infantry and tanks made four attacks against Carpiquet. At one time about a dozen Nazi tanks infiltrated into the village, but they were cleared out after running into intense fire from anti-tank guns and Vickers machine-guns.

One counter-attack by the enemy was made from the north-east and in the darkness tanks rumbled in followed by German infantry "shouting their heads off," according to a Saskatoon lieutenant-colonel.

The colonel said there appeared to be a mass of German infantry from the information he had, but the attack was broken up by an Eastern Canada regiment firing from trenches and dug-in gun positions along the fringe of Carpiquet, the buildings of which now are mere rubble heaps.

Canadian and British artillery was active during the enemy coun-

25,000 Japanese Face Slaughter

PEARL HARBOR, July 6 (AP)—Impending slaughter of Japanese, massed body to body for a last ditch stand on Saipan, and the swift seizure of a second enemy airfield 800 miles southeast of the Philippines added emphasis today to a prediction by Admiral Nimitz.

"We are moving westward across the Pacific as rapidly as we can," the admiral said at a press conference. "And we continue to view the future with confidence."

Howard Handleman, representing the combined Allied press, reported today from aboard a flagship off Saipan that thousands of Japs, squeezed into the northeastern eighth of the island, awaited the inevitable.

"The Japs, resigned to death and defeat, lay body to body in caves and pillboxes for a final, frantic gesture against Americans they know they can't halt," he said.

Massed with them were many of the island's 25,000 Japanese civilians, whose role in the bloody showdown was a source of conjecture.

At Noemfoor in Dutch New Guinea's Geelvink Bay, where Allied SouthWest Pacific ground forces are 1,000 miles closer to the Philippines than they were a year ago, capture of Karnasoren airfield was announced today by General MacArthur.

LONDON—The German agency, DNB, today announced that Marshal Von Rundstedt has been replaced by Field Marshal Von Kluege.

LONDON—Reuters in a dispatch from Chungking today said that air reconnaissance shows the Japanese are retreating on both the Hengyang and Loyang fronts in the face of vigorous Chinese counter-attacks.

Try To Sell Million Rifles Which Are Not In Existence

WASHINGTON, July 6 — (AP) — In a tale of "sheer fantasy," the United States State Department reported today that a group of American traders has been trying for three years to sell various Allied Nations 1,000,000 U.S. Army rifles that do not exist and 1,000,000,000 rounds of .30-calibre ammunition —also imaginary.

Officials finally decided to make the story public because they were tired of the "extremely difficult situations" they say were created between the United States government and almost every other Allied government by the sales activities.

The information came out in the official department of State bulletin in an article by James M. Ludlow, an official of the Department's Munitions Control Unit.

None of the "promoters," as Ludlow calls the peddlers of the ghost guns, is named. And none has ever succeeded in actually making a sale. Both the State and Justice Departments have tried vainly, it was said, to have the activities stopped.

Here, says Ludlow's account, is what happened;

After the war started in Europe the War Department announced it had a "quantity of rifles" to sell to friendly governments for approximately $12.50 a gun.

"One of the persons who saw the letter apparently decided that by finding a purchaser for the government he could earn some easy money.

"He promised commissions to individuals who would help him; these persons in turn appointed their own agents."

Meanwhile the War Department shipped the rifles off to Britain in 1940 after the evacuation of Dunkerque and there were hardly enough guns left to train American forces with. But this, according to Ludlow, did not slow down the mushrooming sales plan, which today is still going strong.

Young Dane Steals German Plane

STOCKHOLM, July 6—(AP)—Swedish anti-aircraft winged a German plane early today over Helsingborg and when it crashed in the water, out popped a 19-year-old Dane who said he had stolen the plane and started for England.

He gave the name of Hoest and said he worked as a laborer at the Copenhagen airport for two weeks and without German knowledge, gassed up a Heinkel-111 and took off before the Nazis knew what was happening.

Swedish military police fished him from the water unhurt and took him into military custody.

Passports No Longer Required By Canadians Going To U.S.A.

OTTAWA, July 6—(CP)—Canadians and Britons living or stationed in Canada now may cross the border into the United States for visits of 29 days or less with nothing more than a motor driving licence or a national registration card to identify them, it was learned today.

A government spokesman, commenting on an external affairs statement reviewing travel restrictions between the two countries, suggested anyone seeking to cross the border on a registration card alone might do well to carry some other document, such as a personal letter addressed to them, to serve as further identification.

But he expressed belief that in most cases a registration card alone would suffice.

The external affairs statement, amplifying recently-announced United States relaxation of restrictions, said Canadians and British subjects now may enter the United States for short visits without a passport, visa or border-crossing card.

The department added that if the emergency which forced the two governments to impose travel barriers become "less acute, it is expected that it may be possible to make further modification . . . "

The statement, issued jointly by the two governments to "summarize and explain" the restrictions, reviewed at length the various travel barriers established since July, 1940.

It referred to the recent United States action in relaxing regulations to permit Canadian citizens and British subjects domiciled, permanently living or stationed in Canada to enter the United States for visits of 29 days or less without use of passport, visa or border-crossing card.

It added, in explanation:

"The relaxation in the requirements for travel across the border between Canada and the United States will not deprive citizens of Canada domiciled therein or other British subjects domiciled or residing in Canada of the privilege of obtaining border-crossing cards or continuing to use such cards, issued on or after Nov. 14, 1941, for border crossing purposes.

Also mentioned was the Canadian government decision in May to permit Canadian residents to obtain up to $150 a year in United States funds for pleasure travel in the United States.

Three Prong Air Assault Hits Railways, Robot Bases

LONDON, July 6—(CP)—About 1,000 U.S. heavy bombers attacked northwest Germany, enemy air fields in France and flying-bomb grounds in the Pas de Calais department today, after a night in which more than 500 R.A.F. heavy bombers struck another big blow at the movement of German counter - invasion reinforcements from the east, blasting Dijon, railroad centre 160 miles southeast of Paris.

While the heavy bombers were making their three-prong attack, hundreds of Allied medium and light bombers assaulted railroad lines leading to the Normandy front. Targets of the American heavy bombers were not immediately specified.

In addition to the Dijon assault, other R.A.F. heavy and light bombers hit buzz-bomb installations in France, and attacked synthetic oil works in the Ruhr for the second successive night.

More than 300 Allied Marauder and Havoc bombers, in one of the heaviest operations since D-day, made 30 attacks on these railroad lines: St. Malo-Rennes, St. Hilaire du Harcourt-Fougeres-Vitre, Argentan-Lemans, St. Flers-Fomfront-La Chappelle and Nogentleroutrou.

Many are in the gap south of the battlefields between the Seine and Loire rivers, over which most bridges have been destroyed. The assaults were a high-pressured continuation of the campaign started well before the invasion to isolate the Normandy battle area.

Germany possibly was under coordinated attack from Italy and Britain, for radio Berlin asserted that other American bombers and fight-

64 Coal Miners Feared Lost

BELLAIRE, O., July 6—(AP)—A desperate struggle to save 64 coal miners trapped by fire in the Powhatan mine was abandoned today when fresh flames drove back rescue crews.

Fifteen hours after the fire broke out, State Mine Inspector R. McGee announced there was no chance of bringing out the men alive and that the burning area, two miles from the shaft entrance, was being sealed.

Before the fire got out of control rescue workers had cut a new tunnel 500 feet through coal and rock in a vain effort to by-pass the flames and reach the men.

The fire broke out at 1 p.m. E.D.T. yesterday when a rock fall broke a high-voltage trolley and sparks ignited coal near the junction of the main passageway and a 3,600-foot dead-end corridor in which the victims were working.

The mine, the largest soft coal pit in Ohio, is operated by the Powhatan Mining Company, 15 miles south of here.

No Word Received

No word has been received from the men since the fire broke out.

Up until 4 a.m. today, when sealing of the burning area was decided upon, Marcus Kerr, chief of the state division of mines, had expressed belief the men could be reached.

Charles E. Young, assistant superintendent of the mine, had asserted that if these men could have barricaded themselves properly, they

May Use Robot Bombs Against New York

HOLLYWOOD, July 6 (AP)—Possibility that an attack on the Atlantic coast may be attempted by the Nazis with rocket bombs or planes catapulted from U-boat trailers was advanced by Louis P. Lochner, former chief of the Berlin bureau of the Associated Press, in his news commentary on the NBC network.

"As a measure of desperation, and in order to bolster up home morale, the Nazis may actually one unexpected day release rocket bombs on our Atlantic coast, aiming them, I suppose, at New York," said Lochner.

Fierce Fight Continues In Caen Area

Americans Capture Three Villages Near Objective

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE July 6 (CP)—American forces battering southward on the Cherbourg Peninsula have captured three villages near La Haye du Puits while British and Canadian forces are engaging powerful German concentrations immediately west of Caen.

Supreme headquarters, disclosing this late today, also announced that the French underground army has liberated whole sections of France.

Villages seized by American forces in their drive to outflank La Haye du Puits are Glatigny, four miles southwest of La Haye; Scorman, west of the besieged town and near the west coast of the peninsula, and La Butte, six miles east of La Haye.

American troops entered La Haye, a road and rail junction yesterday, and fighting continues in and around it.

The American push east of La Haye carried the troops to the edge of the Marais de Gorges, a marshy tract of land southwest of Carentan.

The Supreme Command announced that 1,313 square miles of Normandy had been liberated—an average of about 43 square miles a day since D-day, exactly one month ago.

Shaef said the British and Canadian troops in the Caen sector near the eastern end of the bridgehead clung doggedly to Carpiquet, three miles west of the German-held city, and that fighting continued for the Caen airfield just south of Carpiquet.

Chinese Block Japanese Drive

CHUNGKING, July 6.—(AP). — Spirited attacks on the enemy in many sectors of the Hunan and Kwangtung fronts, combined with determined resistance in defence of the vital Hunan province railway town of Hengyang, are combining to take a heavy toll of Japanese troops striving for complete control of the Canton-Hankow railroad, the Chinese High Command announced last night.

A communique estimated the Japanese had lost more than 6,000 dead, including a high commanding officer, in the last 10 days of bitter fighting in the outer defences and various suburban districts of Hengyang.

Striking on both sides of the Siang river, Chinese troops took a large number of enemy strong points, the communique said.

On the Kwangtung front farther south the Chinese reported the recapture of Longmoon, some 80 miles northeast of Canton.

American heavy bombers raided Canton the night of July 3, starting fires visible 100 miles away, Lt.-Gen. Stilwell's Headquarters announced to-day.

War Labor Board Dismisses 2 Appeals By Union Groups

OTTAWA, July 6 — (CP) — The National War Labor Board today heard and dismissed two appeals by Unions against decisions of the Ontario War Labor Board.

One case affected employees of William Kennedy and Sons, Ltd., Owen Sound, and the other material handlers and truckeres at the General Motors Plant, Oshawa.

At the Owen Sound plant the Union had sought a general increase of 10 cents an hour. The Regional Board provided a 45-50 cent range for the common labor rate in place of a straight 45-cent rate and made increases in some other classifications.

The United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.), represented by John Mitchell of Hamilton, District Director, held that the wages paid in the plant were inadequate for a proper standard of living. The Company, through its counsel, C.C. Calvin, Toronto, said the rates compared favorably with those paid in other Owen Sound plants and in comparable communities. The Company has some 400 employees affected by the decision.

In the General Motors case the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) asked that the rate for truckers and material handlers be increased from 77 to 82 cents, for key men in those categories from 82 to 88 cents and group leaders 87 to 92 cents. Tom MacLean of Windsor, Ont., Assistant Regional Director, presented the Union case.

T. D. Delamere, Company counsel, said the Company had no objection to establishment of a range of rates but was opposed to a flat direction to pay to top rate.

Mr. Justice M. B. Archibald, Chairman of the Board, said he and the other Board members, John Bell and Leon LaLande, felt the Ontario Board had given careful consideration and had failed to find evidence of gross inequality required by the Wage Control Order.

Seiches Cause Lake Levels To Drop Sharply

OTTAWA, July 6.—(CP).—Hydrographic experts of the Mines and Resources Department to-day issued a memorandum on a series of "seiches" which occurred on Lake Huron June 18 and described them as the "sharpest and largest" recorded at Goderich, Ont., during the 30 years water level records have been kept there.

Seiches are caused by drop in the air pressure over one part of the surface of the lake as compared with the pressure on the rest of the lake. As an area of low pressure moves across the lake, the water surface under it raises and the water is consequently drawn off from other parts of the lake, causing a sudden fall in levels, often in distant points.

The memorandum was prompted by unofficial reports reaching the hydrographic service of the Department's surveys and engineering branch that the violent changes in water levels on that day were due to a tidal wave, caused by the moon.

"This was a misnomer," an expert told The Canadian Press. "Lunar action had nothing to do with it.

The figures from Goderich are the official records nearest to the centre of the disturbance. Unofficial reports show that the seiches were more pronounced north of that town, where levels changed four feet in a few minutes. While this was a record for Lake Huron, it has been exceeded on Lake Superior.

ter-attacks and gave strong support to the Carpiquet garrison. German tanks were the only thing that worked their way into the outskirts of the village and they all got a hot reception.

Village Is Wrecked.

Lieut. Tommy Thompson of Charlottetown, who went into Carpiquet with a French-speaking unit as special liaison officer, said: "Nothing is left standing in the village. Our colossal barrage just blew it to pieces."

Another officer, Lieut. Huntley Turley of Montreal, just back from Carpiquet to Headquarters with reports after going in with a Central Canada unit, said: "Carpiquet looks like Bretteville. Even the corrugated iron hangars with their steel girders are smashed up."

He said his outfit had a fairly easy time going in but four hours after the troops were in position, Royal Canadian Engineers with them ferreted out between 20 and 25 Germans from fortified underground defence points. The Sappers were under command of Maj. Douglas Cunnington, G.M., of Calgary, who was a former personal assistant to General McNaughton, former commander of the Canadian Army overseas.

One platoon which blew the Germans out with explosive charges was led by Lieut. Johnny Yeats of Calgary.

No Booby Traps.

The Sappers were a great help to the infantry and tanks, but curiously did not find any booby traps in the village.

Turley spent the night in Carpiquet during counter-attacks on the eastern end of the town. He said snipers prowled around other parts of the perimeter trying to draw Canadian fire. But the battle-wise Canadians didn't give away their positions by shooting at mere snipers.

RUSS AND POLISH LABORERS FREED—Smiling broadly and cheering their liberation these ex-slaves who toiled for the Nazis in the "Organization Todt" are pictured after they were freed by American forces advancing toward Cherbourg. Impressed into the infamous Labor Battalions after German occupation of their home district in Poland and Russia, they were forced to labor at building the now-cracked "Atlantic Wall" and other fortifications. They were threatened with immediate death by their Nazi overlords if they attempted to leave their posts to go to the advancing Allies.

Members Want Home Army Used For Reinforcements

BY JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 6 — (CP) — With the budget debate expected to reach an end today, the Commons yesterday devoted its half-day session to discussions of the government's policies on income tax and compulsory military service.

In the fifth day of the budget debate two Progressive Conservative members Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South) and H. R. Jackman (PC-Toronto Rosedale) called for raising of income tax exemptions and making the home army available for overseas service.

Three Liberals participated in the debate, Justice Minister St. Laurent supporting the government's income tax plan and Ross Macdonald (L-Brantford City) opposing increased tax exemptions and favoring the home army being kept available for reinforcements. Dr. F. W. Gershaw (L-Medicine Hat) urged a more generous policy to meet needs of western drought areas.

Mr. Macdonald said Canadian wage earners paid lower taxes than those in other countries of the United Nations and any reduction would be resented by men on the fighting fronts.

Turning to criticism of the government's army policy he said:

"The only conclusion that anyone can come to is that the Conservative party would disband the home defence army and send them back to civilian life to pick off all the good civilian jobs before the boys return from overseas."

Expenses Justified

"You keep the the home defence army in Alaska and let the Americans fight," Rodney Adamson (PC—York West) interjected.

"That is one thing that I will oppose with all my strength," Mr. Macdonald replied.

Expenditures on the home army were well justified to assure reinforcements should they be needed.

Mr. Macdonald said the home defence troops were highly trained and should be held as reinforcements for overseas. There was no telling when reinforcements would be needed.

If the advice of the Progressive Conservative party was followed, and there were no reinforcements when needed then "Canadians would hang their heads in shame for years to come."

He said that before adopting the proposal to eliminate customs duties on all agricultural implements consideration should be given to the possible effect on workers in Canadian plants. While general reduction in tariffs was anticipated in the post-war period it was to be by multilateral arrangements.

Would Raise Exemptions.

Mr. Green said the budget failed to meet the needs of the common people. Income tax forms should be simplified and better provision made for dealing with appeals to avoid the danger of bureaucracy in administering tax collection.

Raising the exemption for single persons to $800 and for married persons to $1,600 would help the average Canadian prepare for post-war conditions.

Support to fighting units was of the utmost importance and trained troops should be used as reinforcements.

"It is just not good enough to send over half-trained youngsters because they have enough spirit to volunteer," he said.

"...This manpower policy of the government is not frank, it is not courageous, but it is political."

"I think it can be fairly described as a disgrace to Canada and a government that will continue such a policy at this critical time in the nation's history certainly is not fit to lead the Canadian people in the difficult years they are about to face."

Maintenance of the home defence in Canada could be blamed directly on the government. Most of the men in the home army would not object to going overseas under a policy of frank conscription, but they did not know why they should volunteer.

Gen. G. R. Parkes, Pacific Coast commander, and Brig. W. H. S. Macklin of Vancouver, commander of an infantry brigade, had appealed to home defence troops in Canada to go active. Brig. Macklin had stated that anyone who wore the army unfirom should not be ashamed to wear it anywhere.

Gen. Pearkes and Brig. Macklin had made reports to the government on their appeals. These reports should be made public.

Mr. St. Laurent dealt particularly with a prediction of Hon. R. B. Hanson (PC—York-Sunbury) that Liberal members who opposed the Progressive Conservative attitude on income tax exemptions would be defeated in industrial ridings at the next election.

Stressing the help being given by French interior troops, the Supreme Command in a special communique said these forces were engaged in fighting on a large scale against regular German Army units.

Areas liberated by the French were named as the district of Vercors, southwest of the Swiss border; part of the Department of Gers, between Bordeaux and Toulouse in southern France; the Department of Doubs, just west of the Swiss frontier; the Department of Ain, northwest of the Swiss frontier; the Department of Ardeche, on the west side of the Rhone Valley in southern France.

Doing Grand Job

"This fighting is not a question of picking off stragglers or small units but of bearing the brunt of heavy German attacks and engaging regular German Army units," Supreme Headquarters explained.

It added that in 10 days the French Underground had caused 24 train derailments, destroyed two tunnels and caused wholesale delays in German troop movements, including a whole trainload of tanks.

Several armored vehicles have been captured and 150 Germans killed and 15 prisoners taken in one engagement alone. Loss of 29 Allied aircraft was announced in action yesterday and up to early today.

Field Marshal Rommel is reported throwing tanks and infantry lavishly into the Carpiquet region in which the Allied forces also are packed so densely that manoeuvre is difficult.

The three-mile divisional front concentration achieved by the Germans—said to be heavier than any concentration they employed in either the First Great War or the present conflict—has been reached on several sectors of the front.

Today's Allied communique No. 61 said "our positions at Carpiquet have been held."

Canadians Hold

In a dispatch last night, Ross Munro, chief Canadian Press war correspondent in the field, quoted a Canadian general as saying the Canadian position around Caen "is being maintained and improved," and that Canadian troops were "showing grim determination under heavy fire."

Hand-to-hand fighting for control of the airfield adjacent to the village of Carpiquet is continuing, and the mile-long strip is no man's land, an officer-observer reported to Supreme Headquarters.

He said three sets of two huge hangars had been destroyed.

"German tanks can be seen moving among the remains of the hangars and shells whistle from both sides of the airdrome," he said, adding:

"Dead Germans lie around the tracks (of the Bayeux-Carpiquet railroad) and dead cattle lie in the adjoining fields."

The airdrome, built in 1938, is one of the best in Normandy and has been used extensively by the Germans.

Troops Close Packed.

The close-packing of the troops leaves little opportunity for wide flanking moves.

The destiny of the German troops facing the Americans is roughly half that of the Germans around Caen, but more difficult terrain in the Cherbourg peninsula is to the advantage of the Germans there.

It was agreed here that a deluge of high explosives from the air and a mighty artillery barrage are needed to crack a hole in the German lines around Caen. To-day's clearing weather gave promise of the most intense air activity for three weeks.

Front dispatches indicated that medium bombers, which have been inactive over the battle area for several days, struck last night and this morning in and around Caen.

American troops forcing their way south on the Cherbourg Peninsula past La Haye reached Las du Jardins, three miles southwest, while another column penetrated the forest du Mont Castre, three miles southeast of the town, and battled the German 17th Panzer Grenadiers for possession of vital high ground in the wooded region.

As the infantry advanced virtually foot by foot against the stubborn Germans, Australian and New Zealand Mosquitos gave support during the night. The pilots reported heavy artillery duelling along the 17 miles of the battle front on the Cherbourg Peninsula.

The German air force took advantage of a cloud cover yesterday to challenge the Allied air supremacy in isolated sectors but lost 35 planes in the air against 17 for the Allies. Four other German planes were destroyed on the ground.

A naval announcement said German E-boats and 100-ton mine-laying R-boats had made their most serious attempt to interfere with Allied invasion shipping.

Several German flotillas struck from Le Havre but ran into British light coastal forces protecting the eastern flank of the anchorages. In one battle nine of the enemy vessels were engaged and two R-boats were sunk. The restof the Germans fled.

could have held out five or six days.

On the other hand, Adolph Pacifico, vice-president of District Six, United Mine Workers, had asserted late yesterday:

"I do not think they will find one of them alive."

Scores of relatives of the entombed men were waiting hopefully at the mine entrance when officials announced that the shaft must be sealed.

Closing the shaft will cut off the oxygen supply and the fire will burn itself out. It must remain sealed for several weeks before workers can return to remove the bodies of the victims.

In the mine when the fire started were 199 men. All but the 64, however, were in areas from which they could reach exits safely. The mine currently employed 850 men.

Immediately upon receiving the news, George Emery, a 45-year-old foreman and father of four children, went into the pit to help the trapped men. Hours later he had not returned.

crushed determined enemy resistance just south of the town, which is 42 miles east of Siena and 65 miles southeast of Florence.

One 8th Army column was only three miles from the important road centre of Arezzo after struggling through mud and elaborate German demolitions. At one point the Germans blew out 120 feet of roadway to impede pursuit.

Allied headquarters reported a bitter battle in progress eight miles south of Ancona near the Adriatic coast. In that area the 8th Army occupied Badia and San Sabino, retaining the latter against a counter-attack.

Castelfidardo also was taken, and directly on the coast the Allied troops entered the outskirts of Numana.

On the 5th Army's rigtht wing, French troops battered through German opposition to Highway 68 between Colle Di Val D'Elsa and Volterra in fresh advances of one to four miles. The French also thrust out some eight miles north and west of Siena, meeting the greatest opposition at Abbadia and Monte Riggioni to the northwest.

R.A.F. bombers hammered the rail yards at Verona in northern Italy last night, a few hours after American 8th and 15th Air Force bombers had pummeled targets in southern France. Heavy bombers attacked railyards at Montpellier and teamed with others in attacking Benziers. Other four-engined craft concentrated bombs on submarine pens at Toulon.

Ten heavy bombers and one other Allied plane were lost. Three enemy fighters were shot down.

ties—a little over 10,000 severe or mortal" have been in the metropolis. That compared with an over-all total of about 10,752—2,752 killed and 8,000 wounded badly enough to be confined in hospitals.

Send Children Away

Children already are being sent away from the capital, the Prime Minister disclosed, and the evacuation of others is not being discouraged since "we do not want more people in London than are required for business and the purpose of peace and war."

Mr. Churchill said that in addition to children, non-essential civilians would be encouraged to leave London but that all others must remain at their posts.

Tossing aside a hypothetical suggestion that parliament move away from London, Mr. Churchill growled:

"Here we began the war and here we will see it ended."

The House cheered.

The German radio reacted promptly, asserting that "Churchill made no attempt to minimize the effects of the flying bomb." It asserted that "Churchill defended himself against charges that the British government had almost completely prevented discussion of the effects of V-1 (robot bomb) and that counter-measures were insufficient."

About 50,000 tons of Allied bombs have been dropped "so far" on flying bomb and rocket targets in France and Germany, Mr. Churchill said.

"Quite a considerable proportion of our flying power has been diverted from other forms of offensive activity," the Prime Minister continued. "The Germans have sacrificed a good deal on manufacturing strength which could have increased their fighter and bomber force.

"It is yet to be decided whose effort will suffer most in the process."

Mr. Churchill said he could give "no guarantee" about the future of this form of Germany's attack.

He recalled that when he visited scene of flying-bomb damage last Saturday the only question asked of him was "What are you going to do about it?"

He said he replied, "Everything in human power, and we have never failed yet."

Many Fail To Land

With ringing tones the Prime Minister recalled his bulldog defiance when London was getting its heaviest doses of bombs dropped by planes more than three years ago during the blitz. He concluded with this proud boast:

"London will never be conquered and will never fail in her renown. Triumphing over ever ordeal, her light will long shine among men."

Between 100 and 150 flying bombs have been sent over daily, Mr. Churchill reported, but he added that "a very large proportion" failed to cross the channel or were shot down or destroyed by "various methods"—which he did not describe.

Mr. Churchill said that "casualty and first aid services in greater London were working excellently. They are not at all strained beyond their capacity."

"The flying bomb is a weapon literally and essentially indiscriminate in its nature, purpose and effect," the Prime Minister declared.

He said "The time has come when a wider field of discussion can be opened."

Not Under-rated

"It would be a mistake to underrate the serious character of this particular form of attack. It has never been under-rated in the secret circles of the government."

As the Prime Minister spoke, Allied bombers were continuing their persistnt efforts to destroy the pilotless planes in their nests on the French coast.

Mr. Churchill spoke of the "bombardment of London," and thus disclosed officially for the first time that flying bombs had landed on the British capital.

"If it had not been for the bombing operations in France and Germany, the bombardment of London would no doubt have started perhaps six months earlier and on a very much heavier scale," Mr. Churchill told a House which had been restive under the government's policy of secrecy concerning the winged bombs.

The Prime Minister said the British intelligence got its first information early in 1943 that the Germans were developing a long-range weapon for the bombardment of London and that counter-measures were studied immediately.

The bomber command sent its full strength against rocket bomb installations in Germany last August, Mr. Churchill said.

"Very great damage was done the enemy," he continued, ". . . and a number of key German scientists including the head scientist who all were dwelling in a so-called-through-joy establishment were killed."

Mr. Churchill was cheered when he said:

"I must say a word about our American friends and allies in London, from the highest official to the ordinary soldier whom one meets. They have in every way made common cause with us and have been forthcoming as helpers with assistance of every kind. No one can visit a bombed site where an explosion has recently taken place but see how very quickly they are upon the scene and give a helping hand to anyone in distress.

"The same is true of the great headquarters under General Eisenhower where they are conducting this great battle (in Normandy) and where, apart from that, every conceivable assistance is given our forces and aid services."

ers approaching south Germany and Austria. The night blows at Dijon were aimed at checking enemy reinforcements and supplies moving to the Norman battlefields.

Weather Clear

Fighters and fighter-bombers flying with the U.S. heavies in the widespread daylight assaults dive-bombed and strafed unspecified targets.

Better weather placed the aerial offensive on a round-the-clock basis again, even though Prime Minister Churchill said "a considerable proportion of our flying power has been diverted" against the robot bomb launching platforms in the Pas de Calais department of France.

Squadrons of Mosquitos bombed a synthetic oil plant in the Ruhr near Gelsenkirchen, leaving it wreathed in smoke two miles high. Other industrial targets were hit in western Germany and four Nazi ships creeping down the coast toward the Frisian Islands, felt the crash of R. A.F. Wellington bombs.

R.A.F. heavies without loss hurled a "great weight of bombs at the ancient city of Dijon, 100 miles west of the Swiss border. The Germans have been forced to shift much transport to this roundabout route, due to disruption of other lines.

Support Americans

Australians and New Zealand Mosquitoes gave Americans on the continent front powerful support last night, similar to the aid supplied by American fighter-bombers yesterday to British and Canadian units on the Caen front.

As American artillery flashed below, the twin-engine planes bombed and cannoned German forest camps, railroad and highway transport lines and bridges at Villedieu, Hyenville, Portfaroy and other points at the base of the Cherbourg Peninsula.

The German target of the Mosquitos was at Buer-Scholven, near the mush-pounded Gelsenkirchen works. Large fires were started, with smoke columns towering two miles.

Apart from the Normandy support operations, only six planes were lost from the hundreds involved in the R.A.F. night operations.

Close support on the Caen front was climaxed late last night by an attack by rocket-firing Typhoons on tanks on the Carpiquet airfield edge.

German air opposition continued intensive but on a small scale. Yesterday's score was 35 Germans shot down, compared with a loss of 17 Allied planes.

A Mother's Whim

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 29—(AP).—Unwilling to disappoint her husband, a marine sergeant who had been in the South Pacific 27 months, Mrs. Helen Kreger, 23, admitted abducting a two-year-old girl to replace her baby who died at birth, Detective Inspector Harlan Gibbs reported today. She was booked in the city jail on a kidnapping charge. The baby was returned to her mother last night.

OBITUARIES

MRS. W. J. HICKEY

A large congregation of friends of the late Mrs. W. J. Hickey, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital after an illness of only two days, attended her funeral from the J. J. Duffus funeral home to St. Peter's Cathedral.

Requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. John T. Finn, rector of the Cathedral assisted by Rev. K. Malane as deacon and Rev. Father Marrocco as subdeacon, and present in the sanctuary were Very Rev. Dean McAuley of Lindsay and Rev. Kevin Corkery.

Mrs. George Pope of Windsor, sister of the deceased, was present, accompanied by her husband. The funeral rites were concluded at St. Peter's Cemetery where Dean McAuley offered the committal prayers, assisted by Father Corkery.

Beautiful flowers reflected the deep esteem in which the late Mrs. Hickey was held in this community of her birth, and also their sympathy for Mr. Hickey in his untimely bereavement.

MRS. MARY ANN KNOWLES

Born in Otonabee township seventy years ago, Mrs. Mary Ann Knowles of Keene died early this morning at Nicholls Hospital. She was a daughter of Thomas Coward and Jane Kent.

Mrs. Knowles was a life long resident of Otonabee. Her husband predeceased her some years ago. She is survived by one daughter (Jean) Mrs. James Wood of South Monaghan and her family, and one brother, Maynard Coward of Otonabee.

The funeral will take place Saturday, July 8 to Keene Cemetery. The remains will be resting at Mather Funeral Home until 2 p.m. on Saturday, and the service will be held at Keene United Church at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. George Murray.

Ban Premier's Speech From Quebec Stations

OTTAWA, July 6—(CP)—Conforming with CBC regulations prohibiting political broadcasting on an election eve and election day, a speech by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, scheduled for Aug. 8—date of the Quebec provincial election — will be broadcast in all provinces but Quebec, it was indicated here today.

Mr. King's hour speech on the occasion of the celebration of his 25th anniversary as Liberal leader was to have been picked up at anniversary dinners throughout the country. However, under the CBC regulation, it will be banned from the Quebec air waves. Quebec listeners within range of bordering New Brunswick and Ontario stations will be able to hear the speech.

Stan V. Peryer Awarded Medal

KINGSTON, July 6 — (Special to the Examiner)—Bandsman Stan V. Peryer, of Peterborough, has been awarded the clasp to the Canadian Efficiency Medal, it has recently been announced in army routine orders. The medal and clasp are awarded for long and efficient service.

Bandsman Peryer has been a member of military bands for 16 years. He was with the Prince of Wales Rangers (R) band from May 1927 until the time of his active enlistment, on June 23, 1941. Since that time he has been a member of the Canadian Ordnance Corps Training Centre's band at Barriefield Camp, and he expects to leave shortly for Ottawa with the other members of the C.O.C.T.C. band, to assist with the formation of the Canadian Army's No. 1 Band.

Bandsman Peryer's father is Captain W. H. Peryer, E.D., director of music and leader of the Prince of Wales Rangers (R) band at Peterborough. Captain Peryer was a band leader overseas during the First Great War.

Previous to his enlistment, Bandsman Peryer was active in athletics at Peterborough, and is a qualified Y.M.C.A. swimming instructor. Since he has been at Barriefield Camp he has taught 350 soldiers in organized classes, to swim.

Bandsman Peryer's wife and two sons reside in this city, and in civilian life he was employed here as a machinist.

Radio License Fee May Be Abolished

OTTAWA, July 6 — (CP).—The Parliamentary Committee on Radio Broadcasting likely will recommend removal of the $2.50 licence fee, Douglas G. Ross (P.C.-Toronto-St. Paul) said yesterday.

The committee is currently in a final session to draft reccommendations to Parliament.

Mr. Ross, a member of the committee, said he believed the licence fee was costly to collect, about 20 per cent of receipts, and was a nuisance tax.

CBC, he said, has departed from its original policy and has become highly commercialized. He said he was opposed to proposals of the board of governors to have appointed a permanent chairman. Such a course would involve dual management.

Forty-eight-Hour Week Affects Cobourg Stores

COBOURG, July 6.—(ENS). — A blow to farmers who for generations have been coming in to do their weekly shopping on Saturday night, Cobourg Business Men's Association at a meeting Tuesday night decided on seven p.m. closing on Saturday nights. The move is necessitated by the fact that the 48-hour week required by the Provincial Government's ruling prevents stores from staying open on Saturday nights.

However, if Port Hope merchants decide to stagger their hours so as to remain open later than Cobourg on Saturday nights, Cobourg merchants will be forced to revise their schedule also as farmers may decide to shop in Port Hope. As the matter stands now Cobourg and Port Hope are the only towns along the line which do not close early on Saturday nights, but it is expected that the habits formed by generations of rural shoppers will be hard to change.

No Word From Port Hope

Mayor Jack Burnet was chairman of the meeting. John Ewart and Harold Bellamy, vice-chairman and secretary, were absent from the meeting as well as a number of merchants whose absence was interpretated as meaning that they were opposed to the change. Mayor Burnet had been in communication with Port Hope, and he understood that no definite action had been taken in that town as yet. Before the meeting closed a committee of Austin Maher, Ed. Bovay and Mrs. M. S. Peters were appointed to interview Port Hope merchants on the matter.

It was pointed out that most stores could not comply with the 48-hour week if they remained open on Saturday nights. The proposal was made that stores close all day Wednesday, but this did not meet with much favour. Mayor Burnet expressed the hope that the Government would not leave the ruling at 48 hours as it was going to work hardship. Dennis Bergen said that each type of business had its own particular problem, and he felt that each merchant could be able to work out his closing hours for himself. H. O. Taylor favoured closing at eight o'clock on Saturday evenings by closing at five on the other evenings instead of six. Austin Maher suggested closing at seven on Saturday evenings, the same as Peterborough. On motion of Gordon Clarke, seconded by H. O. Taylor, it was decided to close at seven p.m. on Saturdays, and at the same time submit the plan to Port Hope for consideration of the merchants there. In the meantime Cobourg merchants will see how it works out locally. As an alternative, providing the merchants can't put it over, it was suggested that a petition be circulated, and if sufficient names were secured, to incorporate it into a by-law for seven o'clock closing. Even that would depend on whether Port Hope would close at the same time.

So far nothing is binding, and it is likely that some stores will stagger their hours so as to remain open until ten on Saturday nights.

Roseneath W.A. Plans Outing

ROSENEATH, July 6.—(ENS). — At the regular meeting of St. James' Anglican Church W.A. held on Tuesday afternoon in Mrs Ross McCracken's home, a letter from Rev. A. C. Herbert, Anglican missionary at Eskimo Point in the Arctic, was read, in response to greetings from members of the society. Mr. Herbert, a former rector at St. James', spoke of the difficulties encountered in the effort made to isolate contagious diseases, opposed by the old Eskimo people who have not accepted Christianity.

The president, Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite, presided.

An invitation was accepted from the United Church W.M.S. to attend the annual afternoon tea of the society on Tuesday afternoon, July 11, in the town hall, with Mrs. Floyd Honey, of Baltimore, as guest speaker.

Mrs. James Brown, treasurer, reported $37.91 in the treasury. It was announced the Little Helpers' picnic would be held in conjunction with the August meeting on Mrs. E. Timlin's lawn. A sports committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. Earl Braithwaite and Mrs. Ross McCracken. Refreshment committee, the hostess and Mrs. J. L. Timlin.

Mrs. Ray McCracken, a recent bride, was present and was welcomed to the society.

Mrs. Ross McCracken presented chapter four of the study, "Evangelical Missions in Latin America." There were readings by Mrs. J. T. Drope and Mrs. J. L. Timlin.

The rector, Rev. W. J. Lennox, closed the meeting with prayer. The hostess served refreshments.

$700 on Excursion

COBOURG, July 6—(ENS)— Cobourg Kiwanis Club raised $700 as a result of its Dominion Day excursion on the car ferry to Port Dalhousie. The money will be devoted chiefly for rehabilitation work of the Club. Bob Love, who was chairman of the excursion committee thanked all those who had assisted in making it a success.

Severe Casualties

PEARL HARBOR, July 6.—(AP).—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz told a press conference yesterday the task of conquering Saipan proved tougher than expected and American casualties were "quite severe," but "we're not the slightest bit pessimistic about the future." Admiral Nimitz is commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet.

Revenue Up

OTTAWA, July 6.—(CP). —Revenue Minister Gibson said in a statement last night that customs excise and income tax revenue in June totalled $225,716,652, a net increase of $38,396,491 over the total of $187,320,161 collected in June, 1943.

Volcano Erupts

MEXICO CITY, July 6. — (AP).—Lava from the new Paricutin volcano now is within 75 feet of the parish church of San Juan Parangaricutiro and soldiers are moving religious relics from the church, the defence ministry said today Soldiers and army trucks have been stationed in the town of 3,000 population for more than a week, ready to give aid. Huts on the outskirts of the town already have been destroyed.

Mayor Seeking Leopard Skin

As a special gesture of appreciation for the magnificent work of the Canadian Women's Army Corps bands, the City of Peterborough, has ordered a leopard skin, which will be presented to the C.W.A.C. brass and wood band. The girls of the band have already named it "Peter" as an expression of gratitude.

Ever since the city of Lethbridge, Alberta, generously donated "Susie", the leopard skin worn by Drummer Joan Turner, to the C.W.A.C. pipe band during their visit to that town last summer, the military band personnel have wanted a skin of their own.

In order to raise funds to make their dream a reality, the girls started a system of fines for all articles left behind as they travelled from town to town across the Dominion. So careful were they, however, that the fund kept by Bandmaster Nadia Svarich, is still very small, and the girls had despaired of realizing their objective until Mayor Hamilton announced the handsome gift during the concert here.

In accordance with the best military tradition, animal skins, particularly leopard, have been worn by band drummers, since the days when the drummers were negro slaves from the African Congo. Military bands, which greatly facilitate troop marching, are also of inestimable value in raising army morale. Now the Mayor is looking for a leopard skin.

Cobourg Boy Suffers Multiple Wounds

COBOURG, July 6—(ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Smith of Cobourg, have received a letter from their son, Sergeant Alex Smith, who suffered multiple gunshot wounds on D-Day, in which he assures them that he is recovering satisfactorily. He related that he had been transferred to England and taken to a Canadian General Hospital where he is recovering from wounds in the right side of the neck, right wrist and left leg.

He related to his parents that when his outfit landed they were caught in the fire from "multis" about 20 minutes after they landed on the beach. They took shelter in the cellar of a house until the wounded were picked up and taken back on a hospital ship to England.

Miniature Rosary For R.C. Paratroops

MONTREAL, July 6 — (CP) — Roman Catholic members of airborne units have found a new way of carrying their Rosaries handily—it is a rosary ring invented by a Canadian Commando.

The Rosary is in the form of a metal ring, bearing a miniature reproduction of our Lord on the Cross and 10 cogs pointing out at equal distance from the ring's circumference.

Available at all time to the soldier who may desire to recite his prayers, the ring is worn on the middle finger. It does not interfere with a soldier's gun play.

Joins Ottawa Firm

COBOURG, July 6—R. W. D. Affleck, Cobourg lawyer who came here about two and one half years ago from Campbellford, has disposed of his legal practice and will join his old firm, Clarke, Robertson, Macdonald and Connolly, large Ottawa firm, with whom he started as a junior. Mr. Affleck purchased the business here of the late Colonel F. D. Boggs, K.C., when he came here from Campbellford, and has now sold the business to Fred C. Richardson, local lawyer.

120,000 Killed

MOSCOW, July 6,—(AP).— The Germans killed or tortured to death 120,000 persons in Minsk, capital of White Russia, and no residents were left in levelled Zhlobin, Tass News Agency said yesterday. Among those killed at Minsk were "several tens of thousands of Hamburg Jews brought to the Minsk ghetto," it added.

SMASH AHEAD IN CAEN AREA—The Normandy coast area between Tilly and Caen again takes the centre of the stage in France. New British and Canadian smashes (1) are centring on that section in an effort to give greater depth to the original beachhead (shaded area indicates general zone involved.) The Canadians are smashing ahead on the outskirts of Caen with the British troops not far away. At Cherbourg (2) reconstruction work is being rushed and American troops are advancing with rumors of a possible drive (3) from the peninsula to St. Lo region.

Eggs Decrease Supply Adequate

TORONTO, July 6.—A gradual decrease in the rate of arrivals on the egg market over the past few weeks has still failed to cause any material change in the supply situation, with present receipts adequately meeting current needs. The local consumer demand appears centred on the top grades, while the predominating undergrades are being absorbed by breaking houses. Prices held unchanged at their former level.

The butter market remains quiet and slow with trading in general quite spotty. Dealers are finding it rather difficult to interest buyers and keep their receipts moving. General asking price for Ontario supplies was 33 cents on the basis of first grade, while Western receipts made 33 cents. Creameries are keeping the quality at its usual high standard.

Labor Angry

TORONTO, July 6. — (CP). — A group of American Federation of Labor and Canadian Congress of Labor union leaders, meeting here last night under the auspices of the C.C.F. trade union committee, criticized the Ontario Government for what they termed "suspension of the Wages and Hour Act" and its "betrayal" of the workers of Ontario.

The Usefulness Of Civil Servants

In these days when there is so much outcry against 'bureaucracy' it may not be amiss to say a few good words about civil servants. The war has forced the Government to recruit a vast number of amateur civil servants who, like amateur actors, amateur musicians and amateur journalists, are apt to have all the faults of the professional in an exaggerated degree, and less than a tithe of his virtues. The 'bureaucrats' for whose blood so many harassed businessmen are thirsting at present are, in the main, amateurs who are giving a bad name to the professional, useful and courteous civil servants.

Mr. James Forrestal, who has succeeded the late Col. Frank Knox as U.S. Secretary of the Navy, recently praised the British Civil Service highly, and suggested that his own country might do well to copy it. "If all Government agencies had permanent staffs headed by under-secretaries, a great deal of waste would be eliminated", he is quoted as saying. "When the British come to joint conferences they come thoroughly informed and briefed in the most complex situations. Their basic information is sound. They have available to them the long experience of able civil servants who have spent a lifetime training for and learning their jobs. Incidentally, compared to our civil service employees they are very well paid; they average from 33 to 66 per cent. higher pay than do our men in comparable jobs". Here Mr. Forrestal puts his finger on the real use of the upper branches of the civil service; men engaged for permanent under-secretaryships and similar work are able, over the years, to collect a fund of information and experience which is invaluable to a superior who has to take up a job about which he may know little. When the permanent official is genuinely co-operative he is the backbone of his department, and he may keep his principal from making an ass of himself on many an important occasion. We do not, of course, endorse the silly view that the civil service is the 'real and permanent government' of a country; but it is undoubtedly the indispensable foundation of the government of the day.

The British Civil Service, which Mr. Forrestal admires, is the model for our own, although for a variety of reasons we have not achieved quite the same high level. This much admired civil service is not one of England's hoary institutions. Indeed, it is not yet a century old. Queen Victoria was able, in her youth, to ask Palmerston what 'bureaucracy' meant, and he was able to tell her that it was a Continental arrangement of permanent officials who managed routine business, wrote despatches, kept their places when departmental ministers lost theirs and were, in consequence, people of great practical experience in government. Later, when Victoria married the Prince Consort, she found out more about bureaucracy and came to recognize its great value to the smooth running of the state. In her day there were, as Dickens has shown us, the Tite Barnacles as well as the efficient and unobtrusive civil servants, and the Circumlocution Offices as well as the courteous bureaux. We still have Tite Barnacles and Circumlocution Offices—the war appears to have provided us with a whole new distribution of the latter—but upon the whole the service works very well.

It seems likely that the war will leave us with a larger civil service than we had before it began, and it is uncomfortable to reflect that one of the symptoms of the rot of the Roman Empire was the swelling of its civil service ranks. But as Dr. Thomas Jones recently pointed out in an article in the London Observer, we are busy turning a Police State into a Social Service State and we need a great many officials to help us do it. Speaking of the British service, Dr. Jones has this to say:

"Despite its blemishes, it is generally agreed abroad, as at home, that our Civil Service is the finest in the world. The servant is impersonal and impartial, disinterested, loyal and competent. In its higher reaches the service motive has largely displaced the profit motive. The great prizes of private enterprise, wealth and fame are deliberately renounced. Its discipline and influence recall the religious orders of the Middle Ages, and a temporary recruit, in a current periodical, speaks of their humility (in the good sense) and their willingness to subordinate their personal interests as saintly in comparison with the vanity and self-seeking exhibited by dons and politicians. It is the fact of war which accounts for the present outburst of criticism. The Civil Servant has evolved the qualities demanded by public administration, and, if they are evolved to an excessive pitch, it is a defect of excellence. Competitive business is a different profession. The State, said Bishop Henson, has many officers of high capacity and low individuality. If it wishes to grow a recurrent crop of business supermen, then it should set about recruiting and training by ways and means other than those applied for ninety years to Class 1. Even then we shall not escape blemishes, but they will be different, and perhaps worse, than the ones with which we are today familiar".

The application of this to Canada's postwar problem is plain; much of the inconvenience, rambunctiousness and rudeness of our temporary wartime civil service has been attributable to the fact that new departments have been set up hurriedly and peopled with amateurs. These amateurs were, in many cases, business men who attempted to run their departments as though they were businesses, with one great alteration—it was never necessary to please the customer. After the war, when the civil service has shrunk to whatever is to be its peacetime size, let us make sure that our bureaucrats are all properly trained in the best civil service tradition.

The Lions And Riverside Park

The Lions Club deserves thanks and congratulation from the city on the successful completion of its project at Riverside Park; an excellent playground and wading-pool are now in use there, and hundreds of Peterborough children will benefit from them this year, next year, and for many years to come. The playground and pool will be supervised, so that no parents need be doubtful about allowing their children to go to Riverside Park as much as they please.

The Examiner has frequently insisted on the necessity for playgrounds in a city of the size and nature of Peterborough, where great numbers of children have no place to play except in vacant lots and on the streets. Peterborough depends chiefly u[illegible] industry, and industry depends ch[illegible] upon labour; it is common sense, then, to make Peterborough as attractive to labour as possible, so that working-men with families will find this a good city to live in, and an advantageous place in which to bring up children. We have excellent schools, which do their share in forming the children's minds, but we are not well supplied with playgrounds in which they may exercise and strengthen their bodies. The Lions have done a job of first-rate civic importance at Riverside Park and have increased the debt of gratitude which the city already owes them for their many works of goodwill.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Clare Boothe Luce Coolest of Speakers But Perspires Around the Middle," says a headline. Somewhat indelicate to draw attention to it.

An American writer states flatly that the national anthem of Scotland is The Campbells Are Coming. What sound like thunder is the rising wrath of the MacDonalds.

One of the items Canadians can now import from the United States is a combined pinball game and beverage cabinet. At 13 ounces a month there wouldn't seem to be much need for the latter feature.

We see a good deal of allegedly humorous comment these days on the pronunciations of French place-names. Though it passes as fun, this sort of thing looks painfully like ignorance in a country which is officially bi-lingual. The elements of the French language and French pronunciation are taught to all children in our schools; why then this fatuous inability to pronounce a simple French name? Is this a sign that our democratic system of education is a farce? Why, when a nation spends so much on education, does it know so little?

Australian Difficulties

(By GRANT DEXTER)

IT is clear that Australia disagreed fundamentally with the war strategy adopted by Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt in 1941. It is clear, also, that this decision finally was reversed. But what Australians cannot forget is that their country might have been conquered by the Japs as a result of the 1941 decision. It is small solace to know that you have been right all along if, meantime, Australia had been conquered and its people had passed under the heel of the most bestial soldiers of modern times.

This explains much in the present attitude of Australia. But there is a further factor. The machinery of consultation between Canberra and London functioned badly. The decision by which Australia was required to look for aid not to the Empire but to the United States first reached Australia by newspaper reports. The Curtin government first learned of it in their newspapers. They had received no despatches, knew nothing of the reasons back of it. At this gravest hour in their history they might—for all they knew—have not been part of the Commonwealth at all.

It will be recalled that under much less exasperating circumstances in the last war, Sir Robert Borden wrote a letter to the Government of the United Kingdom pointing out that he was receiving far more information about the war from newspapers than from the despatches. He found this intolerable and said so. Yet Canada, unlike Australia in 1942, was in no direct peril at all.

THEN there was the Cairo conference on Nov 22-26, 1943, between President Roosevelt, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Mr. Churchill and their respective military and diplomatic advisers. This conference dealt with the war in the Pacific.

For reasons never made clear Australia, and no doubt the other Dominions, were not consulted or informed about this conference until it was over. There was a complete, an incredibile breakdown in the machinery of consultation.

Again the effect on Australia was profound. Australia had saved herself largely by her own exertions and at a terrible price. She had done so while her soldiers, sailors and airmen were far away fighting the battles of the Empire: the empire, incidentally, which had directed her, in the hour of crucifixion, to look to the United States for succour. In saving herself, with United States' aid, Australia had saved the South Pacific and the war in the Far East. Yet when the future course of this war and the treatment to be given Japan came up for discussion, Australia was ignored.

This background is essential to an understanding of the Australian point of view. The wonder is that Mr. Curtin was not more difficult than he was.

What would have been the state of public opinion in Canada if this country had gone through a similar experience? It will be recalled with what insistence British Columbia demanded defence troops in the early months of 1942. What if no troops had been available; only a half-armed militia? What if all our fighting men and all our equipment had been sent thousands of miles away to fight another foe? And what would Canadians have thought if, after escaping conquest and destruction by a supreme effort and the aid of a non-British nation, the future course of the war had been decided without so much as a nod of recognition to us? Any Canadian who can imagine what his thoughts would be under such circumstances, will sympathize with the Australian viewpoint.

HAVING thus put the Australian point of view, it is necessary to qualify it in one important particular. The system of consultation between Canberra and London did not fail in March, 1942. Rather it was not used. It did work between other Dominion capitals and London. The fault, evidently, lay with Australia's lack of a proper department of external affairs. Australia's establishment in this regard does not, for example, compare with that of Canada. Hence Mr. Curtin's emphasis on personnel, on a secretariat. The failure here, if it may so be termed, was the fault of Australia, not of the system.

But it appears to be the case that consultation did fail at Cairo. None of the Dominions received adequate information regarding what was being done. Because this conference had to do with the war in the Far East, Canada was not vitally interested. Otherwise the chances are that the system would have functioned efficiently at Moscow. It is an open secret at London that one or more of the Dominions directly influenced the Moscow declaration.

Australia is determined—indisputably and absolutely—that the situation of 1942 shall never recur. Measures to prevent such a recurrence will be henceforth the very base of Australia's foreign policy. As a first step, Australia desires to amplify her voice at London. To do this, of course, no change in existing machinery is necessary. But Australia will never agree that the existing system of consultation is adequate because it failed, in her case, in the crisis. Australia was sure of what should have been done in 1942 but she could not persuade Mr. Churchill. Later on her view was adopted, but later on is not good enough when Japanese armies directly menace your countryside, your towns and cities. Australia believes that somehow or other means must be found whereby her advice in such circumstances will be decisive.

HENCE the vague scheme of regionalism advocated by Mr. Curtin at his press conference. He said, in effect, that each self-governing nation of the Commonwealth should speak for the whole in its particular region. Australia knew little about Europe—let the United Kingdom do the talking about Europe. But Australia knew more than the United Kingdom about the South Pacific. So let Australia do the talking in that region—and so on.

What Mr. Curtin was advocating in reality was a single voice policy on a regional basis: four or five single voices. And what Mr. Curtin had not considered was that his policy must break down when this policy encountered an issue which was world wide, not regional, and on which sharp disagreements existed—in a word precisely the kind of issue that did arise in March, 1941, when Australia's views collided head on with those of the United Kingdom and when Australia, in fact, did not even carry the judgment of New Zealand.

It was all rather confused and overcharged with emotion. Mr. Curtin, on several occasions, indicated that his own mind was far from clear. Australia, he agreed, was an autonomous nation. He spoke of his proposed Council or Secretariat as an editorial board. "I am expressing my own point of view," he said. "I would like to have it. I believe in the editorial board, you know, as being better than the editor by himself."

Question: "In case some of the board do not agree, do you still think...."

Mr. Curtin: "I still think the editor would make the decision."

Question: "Who is the editor in this case?"

Mr. Curtin was rescued by Mr. Bracken, the Minister of Information, who interpolated: "You are going into too deep details." Yet it was obvious by earlier passages that Mr. Curtin did not believe in the editor having the power of decision. In the context, the editor could only have meant Mr. Churchill.

In the upshot, Mr. Curtin's proposal served to reveal the immaturity of Australia's thinking on these problems and, on the constructive side, to enable her attitude to be better understood. There was no support for him at the conference.

Germany's Beautiful Loyalty to An Ally —By Thomas

A New Deal For The C.C.F.

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

SATURDAY NIGHT hails with unqualified enthusiasm the announced intention of the C.C.F. to establish a daily newspaper. It points out how unwise the establishment of such a paper would be, and recalls the Social Credit party's experiment in Alberta. In that, we quite agree, but we do not hail the C.C.F. suggestion with unqualified enthusiasm as does our Toronto contemporary. We cannot grow enthusiastic about the suggestion that the C.C.F. should throw away a lot of money—for that is exactly what it will do if it starts a C.C.F. organ.

Political papers are of no value whatsoever; no one pays the slightest attention to them. During the recent Saskatchewan election campaign, the Liberal party in Saskatchewan put out a blanket sheet called "The Saskatchewan Liberal." It came to this office regularly for a month or two, and was prompty relegated to the wastepaper basket. Everyone who received the paper knew that it was a party organ of the Liberal party. For that reason it was not read. The result in Saskatchewan proves that.

The Dominion Progressive Conservative party is putting out thousands and thousands every month of a tabloid sheet at the present time, called "Public Opinion." It is a colossal waste of money because everyone knows that it is not public opinion at all, but merely propaganda for the Progressive Conservative party. Any one who wasted five minutes on it would quickly discover that everything which the C.C.F. party proposed, or which the Liberals did, could end in nothing but disaster for the Dominion of Canada whereas the Progressive Conservatives have a panacea for everything. We venture to say that so far as the newspaper offices of the country are concerned, Public Opinion, wrapper and all, goes the way of all political sheet: right into the w.p.b.—unopened.

There are rumours that the National Liberal party is about to embark on the publication of a party organ. This will be another waste of money, for it will be of no use whatsoever. We are quite willing to admit that political "house organs" to cheer the faint-hearted and put fresh vigour and enthusiasm into party workers have some value; but as these political papers are read only by party followers, they have no other value.

The C.C.F. is proposing to start a daily newspaper because it feels it does not get a fair deal from the daily press of Canada. This is, of course, all imagination. Mr. E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the C.C.F. party in Ontario, (who speaks here this evening), spoke in Peterborough last Tuesday evening, and his meeting was given two and a half columns in The Peterborough Examiner, including Mr. Jolliffe's picture. As a matter of fact, it dominated the page, there being no other news matter on that page. No C.C.F. paper could have given Mr. Jolliffe better coverage or fairer coverage.

The days of the party organ are done in this country. They are done because people are not interested in them. Today, the newspaper of Canada are independently owned and operated. Occasionally these papers accuse one another of being "servile" and "machine minded," but that is all done in a Pickwickian sense. The newspapers of Canada today are operated in the interests of the public. Their news columns give coverage to all important happenings. Public meetings are covered, and the news is not coloured in any way. For this reason, the circulation of the newspapers of Canada has continued to go up, up and up. There are papers, of course, which lean towards one or other of the parties. There is one prominent paper in Ontario which for some months has been leaning very much towards the C.C.F.; there is another which for years has been an apostle of Social Credit. But none of these papers takes its orders from any one party. The opinions expressed on the editorial pages are usually the considered opinions of a group of intelligent editorial men who weigh the pros and cons of every question. It is by no means unusual for a newspaper to advocate or support a policy to which the publisher himself is personally opposed.

If the C.C.F. wishes to put out a daily paper that will have a province-wide, or even Dominion-wide, circulation it will have to serve all interests; if however, it merely wishes to put out a party organ, it will have no influence whatsoever except with its party followers, and incidentally, is doomed to financial failure. History teaches us that party followers fall away from new movements very quickly when the Utopia for which they have longed fails to materialize.

Fateful Waters

It is only a very small stretch of water, a ditch, as Cromwell called it, and as many have called it since. Yet its uneven shores hold the most fateful waters of the world. Recently storms have been showing once more how high and how rough these waters can run. But even in calm there is hidden treachery in their tugging currents, their strong tides, their high sand bars and their sudden depths. History, too, presides over these waters to deepen their fatefulness. They were the crossing-place of Caesar, of William Duke of Normandy, of William of Orange and Van Tromp's Dutch fleet. These waters were eyed by Napoleon as he rode with his staff along the sands at Boulogne, and they bore the battered ship that brought the dead Nelson home. Over these waters, too, passed eight million fighting men through the four years of another war.—Montreal Gazette.

A Serious Gent

From Edmund Wilson, when the SRL asked him, among others, to express an opinion on the recent Pulitzer awards, came a printed form by return mail. It is reproduced here, in a moment of rare restaint, without any comment:

Edmund Wilson regrets that it is impossible for him without compensation to read manuscripts, contribute to books or periodicals, do editorial work, judge literary cntests, give educational courses, deliver lectures, address meetings, make after-dinner speeches, broadcast; or under any circumstances to contribute to or take part in symposiums, take part in chain-poems or other collective compositions, contribute manuscripts for sales, donate copies of his books to libraries, autograph books for strangers, supply personal information about himself, supply photographs of himself, allow his name to be used on letter-heads, receive unknown persons who have no apparent business with him.—Bennett Cerf in Saturday Review.

It must be seldom that a politician lives to regret the things he did not say, the unuttered thoughts that were never born. But even the most cautious of them know embarrassment from things they do say and which had been better left unsaid.

Mr. Dewey, for example, out in the open at last as Republican candidate for the presidency of the United States, will be reminded by his opponents that on August 21, 1942, when he accepted the Republican nomination for the governorship of New York, he made this flat statement:

"Let me say right now that I shall devote the next four years exclusively to the service of the people of New York State."

And in February, 1943, shortly after his inauguration as governor, Mr. Dewey authorized his secretary to say this in his behalf:

"He is not and will not become a candidate for any other nomination during his term."

A few months later there was talk of "drafting" Mr. Dewey for the presidency, and he made this statement to a Washington correspondent:

"I do not believe in drafts for a presidential nomination. I do not believe that an honest-to-goodness draft ever nominated a presidential candidate of one of the major political parties."

When these things are mentioned Governor Dewey can say, of course, that conditions had changed, that duty clearly pointed his career in a direction he could not foresee two years ago, and all that may be true. Nevertheless, his campaign would be more comfortable if Mr. Dewey didn't have to start by explaining away what he said in 1942 and 1943.—Ottawa Journal.

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

JULY 6

1914 The Washburn Carnival Shows have arrived in the city and are ready to open a week's stand here.

A. G. Dickson, one of the City's best known merchants dies after a week's illness.

The city council decides to retain the market bylaw, despite the plea of a large deputation for its rescinding.

John Clark who escaped from the county jail here is killed when he falls off a train at Toronto.

A. G. Fawcett, retiring superintendent of the water works department is presented with a club bag.

1924 Chief Sam Newhall announces that the police department is starting a campaign against obnoxious weeds.

Board of Works decides on paving on Antrim, Murray and Simcoe streets and also to re-surface George street south.

Mrs. F. J. A. Morris breaks her arm in an accident on the Hastings road when a car overturns.

C.N.R. officials announce that the building of a new freight shed here has been postponed.

A homer by Hap Harrison features an 8 to 3 win of the Petes over Kingston Ponies.

1934 The new concrete dam at Lock 22 is almost completed and will soon be in use.

Five Montreal sea scouts arrive here in a 27-foot naval whaler.

John Warren Hall, one of the city's best known residents dies suddenly.

E. F. Reid announces that Peterborough Orangemen will walk at Port Hope this year.

Cogs strengthen their hold on first place in the East Peterborough League by beating C.G.E. 6 to 2.

NO MANNERS

Here is the story of utter lack of manners, told by an indignant bus rider on Russell avenue Saturday morning. The bus was crowded. There were two youngsters with towels over their shoulders for their morning swim, nonchalantly seated. Women, some with gray hair, were standing. Those boys remained glued. Elderly gentlemen got up and did the courteous thing. The lads never batted an eye. O Tempora, O Mores!—St. Catharines Standard.

WEALTH OF A CHURCH

One hundred years ago the Church of Scotland was almost penniless and in 1841 it reported it was unable to pay a printer's bill of 100 pounds. Today it is worth more than £30,000,000 and is the owner of many thousands of acres.

Its stock exchange investments were so astutely chosen that the church went through the slump early in the 1930's without loss, according to a report made in 1934.

But in the past decade the general assembly has faced an acute problem of loss of membership and today women predominate in congregations to the extent of 80 per cent.—British United Press.

C.C.F. AND BONDS

Among the little-noted promises of the C.C.F. in Saskatchewan is the refunding of the provincial government debt at an interest rate of only 2 per cent. This is one of the pledges which will provide grave difficulties for the new C.C.F. government.

It is not possible for any provincial government in Canada to borrow money at 2 per cent. Even the Federal Government, with the whole credit of the nation behind it, is paying 3 per cent on its Victory Loans. If the Saskatchewan government went to its bond holders and asked them to accept 2 per cent in place of 4 or 5 per cent they would quite properly refuse, just as the bond holders of Alberta bonds refused a similar proposal from the Aberhart government.

These Saskatchewan bonds are held by many small people who have put their savings into them, by life insurance companies who depend upon the existing interest rates to maintain their contracts with policy holders, and by other provincial governments. Just as the government of British Columbia has been defrauded by the government of Alberta, because British Columbia held defaulted Alberta bonds, so people all over Canada would lose money by any default in Saskatchewan.—Vancouver Sun.

A Bible Message

Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the passover must be killed. And he sent Peter and John, saying, Go and prepare us the passover, that we may eat.....

And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve disciples with him. And he said unto them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer: for I say unto you, I will not any more eat thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.....

And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me.

Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you. (Luke 22: 7, 8, 14-16, 19, 20.)

The farmer's wife had a very sharp tongue, but one day he got a rest from her nagging. A farm horse kicked her so badly that she had to go to hospital for treatment.

During her absence there was an unusual run of callers on the farm.

"It's very nice of the neighbours, especially the men, to call and ask after the missus," the farmer remarked to the servant-girl.

"Ay, sir," replied the girl, "but most of them want to know if you'd sell the horse."

Junior Pupils Make War Gifts

OMEMEE, July 6—(ENS)—Following is a report of the war work done by the pupils of the junior room of Omemee Public School during the past school year.

The following contributions have been made: Navy League of Canada, $4.25; British War Victims, $3; Bible Society, $1.55; Junior Red Cross (Toronto), $7.50; Senior Red Cross (Omemee Branch), $20. Total $36.30.

Besides money given the children knit three afghans, and a weekly collection of waste paper was brought to the school for salvage. Great credit is due to these children, who are all in grades one, two and three, and especially to their teacher, Miss Bernice M. Smith, for this fine contribution.

Quintuplet Boys In Fine Health

ANKARA, July 5 — (AP). — Quintuplet boys, all in good health, were born at Mardin near the border of Turkey, Iraq and Syria. Premier Saracoglu will order them brought to Ankara to be reared under government supervision, thus a "bear more children for Turkey" campaign will be helped.

First word of the multiple birth came previously. But this story was the first to indicate the place in Turkey where the five children were born.

India To Seek Credit Release

BRETTON WOODS, N.H., July 6 (AP)—The question of how Great Britain will solve its problem of blocked balances was injected into the United Nations monetary conference yesterday as the various committees put in their first full working day.

The matter came up with the introduction of a proposal that one of the functions of the proposed world stabilization fund would be "to promote and facilitate the settlement of abnormal indebtedness arising out of war."

This would apply directly to the approximately $8,000,000,000 in balances which Britain has accumulated as a result of her heavy wartime imports. Britain has given no indication how soon after the war these "frozen credits," will be released.

Countries, including those of the British Commonwealth which form the so-called "sterling block" receive payment for goods they sell to Britain in sterling, which must be kept in London.

One of the countries having a large part of this accumulated sterling is India and it was understood the Indian delegation will seek to have the fund make unblocking such balances one of its jobs.

Closing Picnic Held By Villiers' School

Villiers School, S.S. No. 1 Otonabee held the annual closing picnic at Birdsall's Beach. The weather was ideal and the pupils enjoyed swimming to the fullest extent. The picnic was under the direction of the teacher Vera Bradshaw.

Perth Regiment In Action On Invasion Bridgehead

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, July 6 — (CP). — Pte. Louis Savoni of Windsor, Ont., was right at home when the Perth Regiment entered the Sacco Valley, for he was born there, at Ceccano, a few miles south of Prosinone.

Savoni, a recent reinforcement, wasn't with the Perths during the time they started fighting, but soon after he joined them he visited his birthplace. There he met his grandparents who in honor of the occasion unearthed their vino, which they had buried in a field to hide it from the Germans.

The Italo - Canadian soldier, whose knowledge of the language and the country automatically qualified him as official "scrounger" for his company, left Ceccano for Canada only eight years ago. He must have made many friends in Windsor, for he is the battalion's most prolific letter writer, thinking nothing of turning out 10 epistles a day.

The overburdened soldier might be the best way to describe Pte. J. P. (Pop) Grierson, Paris, Ont., of the Perths. Sent back of the lines with two other privates to get ammunition, weapons, picks and shovels, Grierson lost his mates when they were wounded.

He returned alone, however, over a mile-long track carring this load: Bren gun, tommy gun and rifle and ammunition for all three, two picks and two shovels....

Another Perth story concerns Pte. J. W. Bartlett, Toronto signaller, who walked from Seprano to the other side of the Liri River to pick up his signal set. He and a companion took four prisoners with them and found the Nazis especially truculent. They were willing enough prisoners, but protested strongly when Bartlett refused to agree to their suggestion that they remain in Ceprano looking for vino.

Hit Bottom.

L.-Cpl. E. J. Marks, St. Thomas, Ont., was helping guide a boatload of supplies and men across the Liri River when he stepped into a hole 10 feet deep. Loaded down by his kit, he hit bottom double quick, but as his tommy gun was sticking up he was hauled out safely.

He was soaked, however, so found three Italian grain sacks, cut arms in one, legs in another, and designed hat he called a "toga." The following day his clothes were still wet, so he walked around Ceprano in this weird-looking garb. He was stopped twice by the provost, who mistook him for some strange Italian down from the hills.

"It was a very comfortable dress" said Marks, "and I wanted to pack it away with me, but it was too heavy."

The Perths have high praise for Pte. D. H. Thompson, Princeton, Ont., who went out under the heaviest shell and mortar fire to aid stretcher bearers, although that was not his job.

On one occasion a platoon was holding a forward position beside a house. A shell struck the house and there were several casualties. Though the fire was still heavy, Thompson went out on his own initiative to bring in the wounded.

Golf Tourney Plans Now Complete

Now recognized as one of the outstanding medal play tournaments in Canada and ranking second only to the Millar Trophy compeition in prize money, the third annual Kawartha Lakes Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament, sponsored by the Kinsmen Club in aid of its charitable activities, will get underway a week from Saturday, July 15, at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. The field will be at least as large as last year, when 18 pros and 117 amateurs competed; and both Bob Gray and Phil Farley, 1943 professional and amateur winners, will be on hand to defend their titles.

Started in the face of adverse conditions in 1942, when golf tournaments were being called off right and left all over the country, the Kawartha Lakes competition has reached a peak of popularity that challenges that of any tournament in Canada. The $100 in prizes for both pro and amateur divisions which it offered in the first year's play has expanded to a total of $700 for the present tournament, with the professional shotmakers sharing $500 of the proceeds and the amateurs $200. Last year the professional prize money amounted to $250.

The attractions of the course they are going to play on, bringing professional golfers from points as far away as Quebec City, have never been denied. Neither the attractions nor the difficulties. The par of 71 has only been beaten twice in active competition, once by Bob Gray in his winning 54-hole total of 215 last year. The course record for professionals, set by Lex Robson, Kawarthas' own pro, stands at 67; while the amateur record of 69, was turned in by Art Barabee of the C.G.E. auditing staff.

It is expected that a gallery of 1,500 will be on hand to watch the pros perform and there will be a draw in connection with spectators' tickets, with 10 prizes to be won.

A threefold objective is accomplished by the tournament. Besides providing funds for the Kinsmen Club's charitable purposes — and revenue of $850 was provided last year—the tournament serves as a promotion scheme for Canadian professional golfers, who have not been able to come through with a winner in the Canadian Open for 30 years, first place having consistently gone to the American visitors. Indeed, only twice have Canadians been runner-ups in their own tournament, Lex Robson having finished second in 1931 and Bob Gray in 1940.

Local amateurs will have an opportunity of displaying their golfing prowess on the Kawartha course; and such low-scorers as Charlie Low, Fraser Dunfield, Bob Abbott, Stan Payne, Orlie De Graw and others will match their abilities against Phil Farley, who is Ontario amateur champion and considered one of the top-ranking amateurs on the North American continent.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The games that drew the attention of the "idle" bowlers Wednesday night were the Provincial Playoffs in the rinks and doubles competitions. In the rink game, G. Coleman met G. Gimblett and it was a fairly even battle for about three quarters of the game and then the Gimblett rink pulled away and were seven up coming home. These two rinks met last year when the Coleman boys won, but last night it was the Gimblett rinks turn.

In the doubles W. Jeffries and H. Coleman lead all the way and made every post a winning one. They started right off against R. Downey and H. Freeman with a big four and were never in trouble afterwards. At one time they were leading 10-1. Toward the end of the 21-end game Downey and Freeman began to do a little better but it was too late.

There was some real good bowling in this game with the odd piece of luck tossed in. Just when the doubles and rink go next we don't know. Most likely Chairman R. Downey will let's have the next draw within a few days.

Of the six local ladies' rinks that motored down to Port Hope yesterday, to play in the annual tournament sponsored by the lake shore town, Mrs. G. Coleman's rink was the only one to reach the pay-off station.

This is something new for our lady bowlers as they have been in the habit, during the last few seasons of just about making a grand slam wherever they go. However, they report a grand time and everybody seemed satisfied.

The personnel of the rink was: 4th—Mrs. S. Archibald, Mrs. F. Mowry, Miss P. Coleman, Mrs. G. Coleman, skip.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Tonight's game in the City Softball League between Plazas and St. Peter's is an important battle for both clubs. The Plazas who only have one more game in the regular schedule after tonight can make virtually certain of second place with a win over the Saints and have a chance of tieing Switchgear for first place. On the other hand the St. Peter's crew require victory to keep within reach of the Soldiers who now hold third slot and also to meet the U.E.W. menace. The last time out Plazas just managed to nose out the Saints 6 to 5 in a game that went 12 innings, the only long-distance struggle of the year. The Saints, fighting with their backs to the wall, are confident that they will come up with one of their better games against the Plazas and give the Starr-Ellis crowd a merry battle for the verdict. Bill Moorhead who pitched fine ball for the St. Peter's team in the last game against the second-placers will likely get the call to work against them on this occasion while Dave Wilson should be the nominee for Plazas. The game is called for 7 o'clock and should work up into one of the best battles of the season.

* * * * * *

The whole City League race has been tightened up by the unexpected 5 to 3 win of U.E.W. over Switchgear last night. That upset victory left the Switchgear still with a fight for first place on their hands, giving Plazas a chance to tie it up by beating St. Peter's tonight and taking Switchgear in the last meeting between the two clubs next week. At the same time the Union triumph gives them a chance of qualifying for a playoff berth and with two such pitchers as Haddie Eakins and Mac McPherson they are in good shape for the stretch run. The playoff setup calls for the first and fourth teams and the second and third to meet in the two semi-final brackets and right now not a position is decided. There will be a lot of fun before the playoff setup is cleared up. Right now the Soldier team is the hottest in the league. They have won their last three games in succession knocking off the other three teams who will enter the pl[illegible] and their new pitcher Earl Revoir has yet to be beaten in [illegible]s. The playoffs should be thrillers.

A Welcome Announcement

Good news has arrived for badminton enthusiasts throughout the country in the announcement that a limited number of "birds" are to be manufactured and that these will be rationed throughout the country for the coming season. The development comes in the nick of time for the Peterborough Badminton Club for had not the ban been lifted the local organization would not have been able to operate next season for only a small number of "birds" was on hand. Luckier than a lot of other clubs in Canada the local outfit was able to function during the past season for there was enough equipment available to enable the club to get through its schedule. Numerous clubs in the country, including a number in Toronto, were idle last season. Without any "birds" with which to play there was nothing that they could do but put up the shutters until the situation showed a betterment. Fortunately that condition has now arrived and there will be a lot more badminton played next winter than was deemed probable a few weeks ago when the outlook was anything but bright.

Along the same line is the statement that more tennis balls are being made available, which should help the game here. It has been more or less in the doldrums. Down in Ottawa on the other hand there is more tennis than ever and Billy Westwick remarks in his Ottawa Journal sport column as follows: "Tennis heads here figure as a conservative estimate that there are 4,000 active tennis players in Ottawa. The District Association has more than 2,500 players registered and that total does not include juniors, visitors and part time members of the various clubs. They also claim there are more than 500 not associated with the governing body, but still very active in a tennis way. Those charged with supervision of league play are encouraged by the number of comparatively new clubs entered. Some of them, such as Civic Hospital, St. George's Church, Ottawa Car and Aircraft, Rockcliffe airport and St. Patrick's have shown great interest in the formation of the present league. There are still a few difficulties confronting tennis players. For one thing, tennis gut for the racquets is not easy to obtain. The nylon stringing which attained great popularity a few years ago is no longer available. However, the increased supply of balls has helped out immeasurably. The results will be apparent before the end of the schedule."

Aircraft Play Tonight

Tonight the Aircraft girls who played fine ball last Friday to hand Westclox their first defeat of the season will be back in action at the Ashburnham Bowl with the up-and-coming Johnson Motors team as their opponents and it should be a real battle. The Outboard Marines have been playing a fine brand of ball and if they are clicking tonight they are likely to give the Aircrafters a real argument for the honors. Norma Strickland will probably be on the firing line for Aircraft with Helen Mark the likely starter for the Johnson aggregation. The attraction tomorrow night has the intermediate champion Brintons clashing with the Peterborough Lock Company team and the latter are hopeful that they can make it a lively batlte. For a new team the Lock girls have been playing some good ball and if they can hit one of their good nights they should give Brintons plenty over which to worry.

The Philadelphia Blue Jays did about the best for themselves of all the big league clubs in action yesterday for they only played 10 innings and picked up two wins. Of course the Phillies had done most of the work in one of their victories long before yesterday. They only had to play one frame to complete a game of May 21 that had been interrupted by the curfew law. Pittsburg failed to score in that inning yesterday and so the score stood as was, 9 to 4 for the Phillies. Then they went on to win the second game easily 12 to 2. Kewpie Barrett, incidentally got credit for both victories. St. Louis Cards ran their winning streak to seven straight by beating the Giants 4 to 1 with George Munger pitching six-hit ball for his 11th win of the season. Incidentally Munger can't get more than a dozen because he will be inducted into the American army next week. Cards are also losing their rookie pitcher Fred Schmidt who has received army call too. In the American loop Paul Trout of the Tigers won his tenth game when the Detroit club swamped the Boston Red Sox 8 to 1.

NATIVE SONGS FOR MOVIE

DAR ES-SALAAM — (CP) — The film unit shooting material in Tanganyika for the film "Men of Two Worlds" is now busy recording African songs and music. About 60 songs will be sent to England for possible inclusion in the film. More than 50 drummers have also made recordings.

Abandon Plan

ROME, July 6—(CP)—The Communist newspaper L'Unita announced last night that a plan for raising a separate "Red Army" of Italian volunteers to fight alongside the Allies had been abandoned, because the Italian Government desired to incorporate all volunteers in the regular army.

U.E.W. Defeats Switchgear 5-3 In Surprise Win

The U.E.W. team threw a monkey wrench into the whole City League setup at Riverside Park Wednesday night, when on the strength of a three-hit effort by Haddie Eakins, the Lindsay fire-baller, they defeated the leading Switchgear team 5 to 3.

As a result of this upset of the season they remained in the running for a playoff berth themselves and made it possible for the second-place Plazas to tie Switchgear for first place. The leaders would have had first place cinched if they had won the battle with the Union.

Eakins had a world of speed and Switchgear could not do much with his fast one, Holmes, first up looped a single to centre in the first. Mowry doubled through short in the fourth and Ashmore bounced a single off the pitcher's shins in the eighth. That was the sum total of the Switchgear hitting for the night. Eakins had eight strikeouts and in spite of loose fielding, including three miscues by himself, was very effective in the pinches.

Bert Harrison, on the hill top for the Switchgear, allowed only eight hits and did not give a base on balls but he tossed home run balls to Third baseman Harold Thrasher and big Mac McPherson and those circuit clouts, the Thrasher drive coming with a runner on the paths, meant three runs and the ball game.

A jumping catch of a hard-hit drive from the bat of Barney Ashmore by Platt resulting in a double-play was the best fielding play of the night. McPherson, playing right for the Union shone with a running grab of a hard smash to deep right by Gib Brockley.

Both teams threw away a chance in the first innings, Switchgear having the bases full with only one out but Mowry popped to Quigley and Brockley fanned.

A Two-Run Homer

U.E.W. broke out in front in quick order in the second. McPherson got a life on Tompkins' fumble but Girard popped to Tompkins and Griffin fanned. Thrasher however drove one over Carpenter's head in left for a homer, scoring McPherson in front of him.

Switchgear got that one back in the fourth. Playford walked, advanced on a wild pitch and scored when Mowry cracked a double through short. Mowry went to third on a wild pitch and was caught off that bag when Brockley rolled to Thrasher. Tompkins fouled to Doughty and Brockley went to third on the first baseman's bad throw to second. Nicholls struck out.

The winners increased their lead in the seventh. Griffin opened with a single to centre and Thrasher dropped a single into right and the runners advanced a base each on Brockley's bad throw. Doughty singled to left scoring Griffin but Thrasher was out at the plate trying to score from second. Doughty went to second on the play and to third on a wild pitch. Eakins hit to Nicholls and Doughty was safe at the plate when Mowry dropped the ball in tagging him.

Players Kicked Out

In Switchgear's end of the frame Tompkins was called out on a close play at first on a bunt and Switchgear protested so vigorously that Catcher Holly Mowry was banished from the game by Umpire Bob Batley who also chased Freddy Elliott from the coaching line. Nicholls was tossed out by Eakins, but Harrison drew a walk and Holmes was safe on his bunt when Eakins' throw to first hit him, Harrison going to third. Girard had Holmes off first base with a quick toss but Doughty dropped the ball, Harrison scoring. Holmes was out however trying to go to second on the play.

Mac MacPherson boomed a long homer to deep left centre field in the eighth to put the Union ahead 5 to 2. There was no one on at the time.

Switchgear got their last run in their half of the inning. With one away Ashmore's hard smash to the box went for a hit and Playford got a life on Eakins' error when he bunted. Akers' bounder to Platt forced Playford at second. Brockley's roller got away from Quigley, and Ashmore registered but Tompkins popped to Doughty to end the inning.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 6 — (AP). — After watching some of the recent Red Cross tennis matches at Forest Hills — and one veteran observer claimed it was the best tennis he had seen in 10 years—this department reached the conclusion that what tennis needs is a Ray Dumont ....That doesn't mean we want the racqueteers to run the wrong way after hitting the ball; they do that often enough, anyway....But a few fresh ideas and some professional promotion would make it a better show and attract more spectators. ....As a starter, how about a professional version of the Davis Cup competition after the war?....Maybe Lex Thompson, who sunk enough dough in a pro tour to deserve some sort of a memento, could be persuaded to put up a trophy.

One-minute sports page:

Bobby McLean, the ice comedian and one-time speed skating champ, likes golf better than skating. A guy isn't so likely to fall and bust a couple of ribs on the golf course ....Phil Bloom, who fought Benny Leonard eight times (six no decision, KO'd twice), and George Levine, who had two losing clashes with Pete Latzo, are in the acting business in Hollywood and currently appear in "The Hairy Ape."

Toronto Sweeps 5 Titles At Swim Meet

VERDUN, Que., July 6 — (CP) — Toronto swimming experts showed style and speed here last night when they captured five swimming championships from local entries at the Province of Quebec swimming championship meet. Main purpose of the meet was to select Quebec representatives in the Dominion title championships, to be held in Vancouver.

Jean Mowatt, Toronto, scored a close win over the famed swimmer and skier Rhona Wurtele of Montreal in the senior 100 yards back stroke and also recorded a victory in the 100 yards breast stroke.

In the 100 yards Senior Women's Free Style, Barbara Hunt, of Toronto defeated Rhona Wurtele while Margaret Harrington of Toronto took the same event in the Junior Women's division. Toronto wins were completed by Ross Charlton who captured the 100 yards back stroke Junior Men.

The Senior Men's 100 yards breast stroke was won by E. Mahon, Montreal, the 150 yards Medley by John O'Connor, Verdun, Que., and the Junior 100 yards free style by Louis Fishman, Montreal.

Brampton Makes Three-Way Tie

BRAMPTON, July 6.—Brampton created a three-way tie for second place in the O.L.A. standings with St. Kitts and Mimico by beating the latter, 19-10, in a wide-open lacrosse game played at Mimico last night.

Bill Brunskill and Don Campbell paced the winners with five and four goals respectively. George Masters and Doyle carried the offensive for Mimico, netting three goals each.

Mimico — Goal, Carey; defense, McLean, Dinsmore; rover, Breakspeare; centre, Masters; forwards, B. MacDonald, J. MacDonald; alternates, Doyle, Jannaway, Curran, McKay, Edmond, Hayes.

Brampton—Goal, Carter; defense, Thompson, Sheepard; rover, Bryan; centre, Graham; forwards, Madgett, B. Mulliss; alternates, Brunskill, Campbell, Gowland, Steele, Ingram, Morris, Price.

Officials—Bruce McClure, Brampton; Morris Murphy, Mimico.

Cardinals Whip Giants 4-1; Pirates Lose Two

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

All-stars have a habit of going sour when their names are called for "dream-game" duty but the 1944 crop today showed signs of ignoring the pre-game jitters.

George Munger, Stan Musial, Ray Mueller, Connie Ryan, Dixie Walker, Joe Medwick and Mel Ott of the National League cast and Paul "Dizzy" Trout and Dutch Leonard of the American stood out in yesterday's major league games.

As St. Louis Cardinals whipped New York Giants, 4-1, in a night game, Munger upped his win record to 11-2 and Musial clubbed a double and single pulling to within two points of Dixie Walker's league-leading average by boosting his mark to 370 The only Giant run was scored by Ott who doubled and was driven home by Medwick.

Munger is slated to go into the service the day of the all-star fray.

Mueller tied the National League record set by George Gibson of Pittsburgh in 1909 when he caught his 133rd consecutive game for Cincinnati as the Reds dumped Brooklyn, 4-1 for their ninth straight loss. Mueller started his streak last year when he caught the last 62 games of the Red season. The Cincy "iron man" had one of his club's eight hits off Ed Head who was charged with the loss. Ed Heusser allowed only three Brooklyn singles, one by Walker, who maintained his batting lead.

Ryan Stars

Ryan was the hitting star of Boston's 7-2 verdict over Chicago with four singles in five times at bat but Jim Tobin, who failed to make the all-stars, retired the first 16 Cubs in order.

Dick (Kewpie) Barrett of the Phils won two victories in the same afternoon over Pittsburgh, hurling the last inning to complete a game suspended from May 21 with a 9-4 edge and then handing the Pirates' Ray Starr his first defeat, 12-2 in the regular game.

Trout joined the 10-win club as Detroit stopped Boston 8-1. Washington's Leonard baffled Chicago, 3-1 in a night game.

George Caster of the Browns stopped Philadelphia in three innings of neat relief chucking and came through with a single with the bases loaded in the ninth to earn a 4-2 nod. The Yankees won 6-2 over Cleveland.

During 1943, according to Ottawa, there were more than 205 million admissions into Canadian movie theatres, which exceeded the 1942 figure by over 21 million. Theatres returned $13,326,478 to the federal and provincial government in amusement taxes. . . If every seat in every theatre was filled at every performance there would have been 566,637,994 admissions in 1942, a figure which changed in 1943 by the addition of 19 theatres, bringing Canada's total to 1,270 movie houses. . . The National Film Board's color short, "Air Cadets," is a heart-warming bit of entertainment. . . Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, largest movie studio in the world, is celebrating its twentieth anniversary. In charge since its beginning is Louis B. Mayer, who left his home town of St. John, New Brunswick, to try the theatre business in neighboring New England. One of Mayer's leading stars is Walter Pidgeon, also from St. John.

Dinah Shore is one movie star who doesn't think she is beautiful. Asked why she was so popular with servicemen, she said that "we girls who aren't beautiful have an advantage over the girls who are. The boys don't consider us out of their reach". . . Benny Goodman described a certain script as "not being worth the paper it's rotten on". . . The password at the headquarters of the invasion High Command was "Mickey Mouse." Hitler won't like that because in 1934 he banned Mickey Mouse novelties from lapels, etc., decreeing that only swastikas could be worn. . . Roddy McDowall fell off a horse while making "Thunderhead, Son of Flicka" and cracked two ribs. . . It is being predicted that "Going My Way," in which Bing Crosby plays a priest, will draw more fans than any film in history. It will be seen in Canada in the fall.

Production is being resumed on the Blondie films and the next, featuring Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton in their old roles, will be "Blondie Houses a Haunt". . . Plagiarism suits are the plague of Hollywood. MGM is being sued for $150,000 by two writers who claim that the story of "A Guy Named Joe" was stolen from their "Aid From the West". . . Newest religious film being planned is "A Song and a Prayer," story of a Hebrew chaplain in the army. . . June Lockhart, daughter of London, Ontario's Gene Lockhart, will have the feminine lead in "Son of Lassie". . . Claudette Colbert, a Paramount star for ten years, has made millions of dollars and saved most of it, they say.

George White, who started out as a newsboy dancing for nickels on the Toronto ferries and became one of Broadway's greatest producers, will make "George White's Scandals of 1945" as a film. . . In Toronto visiting family and friends the other week was Producer Jules Levey, who brought a print of his newest film, "The Hairy Ape," with him. The film, from a story by Eugene O'Neill, stars William Bendix, Susan Hayward and John Loder. . . Gandhi saw his first talking picture recently, "Mission to Moscow." India's press treated it as a big event. . . Jane Wyman's favorite story is about two logs talking. "You know," said one, "I slept like a man last night". . . . Walter Wanger will make "Salome, Where She Danced" and will conduct a continent-wide search for a new girl to play the lead.

Yankee Maid, owned by A. L. Derby of Wichita, Kans., is being boomed to take the 19th Hambletonian, scheduled for the Goshen Oval Aug. 9, after winning the recent matron and championship stallion stakes at North Randall in straight heats. The daughter of Volomite turned in the fastest mile of any two-year-old last year when she flashed a mile in .04 in copping the Lexington stake. Opposition to Yankee Maid in the $40,000 harness classic is expected from Enac, entered by Bill Cane, which was runner-up in both heats of the stallion stake.

Forced to quit pitching because of a spinal injury, Hal Gregg of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is returning to New York to-day from Cincinnati to undergo treatment. According to the Cincinnati club physician, Gregg may have to wear a brace.

The Toronto-owned Shepperton was unable to do better than fifth in the $7,500 Camden handicap at Garden State Park yesterday, the winner being Best Reward which returned $26.20 for $2.

Manuel Ortiz, bantamweight champion, yesterday was signed at Boston to meet Willie Pep of Hartford in a non-title 10-round bout at Braves' Field July 17. If Ortiz wins, Pep is reported to have agreed to take on the Californian in a return 15-round engagement for the featherweight title.

Foxx Drops Back.

Jimmy Foxx, home-run champion of more than a decade ago with Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox, yesterday was deleted from the active list of the Chicago Cubs which meant his comeback attempt had failed. He has been made a coach and bull pen catcher.

Ted Manorek, former gridiron star with the Hamilton, Ont., police department, last night captured the all-round championship at the annual police games in that city, the runner-up being George Larson, another athletic celebrity of other years.

Him Hanna of the Argyle club skipped to a 12-10 win over his clubmate, D. A. E. Walkey, in the trophy final of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association tournament at Hamilton last night. Fred Beldham of Roselawn and James Cunningham of Hamilton Thistles qualified to meet for the Buckingham trophy to-day.

Jersey City Sweeps 3-Game Series

By The Associated Press

Newark Bears swept a three-game series with their arch-rivals, Jersey City Giants, yesterday—the first time they have turned the trick this year. The score was 2-0. Floyd Bevens hurled a two-hitter as the Bears scored two runs on five hits off Mike Mellis.

Montreal Royals, who jumped into first place Tuesday by virtue of a double win over the Giants, found Rochester Red Wings a bit tougher going yesterday. Bill Trotter won his seventh as the Wings defeated the Royals, 6-4, pushing them back into second place.

George Washburn started for Montreal and was tagged with the loss, relieved by Johnny Travis in the sixth. It was Washburn's second defeat against five wins.

Toronto and Buffalo didn't play, having concluded their contest at an earlier date. Baltimore and Syracuse were held idle for the second day because of the loss of Oriole Park by fire July 2.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Woody Williams, Reds—Collected three hits in four times at bat and scored twice as Cincinnati handed Brooklyn its ninth straight loss, 4-1.

Jim Tobin, Braves—Retired first 16 cubs in order in hurling Braves out of basement on 7-2 victory.

Dick Barrett, Phils—Hurled final inning of May 21 "suspended" game to protect 9-4 margin and then stopped Pittsburg in regularly scheduled tilt, 12-2 to pick up two victories in afternoon.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout, Tigers—Joined 10-win club by scattering eight Boston safeties in 8-1 Detroit decision.

Mueller Sets Backstop Record

CINCINNATI, July 6 (AP)—When Ray Coleman Mueller, Cincinnati's one-man catching staff, appears behind the bat tonight against Brooklyn Dodgers, it will mark his 134th consecutive catching game, one more than the major league record set by George Gibson of Pittsburgh Pirates 35 years ago.

Gibson caught 150 games in 1909 for the pennant-winning Pirates, 133 of them in succession. The Red received yesterday caught his 71st game in a row this year, after having worked the last 62 in 1943.

In his second year with the Reds, Mueller who previously served with the Braves and Pirates, is considered one of the most proficient maskmen Cincinnati ever has had as well as the most durable. Last year he set a record for the club by taking part in 140 games.

His current .280 batting average is the highest mark of any catcher in the National League.

On defence, Ray has made only five errors in 238 chances and has been charged with just two passed balls this season. In last year's 140 games, Mueller let only five pitches get past him, for a total of seven in 211 games.

Picnic Enjoyed

HAVELOCK, July 6.—(ENS). — The annual picnic, sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of the United church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the summer cottage of Mr. A. E. Denike on Green Point on Trent River. The usual good attendance was kept up and visiting campers were heartily welcomed by the president, Mrs. George Chiles. The afternoon was spent in boating, swimming, Chinese checkers and other favourite pastimes. A bountiful picnic supper was served at six o'clock on the lawn, after which more water sports were indulged in by old and young alike.

Marines Defeat Lock Works By 10-3 Count

Behind steady pitching by Helen Mark, Outboard Marines whipped Peterborough Lock 10-3 in a fast-played Ladies' Softball League game at Ashburnham Bowl Wednesday evening.

Neither team scored in the first inning, and in the second Lock Company gained the first run. Barbara McMahon made a hefty hit for a long triple. Outboard Marines came back in the third, however, and scored three times, while in the same frame Peterborough Lock turned in 2 counters. Those two counters were the last to be made by the Lock Company, although several times they came close to adding counters. The Marines continued battling in the fifth, scoring twice, and added two in the seventh inning.

The Marines turned in a run in the eighth and another in the ninth to make the final count. Both teams miscued twice.

Pitching for Marines was Helen Mark, who struck-out 4 and walked one.

On the hill for the Lock Company, Beryl Lee struck-out 2 and walked 5.

The Marines' hard-hitter was Eileen Young, and she cracked out a double in the fifth. Hitting for Peterborough Lock, Vera Carr batted a triple in the first, and Barbara McMahon also connected for a triple in the second.

On first base for Marines, Vera Mitchell handled the task efficiently. Audrey Patton was behind the home plate for the Lock Company and downed five Marines by nabbing foul balls

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 6 — (CP). — Just as a measure of relief from the July heat a spot of hockey talk might prove seasonable. At least that must have been the idea of Charlie Sands, playing coach of the Pasadena squad in the California Hockey League last winter who talked a bit of shop in Winnipeg the other day.

Charlie, erstwhile N.H.L. star with Toronto and Boston, said that the brand of play in the coast loop compared very favorably with that of the best senior leagues in Canada —which mightn't be saying so much at that, considering the depleted ranks of the civilian Allan Cup-hunting teams.

At any rate, it's probably an omen of the future and an indication of which way the hockey star current will drift after the war when amateur sport of all kinds is back on a big-time basis. Then the Canadians will have to watch their laurels or they may be snatched right down to Hollywood or New Orleans.

Here and there:

The baseball loop in Vancouver is getting to be a family affair. Danny Holden, who is pitching and slugging St. Regis to victories, while big brother Eddie is the star of the Arrows, bitter rivals of St. Regis and current leaders of the league. ....Honoring one of Nova Scotia's most prominent athletes to die in the services, residents of Halifax dedicated the Larry O'Connell Memorial Playgrounds the other day. O'Connell, star hockey player and all-round athlete, was killed in a training accident in Canada after returning from his tour of bombing ops overseas.....Another athlete, Mel Lunde of numerous hockey squads in Edmonton and Vancouver, has been killed on the Normandy bridgehead....There is no scarcity of betting money out West either. On Dominion Day at Winnipeg's Polo Park, $242,233 was wagered through the wicket. This was 30 per cent more than on July 1 last year, and $39,797 more than on the best day last season.

Claims Interest Rates Above Legal Amounts

OTTAWA, July 6—(CP)—George Bickerton of Saskatoon, past president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, said before the Commons Banking committee yesterday that a check of bank records should be made to find the entire amount of "illegal interest" collected from borrowers of credit.

Mr. Bickerton faced questioning by committee members after presentation of a brief for his organization which recommended that bank charters, now being discussed by the committee, be extended only for one year instead of the usual 10.

The brief said that steps should be taken by the Federal government to administer the banking and credit system of the Dominion "with the least possible disruption, and that except for the elimination of unnecessary duplication. the present public welfare structure be maintained."

"You want to nationalize the banks?" asked Hon. R. B. Hanson (PC-York-Sunbury).

"I would have to ask you to explain what you mean by nationalization of the banks before I could answer that," said Mr. Bickerton.

"Perhaps I'd better leave that to Mr. Coldwell (M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, whose party has suggested the banks be nationalized)," said Mr. Hanson.

Mr Bickerton said the United Farmers believed that a search of the records to establish "illegal interest" amounts, was owed by the Federal Government to the public. Amounts involved in such discovery should be returned to the "rightful owners."

The organization had recommended that the Bank Act should provide a penalty when the banks charged more than the interest rate established by law.

"It is well known that until recent years farm machinery companies charged 8 per cent on current credit debt and 9 and 10 per cent on overdue accounts, mortgage companies 8 and 9 per cent on first mortgages on farm property, with a 1 or 2 per cent interest rise on renewal after five years," Mr. Bickerton said.

Trent River News

Mrs. Albert Almark and children, Albert, Suzanne and John, have returned to Toronto after spending two weeks' vacation at the home of her brother, Mr. Frances Ruttan.

Commencing next Sunday church service will be held in the Trent River church in the evening at 8 o'clock instead of the usual afternoon service during the month of July. Sunday school is being discontinued for the remainder of the month.

Guests with Mr. and Mrs. H. Mann over the holiday week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Hall of Toronto.

Capture General

LONDON, July 6 — (CP) — The Russians announced at midnight the capture of Lt.-Gen. Von Luetzow, commander of the 35th German Army Corps, the 22nd Nazi general officer killed or captured in three weeks in Russia and France.

Moscow said Von Luetzow was seized with a group of 60 German officers in mopping up operations far behind Russian lines in a wood northwest of Bobruisk.

Bayeux Town Little Paris To Allied Units

BY HALE DOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

BAYEUX, France, July 5 — (AP) — This picturesque town of fewer than 11,000 inhabitants was the first "Little Paris" of the Second Great War but already it is losing that brief distinction.

It is the least damaged community of any size taken by the Allies during the explosive campaign in Normandy and for some days it was Mecca to the hungry, battle-worn British troops and visiting Americans and Canadians.

There was an abundance of steak, milk, cheese, country butter and vegetables for these fighting men weary of the stale monotony of canned and packaged rations. Also there was a plentiful supply of wines, beers and liquors.

For the man who knew his way around there was even the possibility of an evening of romance with a French Madameoiselle although the Allied soldiers had been warned in advance in a small pocket guide to France that they shouldn't believe that line.
all they had heard in the past along

Now those brief happy days are over because "off limits to all troops" signs are put up on the approaches to historic Bayeux and the only soldiers allowed in the city are those on official business.

That doesn't keep a goodly number from finding an excuse to slip into town, but the "gold rush" period is over.

Apsley Soldier Returns Home

APSLEY, July 6 (ENS) — Pte. Ellwood Young, veteran of the battles in Sicily last summer returned home this week. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Young of Clanricarde.

This 25 year old, tall tanned black-eyed soldier, enlisted in Timmins September 12, 1942, in Hastings Prince Edward Regiment. He received his basic training at Brantford and was stationed for a while at Camp Borden. For 3 years prior to enlisting he had worked in Timmins for United Movers and for Feldman Timber Co.

On July 24, 1943 he was wounded in the right arm and leg by shell fragments while fighting at Assoro in Sicily. He was moved to a Military Hospital in North Africa August 1st, then to England in November where he remained in Military hospital until he was returned to Canada in June.

For a time it was thought certain that his arm would be amputated but now he has the assurance that it will be saved for him.

He is loud in praise of treatment in hospital and by Doctors and Nursing Sisters.

He met several local soldiers while in Sicily among them Ptes. Bob Liscum, Jesse Liscum, Ross Bullied, Earl Harvey and Cpl. Cecil Bullied who was later killed in action. While in England he met several, among them being Pte. T. A. Barton and Nursing Sister Sadie Trotter who was one of his former school mates.

Pte. Young has one brother (Russell) training at Brantford, another brother (Kenneth) of Toronto has been discharged from the Army. He has four sisters and six brothers. He is on a 30 day furlough at the end of which he must report to Military Hospital in Toronto for further treatment on his arm.

Ellwood is the first one of the local boys to return from overseas and everyone is rejoicing with his family on his return and his good luck to have his arm saved.

CONNECTION SEVERED.
Uruguay's constitution of 1919 separated church and state.

NOW IN BRITAIN—Mrs. Nelson Martin, 274 Edinburgh street, has a brother, Pte. Orville More, serving in Britain. He enlisted at Carbery, Manitoba, and his mother, Mrs. B. More lives at 434½ George street.

WOMEN PAY BIG PRICE FOR POOR "BLOOD MAKE UP"

You women who feel and look "washed out"—limp and droopy—may be paying the price of hemoglobin shortage in the blood.

The demands of monthly "periods" pregnancy, etc. all conspire to bring about this shortage of the vital red coloring matter in the red blood cells. Try Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

They help increase hemoglobin where there is a shortage of it due to iron deficiency and help chase away that "leaden" feeling of tiredness so often due to this condition. Start your course of Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. Ask your druggist.

In today's two casualty lists appear the names of 72 Canadian Army officers and men who have either died of action of wounds.

GUEST OF KIWANIS

Alex C. Kay guest speaker at the Lindsay Kiwanis Club luncheon, Tuesday, advised the fathers of his audience to take their sons on hikes to the woods, identfiying bird and animal life to them and encouraging them in the love of nature. "This will tend to bring father and son closer together, and is a splendid influence in a boys' life and upbringing." Mr. Kay was introduced by Kiwanian Dick Butler.

DEMAND BEING MET

Temporarily at least the need for part-time and volunteer help to cope with the seasonal canning requirements, chiefly at Canada Packers, is being met, W. H. L. Mellis, manager of Selective Service, said today. Originally the aim was to get 40 men or boys and about 25 women for the work, and this quota is now made up. But should the warm, sunny weather continue uninterrupted for a time, Mr. Mellis indicated, the canning volume would stretch to higher levels, and consequently still further workers would be needed to do the job.

BANK CLEARINGS

With a Saturday holiday and a Monday with very little business, Peterborough Clearing House reported today clearings for the past week as totalling $936,220.

KIWANIS SPEAKER

Gordon R. Langley, C.G.E. engineer, will be the speaker at Friday's meeting of the Kiwanis Club. His subject is to be "Financing of Post War International Trade and Its Problems."

COTTAGES OPEN

Reports from Stoney Lake and other nearby resorts say that most summer cottages are now open, with the number increasing daily. A good season is looked for, with American visitors over the 4th of July week-end approaching the average peak of the past few years.

COLLIDE AT INTERSECTION

Cars owned by Albert E. Lewis, 235 Northcliffe boulevard, Toronto, and Vernon Saulter, Omemee, were damaged in a collision at the intersection of the Chemong road and Stewart streets Wednesday. Lewis was driving south on highway 7 and was continuing south on Stewart street when Saulter drove north on Reid street and there was a collision at the intersection. The front of Saulter's machine and the right rear fender and hubcap of Lewis' car were damaged Both drivers claimed they did not see the other car until too late to avert an accident.

17-Year-Old Girl Injured On Farm

Blanche Quinn, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Quinn, R.R. No. 9, Peterborough, had a narrow escape from serious injury Wednesday morning when she was run over by a mower on the farm of her father. Running out to stop the horses hitched to the mower, she fell in front and was run over by the machine, suffering several broken bones, a cracked shoulder blade and multiple bruises. She was removed to Nicholls Hospital in an unconscious state, but was reported this morning to be getting along fairly well.

The girl had been helping her father cutting hay this week and the accident occurred near the Quinn barn. Mr. Quinn and a hired man were beside the barn at the time and saw the girl fall beneath the mower. Dr. R. F. Nott was called to the scene.

J. B. Kerr Bags German Plane

"Flight Lieutenant J. B. Kerr of Trenton, Ontario, brought the number of aircraft destroyed in the air by the City of Edmonton Intruder Squadron to 90 when he shot down a JU-88 over Northern France early Wednesday."

This quotation from this morning's cabled news from London refers to a former Campbellford boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kerr of Trenton. His father was for some years proprietor of the St. Lawrence Hotel, Campbellford, where the Flt. Lt. Kerr was born and grew up beyond his school years. Early in the war he enlisted in the R.C.A.F. at Trenton and for a time after his graduation was assigned to instructional duties.

The Canadian Press story includes the further information, "This squadron's grand total is now 136, including planes destroyed on the ground."

Voting System

KINGSTON, July 6 (CP) — New system of voting was devised here for electing the new Kingston Heights Community Council— the polls went to the voters instead of the usual procedure of the voters trekking to the polls. Two ballots were distributed to each household and these were collected by Girl Guides and Boy Scouts carrying ballot boxes.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

July 6, 1940 — British naval planes scored six hits on already grounded French battleship Dunkerque at Oran. British called 300,000 of 1909 class to colors. Hong Kong's shipping and air services to French Indo-China halted until France's general position clarified.

40-lb. Muskie Caught In Trent

A 40-pound muskie, the largest caught in this district in several years has been brought to D. M. Goheen, taxidermist for mounting.

Taken the first day of the open season, last Saturday by Mrs. H. Stewart of Toronto, fishing near Campbellford in the lower Trent River, the big fish is a beautiful specimen. Mrs. Stewart was fishing with her son in the boat when the monster struck and as they had no club or gaff, landing the fish in the boat was a ticklish job. When they finally rolled the muskie in, Mr. Stewart used his shoe as a club to finish off the fish.

Mr. Goheen states the muskie is slightly over 4 feet two inches in length and large in the girth. He states it is the largest ever brought into his shop, and the second by the Stewart family, who had a 22 pounder mounted in 1943.

Quakers Defeat Dominion Woollens

Quaker Oats trimmed Woollens 22-10, in a fast-played Industrial League game, at Bonner Field Wednesday evening.

Quakers started to pile up their large edge in the first inning, when they scored three times with Woollens blanked. The Quakers followed this up in the second inning by making three more runs, and Woollens made two runs in the same frame.

The Woollens team scored three times in the third, with only one counter being chalked up for Quakers in the same frame. An energetic drive in the fourth netted Quakers 7 runs, and in the same inning, Woollens managed to pull off 4 counters. This brought the count at the end of the first four innings 14-9, with the Quaker team holding the five-run edge.

Quakers made 3 runs in the fifth, three more in the sixth, and two runs in the eighth. The last Woollen counter came in the sixth frame, and one run was turned in, to make the final score.

Horton pitched for Quakers, and Coughlin handled the gunnery for Woollens.

The teams:

Quaker Oats—Roote, ss; Horton, p; Gunn, c; Sullivan, 2b; Pollock, lf; Fisher, 1b; Weaver, 3b; Willshaw, cf; Tice, rf.

Woollens—McCarrel, 3b; A. Armstrong, c; D. Hillier, 1b; Caccavella, ss; P. Hillier, lf; Coughlin, p; Scott, cf; McMillan 2b; Hoar, rf.

Under the direction of H. B. McGinness the picnic was a huge success. At the conclusion of the evening J. R. Marshall thanked all who contributed to making a successful outing.

Committee Chairmen To Present Reviews

In a desire to obtain continuity of action or at least of interest in projects of the municipality and other affairs that are undertaken or planned from time to time, Alderman Sullivan suggested at the council meeting Tuesday night that committee chairmen present monthly statements of review of what has been done—or not done.

Committee reports at the present time present recommendations requiring the council's approval, an established procedure quite apart from the suggestion of progress reports. Alderman Sullivan said that certain projects are authorized, or they may still be only in the enquiry stage, but they are usually left to one of the standing committees or to a special committee, or one of the departmental executives.

Usually this directed work is begun and the information does come back to the council as a whole, but in some instances they fade into silence or are stuck away in pigeon holes and nothing more is heard of them. Alderman Sullivan stated that these affairs would be kept alive and before the attention of the council by the regular reports of committee chairman, until these matters had been definitely disposed of.

Members of the council expressed agreement with the idea, and Alderman Sullivan said he would undertake to set an example by making regular reports from the fire department to the finance committee.

Panther Treed

MIAMI, Fla., July 6 (AP)—Mrs. Charles T. Lundstrom, armed with a flashlight, joined her two dogs in keeping a panther treed on her property most of Monday night until police came to kill it. Patrolman John H. Holland, who brought the animal down with a shotgun charge, said it was a South American panther wearing a collar with a blank nameplate.

Memorial Health-Athletic Centre Plan Approved

A health and athletic centre for the city of Peterborough, embracing proposals much wider than the original project of a simple artificial ice arena was brought before a general committee of citizens representing various interests at a meeting held Wednesday evening, when the fact-finding committee appointed recently and headed by J. E. Jebson presented the results of its investigations. Meeting with unanimous approval, the project itself, which in a way will serve as a memorial to servicemen who have sacrificed their lives in the war, was organized on a working basis with executive officers and committees to ready the undertaking for initiation in the fall.

His familiarity with every aspect of the problems involved in the erection of a health centre demonstrated to the gathering, Mr. Jebson was appointed president of a citizens committee which will supervise the financing and building of the "Memorial Health and Athletic Centre" as it is to be called. Other officers elected included Alderman H. I. Bradburn, as chairman, J. J. Dorris, secretary, and Charles Cummer treasurer; while J. R. Marshall, Paige Rowell, William Eastwood and Frank Buckland will serve as chairmen of the finance, publicity, site and building committees respectively.

Envisaging a recreation centre which would eventually include baseball and rugby fields and swimming facilities in addition to an arena building 144 by 256 feet with a seating capacity of 2,600 plus standing room for 700, providing not only ice hockey and skating but plans for dancing and conventions, it was stressed that the primary objective of the enterprise would be the good it could perform in promoting the welfare of the young and combatting juvenile delinqency. As stated by Mayor Hamilton, who served as chairman of the meeting, even if it paid dividends in no other way, it would pay dividends in the youth problem eventually costing the city less money than if it were not built.

General Support

That the project meets with widespread support was made clear by Vern Selkirk, who read excerpts from numerous letters received from various municipal, religious and service club organisations which extolled the project and termed it a definite need in the city's life.

The difference between a natural and an artificial ice arena and what might be expected from the latter in a city this size was commented on by Alderman R. M. Glover, who felt convinced that hockey and skating receipts should be immeasurably larger in the new arena than they had ever been in the Brock arena. He emphasized the fact that it was necessary to have a first class hockey team to make the whole project a success, as with the hockey as a nucleus, development of sports in other lines would come very fast. Mr. Glover pointed to the experience of other communities as an example of what might be expected of an arena here, and said that St. Catharines had been so successful it was enabled to pay off its bonded debt faster than it had agreed to do. "If we could make the money that Oshawa has made," Mr. Glover stated, "we wouldn't have to worry about finances."

Site Undecided

The cost of the building, Ed. Riley reported, would be roughtly $190,000 and this would include the installation of a heating plant and the seats. He said that provision for practically everything had been made in the plans. The written report of John R. Marshall submitted to Mr. Jebson, advocates setting $350,000 as the objective to be reached of which $100,000 would be raised by contributions of $10 each from 10,000 wage earners or families, another $100,000 to be raised from industries, merchants and professions, while $75,000 each would be obtained by City and Dominion Government grants. With an active publicity campaign to start almost immediately, the canvass for the public would be set for the middle of September.

A question still undecided and which it will devolve upon the Site committee to look into in the coming weeks is the matter of location. Here some divergence of views was expressed by differentt persons attending the meeting, with perhaps a general feeling in favor of the Riverside Park area, although a number were definitely opposed or dubious on the grounds of the distance from the south end of town and the bottleneck caused by the Hunter street bridge. The meeting was adjourned following a motion to empower the various committee heads to choose standing committees which will forward the work during the ensuing summer months.

German Mines Slaughter Cows Provide Steaks For Canadians

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 6.— (CP).— Khaki closeups from the Normandy front:

Capt. Bummer Stirling, former Sarnia Imperials football ace, has been with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders as a former observation officer of the R.C.A. ....In a little village nine hundred yards from Germans, officers of the unit had a victory party after a four-day fight at Les Buissons. One of the big treats was half a gallon of maple syrup sent by the Second Battalion from Cornwall, Ont.....It arrived just in time for the rally.

Mail Slow.

It is up on the front where Canadians eat well. Cows occasionally walk over mine fields and get killed and they are turned into fine cuts of beef, nearly before they hit the ground. Any day at the frontline units, you can have inch-thick steaks for dinner. Mail is reaching Canadians in Normandy now but for the first six days only small quantities got to France. Ordinary mail from Canada takes about 19 days and blue airletters about 11 or 12 days on the average. It is pointed out here that the delay at the start was not the postal corps' fault but the allocation of sea transport. Even the parcel mail is coming through now....Put razor blades in parcels to soldiers in France. There may be a shortage here before long....They are well fixed for soap. Compo grub is good and cigarettes are in as much demand as ever.

A Canadian rest camp has been established in a combaratively quiet spot. Officers and men are going to be taken out of the line for three or four days at a time and given the chance to get cleaned up and rested. The first rest camp draft is to be about 300.

Sgt. Jack Bartlett of Galt, Ont., former Waterloo county correspondent of the Toronto Telegram and brother of Lt.-Cmdr. E. H. Bartlett of Toronto, who is a prisoner of war in Italy, is serving with a brigade H.Q. here. Another brother, Capt. R. L. Bartlett. Toronto, is in England and will probably be coming to France later on

There is one Tommy here who broke his false teeth and had to be evacuated to England because he could not eat hardtack.

OBITUARY

JOHN WILLIAM MONCRIEF

John William Moncrief of South Monaghan, who celebrated his 90th birthday last May, died on Wednesday in Peterborough at the residence of his son, Ross, 145 Morrow street. He had been ill only a very short time.

Born in South Monaghan the son of the late John Moncrief and Margaret Armstrong, he was a lifelong resident of that township and engaged in farming up until 28 years ago. Mr. Moncrief was a member and elder of Centreville Presbyterian church. His wife, the former Maude Stewart, predeceased him 13 years ago; and a twin brother William died in 1937 at the age of 84.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. G. A. Gray of Winnipeg; and by two sons, Kenneth of South Monaghan and Ross of Peterborough.

There are three grandsons, Earl Gray serving in Italy with an artillery regiment, Gordon Moncrief of Peterborough and Jack Moncrief of Toronto; three granddaughters, Betty Moncrief, South Monaghan, and Helen Moncrief and Mrs. Morgan Rowland of this city. Mr. Moncrief also leaves two great-granddaughters, Donna Rowland of Peterborough and Roberta Gray, Winnipeg.

The remains are resting at the Nesbitt Funeral Home 347 Charlotte street, for funeral at Centreville Presbyterian church on Friday at three o'clock. Interment in Centreville Presbyterian cemetery.

Otonabee Soldier Lauds Slit Trenches Fights With Glengarrians In France

"I think I must hold the world's speed record for diving into slit-trenches, but some of those dives, either graceful or ungraceful, have saved my life more than once," said Sgt. W. Wallace, RR 7 Peterborough, in a letter written from the fighting front in France to F. B. Sargent, Weller street.

"This part of France seems to be very much like England, with small villages, and the ever-present churches," Sgt. Wallace wrote.

He said he had not been injured yet in the fighting, other than a cut received while trying to open a tin can, and told of getting some fresh eggs and milk in some of the deserted villages in Normandy.

The letter was written June 14, 8 days after D-Day, and Sgt. Wallace said it was the first chance he had had to write. He added that for a while, he didn't think he'd ever write another letter.

He wrote, "I never was a very religious fellow, but I admit right now, and so do others who managed to squeeze into those trenches with me, there have been times that I, and they, have prayed, and prayed hard."

Born in England, he has spent most of his life in Canada. Before enlisting in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders in November 1940, Sgt. Wallace worked in the mines at Kirkland Lake, and previous to that, was employed by Rehill Fuel and Builders Supply Company, Peterborough. Well known in Peterborough and district, he also spent nearly seven years working in Otonabee.

He went overseas in July 1942, after training in Peterborough and Cornwall, Ontario.

MISSING IN ACTION—In the Army since the first month of the war, Tpr. Gordon W. Huggins, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Huggins, 46 Frank street, has been missing in action since June 23, word just received by his parents has revealed. Tpr. Huggins, 24, who serves with the Oshawa Tank Regiment, enlisted in that unit in September, 1939, and went overseas in June, 1941.

1944 Pea Pack Hits Its Peak

The canning department at Canada Packers is booming this week since the pea pack reached its peak Tuesday and is continuing at that level from morning to midnight.

First arrivals from the viners in Smith, Ennismore and Cavan reached the plant a week ago Thursday, only a light supply that was duplicated on Friday, but Tuesday morning the volume mounted to expected deliveries and the plant has been humming with the production of the York and Devon brands.

"The crop is much heavier than last year, and we are looking forward to at least a normal pack, if the present hot and dry weather is not relieved by some rain. Pods are filling fast, but there are some signs of aphids which might affect the later peas."

High school boys have been recruited for this July job, which is likely to extend to the end of the month, and are a great help in the day shift. Part time help has been an advantage in the night shift from 7 p.m. to 11 o'clock and midnight.

Some of the men in training at the Military Centre have been turning their evening leave from duty to industrial account by helping at C.P. in the stretch beginning after supper.

Part of the crop has been grown in Otonabee, farmers from that section transporting their loads of peas to the viner in Smith or down the Port Hope highway.

Small Girl Hurt Crossing Street

Eleanor Bass, four years old of 304 Lewis street, had a narrow escape from serious injury Wednesday evening when she was knocked down by an automobile while crossing Louis street.

The girl escaped with bruises and abrasions on the forehead and cheek, in spite of the fact that she was hurled off her feet by the impact.

Jack Finnie, 190 Charlotte street, driver of the car involved in the accident, said that he was driving south on Louis street at 20 miles an hour when he saw some children on the roadway and sounded his horn. The youngsters went to the side but Eleanor Bass, according to the driver, ran from the west curb toward the east directly in the path of his automobile and he was unable to avoid striking the child.

Constable John Morrow, who investigated the accident, took the injured girl in a police car to the office of Dr. Chas. Scott.

Big Push Is On To Purchase Tags

The police department reports that the office has been swamped during the past couple of days by dog owners hurrying to buy 1944 tags for thier pets.

This sudden pickup has been occasioned by the fact that Inspector Gerald Dunford of the Humane Society, assisted by the police has been making a checkup of delinquent owners.

He started in several days ago in the Burnham's Point section of Wartime Housing and reports that while he was calling on houses on one side of the street, dog owners on the other side were hurrying up to the police station to buy tags.

The total number of licenses issued has already climbed to above the 700 mark.

It is estimated that Peterborough houses 1,300 dogs with cocker spaniels heading the list.

World Record

NEW YORK, July 6 (CP) — A world record in passenger transportation in the flight of Trans-Atlantic Clipper from Africa to Natal, Brazil, with 51 passengers and 500 pounds of freight was announced yesterday by Panamerican Airways officials. The company said the 42-ton flying boat carried six more passengers that had ever been transported in a single plane.

Brinton Carpet Nears $1,000 For War Victims

One thousand dollars is a lot of money, and specially when for the most part it has been collected or raised by continual givings of the very smallest in value coins of the realm, and emphasizes very potently what can really be accomplished even in this manner, when people have the spirit to practice the greatest of the three virtues on behalf of people who are really in need of assistance.

One cannot speak too highly of the steady work that has been done by the employees of the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd. on behalf of the sufferers from enemy bombing attacks over the British Isles, for this steadiness of purpose is compatible with the tradition associated with the British race, when they set their mind and hand on any purpose that has a benefit to members of the human family.

By continual steady work they are now fast approaching the four figure mark in money raised to help others through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, having commenced when this fund first started to operate, and from all appearance it looks as though they intend to continue while the need still exists.

Their latest contribution amounting to $25 is listed today, and now gives them a grand total of $975 given through this weekly collection taken on pay days, and marks the 73rd time their assistance has been noted in this column on behalf of the fund, which in itself establishes a record in this one respect.

Love's Memory Gives Aid

The earthly loss of one's loved ones can find no better way in which to have their memory cherished, than by giving aid to succor the distressed in their name, for even the finest monument that might be erected cannot help to restore those who are in need back to their normal capacity in this life, which from the assistance thus received might inspire them to go on to deeds of kindness to others who might also be needed at some future time.

Two separate gifts are given in this manner in loving memory of the late T. Groombridge, who entered into rest one year ago July 6, both coming from members of his family, who thus seek to pay a tribute of thanks for the life of a loving husband and father, and the good they do in this manner would undoubtedly receive the highest approbation possible were it capable of being received.

There is an almost undefinable sentiment aroused when the very youngest of children do something to help others in trouble, a considerable evidence of which has been noted in this column from time to time, and the $1.30 that comes today from the kindergarten of Queen Mary School means a great deal more than what a first glance would indicate, for this in their eyes would represent a small fortune individually, when compared with the deeds of their elders.

Previously acknowledged	$77,196.36
Employees Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd. (73rd donation)	25.00
Beatrice, Leslie and George, in loving memory of Dad	3.00
In loving memory of a dear husband, T. Groombridge	5.00

Total to date	$77,230.66

A Bad Mistake

STRATFORD, July 6 (CP)—William Longhurst of nearby St. Mary's made a bad mistake when he tried to sell some stolen aluminum castings to a junk dealer. The dealer had only a short time previously sold the same castings to a war plant where Longhurst works. Longhurst was remanded to jail for a week for sentence when he appeared in court yesterday and pleaded guilty to a charge of theft Aluminum valued at $4.80.

Reward Offered for Information

Because of the recent vandalism in City Parks, which has resulted in the wilful destruction of services installed for the convenience and comfort of the citizens, the Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough is offering a reward of $25.00 to any person giving information to the proper authorities resulting in the prosecution and conviction of any person or persons for wilfully damaging City property.

E. A. OUTRAM,
City Clerk

Election Date Advanced To December 4

The municipal elections in Peterborough, for the 1945 city council and other civic bodies, will be held this year on Monday, December 4, 1944, instead of New Year's Day. Nomination for the candidates to all civic bodies will be held Friday, November 24, 1944.

The city council has decided to advance the election day by giving third reading to a by-law legalizing this procedure.

In advancing the election date, the council is following the practice established in most other Ontario cities, and is adopting the recommendations of last year's council which made a thorough study of this question.

The city clerk informed the council that he had received an additional order from the Ontario Municipal Board, granting full election rights and privileges in the civic elections to the electors of the areas in North Monaghan Township which will be annexed by the city January 1, 1945. The order of the Municipal Board also granted the council authority to advance the 1945 election date. The technicality of the North Monaghan electors' participation in the city elections being definitely cleared by the Board's order, the city council promptly passed the necessary by-law, advancing the date for the city election.

Ontario Surveys Lakes For Restocking

SUDBURY, July 6.—(CP).—Greater development of Northern Ontario's tourist attractions for the American traveller and sportsman will be a principal Ontario Government policy, said George H. Dunbar, Provincial Secretary and Municipal Affairs Minister, addressing the annual assembly of the Sudbury District Municipal Association here Wednesday.

In company with other Ontario Government officials, Mr. Dunbar is making a survey of all inland lakes in the watershed from Sudbury to James Bay and the Manitoba border.

"Many of these lakes have been fished out," he said, "some by poaching from across the Manitoba border. It is our intention to determine the best method of restocking with sturgeon and other game fish."

Improve Main Roads First

In connection with highway improvement, Mr. Dunbar said the province has taken the position that unimproved main highways must be improved first, with improvement of secondary avenues to follow. He stressed that it was more important to have a first-class highway from Ottawa to Sault Ste. Marie, through Sudbury, than from Sudbury to Parry Sound and Timmins. "Although the latter will certainly come in the postwar era," he added.

Mr. Dunbar went on record, personally, as opposed to municipal housing. "I am unalterably opposed to any municipality going into the real estate business," he said. "We have had some bitter and costly experiences with that in the past. I am not opposed to housing schemes, but I don't think the municipality should subsidize such ventures. That will be my advice if asked."

He hinted that a study would be made toward the opening of prison farms, such as the Burwash Industrial Farm, in both the eastern and western sections of the Province.

Hardly In Time

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 6.—(CP).—Pte. George W. The letter was from his Detroit Draft Board to tell him he had been granted a year's deferment on occupational grounds.

Vandals At Work In City's Parks

E. A. Outram, city clerk, has posted a $25.00 reward for anyone giving information leading to the apprehension of youths damaging property in city parks, it was announced at a council meeting Tuesday evening. Posting of the reward money followed an appearance before the council of A. W. Butcher Parks Foreman, who told of benches and tables being thrown into the river at Inverlea, and drinking fountains destroyed at Confederation Square and King Edward Park. At Inverlea, according to Mr. Butcher, benches and tables have been tossed into the river four times. Friday, the drinking fountain at King Edward Park was destroyed.

Nazis Recall Pilots From Balkans

CAIRO, July 6 — (CP Reuter) — The German command in the Balkans has informed the Romanian government that owing to calls on Luftwaffe personnel elsewhere, the defence of the Allies' Balkan objectives, particularly the vital Ploesti Oil Fields, must in future rest with Romanian pilots who have been provided with German aircraft, it is learned here.

Reports indicated that this move was only part of a great German comb-out of manpower for the purpose of withdrawing every available man for the defence of Germany in France and Poland.

It is known that night-flying aircraft have evacuated the younger men in the German "iron ring" defences in the Aegean, replacing them with older, second-line personnel.

Hun Prisoner Expected Death

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 6. — CP Cable.)—German troops defending the Caen area apparently have been told they will be shot if captured.

A youngster taken prisoner during the battle of Carpiquet and brought back from a forward area by Maj. Bill Fess, Toronto, mistook a gesture by the Canadian staff officer and knelt down in a nearby slit trench which he thought was to be his grave.

When Fess, who speaks no German, motioned to the prisoner to come out of the trench, the German did so, then collapsed in relief at the officer's feet.

The prisoner had been badly shaken by the artillery bombardment which paved the way for the Canadian attack on Carpiquet and during the jeep trip back from the front was frightened by a great anti-aircraft barrage which caught enemy planes. The German leaped out of the car and was brought back by Maj. Fess.

Obituary

MRS. STANLEY CARNRITE.

TRENT RIVER, July 6 — (ENS)—Mrs. Stanley Carnrite, one of Trent River's most respected citizens, died at Campbellford Hospital on Saturday evening. Although failing in health for the past two years, Mrs. Carnrite became seriously ill about a week ago, and on Friday was taken to the hospital, where she passed away the following day.

Mrs. Carnrite, formerly Margaret Alice Louckes, was born in Marmora Township 67 years ago. She was married twice. Her first marriage was to Oliver Taylor, and to this union three sons were born, Oscar, Roy and Jack, two of which are deceased. The second marriage was to Stanley Carnrite, son of the late Andrew and Mrs. Carnrite, and one son Dorwin was born and passed away in Chicago a few years ago. She also had five brothers and two sisters, six of these also being deceased.

Despite her failing health, Mrs. Carnrite was keenly interested in the affairs of the community, especially in the women's war work, of which she was a valued worker. She will be sadly missed by a host of friends.

She leaves to mourn her loss one son Jack at home, one brother James residing in Peterborough, and a granddaughter living in Chicago.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held at the home on Tuesday afternoon, with service conducted by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Havelock, and interment was made in the Centre Church Cemetery. The many beautiful floral tributes showed the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Pall-bearers were Ward Glenn, Kenneth Glenn, Emerson Glenn, Garnet Hay, Gordon Hay, and Fred Hay.

Request Lists Of Tax Arrears

Members of the city council desire to have more detailed information regarding tax arrears showing on the tax collector and city treasury's books. The council, at its meeting Tuesday evening, passed a resolution instructing the legal committee to make a detailed study of tax arrears, and to submit a recommendation for collecting this money.

The treasurer and tax collector were requested to prepare the necessary lists of tax arrears, up to, and including 1943.

Ald. R. M. Glover introduced the question, indicated his concern that taxpayers in arrears should receive early warning of these arrears, and be encouraged to arrange a payment plan. He said he did not like to see properties of long-time taxpaying citizens on the list of properties for sale for taxes. The intention of the resolution, moved by Ald. James Dutton, and Ald. Glover, is to assist, rather than penalize tax-payers in difficulties.

NEW OVERSEAS PLAN FOR BUCKINGHAM and WINGS Cigarettes

Provides Practically Airmail Service
Prevents Loss in Transit

New arrangements for sending cigarettes to Canadians in the Armed Services overseas have just been announced by the Postmaster General and the Minister of National Defence. Now, when your order for Buckingham or Wings cigarettes is received in Hamilton, an address label is made out and shipped overseas by air. The order is then completed from stocks previously sent overseas for this purpose. Not only does this greatly speed delivery but it avoids loss in transit.

ONE SIZE OF PACKAGE ONLY—300's

Under the new Government regulations there will be only one size of package—300 cigarettes at $1.00. However, you can send more than one package at the same time and at the same rate.

ORDER AS BEFORE—through your tobacconist or by sending your order to Buckingham, Box 100, Hamilton, Ontario, or Wings, Box 100, Hamilton, Ontario.

Salad Days Are Here Again

By MARY MOORE

What I want to write about are big platters mounded in the centre with a huge shrimp salad and all that glamorous sounding food we can't find any more.

But I'll be Pollyanna again and make the best of it—and what a "best" the tomato and cottage salad is. Just note the subtle flavorings. It'll be a long day before you'll serve cottage cheese "as is" again.

And approach my Chicken Salad Supreme with proper respect for it can't be topped. Your mayonnaise must be as specified though if you are to retain your epicure's reputation.

Most cooks' audiences are divided two ways—those who will and those who will not eat salads.

A heaping bowl of crisp, green and raw things with a platter of plenty of such delicacies as salami, liverwurst, Virginia ham, smoked salmon and a tray of fresh hard rolls, all flanked with a tall glass of frosty iced tea—that's my idea of a tasty supper every summer evening—preferably in the garden.

So the hotmeat-and-potato-addicts can skip this little lecture and come back next week, but I'm warning you, you are cheating yourselves.

Special Tomato and Cottage Cheese Salad

One-half of 1 large tomato per serving (sliced crosswise), 2 cups cottage cheese, ¼ cup mayonnaise (see below), 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento, 1 tablespoon chow-chow or piccalilli, 1 tablespoon chopped peanuts or other nuts, lettuce, extra mayonnaise to pass. Mix cheese, ¼ cup mayonnaise, pickle, nuts and pimiento. Pack into small moulds (or demi tasses) and chill. Unmould on lettuce leaf, beside tomato. Garnish attractively and pass mayonnaise.

Chicken Salad Supreme

One to two cups chopped cooked chicken, (1 cup cold cooked veal if the second cup of chicken is not on hand), 1 cup finely diced celery, ¼ cup chopped fresh walnuts or almonds, ½ cup mayonnaise (see below), salt and pepper, lettuce, olives or pickled pears for garnish.

Mix the chicken, veal, celery, nuts, and mayonnaise. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Form into attractive mounds on beds of lettuce in six salad plates. Top each mould with an olive or put a pickled pear beside it. Other materials good with chicken are lettuce hearts, green peas (newly cooked), green pepper, asparagus tips, diced cucumbers, capers, ripe olives, crisp bacon, hard cooked egg, cubed tomatoes.

Mayonnaise (highly recommended)

One egg yolk, 2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon mustard, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup cold salad oil. Beat egg yolk and add 1 tablespoon vinegar. Add mustard, salt and pepper and mix well. Drop oil a teaspoonful at a time into the egg mixture, beating constantly until ¼ cup oil is added. Then add it in large quantities, beating thoroughly after each addition. As the mixture thickens, add the remaining vinegar or lemon juice a little at a time. Keep covered in cool place. One to two teaspoons sugar may be added with salt if desired.

Orange-Tomato Aspic
(High in Vitamin C)

One tablespoon gelatin, 1 cup orange juice, ¾ cup canned condensed tomato soup, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne, ½ cup chopped celery. Soak gelatin in ½ cup orange juice 5 mins. Dissolve over hot water. Add remaining orange juice. Mix well. Add soup, salt and cayenne. Chill. When congealing starts, add celery. Pour into greased ring mould and chill. Serve with ring filled with flavored cheese, and pass mayonnaise flavored with chopped gherkins.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, July 7.

Through some curious trick of fate, or through the intervention of an erratic, singular or intriguing asociation, either of public or strictly private importance, there may be promise of the sudden and surprising breaking away of a static state of affairs, and stubborn obstacles or impediments. Strategy peculiar insight or psychic lead may prove the opening to a difficult and long-continued bafflement or frustration. Proceed with shrewdness, diligence, devotion and amiability and rich rewards may crown the efforts bringing surprise and long lasting benefits.

Those whose birthday it is may have the power to turn the tide of baffling, tenacious and stagnant or crystallized conditions by the timely use of intuition, psychic insight, strange contacts or a set of curious and bewildering circumstances. Tackling such limitations or static situations by determination, perseverance, steadfast endeavor and sound logic, in support of hunches may create real and lasting benefits, with probably public or community recognition or rewards of merit. Personal pleasure may also materialize.

A child born on this day may possess curious talents, with the strange characteristics, unique creative skills, turning defeat and frustration into highly productive channels, with public acclaim.

NEW GINGHAM ACCESSORIES—This girl is all set up with one of the new gingham accessory sets . . . parasol, handbag shaped like a bean bag, and ornamented with tassel and sequins, and sequined headband. Shown with the usual summer black, worn by all ages of women during dog-days, the ensemble will look just as pretty and be just as useful with country clothes both careless and dressed-up. The accessories are lightweight and cool.

THE ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I've found it, I've found it, and feel like a child who has just found some old lost toy. It's your recipe for Genuine Hot Chocolate.

Years ago, when you published it I made it at once and we gorged ourselves on it all day Sunday. I could recall you ended the recipe by saying, "Try it, it makes quite a sensation."

It did, for by evening the small son had had too much of the rick drink and was very nauseated. I remarked to the father that that likely ended Pat's fondness for Genuine Hot Chocolate, but it didn't. He came down next morning asking for more of it.

However I didn't make any more of it for awhile and when I wanted to, discovered I had mislaid the recipe. I always anticipated finding it but never did. Since then I have watched your columns many times for it, but never thought any of the chocolate drinks you gave, sounded like the "Try it, it will cause a sensation."

Then the war came and Jim once again donned the Air Force uniform put up his old wings and off we went in the Service. I lugged along all the old newspaper pages of your recipes for I thought I'd have so much time, living in a suite, to catch up on all the neglected things that I really wanted to do. However I found life in the Service very hectic and when we drove home last year on holidays I lugged you recipes back home. Now the Pater is being discharged with a heart condition, having been too conscientious an adjutant and trying to win the war all by himself! So here we are back home and packing up to move to Victoria, B.C. Quite a chore to dismantle a 9-roomed house and decide on what to do with everything one has collected in 25 years of married life, especially Mary Moore's recipes.

So I conscientiously settled down this rainy week and went throuh those stacks of paper and today when there were only 7 papers left to do I found it—that grand chocolate recipe. I cut out scores of other recipes too and I hope now that I'll have time in Victoria to sort and paste them in my book and use them Anyway you should reprint this recipe. (Sounds like a dictator on re-reading.)

You know the one I mean do you? It says

Genuine Hot Chocolate

Three squares unsweetened chocolate, ½ cup cold water. Stir over low heat until melted and smooth. Add ½ cup sugar, and a dash of salt. Blend, stir and boil for 5 minutes. Cool, when cold fold in ½ cup cream which has been whipped till fairly stiff. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. To serve put 1 good tablespoon of this mixture into each cup and fill with good hot milk. It's really choice Mrs. Moore. Thank you for your good sensible recipes. Hope the rest of my packing is as successful!

Well, we were lucky, we've sold the house for cash, but the law books nobody wants, and it costs us $1,000. to change provinces so we'll not practise law.

How are the children? I love your references to them. They'll be getting grown up. ——is 14 now and he hates the city. Our small village is heaven to him. For his sake I'm sorry we are going to another city. ——is the opposite. He likes all the city advantages of cadets, "Y" etc. All I hope is that the low attitude and warmer climate will put "Pop" back on his feet. Happy Landings to you and us. A.M.D.

ANSWER: Your version of the French or Genuine Hot Chocolate is exactly right so that reprint will do. I am writing you privately.

TOO MUCH PROFIT IN DIVORCE
Eliminate Motive Behind Many Women's Actions and Homes Will Be Saved.

A correspondent says; "It is women who are the petitioners in the great majority of divorce cases. It is wives who clutter up the courts with their matrimonial woes. Not men. It is seldom that you hear of a husband having the law on his wife. Why is this? Do women, taking them by and large, give better satisfaction as wives than men do as husbands? Or do men bear the wear and tear of marriage better than women do? Or does the fickle sex extend its mania for change even to changing husbands?

Nobody can authoritatively answer these questions, but a light was thrown on them recently by a questionnaire that was sent to a large number of married couples asking if they were satisfied with their mates, and to which far more men replied "yes" than women. This may have been mere gallantry on the men's part, or, it may be that men are less choosy about wives and wives are about husbands, for certainly general observation shows that the mill run of wives are no easier to live with than that of husbands. They are much of a muchness. And neither one is any prize package.

Probably when a husband and wife agree to disagree, the reason he lets her ask for the divorce is to save her face. The divorcee has to have some plausible excuse for breaking up her home and half-orphaning her children that will appeal to public sympathy, whereas the man who resents the Little Woman bawling the life out of him is regarded as a quitter and a poor sport who couldn't take it

Girls' Marriage Hope Too High.

There are many reasons why women are the chief patrons of the divorce courts. One of them is because they expect too much of men and marriage. In spite of all they have seen in their homes and on their walks abroad, every starry-eyed little bride thinks that her marriage is going to be a perpetual petting party, and that her husband will be a happy combination of a go-getter and a cinema hero. And when she finds out that marriage is mostly babies and cooking and wearing last year's clothes, she turns to Reno as a cure for her sorrows.

Another reason why women get divorce oftener nowadays than they did in the past is because it is th vogue. Everybody's doing it. Especially in Hollywood, which sets the style in conduct as well as in clothes for half of the women in the country. In Grandma's time, when a divorcee was looked upon askance, wives suffered and were strong, no matter how much they had lost their taste for their husbands. But now, when getting a new husband causes no more comment than getting a new dress, they feel that to stay married to the same man makes them seem as old-fashioned as if they were still wearing last year's hats.

And another, and a bitter and a shameful reason, why women ask for divorces oftener than men is because they have found out how profitable is the alimony racket and how easily it can be worked by any pretty woman. Thousands of women marry men for whom they have no affection, and with whom they have no intention of living, just because a marriage licence delivers their husbands into their hands as the victims of the lowest holdup game ever practiced.

Undoubtedly there are times when a divorce is a necessity, but if you will take the profit motive and the fashion out of it, it would save many a broken home.

IN MEMORIAM

HATLEY—In memory of our Dear Mother, Mrs. L. Hatley, Sr. who passed away two years ago, July 1, 1942.

We wept, 'twas Nature wept—but Faith
Can pierce beyond the gloomy path
And in yon world so fair and bright,
Behold thee in refulgent light
We miss thee here yet faith would rather Know thou art with thy Heavenly Father,
Nature sees the body dead—
Faith beholds the spirit fled.
Nature stops at Jordan's tide—
Faith beholds the other side.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by her daughters Mrs. J. McKibbin and Mrs. C. Pennells.

HATLEY—In memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. L. Hatley, Sr., who passed away two years ago, July 1, 1942.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past,
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by her son and daughter, Mrs. Frizzelle and Mr. and Mrs. Hatley, Jr.

NOTICE

SYNOPSIS OF BY-LAW FOR THE EARLY CLOSING OF GROCERY SHOPS IN THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH.

Having received a Petition praying for the passing of a By-law compelling the Early Closing of Grocery Shops, and this Petition having proved to be properly signed and presented;

The Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough at a Meeting held on July 4th, 1944, passed By-law Number 4390, which provides that pursuant to Sub-Section 5 of Section 82 of the Factory, Shop and Office Building Act, R. S.O. 1937, Chapter 194, all Grocery Shops in the City of Peterborough Shall Close and Remain Closed on each Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday throughout the whole year during the time between 7 o'clock in the Afternoon and 5 o'clock in the Forenoon (Daylight Saving Time) of the next following day.

This By-law provides the usual penalties for persons convicted of violating its provisions, and the By-law takes effect on the 14th Day of July, 1944.

DATED July 6th, 1944.

E. A. OUTRAM,
City Clerk.

CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

ADJOURNED SALE OF LANDS FOR ARREARS OF TAXES.

THE ADJOURNED SALE OF LANDS, in the City of Peterborough, for Arrears of Taxes, will be held on TUESDAY, JULY 18, 1944, at the hour of 10 a.m. in the City Council Chamber, in the City of Peterborough.

PUBLIC NOTICE Is HEREBY GIVEN, that if the price offered for any of the Lands, at the Adjourned Sale, is less than the amount due for Arrears of Taxes and Cost (in addition to the cost of this advertisement) or if no price is offered, it is the intention of the City to purchase such of the Lands as may be deemed advisable, and in the interest of the City.

60 French Women Serving In France

By MAURICE DESJARDINS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN NORMANDY, July 6—(CP Cable)—A group of 60 French women in uniform have arrived in Normandy after four years absence from France. They will act as liaison agents between the civilians and the Allied forces.

Most of the women are bilingual. They will take care of and supply food to women and children. All are Second Lieutenants and wear the same uniforms as the English "A.T.S." with the word "France" on their shoulders and a cross of Lorraine pinned on their tunics. They also wear the "bleu beret."

A large number come from the region of Paris but a few are from the district of Cavaldos in Normandy and will visit their former homes.

NOTICE

Notice to Creditors

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF JENNIE KEALEY, Late of the City of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, Unmarried Woman, Deceased.

All Persons having CLAIMS against the Estate of the said JENNIE KEALEY, who died on or about the 15th Day of March, 1944, at the City of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, and who at the time of her death had her fixed place of abode at the said City of Peterborough, are hereby notified to send to the undersigned, Solicitor for the Executrix of the Last Will and Testament of the said Deceased, on or before the Fifteenth Day of July, 1944, full particulars of their Claims, duly verified by affidavit or Statutory Declaration.

Immediately after the last mentioned date, the Assets of the Estate of the said Deceased will be distributed among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to Claims of which the Executrix shall then have had notice.

Seek Applicants For UNRRA Jobs

OTTAWA, July 6 — (CP) — The Canadian Civil Service Commission, Personnel Department for the Federal Government said Wednesday the completion of arrangements for recruiting Canadian personnel for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

The Commission's offices will accept applications for a "considerable variety" of responsible positions overseas with U.N.R.R.A., in a parallel to recruiting arrangements functioning now in the United States.

A Commission spokesman said the greatest need of U.N.R.R.A. now is for persons "well qualified" to assume administrative jobs as distribution and welfare officers and specialists in industrial and agricultural rehabilitation and warehousing.

Salt Water Cures Burns

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 6 (AP)—Doctors at a United States naval hospital here are successfully treating burns with a material of which the navy will never have a shortage—salt water.

The salt water used is a double-strength solution of sodium chloride made up in the laboratory, but the doctors say that in an emergency on shipboard, buckets of sea water could be utilized, after heating to remove bacteria.

Capt. William Kikrham, chief of San Diego's plastic surgery service, says the tip-off on the effectiveness of salt water for combat burns came during the British evacuation of Dunkerque in 1940. He said burned men rescued from the water after some time fared better than did men whose burns had not been bathed in salt water.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LEARN BRIDGE FAST

40—Duplicate Tourneys

NINETY-SOME per cent of all the contract bridge played in the world is rubber bridge, which brings together four players at a table, with perhaps an extra player or two taking turns cutting in and out. The other main style of contract bridge is what is called "duplicate," because in it the same deals get played at a number of different tables by a series of different pairs.

The principal piece of equipment to make this form of game possible is what is called a "duplicate board." It is a contraption in which you can preserve a deal intact. At the start a hand is dealt in the regular way. Some player is treated as the dealer—as arbitrarily marked on the duplicate board, which also has arbitrary markings saying which side, if either, or both, is vulnerable. The bidding goes on in regular fashion, with the dealer starting the auction.

When the play begins, the opening leader plays his card face-up in front of himself, instead of in the middle of the table. Then down goes the dummy's hand. When the declarer plays from it, he merely calls the card he wants, and the dummy places it in front of, himself. Then your partner plays his card in front of himself, after which the declarer does likewise. Then the four cards are turned face down. If your side won the trick, each of the four players aims his card lengthwise parallel to the line from you to your partner.

When the declarer's side wins a trick, the players aim their cards parallel to the line from declarer to dummy. Thus each player winds up with 13 cards in front of himself in a little row, some aiming at the partner and some crosswise. It is easy to count up then and see how many tricks each side won.

The hand is then scored. Next each player counts his cards to make sure he has all 13, then places his hand in a pocket made for his position—North, East, South or West—in the duplicate board. That hand is ready then to be played again by other players at another table. The board has an arrow which points North, to establish the position of it on the next table. The four new players take out their cards, count them to make sure of 13 each, see who is dealer, and what is the vulnerability, then proceed to bid and play it as before.

If no duplicate boards are available, as with uniformed men or women at remote places, any ingenious person can assemble a makeshift one of perhaps four envelopes appropriately marked, held together by string, a rubber band or in another envelope, if desiring to try this form of game.

There are several ways to score. The simplest is by having a match between two teams of four. Each team has one North-South pair and one East-West pair. For illustration, suppose it is a team of men vs. a team of women. Mr. North and Mr. South play at Table 1 against Miss East and Miss West. At Table 2, Mr. East and Mr. West play against Miss North and Miss South.

Instead of rubbers, make each hand stand alone, giving a bonus of 300 points for bidding and making a not vulnerable game and 500 for a vulnerable one. At each table keep score of hand after hand; following a convenient number of hands, pass the deals already played over to the other table, and take the deals they have played. When all of the deals have been played at both tables, add up the combined scores to see which team did best. This is a real test of skill, for if your pair had the weaker hands at your table, your teammates would have had the stronger hands at the other one.

When a lot of tables are in play, the scoring is more complex, usually by what is called "match points." Half of the pairs usually sit North-South throughout, and the other half play in the East-West positions. After a couple of hands are played at each table, the East-West pairs move one table in one direction while the deals are moved one table in the other direction.

After everybody has played all deals, the scores on each are compared. On any deal, the pair with the worst score gets no match points, the pair just above gets 1, the next higher 2, and so on to the top. In a tie for any position, the points involved are split. Of course, the North-South pair with the most match points is the North-South winner and the pair with the best East-West point total is the East-West winner. There are also more complex forms of duplicate in which each pair meets every other one.

DESTROYED GERMAN SUB—This is the Royal Canadian Navy frigate, H.M.C.S. "Swansea," which recently destroyed a German submarine to bring her score of U-boat kills to two. The submarine was so badly damaged by depth charges from the "Swansea" and a Royal Navy sloop, which assisted in the attack, that it barely broke surface before sinking. The two ships picked up survivors. (R.C.N. Photo)

CLIMBING ABOARD RAFT—The submarine was so badly damaged by depth charges that it did not fully surface, but the Swansea lowered her sea boat and picked up a number of Nazi survivors. Here some of the crew of the U-boat are seen here clinging to a yellow inflated life raft.

United Church Opposes Move

TORONTO, July 6 — (CP). — Proposed disfranchisement of Canadian citizens of the Japanese race was objected to yesterday in a resolution passed by the executive of the Board of Missions of the United Church of Canada. The resolution has been forwarded to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Cairine Wilson, Liberal Senator from Rockcliffe, and James H. King, Liberal Senator from Kootenay East.

Adoption of the Disfranchisement Bill would discriminate against one group of Canadian citizens purely on a basis of race, the resolution said. It added further that men and women thoroughly Canadian in outlook and loyalty ould be disfranchised.

Nazis Trying To Scramble To Safety Drown Mate After U-Boat Sinks

Editor's Note: When H.M.C.S. Swansea, a Royal Canadian Navy frigate, accounted for the second U-boat which she has helped send to the bottom in this war, the First Lieutenant, Lieut. Ian Macdonald, R.C.N.V.R., of Victoria, B.C., was in command of the whaler which was lowered from the Swansea to pick up German survivors. The following account was written by Lieut. Macdonald and describes the rescue in which a number of the U-boat's crew were picked up by Swansea and H.M.S. Pelican, a Royal Navy sloop, which was in the action.

By LIEUT. IAN MACDONALD, R.C.N.V.R.

A UNITED KINGDOM PORT.—When we were called into action stations most of us thought it was another "dud." We were agreeably surprised to be informed by the bridge that this time we really had something.

A couple of patterns of depth charges were dropped with no apparent effect, and just about then a Royal Navy sloop, H.M.S. Pelican, bustled up to help us. We let go with some more charges, this time with a fervent prayer that the war bonds which we were so freely chucking away would pay a kind of dividends we would like to see.

Sunk By Gunfire.

Our prayers were answered. Fifty pairs of eyes spotted the U-boat as she came to the surface and fifty voices yelled, "There she is." The order from the bridge was given to open fire and the boys started throwing them out in great style. Several hits were scored on the conning tower and the U-boat started to sink stern first.

Then came the order "Way sea boats to pick up prisoners."

It was rather hard to see the Germans in the water, but we were told from the ship in which direction to head and away we went.

The first German we saw was an officer in a little inflatable rubber raft. He appeared quite unconcerned about his predicament and was giving every impression of the casual yachting man as he leaned back in his little craft with his hands clasped behind his head and his legs crossed. Now and then he would wave to us in a friendly manner as we rowed over to him. We motioned to him to paddle over to us, but he refused to co-operate.

Loses Dignity

Since we hadn't collected his fare and there was lots more business around, one customer more or less didn't bother us. We pretended we were going to shove off and leave him. That worked. Suddenly he became most co-operative. In fact, he gave a very good imitation of a paddle wheel steamer as he made his way to us.

In a minute he was sitting in the boat, shivering in the cool wind, and we made off to collect more of his companions, some of whom were just ahead of us. Our friend, apparently a trifle annoyed at the whole affair, for every once in a while he would pound his knee and come out with some very nasty sounding German phrases which excited the admiration of the whole boat's crew. They have a great language for expressing feelings.

The other Germans in the water were most anxious to be picked up and did a great deal of shouting and blowing of whistles until the whole rescue took on the air of a football game with about twenty referees working overtime.

In the meantime, our first customer was digging in his pocket. The first thing I knew of what he was doing was when I heard Leading Seaman Hurtubise, of 258 St. Patrick St., Ottawa, yell. I looked up in time to see Hurtubise twist a revolver out of the German's hand. There was a black glint in the sun as the revolver went over the side. We still don't know whether the officer had any intention of shooting or not. Perhaps he was just going to throw the gun over the side. Just the same, a quick-thinking lad like Hurtubise is a good man to have around in a pinch.

In a few minutes we had picked up some more drenched shivering cargo. I think the Germans were badly shaken by our depth charges, for they yelled and screamed in the water and ever after we had them safely in the boat, they kept yelling.

By this time the whaler was filled up, so we headed back for the ship. On the way we spotted more of the U-boat's crew clinging to yellow rafts and we made our way to them, threw them a line and started to tow them back. One or two of them tried to get into the boat which was already threatening to capsize, and it was only with difficulty that we were able to persuade them to return to the raft.

Officers First?

When we arrived back at the ship, one officer didn't wait for his men to get safely aboard, but went up the scramble net in a hurry to the ship. The others managed to get up without much assistance, but those in the rafts proved difficult. They paid no attention to lines thrown to them from the ship, but tried to scramble across the sea boat. That meant that we would swamp. So we had to struggle with them and persuade them it would be safer for all of us if they went up the lines.

The men in the water were so anxious to get aboard that one poor devil was crowned. In their mad scramble to get onto the ship his friends kept pushing him around and dunking his head under the water. After a while, he could hold no more Atlantic and bowed out of the picture. There was little we could do but watch, horrified. He was right in the middle of his scrambling friends and though we yelled to them and tried to tell them what they were doing, none of them could understand us.

It was almost two hours before we had all the Germans on board.

"It's Great To Find A Medicine That Helps Me"

Always Felt Tired, Fatigued; Nervous Indigestion, Headaches. Tells of Good Results Obtained By Taking Syntona.

If you feel tired, wornout and nervous; if bowels are constipated and you suffer with indigestion, gas, headaches and rheumatic pain; if you have backache, night rising and dizzy spells, try a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound and the chances are that you, too, may find this medicine to be just what you need to make you feel like yourself again.

"I had been in poor health for several years, and tried many different kinds of medicine, but nothing seemed to help me until I got Syntona," said Mr. Alex Leskin, 29 East 6th Street, Mount Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"My digestion was very bad, causing me to suffer every day with gassy pains, indigestion and heartburn after my meals. I had no appetite and always felt tired. My nerves got so on edge I couldn't get my proper sleep at night. Then almost every morning I awakened with a throbbing headache. I was subject to dizzy spells and troubled a lot with constipation. The poisons seemed to go all through my system until I began to get stiff and sore in my limbs and joints. Many days I didn't feel like doing anything.

"My wife told me about Syntona, so after a while I decided to get some. I've only been taking it a short time, but I certainly feel much better. It gave me a good appetite and I'm enjoying my meals again. It cleared away all the gas, heartburn and sourness of my stomach. My bowels are regular and I am keeping free of headache and dizzy spells. Also my nerves are settled down, so I sleep better at night. It's great to find a medicine that really helps me and I highly recommend it to others."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

PROPERTY

The property of the Alcan Yellowknife Mines Limited consists of 14 mineral claims named the Tat Group. They are situated on the eastern side of Yellowknife Bay about one-half mile inland from the shoreline. The central point of the group is 2 miles northeast of Yellowknife village, 3 miles southwest of the Ptarmigan Mine, owned by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, 2 miles north of the former Burwash Yellowknife mine and 2½ miles due east of the main showing on the Giant Yellowknife Mines property. The group is thus centrally located and easy of access from Great Slave Lake.

GEOLOGY

Extracts from report of Christopher Riley, Mining Geologist, June 24th, 1944.

"The claims lie in a fault block formed by two of the major Yellowknife faults, one known as the Atchaiko Fault and the other as the Duck Fault. One unnamed fault is shown on the government maps as crossing the group."

"Geological conditions on the Tat claims are right for the occurrence of gold veins. Such veins have been found in the same rocks on such nearby properties as the Burwash Yellowknife, the Ptarmigan Mine, the Cassidy property, the Morie property and others.

"Structural conditions are favorable for ore showings. Most of the known Yellowknife deposits are found in fault blocks such as the one formed on the Tat group by the Atchaiko and the Duck faults."

400,000 Shares Are Offered AT 30c PER SHARE

RUSSIANS TEN MILES FROM WILNO

With Going Tough Churchill Again Rallies Britons

MORE ROBOT BOMBS DROPPED ON SOUTHERN ENGLAND AND LONDON CAUSING CASUALTIES

LONDON, July 7—(AP).—Sobered by Prime Minister Churchill's report to the House of Commons yesterday on the devastation wrought by German flying bombs, Londoners settled down today to the grim task of living and working under the constant threat of sudden death from the skies.

More of the robots dropped in London and the southern counties last night, and it was announced officially that damage and casualties resulted.

For thousands in London it was a case of being plunged back into the blitz conditions of 1940-41, but there was this difference—victory was obviously closer than in the dark days when the city flamed and shook under the Luftwaffe's assault.

Mr. Churchill's assertion that the "people have just got to get used to" the latest weapon was accepted with a minimum of grumbling. Once more the British leader demonstrated his ability to rally the home front when the going was tough.

Even those who had been crying loudest for immediate reprisals against the Nazis and for the Government to do something to stop the flying bomb attacks were silent.

London moved calmly into its old role as "bomb-highway" frontline city. Shelters and underground stations were packed fully at night, with the parade of the elderly and the children with their blankets beginning at dusk.

The exodus of children from the city was proceeding at the rate of about 5,000 daily. Eventually 15,000 will be sent away each day.

LONDON, July 7 (CP)—German reports said the Russians were advancing today within 10 miles of Wilno, where Moscow reported the Nazis had declared martial law. Smashing beyond the pre-war Polish bastion of Kowel, the Russians were approaching the Bug River at a point about 135 miles southeast of Warsaw along the main trunk line. Almost all the pre-war Polish frontier was crossed save for a section before Luniniec in the Pripet marshes.

Wilno, city of 207,750 which has changed nationally six times since the last war, lies about 97 miles from the border of east Prussia and is a rail and highway centre. A Moscow dispatch quoted Yustas Paletskis, chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of Lithuania, as saying the German Martial Law edict barred persons from the streets between 8 p.m. and 5 a.m. and forbade walking in groups greater than two. Paletskis said there had been uprisings in Kaunas, Mariampole and Vilnius.

While at least four Russian Army groups pushed westward, other Soviet forces mopped up bewildered German stragglers east of Minsk, leagues behind the main front. Moscow said 5000 were killed last night. The midnight communique listed at least 9,000 Germans killed in all and nearly 1,000 captured.

Lithuania and Latvian borders both were within easy striking distance of Red Armies. Forces of Leningrad district drove deeper into the Finnish front. At one place, the Soviets were within 18 miles of the Warsaw-Leningrad Railroad.

The Russians do not have merely isolated units pressing upon Wilno, for their forward wall is 20 miles long between Mikhailishki and Soli to its south.

The general communications centre of Baranowicze, between Minsk and Brest Litovsk, was in great danger of falling today as Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's troops pressed to within 11 miles of the city on the southeast and within 16 miles of the northeast.

Rokossovsky's tanks were fighting violent battles with fresh German Panzer units thrown into battle northwest of Lakhovichi and southwest of Snov. The Nazis were well aware that capture of Baranowicze would give the Russians a firm foothold for a drive toward these objectives—the Grodno gateway to east Prussia, Bialystok, one of the last hurdles before Warsaw, and Brest Litovsk, gateway to Warsaw.

US Congressmen Work Their Way To Britain Incognito As Members Of Crew Of Tanker

LONDON, July 7 — (AP) — Hugh D. Scott, Jr., of Philadelphia, and Gordon Canfield of Paterson, N.J., both Republican members of the House of Representatives, reached London today after working their way across the Atlantic as members of the crew of a tanker laden with high octane gasoline.

They said they made the trip with the knowledge and authorization of the speaker of the House of Representatives to provide information of the Merchant Marine to Congress and the War Shipping Administration. The pair sailed June 26 when Congress recessed, and plan to return before it reconvenes.

The Congressmen said they were impressed immediately with the ability of Britons to take unflinchingly the heavy attack of robot bombs, adding that the flying torpedoes had been underestimated in the United States.

Circus Fire Kills 159; 200 Injured

Huge Main-Top Tent Treated With Paraffin, Gasoline

HARTFORD, Conn., July 7 (AP)—The death toll in the fire which destroyed the main-top of the Ringling Brother Circus jumped today to 159 as investigators pressed inquiries into the origin of the blaze and simultaneously held in heavy bail five officials of the company.

The injured, many of them in grave condition, were counted at 250, at least 25 of whom were in serious condition.

Not a circus performer was lost in the holocaust.

As a stream of weary relatives continued to wend through the grim aisles of the dead in the State Armory these officials of the circus were arraigned in police court charged with manslaughter:

J. A. Haley, vice-president; George W. Smith, general manager; Leonard Aylesworth, boss canvas man; Edward Versteig, chief electrician and David Blanchfield, chief wagon man.

After having been detained throughout the night at police headquarters Haley and Smith were held in $15,000 bail and the others in $10,000 for a hearing July 19.

Meanwhile investigators sought to establish a reason for the startling spread of the blaze which eyewitnesses agreed mushroomed with incredible speed from a tiny finger of flame near the main entrance to a gigantic inferno of smoke and fire.

Police Court Prosecutor James F. Kennedy announced that his preliminary investigation had established that the huge canvas tent had been coated with a waterproof solution of gasoline and paraffin before the circus left its winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla., early in the year.

Many witnesses to the appalling scene commented upon the thick oily nature of the billowing flames and smoke.

Among other agencies investigating were the State's Attorney's Office, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and a special committee appointed by Mayor William Mortensen.

In contrast to the stories of various persons present when the fire broke out yesterday, that the blaze originated low in the tent, Hal Olliver, circus press representative said today:

"The fire definitely started at the roof of the tent."

And he added: "We have a theory, but we're not making it public now. We expect to make an announcement later." He further declared that "absolutely no credence is being given any theory of incendiarism or sabotage."

The fire, acknowledged to be the greatest disaster in American circus history, reduced the show's main

Nature Unrestrained

SHREVEPORT, La., July 7.—(AP).— Neighbors asked Judge E. P. Mills to enjoin Frank Minard's rooster from crowing. But, ruled the Judge in dismissing the suit, chickens are valuable to combat wartime food shortages and a rooster "is necessary to the well-being, happiness and increase of a flock of chickens." The rooster crowed on while the neighbors planned an appeal to a higher court.

2,000 Planes Raid Germany

LONDON, July 7 — (CP). — Around 2,000 U.S. planes attacked seven plane and oil plants near Leipzig in Central Germany today, destroying 75 or more Nazi fighters in the greatest aerial battle since D-Day, while another force from Italy flew clear across Czechoslovakia and bombed an oil plant 75 miles east of Breslau.

In one of five heavy-bomber attacks on the buzzbomb grounds in the Pas de Calais area yesterday—attacks which helped roll up a big total of more than 6,000 sorties—heavy bombers hit at least 11 bases.

But the sirens sounded in London today and flying bombs were falling again in southern England.

These launching sites were attacked twice by the R.A.F., twice by the U.S.A.A.F. and once by the R.C.A.F. yesterday in the first really good visibility in nearly two weeks. No Canadian planes were lost.

The Paris radio reported that the French Mediterranean base of Toulon, hit two days ago by Mediterranean heavies, was "completely razed," not a street escaping damage, and total evacuation of the city was being considered.

A second big naval base, Kiel in Germany, was heavily pounded by American bombers yesterday, a day in which more than 3,000 heavy bombers struck enemy installations in Germany, France and Italy and mauled German transport in a 9,000-square-mile triangle south of the Normandy battlefield.

Eighteen Allied planes were lost, including four in the Mediterranean theatre, Allied communiques reported.

American heavies dropped thousands of tons of bombs on the Leipzig suburb of Mockau, Lutzendorf and other places. A big airplane works at Mockau has been hit several times before. The attack was a violent follow-up of a double blow yesterday at the Kiel naval base and the rocket-bomb cradles in the Pas de Calais department of France.

The Germans said the force attacking from Italy dropped bombs near the Austria-Hungary border and pushed on over Czechoslovakia into German Silesia. A Vienna airdrome was bombed last night along with oil and rail facilities in Northern Italy.

The Germans threw up a big smoke screen and heavy flak barrage around Leipzig, almost in the dead centre of Germany 85 miles southwest of Berlin.

The first returning pilots said 100 German fighters went up to defend the target in one of the most intense bits of opposition in weeks. Two Mustang fighter squadrons broke the attack and destroyed at least 14 interceptors.

These daylight forays followed the third successive night assault on western Germany by R.A.F. Mosquitos, squadrons of which also braved thunderstorms and attacked railroads from the Normandy battle zone to Le Mans, 75 miles to the south.

Huns Stiffen Defences In North Italy

Allied 5th and 8th Slowed Down Near Gothic Line

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ROME, July 7—(AP)—Lashing out from outposts of the heavily fortified Gothic Line in their first aggressive action in two months, the German defenders of Northern Italy have brought the Allied 5th Army's drive toward Livorno (Leghorn), Pisa and Florence almost to a halt, Allied Headquarters said today.

The British 8th Army also measured its gains in yards instead of miles

A stiff house-to-house battle continued to rage day and night in the village of Risognano, where American infantry who have penetrated to within 10 airline miles of Livorno were attempting to smash through heaily manned strongpoints.

The severity of the fighting was shown in official reports. The Americans, who on the preceding day held half of the town, were able to claim only two-thirds of its battered ruins last night, after a struggle reminiscent of the bloody combat at Cassino several months ago.

From the west coast along a sector extending at least 30 miles inland, the enemy struck back. At some points the Germans strove to infiltrate and break into newly-gained Allied positions and were thrown back only after brisk engagements.

Also along this front enemy infantry and tanks were backed up by increasingly active German artillery.

Gained 3 Miles

East of Rosignano equally strong resistance was encountered in the area of Castellina, at Colle di Val d'Elsa and north of Montecatini. The greatest advance came when American tanks moved up three miles, capturing high ground northwest and northeast of Montecatini. Other units fighting alongside French forces pushed through fierce opposition along Highway No. 2 to a point three miles northeast of Colle di Val d'Elsa.

An Allied spokesman reported that since July 1 the 5th Army alone has knocked out 75 to 80 enemy tanks and self-propelled guns, including 15 Tiger tanks.

Fighting on the 8th Army front as featured by the enemy's stubborn defence at Arezzo, 36 miles southeast of Florence.

Lt.-Gen. Leese's infantry and tanks yesterday drove the enemy from 2,815-foot Monte Lignan, four miles south of Arezzo, despite concentrations of enemy guns on its reverse slopes and curtains of machine-gun fire.

In the Tiber Valley the 8th Army slugged on from captured Umbertide toward Montone and farther east Gualdo Tadino was taken. Polish troops on the Adriatic coast took the town of Numana, but no gains were reported in the Osimo area by Allies attempting to reach Ancona, nine miles beyond.

The Mediterranean air force launched its first really concentrated attack on enemy communications and oil installations in Northern Italy yesterday with 2,000 sorties.

Nearly 750 United States heavy bombers hit oil targets at Porto Marghera, Aviano and Trieste, railyards at Verona, the Casara bridge over the Tagliamento River, the Latisana rail bridge, the Avisio

Americans Cross Vire River Canadians-British Stalled

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 7—(AP)—American forces launched out at dawn today in a new attack, stabbed forward more than a mile across the Vire River and captured the village of Airel, six miles north of St. Lo.

Headquarters announced no major action of the British-Canadian front around Caen at the eastern end of the battlefront.

An earlier report to headquarters, however, said a British 2nd Army patrol had reached the dock area of Caen. The report said no Germans were encountered in the penetration.

British and Canadian forces in the Carpiquet sector immediately west of Caen held their ground against fierce enemy counter-attacks.

Though the Caen front was quiet, front line dispatches reported no indication that the German were abandoning their long-contested eastern pivot, but were holding only parts of the town as strong-points.

The American attack surged forward under a concentrated hail from big guns which dazed enemy machine gunners and sent German artillery observers scampering.

Surround Pivot

Local American attacks around La Haye du Puits at the western end of the 25-mile-long American front almost surrounded that pivotal point.

(A BBC broadcast said La Haye had fallen, but later BBC broadcasts did not bear out the report and it was not confirmed by Supreme Headquarters).

The Germans here were in grave danger of being trapped.

Although all but one escape bridge from Caen, a pontoon bridge across the Orne river, had been destroyed, Roger D. Greene, Associated Press War Correspondent, said the Germans still were strongly entrenched at Caen.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent, in a field dispatch today said the Canadian troops in Carpiquet village had a quiet night last night with no fresh German counter-attacks.

The new American thrust was toward the west in the St. Jean de Daye area eight miles north of the highway centre of St. Lo. It got underway behind a shattering artillery barrage arching the Vire river.

25-Mile Front

The new drive, in an area five miles southeast of Carentan, broadened the American offensive front across the base of the Cherbourg peninsula to approximately 25 miles.

The Supreme Command said the situation was comparatively static around Caen on the eastern end of

Overseas Vote Takes 4 Months

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP)—Rumors persisted in the capital last night that there wasa prospect parliament would be dissolved before the end of July but persons well-informed in election procedure said that if this was done it would be impossible, because of the overseas vote, to hold a Federal general election before November.

They contended it would require four months from the time special returning officers were named for the fighting forces overseas and the date the vote was completed. This is in line with the opinion of the Commons committee on Election Act Amendments.

Special returning officers to take the overseas service vote, it was contended, could not be named until a bill, now before parliament, has been given Royal assent. Of course, Prime Minister Mackenzie King could dissolve parliament and allow four months between then and polling day to give time to take the overseas vote, but it is doubtful if he would wish to have the election campaign spread over so long a period.

Invasion Progress Slower Than Planners Expected

By WES GALLAGHER, Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 7.—(AP).—The Allied invasion of France has not lived up to the expectation of many of its planners, who had estimated the assault would progress more rapidly than it has.

Officers made no secret of this today, but at the same time hastened to say that the western front, after one month of fighting, could not be described as "unsatisfactory."

"After all, we have landed and established a front and a month ago, we were none too sure whether we could do that," one officer said.

That progress has been slow is attributed to a number of reasons by various officers. The chief reason that emerges is that the Germans have reacted violently and fought fanatically for each foot of ground—in Russian style.

The worst June weather in 25 years blocked the Allies from using air superiority to the full extent and a channel gale caused considerable damage in unloading operations.

The weather was at its worst during the early unloading stage—sufficient supplies and troops early in the campaign might have paid

Super-Bombers Attack Japan

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—Superfortresses of the U.S. 20th Airforce bombed the Japanese naval base of Sasebo and the steel centre of Yawata on the island of Kyushu Friday night, in the second attack by the huge B-29's on the Japanese mainland.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, announced the assault today in a communique at Washington. It was the third time since the United States entered the war that American planes have rained bombs on Japan proper.

Sasebo was hit for the first time in the war. It lies to the west of Yawata, which was the target of the first B-29 Superfortress attack on the Japanese home islands on June 15.

Bombs were dropped also on industrial objectives at Yawata, target of the Superfortresses' June 15 assault on Japan.

Both cities are on the island of Kyushu.

No further information was available immediately.

Chinese Score Great Victory

CHUNGKING, July 7—(AP)—Chinese troops have made a smashing comeback in Hunang province, breaking the siege of Hengyang and driving back a distance of 25 miles the main body of Japanese troops which had by-passed that vital rail junction in their drive south along the Hankow-Canton railway, a Chinese Army spokesman declared today.

The victory, scored with the aid of reinforcements moving up from the southwest, has "removed for some time to come" the Japanese threat to occupy the whole of that important rail line and cut China in two, the spokesman said.

Announcement of the sudden success came as China entered the eighth year of her war with the Japanese invaders, confident that with the help of the other United Nations she eventually would drive the enemy from her soil.

"Liberation is close at hand," declared General Chiang Kai-Shek, China's president.

The main force of Japanese is retreating in a northeasterly direction, the spokesman asserted, and the enemy column which has been driving northward from the Canton area has been stalled completely.

Seek Reserve Army Leaves To Move Hay, Grain Crops

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP) — A delegation representing about 35 Ontario Counties yesterday met Defence Minister Ralston, Agriculture Minister Gardiner, Labor Minister Mitchell and Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service and appealed for the granting of harvest leaves of at least 60 days to members of the reserve army.

The delegation, under the auspices of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, included H. H. Hannam, Ottawa, president and managing director of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture; R. A. Stewart of Almonte, Ont., a member of the O.F.A. executive; and W. L. Clarke of Gormley, Ont., secretary of the York Agricultural Committee.

The delegation presented a resolution endorsed by 36 Ontario County Federations of Agriculture stating that Ontario farmers were facing the harvesting of one of the biggest crops of hay and grain in their history "with diminishing labor supply and very disappointing results in getting western help."

The resolution urged that the government act immediately to make help available from the potential labor pool in the reserve army by granting at least 60 days' leave to experienced agricultural workers in the reserve forces, such leave to be made effective not later than July 10.

The delegation said much of the hay crop would be lost if it was not garnered within the next week or two, and that a heavy grain crop was coming up shortly which had to be harvested.

Mr. Hannam said the ministers and Mr. MacNamara gave the delegation an "excellent hearing" and promised to give the "utmost consideration" to the situation outlined.

Noxon Sentenced To Die In Chair

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 7 — (AP). — John F. Noxon, Jr., 47-year-old lawyer, was sentenced today to death in the electric chair for the electrocution slaying last September 22 of his six-months-old mentally deficient son Lawrence.

Sentence was imposed by Judge Abraham E. Pinanski after Noxon availing himself of the privilege of addressing the court, said:

"I want to repeat again, what I said during the trial, that I did not kill my son. I'm innocent of this terrible charge."

Noxon stood calmly in the prisoner's cage and heard Judge Pinanski sentence him to die "by the passage of a current of electricity through your body at a time and place provided by law."

The court then stayed execution of the sentence.

Canuck Tanks Score Gains Bag 4 Of 10 Nazi Panzers

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN CARPIQUET, France, July 7—(CP Cable). — A Western Canada tank unit was in the midst of the fighting around this village, giving strong support to the infantry, both during the attack and when the series of enemy counter-attacks was repelled.

Capt. Jim Fraser, of Altamont, Man., standing in a dugout here yesterday while the colonel of the regiment drew up new tank plans, said the tanks came in with the assault infantry and Engineers on Thursday morning, and have shared fully in the three-day battle for the village.

"It seems as if tanks have done very well here and there," he said, "and there have been several good shots at very close range."

One main tank-against-tank action occurred Tuesday afternoon in and around the hangars of the nearby airfield when tanks were supporting Western infantry in the fight.

About 10 Canadian tanks were there and 10 German tanks suddenly appeared to threaten the infantry. The Canadians spotted the Germans first and opened fire at 300 yards. One tank got in seven rounds before the Germans got organised. The Canadians knocked out one enemy tank and other reports showed that three other German tanks possibly were destroyed. The Germans eventually withdrew.

The position along the south side of the airfield became untenable, however, due to the heavy German artillery and mortar fire and the Canadians had to give it up. Canadian tanks in Carpiquet itself played a mobile role during the enemy counter-blows on the second morning in the village and greatly assisted the infantry in throwing back four German attacks.

Mortar Explodes 9 Dead, 36 Hurt

ST. BRUNO, Que., July 7 (CP)—Nine dead and 36 injured was the latest count of yesterday's disastrous explosion of a mortar shell at Mount Bruno military camp.

Few signs remained here of yesterday's horror, but in Montreal, 16 miles away, the torn bodies of the dead rested in the city morgue where an inquest was opened, while the injured were being treated in various hospitals.

Military District No. 4 headquarters at Montreal announced that a court of inquiry will open tomorrow, and it was expected that an official list of the dead and injured would be issued following confirmation that advices had been received by the next-of-kin.

Morgue workers were visibly affected by the scene, an ambulance driver remarking that he never had seen anything "so terrible, many of the bodies were badly mangled.

At the Montreal General Hospital, a group of sailors and soldiers from nearby barracks had gathered and gave blood transfusions to the wounded men. George A. Burgeon (rank and hometown unavailable) was probably most seriously injured of the soldiers taken there and was given 1,250 cubic centimetres of blood within a short time of admittance.

A large number of military ambulances were sent to the camp immediately following the blast and the injured men were taken directly to hospitals at Montreal. The casualties were distributed among at least three Montreal hospitals with other wounded men being taken to the military hospital at St. Anne de Bellevue, Que.

Military officials immediately dispatched notification of the accident to the next-of-kin of the dead and injured and it was expected that a

Soldier Train Wrecked; 17 Die; 200 Hurt

JELLICO, Tenn., July 7 (AP)—At least 17 persons, all but two of them soldiers, were killed last night when a troop train plunged into a 50-foot gorge of the Clear River 11 miles south of here.

Dr. E. P. Muncy, resident physician of Knoxville's General Hospital, said the death toll probably would exceed 40.

The locomotive and four cars were piled at the ravine's bottom, and a fifth hung over the precipitous edge, where it left the Louisville and Nashville railroad tracks.

One soldier, believed to be Pte. Leonard Battag of Evanston, Ill., was still pinned in the bottom of a wrecked car 12 hours after the crash, with four dead men piled on him. He regained consciousness and talked with rescuers as acetylene torches cut through twisted steel nearby.

Some official estimates said 25 were killed and 250 injured.

Express Agent C. L. Alley said first rescues were made by nearby mountain folk who tediously hoisted the injured up the shrubbery-lined gorge on block-and-tackle slings.

Ambulances took the injured to hospitals in Lake City, Lafollette and Jellico, Tenn., and Corbin and Williamsburg, Ky.

Reporter Willard Yarbrough of the Knoxville Journal telephoned his paper that he counted seven dead when he climbed into the engine room and looked out. He said two more dead were lying in the stream, running two to four feet deep at the wreck scene.

In this Cumberland mountain section on the Kentucky-Tennessee line, the L. and N. tracks traverse numerous trestles over deep gorges and loop around hairpin turns.

Express Agent Alley, who said the train carried 1,006 soldiers, reported early to-day the cars remaining upright had been switched to another track and were proceeding to their destination.

tent to ashes within less than an hour yesterday and brought injury to at least 225 of the estimated 6,000 spectators at the afternoon performance. State police on duty at the temporary morgue estimated that two-thirds of the dead were children and said most of the adult victims were women.

Fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, husband and other relatives walked silently from cot to cot. Many searched futilely among the small bodies burned beyond recognition.

They will return again today—still hoping, yet dreading, to recognize some piece of jewelry, a shoe, a charred scrap of a dress.

Governor Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut was at the scene quickly and remained until late in the night. Nurses' aides and volunteer workers toiled through the night, aiding both the injured and grief-stricken survivors.

Cause Unknown

Cause of the blaze remained undetermined today, but an investigation was started immediately under the Governor's direction.

Warrants charging four circus officials with manslaughter were issued last night by Police Court Prosecutor S. Burr Leikind, who said other arrests might be made today. The four men named in the warrants were J. A. Haley, Vice-President of the Circus Company, George Smith, General Manager, John Brice, Chief of Circus Police, and Leonard Aylesworth, listed as Chief Canvas Man.

Only the first act, the performance of the trained animals, had been completed when the blaze, at first so small that, as one witness said, it could have been extinguished with a bucket of water, was seen near the main entrance of the big top.

Survivors agreed that the circus staff had tried valiantly to prevent panic. The first move toward the exits was orderly and many of the children making their way from the tiers of seats were seen laughing excitedly.

Panic Ensuer.

But when the flames roared with terrifying speed to consume the entire canvas roof, the audience became a fighting, screaming, terror-stricken mass.

Some children dropped to the ground were trampled unconscious by others jumping behind them. Others were tangled in the blazing canvas.

The performing animals had been safely herded through the caged runway back to their trucks when the blaze was first seen and only five performers, the "Flying Wallendas," were in the arena.

The scene was described by Felix Adler, the show's famous clown, as the most horrible ever witnessed by a circus performer.

Roland Butler, general press representative, predicted the show would return to the road later this summer, and reported all the show animals were saved and none of the performers had been injured seriously.

Estimates of the fire loss ranged from $75,000 to $300,000.

Veal Calves Weaker; Cattle Steady

TORONTO, July 7 — (CP). — Cattle prices held steady with last week's close, in trade on the Livestock Market here this week. Veal calves were slightly weaker. Hogs, sheep and lambs were steady.

After a draggy cattle trade on Monday activity increased and the moderate supply of butcher cattle was cleared by the close. Weighty steers sold from $11.50 to $13. Butcher steers were $10 to $12, with a few at $12.25 and butcher heifers mostly $11.90 down. Butcher cows ranged from $7.50 to $9.50 and canners and cutters from $5 to $7.25. Bulls sold from $7 to $9.25. Fed yearlings were $12 to $13. Stockers sold from $7.50 to $11.50 A few milkers and springers sold from $85 to $150 each.

Good and choice veal calves sold generally from $13 to $13.50, with top quality bringing $14. Common to medium vealers were $9.50 to $12.50 and grass calves from $6.25 to $9.50.

Spring lambs sold at $16 cwt. off-car and at $15.50 off-truck for good ewes and wethers. Buck lambs were $1 cwt., discount. Common sold downward to $10. Yearlings sold at $8 to $10. Sheep sold from $2.50 to $5 cwt.

Hogs were $17.65 to $17.75 for Grade A and $17.25 to $17.35 for Grade B1, dressed. Sows were $13 dressed.

the Allied-held strip of France, but a British officer said Allied fighter-bombers had wrecked all but one of Rommel's escape bridges at Caen and that the one span left intact across the Orne was a pontoon structure.

The Germans were building up tanks and motor transport south of Caen and both sides appeared to be preparing for a new flareup of battle.

Dug in at Carpiquet, with Germans on three sides of them, Canadian forces were reported holding their positions firmly, but enemy troops still controlled the prize airfield to the south, except for hangars on its northern fringe, which were in Canadian control.

Field Marshal Rommel's panzers drove British troops out of the eastern edge of Verson, two miles south and slightly west of Carpiquet.

A front-line dispatch from Ross Munro, chief Canadian Press War Correspondent in the field, said the entire Canadian area at Carpiquet is covered with slit trenches. Munro declared Carpiquet had been raked by more enemy shellfire than any other spot along the front.

Heavy Going

He said Carpiquet was fairly quiet yesterday and Canadian troops appeared to be "in good fighting form after two days and nights...of really heavy going."

The new American advance in the Cotentin area was launched just north of St. Lo, Associated Press War Correspondent Don Whitehead reported in another front dispatch.

Meanwhile an American infantry drive pushed from one to two miles down the Cherbourg Peninsula.

Driving south from St. Jores, six miles due east of besieged La Haye du Puits, American troops plunged to the La Plessie Canal in a two-mile advance while another column captured Le Mont, 1½ miles southwest of La Haye. Fighting continued in La Haye itself.

Yesterday's good weather faded this morning and heavy clouds formed a low ceiling, making most flying impossible.

Take High Ground

In the continuing battle for La Haye, American troops have captured high ground to the west, north and east of the Nazi stronghold, and its fall its considered a matter of time.

Inside the town itself the Americans were reported holding the northern edge after twice being driven out. The Germans clung to the southern portion.

The American encircling drive to the south threatened to cut the one escape highway for the Germans by plunging to Le Mont. The village of Montgardon in the same area also fell into American hands.

Small advances were registered southwestward along the Carentan-Peiers Road in a drive that eventually might make the German position in La Haye untenable. Culot and Las Mesnil, roughly a mile short of Sainteny, were occupied. Sainteny is a half-way point on the main highway from Carentan to Periers.

Marshal Erwin Rommel appears to be trying desperaetly to seal off the entire Normandy beachhead in the fashion of Anzio, but it remains to be seen how successful this procedure will be when General Montgomery orders an all-out attack. Such an attack would be certain to bring Western Europe's greatest armored battle.

Clean Out Huns In 1944 De Gaulle Says

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle declared today that the "year 1944 won't pass without the last German in France being killed, captured or chased from our soil."

Speaking in French to the staff of the French delegation, Gen. de Gaulle declared that France must make itself "great, strong and free."

"France knows that France must be great or disappear," he stated.

He spoke of the cult of greatness and stressed his idea that France must unify herself and rebuild herself by her own efforts.

He expressed confidence that she would be able to build a political regime that would be strong and profoundly democratic and to remake herself from the point of view of social progress.

De Gaulle emphasized the need for closer relations between metropolitan France and her colonies, declaring that the empire is "one of the most direct evidences of our greatness."

He stressed solidarity among the Allies, praised the progress of invasion forces and promised that "soon our own armies will return" (to France).

The present is full of difficulties but comforting, he said.

As for the past, De Gaulle said there had been many mistakes—international, political, military and personal.

But the past is over, he said, and "the future is before us and our country has all that it needs to make itself great, strong and free.

American officials freely predicted that Gen. De Gaulle's visit to Washington would bring a substantial improvement in French-American relations and lead eventually to a satisfactory working agreement between the French National Committee and the United States government.

1 Bridge Left To Huns In Caen

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ON THE CAEN FRONT, July 7—(AP). — Allied planes have wrecked al but one of the German "escape" and supply bridges at Caen and the remaining span across the Orne River is a pontoon bridge, a British staff officer said to-day.

The aerial offensive against the Caen crossings put three bridges at the island port city out of action and damaged another to the south at St. Andre-sur-Orne.

"The destruction of bridges must be a great inconvenience to Rommel," the staff officer said. He cautioned, however, that the Germans still were very strongly entrenched before Caen and that there was no sign of the Nazi pulling out.

Invasion Progress

big dividends before the Germans could get set.

Under cover of clouds, Marshal Erwin Rommel has been able to bring up reserve divisions although under great difficulty and now progress will be extremely costly.

Statements in Moscow newspapers to the contrary, Allied officers say they have proof that German divisions assigned to the Russian front have appeared in France and the Allied western front comes close to engaging and tying up the 50 to 60 divisions which the Russians asked.

Crack Tank Units

(Moscow's Izvestia asserted yesterday that no divisions were shifted from the eastern front in June to supplement the 18 divisions it said Germany had in Normandy.)

Moreover, an unusually high percentage of divisions are crack tank unit, particularly in the British-Canadian-held Caen sector where seven panzer divisions already have been identified, in contrast with four infantry divisions.

It is possible that Hitler already has from one-third to one-half of his tank divisions earmarked for the battle in the west.

The biggest factor in the slow advance has been the fanaticism with which the Nazis have fought, even with scratch divisions such as those garrisoned at Cherbourg. For the most part, these fought virtually to the last, holding up the Allied advance.

Snipers have been left behind in great numbers and small, cut-off units have fought on for days, taking up valuable time.

Only one great thrust that would achieve a big breakthrough into the open behind the Germans has a chance for making up lost time. And with the terrific amount of armor around the bridgehead, this can only be achieved after the biggest armored battle in the history of western Europe.

Sasebo is on the island of Kyushu, west of the steel centre of Yawata, which was struck June 15 by the Superfortresses in the first air attack on the Japanese islands since medium bombers hit Tokyo April 18, 1942.

The target of today's attack, which occurred on the seventh anniversary of Japan's initiation of the war with China, lies just north of the great Japanese port of Nagasaki.

The attack of Yawata, also by Superfortresses of the 20th Bomber Command based in China, occurred in the pre-dawn hours of June 15.

Four of the big planes failed to return to their base in China after the Yawata mission.

Launch New Invasion

PEARL HARBOR, July 7—(AP)—A new island invasion 800 miles from the Philippines and the sinking of five more Japanese ships withing 600 miles of Tokyo by carrier task force planes kept the Western Pacific drive rolling today at a fast pace.

The new landing brought nearer the fall of Japan's last airfield on nearby Noemfoor, off North Netherlands New Guinea.

The new sinkings raised enemy ship losses to 58 since the United States 5th fleet moved into the Marianas June 10 to help crack Japan's inner defence line at Saipan.

Enemy plans for a drawn-out defence of the only airfield they still hold on invaded Noemfoor received a severe jolt by the latest amphibious operation.

Covered by warships and planes, American units swept unopposed on to tiny Manim islet and set up artillery to shell Namber airfield three miles away on Noemfoor's west coast. In a lightning operation, invaders from reef-climbing landing craft and sky transports previously had overrun the other two airfields on Noemfoor.

The five newly-announced sinkings added to a debacle suffered by the Japanese when a task force moved between Saipan and Japan earlier this week to shell and bomb the Volcano and Bonin islands.

Howard B. Chase Succeeds Morin

OTTAWA, July 7 — (CP). — War Services Minister LaFleche announced in the Commons yesterday the resignation of Rene Morin of Montreal as chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Board of Governors and appointment of Howard B. Chase of Montreal as his successor in this post.

Mr. Morin will remain on the Board of Governors.

Gen. LaFlech said that Mr. Morin in consenting to remain as chairman in 1942 had pointed out he did not know how long he could continue in office. Recently, however, he told the Minister his personal affairs required an increasing share of his time and he could not fairly keep the onerous duties as chairman of the Board any longer.

Gen. LaFleche said that while he was sorry to see Mr. Morin resign after serving the CBC so well and faithfully, he was glad to see the position of labor in the national life recognized. Mr. Chase is president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, with headquarters in Montreal.

Gen. LaFleche said that so far the board of governors had not yet recommended a name for the appointment of general manager which has been vacant since the retirement in December of Dr. James Thomson, president of the University of Saskatchewan.

Dr. Augustin Frigon, assistant general manager of the CBC, is acting in the post.

Dr. J. J. McCann (L-Renfrew South) chairman of the Commons radio committee told the closing public session of the committee last week that when they began study of their recommendations to the House this week one of the most important matters to be dealt wtih was the suggestion that CBC authority be divided.

The suggestion, made by Mr. Morin in evidence before an early committee meeting, would see the appointment of a full-time, salaried chairman in charge of policy with a general manager in charge of administration. Mr. Morin was only part time and was not on a salary basis.

Fierce Hatred Follows Robot Bombing

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Hitler's devilishly ingenious robot bombs may be the ill wind which blows some good to a world that is determined to find real peace.

This indiscriminate killing of civilians, which the Nazi Frankenstein can't control in its murders, will go far towards insuring that Germany gets just punishment she escaped in the last war because the Allies got soft-hearted.

John Bull's immediate reaction is a fresh boiling-up of fierce hatred for Nazidom and its barbarities. One would expect a similar bitterness among the other allies, for Hitler is committing an act which is contrary to civilized practice in warfare—"Vengeance Fire" his war communique called it yesterday.

Thus the Nazi dictator's hope of wangling soft peace terms, and escaping personal retribution, is indeed slim. The London Daily Telegraph sums the thing up succinctly today when it says:

"Flying bombs will not be forgotten when the day comes to settle accounts with Germany. Meanwhile this desultory and indiscriminate fire will drive nobody from his post."

England isn't beefing over this fresh frightfulness. The London Cockney just hitches up his pants and spits over his shoulder in a gesture of defiance which speaks for the nation. The silence is ominous.

Prime Minister Churchill during his discussion of the robot bomb in the House of Commons yesterday made a remark to which observers attach much significance. He said:

"Introduction by the Germans of such a weapon obviously raises some grave questions."

This has been interpreted generally as meaning that such indiscriminate bombing of civilians will influence the terms imposed on Germany at war's end. If that's what Churchill has in mind, it is indeed of vast importance, for in recent months those people who favor leniency towards the Germans have become decidedly more vocal.

list of casualties would be released later.

The blast occurred when a shell exploded prematurely in the barrel of a three-inch mortar during a training session on the rifle range of the camp. About 100 members of the Canadian (Active) Army who had marched recently from Farnham, Que., were in the vicinity when the explosion occurred.

Army authorities kept everyone strictly away from the scene of the accident and newsmen were not permitted to enter the camp at all.

Rev. Ernest Marsan, parish priest of St. Bazile Le Grand who was called to the camp following the blast, was among the first to arrive at the scene and he said he found half of the men in the group either dead or wounded. The other half moved among the wounded and tried as best as possible to render first-aid.

Father Marsan said one of the men to whom he gave the last rites of the church was severed in two just below the shoulders. Most of the men were French-speaking Roman Catholics, he added, and most of them suffered injuries about the legs.

"DERRIS DUST"
INSECTICIDE KILLER

Insecticides compounded with "Derris" have both contact and stomach poison properties. "Derris Dust" will kill both biting and sucking insects such as many kinds of aphids, bugs, beetles and caterpillars. Control results should not be assessed until several hours after application. "Derris Dust" is extremely toxic to insects but relatively non-poisonous to humans and warm-blooded animals. This advantage should be given particular attention by commercial growers since "Derris Dust" may be applied "anytime", even shortly before treated crop is to be harvested and consumed.

"SULFORON"
SPRAY KILLER FOR FUNGICIDE
AND INSECTICIDE

"Sulforon" is specially prepared micro-fine sulphur. It is so fine that thousands of these tiny particles would be required to cover the head of an ordinary pin. For this reason "Sulforon" should not be classed with old type mesh sulphurs. "Sulforon" is a more active form of sulphur than other coarsely divided products. This gives a better control of those fungus diseases which can be controlled by sulphur sprays. The small particles of "Sulforon" are immediately effective on application. These penetrate the fuzz on the undersides of apple leaves, very small apples, many stone fruit and the common fungicides of flowers. Also useful as a good control on "Two Spotted," "Pacific", "Pear Blister" and "European Red" Mites. Sulforon, like all elemental sulphurs is protective fungicide. It is not caustic, like liquid or dry lime-sulphur and thus does not affect the normal activity of the foliage.

Institute Marks Canada Day

ROSENEATH, July 7—(ENS)—Canada Day at the local branch of the W. I. was observed on Thursday. The president, Mrs. Frank Brown presided, and the hostess was Mrs. Harold George.

In an article entitled "Canada and Canadian Humor," prepared by Miss Geno Brown, she bewailed the lack of humor existing among Canadians. She said, "We Canadians are always terrible afraid of making fools of ourselves. There are comedy Englishmen, Irishmen, Scotsmen, Americans, Dutchmen, and Swedes, but there is no such thing as a comedy Canadian. There isn't even a Canadian national joke.

"The comedy angle of the Scotch is thrift, and of the Irish pugnacity. The English have class humor and the Americans the wisecrack, and the humor of exaggeration. But we Canadians have no quality that anyone can hang a joke on. So no one laughs at us, therefore we never laugh at ourselves.

Mrs. George Mouncey presented current events in relation to gas rationing, Canadian bacon contract, and health insurance.

The response to the roll call was "Name A Canadian M.P." The program opened with the convener, Mrs. J. W. Pacey in charge. Following the singing of the National Anthem, the American National Anthem was sung by Mrs. Sam Black. The convener read a story of the Canadian woman's daily routine. An apple contest and their season was won by Mrs. Charles Sandercock with 19 varieties. Mrs. B. Thackeray presented a report of the district annual held on June 7.

During the business session it was revealed that two cases of commercial jam costing $10.90 had been shipped to Britain. The society volunteered to hem 80 handkerchiefs, and make six pairs of pyjamas for the local Red Cross Branch.

Queen Visited Soldier

COBOURG, July 7 (ENS)—One thing which helped Rifleman Geoffrey Oliver of Cobourg to forget his wounds was the fact that the Queen visited the hospital in which he was a patient after D-Day. Oliver was injured in the hand by bullets and was transferred from the beachhead back to England. In a letter to his mother he related that the Queen stopped at his bed and asked how he had injured his hand and expressed the wish that he would soon be all right again.

"She is very lovely. She was dressed in pale gray and blue and wore the Maple Leaf," Rifleman Oliver said.

Early Closing Is Said Premature

COBOURG, July 7 (ENS) — Few if any stores will be closed on Saturday night at seven o'clock, in spite of the decision of a meeting this week of the Cobourg Business Men's Association.

The permanency of the idea depends on what Port Hope will do.

The feeling of many merchants yesterday was that the whole thing was premature. Some felt that no action should have been taken it was learned whether or not Port Hope would close at the same hour, as it was pointed out that farmers would go to Port Hope if that town stayed open longer than Cobourg.

Canada Packers Obtains Lots Of Help

How well the request of the Canada Packers for emergency labor during the canning season has been met on the part of the general public came out at a meeting of the Local Employment Advisory Committee Thursday night, when Fred Innes, cannery supervisor of the C.P.C. reported on the situation as it stands at the present time and announced that the packing plant was extremely satisfied with the results that have been obtained.

"We have had a good response from the schools," Mr. Innes stated, and he singled out St. Peter's High school for particular mention as one of those contributing with especial zealousness to this vital cause. "The Training Centre has been very generous too," he continued, "and we are getting from 12 to 15 men each night who are issued passes and work from after supper till midnight. I can say that we really have enough women and boys for the work just now, but we still would like about six strong men for the hard jobs that are part of the canning process."

Mr. Innes revealed that the pea crop was particularly heavy and that canning right now was in full swing. He anticipated the possibility of additional labor-shortage trouble later in the summer when an expectedly large tomato crop would begin to come in for canning, and requested the consideration of the advisory committee in helping to meet the C.P.C.'s needs at that time.

Present at the meeting, the sixteenth of the Local Advisory Committee's sessions since its inception, were D. G. H. Melton, chairman, Dr. Lorna Cotton Thomas, F. C. Paterson, F. E. Johnston, William Johnson, W. H. L. Mellis and L. A. Grant.

The feeling of the meeting, expressed in a resolution drawn up by Dr. Thomas which will be forwarded for consideration to the National Employment Advisory Committee in Ottawa, was that industries such as the C.P.C., benefitting and indeed counting on the patriotic labor of youth recruited during the summer months, should be advised well in advance of how long the schools would be closed so that they — and parents too—might plan accordingly. Too often in the past two years, it was said, the calculations of essential industry employers had been seriously upset by the refusal of the government to announce an opening date for the schools until "the last minute", so to speak. The committee in its resolution advocated a change in this practice which would spare industry considerable worry and uncertainty. Canada Packers expects the tomato canning season to begin about the 25th of August and to continue until the 15th or 20th of September.

The committee's request of a month back that definite consideration be given to th advisability of closing all pool rooms in the city has not met with agreement on the part of Ottawa, a reply from the National Committee informed the local council last night. This request, based on the contention that pool rooms were a major cause of absenteeism and of men avoiding employment of any kind, had been forwarded from many communities across the Dominion. The national committee, however, is of the opinion that, pool rooms being "places of amusement", they can not justly be legally closed, and were action to be taken, that it might eventually result in other amusement facilities being also denied the public.

Men After Work Build Equipment For Playgrounds For Children

Tiny tots in the Parkhill Road Wartime Housing district, who formerly had either Jackson Park or nowhere to play, will soon be able to pass the sunny July hours in a playground built especially for them, thanks to the same type of public-spirited people who have made Dixon House a by-word in war relief and charity circles, since its inception December 1943.

The idea for the new playground, to be constructed on the lawns surrounding Dixon House, was conceived by Mrs. C. S. Thompson, who noticed that while older children could play in the corner ball-field, or Jackson Park, the younger children had actually no place to play, except on the streets. It wasn't long before enthusiastic neighbours began coming over in the evenings to lend a hand in building furniture, slides, swings, etc.

Held Pie Social.

The ladies of the community held a pie social, which netted enough money to begin buying some of the materials needed.

Thursday evening, some of the men, including W. S. Thoms and M. Bullied, in charge of carpenter work, were busy putting the finishing touches to a new type of kiddies' slide. Almost 5 feet wide and with a regular set of stairs instead of a single ladder leading to the top, the slide permits three or four children to play on the slide at the same time, while it still affords the last word in safety. Already benches have been made, and sandboxes, king-size play-pens for the youngsters who thrive in the sand, have been turned out en masse, and all are painted a cheery green.

A new type of swing, culled from an idea in a magazine, is being constructed by the men. Still in its infant stage, the men hope to be the first in Peterborough to demonstrate the new "rocking swing."

With the accent on safety, all of the playground equipment is being built in the most modern and simple style as possible. Before work began on the project, Leo Copp, Inspector of Schools, made a visit to York township playgrounds, reputedly the finest in Canada, to obtain ideas and make plans for the Dixon playground.

The frame of a hammock has been donated by H. A. Cranfield, and soon there'll be a seat on it, and the kinds can swing to their heart's content. E. V. Janeway, W. Reynolds, J. B. Young and R. Heafield have also done much to further work on the project.

A drinking fountain is to be installed, and a wooden fence will be built enclosing the playground. Each day of the playground's operation, two ladies from the community will volunteer to supervise, one in the morning, and one in the afternoon. Of course, if it rains, the tots are free to go into Dixon House, where children's books, games and many other attractions will help to chase more than one weary hour this summer.

NEW ADDED INGREDIENT
NEW VANISHING SCENT
SAME PROTECTIVE LATHER

Lucky Bride-to-Be! But she wasn't always so happy. Once the invisible barrier of "B.O." shut her off from the friends and good times she longed for.

Fortunately, she learned about a simple precaution taken by careful people everywhere—a daily bath with purifying Lifebuoy soap. Lifebuoy gently cleanses—washes away the perspiration which causes "B.O." It leaves you feeling extra clean. You know you are safe from offending. And actual tests prove Lifebuoy milder than many so-called beauty soaps.

Get Lifebuoy for the bath—and for face-and-hand wash-ups. Its clean, invigorating scent disappears almost instantly.

FROM HEAD TO TOE—IT STOPS "B.O."

An Arena For Peterborough

The decision has now been taken to build an Arena and Health Centre in Peterborough on the most modern plan, with facilities for indoor and outdoor sports. An organization has been set up to do the work involved in this large undertaking, and it is likely that a campaign for funds will be set on foot early in the autumn. The Arena will be suitable not only for sports, but also for large mass-meetings, conventions and rallies, and it is felt that there is at least one aspect of this plan which should appeal to every citizen of the city; a large sum of money will be needed to carry out this ambitious task, and everyone will be expected to give generously. The suggestion has been made that this Arena and Health Centre should be Peterborough's memorial to its war dead. There is merit in this idea, for something which gives perpetual benefit and pleasure to the living is a more satisfactory memorial in many ways than an object of stone or bronze which is of doubtful value to anybody; we have nothing to say against monuments when they are beautiful, but there are many things which Peterborough needs worse than it needs another monument. The monument erected after the last war is markedly better than what is usually found in cities of this size, and it gives an air of distinction to our principal city park; but it can scarcely be argued that we need another bronze monument while we lack a modern hospital, an adequate city auditorium, and an arena for sports.

Two sites are available for the Arena and Health Centre. One is the former site of the lumber-yard opposite George Street Wharf, and the other is Riverside Park, either north or south of the Hunter Street Bridge. The disadvantage of the former site is that it would not hold the outdoor sports grounds as well as the Arena itself; as the showers and changing rooms for the players would be in the Arena it would be pointless to establish the outdoor grounds at some distance. A point in favour of the Riverside Park location is that the work of creating a wading pool and a swimming place, so well begun by the Lions Club, could be continued and another sport added to the list of those to which the Health Centre will extend its protection. As, presumably, the Arena and its surroundings will present a pleasant and park-like appearance, it would improve the riverside amenities of Peterborough.

The Examiner is glad that the decision to build an Arena has been taken, and we feel that this is the time to express the gratitude of the community to Mr. J. A. Jebson, who has done an excellent job in finding out the facts about the Arena scheme, and presenting them in a coherent manner to the public; however popular a proposal may be, it will never come to anything unless someone is ready to give a great deal of time and hard work to it; Mr. Jebson has not stinted. The Arena plan has been launched and we are sure that it will be carried through to a successful conclusion.

Sterilizing Mental Defectives

For many years the sterilization of mental defectives has been put forward as a solution to one of the most serious problems of modern civilization. But it is understandable that the authorities who have the power to do so hesitate to try the plan, for it contains the possibilities of abuse and unwarranted invasion of individual rights in a very high degree. The Chatham News has recently discussed the matter, and we think that this extract from its editorial will be of general interest: "From the standpoint of scientists who have investigated the situation, it would seem that it is the only course to follow if the country is to make any headway in controlling insanity. The mental hospitals of Ontario are badly crowded. There are many borderline mental cases that cannot be dealt with at all because there is now only sufficient accommodation for the dangerous types. The cost to the province is rising annually at an alarming rate. It would appear as if the province is going to be overrun by lunatics unless something is done about it".

A great deal of the strong popular prejudice against sterilization, we are convinced, arises from the fact that hundreds of thousands of people confuse it with castration, and attribute to it effects which even the latter could not bring about. If the sterilization of the insane were merely a problem of eugenics it would be simple enough; but it is a problem with social and political implications as well, and with our present imperfect knowledge of the causes, duration and inheritability of insanity we must be cautious about any steps we take in that direction.

We are convinced, however, that if the Provincial Government undertook a program of education in mental hygiene in this province our alarming incidence of insanity could be reduced. Lack of emotional stability is one of the chief causes of insanity, and here in Ontario we have a great deal of emotional instability which is directly attributable to ignorance. Too many people have chaotic minds; too many people have inherited, or have picked up for themselves, ideas about life which make happiness and mental health impossible for them; too many people—and this must always be a foremost consideration in discussing insanity — entertain fantastic ideas about sex in all its forms which make it impossible for them to have peace of mind. Too many people have nothing to do in their spare time; they do not read; they do not play games; they have no hobbies or avocations. Too many suffer from the mental rot which results from having deserted the religion of their fathers without having put any other philosophy of life in its place. Too many people, in short, toss perilously on the sea of their own emotions without a compass and without a chart. No wonder so many of them go mad. No wonder so many hover on the borderline between madness and sanity.

There is no easy solution to the problem, and what will satisfy and steady one man will be useless to another. But a program of education which would at least give some of these people an inkling of how to cope with themselves might keep them out of the asylums, and save us some of the millions which we spend every year to keep up those institutions.

The Union Of The Vanquished

There is something breath-taking about the news that Italian workmen are complaining that the Allies do not pay them as well as the Nazis for clean-up work. Not long ago the Italians were fighting us; then, when they saw that the game was up they wanted to fight with us; now they are squealing that we do not pay them according to their Fascist Labour Code. Whatever comes the Italians are determined to get all that impudence and insensitivity can bring them.

When the Italian stevedores and truckers worked for the Nazis they got $1.35 a day for truck-driving, and 77 cents a day for shovel work; from the Allies they get 90 cents and 65 cents for similar work. They say that it is not enough. Such wages create hardship, they complain. The fact that the Nazis taxed them heavily, and that their Fascist labour organizations grafted heavily on their wages does not count; the fact that the Allies have brought supplies to Italy and raised the standard of living does not count; the fact—a trifle this—that the Allies are fighting to drive the Germans out of Italy and give the Italians back their freedom does not count. Nothing counts except that the Allies—the Americans in particular, —are reputed to be made of money, and that the Italians want to get their hands on all of it that they can.

Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Lane of the American Army has made a big fellow of himself by asking to be transferred because his suggestion that the wages paid to the Italians be raised was firmly refused by General Alexander. But the bulk of opinion will support Alexander. Labour codes and union rates of pay are for men who have earned the right to them, and who have shown that they possess the democratic spirit which lies behind union organization. The Italians are still short of that mark.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"War Job Slackers Classed With Deserters," says a headline. What, has someone been speaking ill of deserters?

Discussing foreign wines, a contemporary remarks that the Allies helped themselves to a fine old port at Cherbourg.

This warm weather makes for forgetfulness. For instance, when John Bracken spoke at a farmer's picnic in Quebec recently he quite forgot to mention conscription.

The New Zealand Case

(By GRANT DEXTER)

NEW ZEALAND played a part at the Prime Ministers' conference out of all relation to her size and relative importance. Coming from the same region—the South Pacific—and having recently entered into a regional pact with Australia, it was generally supposed that New Zealand would line up in support of the secretariat or council proposal. On the contrary, it is not too much to say that New Zealand quietly but effectively blocked Australia at every turn.

The New Zealanders in contrast to the Australians were unaggressive, cool and steady. They displayed no tension, carried no chips on their shoulders. No doubt this difference in attitude was partly due to the fact that New Zealand was some 1,200 miles away from the nearest point of Japanese penetration. Australia faced the cruellest of foes across the narrow strip of sea which separates her from New Guinea. New Zealand was in the second line although she played her part in repelling the foe just as resolutely as her sister Dominion. And, incidentally, New Zealand claims to have suffered greater casualties proportionately than any other of the United Nations.

THERE was, throughout the conference, a degree of friction between these two Dominions New Zealanders regard the Australians as adolescent, bumptious and difficult. At the same time New Zealanders temper their criticism with the thought that thirty years hence they, themselves, may go through an equally trying period. Right now, New Zealand with 1,300,000 people and, apart from agriculture, with limited resources, is too small to count for much. New Zealanders are sufficiently realistic to know that they have no weight to throw around. Therefore they do not raise their voices unduly On the other hand, Australia, with 7,000,000 people, substantial resources and considerable industrial development, possesses power. In the world sense, Australia no doubt is a small power, but it is undoubtedly a power. Australians are keenly aware of it. The shock of 1942 impels them to make the most of their strength—hence their extreme aggressiveness.

The basic defence problems of Australia and New Zealand are identical. Their line against attack runs from Singapore through the Philippines to Hawaii. Singapore stood in their minds as a rock of ages. Yet in 1942 this line went down. The defences might as well have been made of tissue paper.

Having conceded this, the New Zealander says: "So what?"

The Australians, however, respond differently. They think that they possess within themselves and with the co-operation of New Zealand sufficient strength to maintain this defence line. They believe that if they had known how vincible Singapore was, they could have held it instead of dispersing their forces in other and distant war theatres.

The New Zealanders disagree. They believe that New Zealand and Australia combined cannot ensure their defence. Nor can the British Commonwealth do so. The record of the war they regard as unanswerable on this point. The British Commonwealth plus the United States was just able to save Australia and did so by a margin of safety which Australians can scarcely bear to think about.

THE Australia-New Zealand pact of January is regarded by New Zealanders largely as a neighbourly concession to Australia. But New Zealanders, in sharp contrast with the Australians, point out that this pact is ony a gesture In a positive sense it means nothing more than an agreement to consult in advance of decisions There is no pledge to reach common agreement New Zealanders explain that they entered into the agreement largely because they hoped it would make Australia feel better. Actually, the New Zealanders declare, there has been no consultation since the agreement was signed. New Zealand has never heard a word from Australia For example, New Zealand was not consulted by Australia about the policy that Ausrtalia proposed to advocate at the conference. The agreement, in New Zealand's view, means little. Certainly it does not bind either party. New Zealand is just as free as ever she was to go her own way.

If the agreement had imposed any limitation on New Zealand's freedom in foreign policy, it would not have been signed. The one point on which New Zealanders are emphatic is that they will never enter into any binding regional arrangement with Australia.

The reason they give is this: New Zealand's feeling about Australia is akin to Canada's feeling about the United States. New Zealand is a very small country in comparison with Australia. New Zealand has no intention of becoming the tail on the Australian dog—or as New Zealanders put it: "a second Tasmania"—and that, they say, is precisely what a binding regional pact would mean.

In refusing to do this, New Zealanders do not argue from the standpoint of national pride. Not at all. They contend that a regional pact would be valueless. The two Dominions combined are not strong enough to guarantee their common defence. Therefore, such a pact would be ineffective and self-deluding. If two great powers, under the conditions obtaining in 1941-42 could not hold the Singapore-Hawaii line, what could the combined Dominions do? No, the only hope of security lies in a much bigger, greater aggregation of power. Collective security, a world organization of nations pledged to resist aggression, is the only solution to the problem of the defence of the South Pacific.

New Zealand is intensely British and glories in her place in the Commonwealth. She is aware, too, that as a member of the Commonwealth she has her own place and speaks with her own voice. This explains why Australia got no support from New Zealand for the secretariat idea at the conference. New Zealand interpreted the Curtin proposal as designed chiefly to increase Australia's influence at the expense of others, notably New Zealand.

WESTERN CROP PROSPECTS

Anything can happen between now and harvest time, but, at the moment the crop picture in Western Canada looks good. Rain has fallen sufficiently in most places, particularly in Manitoba, to give grain and gardens a good start.

With Canada's grain surpluses rapidly disappearing and the liberation of Europe's hungry millions begun, a bumper crop would be a real blessing this fall.

At the moment the prospects are excellent. We are even given assurances that our old friend the grasshopper is not planning to put in an appearance this summer. However, we are keeping our fingers crossed.—Winnipeg Tribune.

PROBLEM CHILD, OR PROBLEM PARENT—WHICH?

The Half-Year Mark

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

THE year of decision is half spent. The first three months witnessed the patient mounting of the great offensives; the second quarter has seen them launched so successfully that the enemy stands confronted on three sides by the forces of the Allies. At long last the light is beginning to break in the hearts of free men.

But only three months ago misgivings were being expressed over the slowness of Allied progress. The Italian campaign was under criticism for its strategy and tactics. The Japanese were advancing in Burma and India. The Anzio beachhead looked like another case of "too little and too late." The enemy was being hit only from the air. But men with their supplies and weapons were pouring unimpeded into the Allied arsenal in Britain, and in three months the whole scene has changed.

The Allies are in France. Their tenuous beachhead has been consolidated. Their foothold is secure. They possess a first-rate seaport with a sheltered harbor. There is no possibility now that they can be dislodged. Three months ago that prospect looked dim and distant indeed. The Allies are now preparing the large-scale battles of decision that will carry them deeper into France, and the enemy cannot much longer delay committing his forces to the main line in Normandy.

In the east the Wehrmacht is suffering a major disaster. The Russians have crossed the Berezina once again on the way to Warsaw, as they pursued Napoleon in 1812, and 300,000 Nazis face entrapment. The German defensive front in the east has been overrun and Minsk, the gateway to Poland, has fallen. Moving at a rate and on an extent of front that far surpasses the best the German blitzkrieg could achieve, the Russians have performed a feat of arms that bids fair to unhinge the whole Nazi position.

In Italy the Germans are being driven inexorably northward across the plains of Tuscany as the British and American forces approach Leghorn, Pisa and Florence. Here again the High Command faces the dilemma of whether to hold northern Italy or retreat beyond the Po River—either course will be a dangerous gamble.

And meanwhile in the occupied countries the underground is rising. The peaceful Danes are rioting and the French patriots have become such a menace that the Nazis are forced to launch a general offensive against them in southwestern France. The German war economy is under such strains that producer gas has made its appearance on the mechanized battlefield. How long the enemy can stand up to the concerted blows that are being thrown at him from all sides cannot be foretold, but as the year of decision reaches the half-way mark the foreseeable future looks considerably brighter than it did only three short months ago.

Bouchard And Secret Societies

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

MUCH has been written in both English and French papers since Senator T. D. Bouchard made his famous speech in the Senate, in which he made serious charges against the Order of Jacques Cartier, a secret society, which he claims has as its aim the establishment of a separate French state in Canada. As a result of that speech, Senator Bouchard was relieved of his position as chairman of the recently formed Quebec Hydro Commission. While such action on the part of the Quebec Government is to be sincerely regretted, it is very probable that Senator Bouchard, who has the reputation of being a very courageous man, was well aware that such a sequel to his uttterance was a decided probability.

It is difficult in the English province of Ontario to understand all the elements that enter into the situation created by the speech of Senator Bouchard. We know that many of the things he said have been contradicted, and those about the clergy, by no less a personage than Cardinal Villeneuve himself. We have a feeling that it is a problem that must be settled by the French-Canadians themselves.

While we are on the subject of secret societies and their influence, let us not forget that we have secret societies in this province that do not fail to use their influence when they feel it necessary. We have never been able to understand the urge to join a secret society which seems to come to some people. We do not like secret passwords, we do not like peculiar handshakes, nor do we like the blackball system of rejecting applicants for membership. We prefer to look a man in the face and say "We do not like you, and we do not think you are fit to associate with us." It seems more manly, honest and straightforward.

We merely mention this phase of the matter. For let us not forget that if an agitation is started to disband the Order of Jacques Cartier, the Young Laurentians and what have you, we will have a similar agitation to disband some of the secret societies which flourish in our own province.

So let us not shout too loudly about what is happening in Quebec. Royal Commissions have a habit of prying into all sorts of things, depending on their terms of reference.

Literary Hoaxes

(NEW YORK TIMES)

TWO Australian soldiers and poets have played a good joke on a literary magazine of their country. They put their heads together and invented a "poet of tremendous power" named Ern Malley. They foisted upon that innocent periodical poems which they call "Nonsensical Sentences." The first three lines of one masterpiece were cribbed "from an American report on the drainage of breeding grounds of mosquitos." Such is the critical skill of the editors of that magazine. Perhaps they aren't much to be blamed, though. The Orphic or Cryptic school of poetry is now full of pupils. Some puzzled readers have even suspected these enigmatists of deliberately spoofing the public.

These literary hoaxes have flourished long and the genre has been well kept up in the United States. The late Edmund Pearson wrote and attributed to Jared Bean a book called "The Old Librarian's Almanack," supposed to be published in 1774. Newspapers, magazines, reviewers gobbled it eagerly and its genuineness was accepted even after its author had publicly denied it. In one of his books Mr. Pearson mentions some of his fellow-American hoaxers. Under the names of Emanuel Morgan and Anne Knish, Witter Bynner and Arthur D. Ficke invented the Spectrist School of Poetry. Their specimens were greeted heartily by yearners for and practicers of the New Poetry.

In 1918 William George Jordan and Richardson Wright published through the Authors' Club a skit on the passion for Russian literature. They celebrated the centenary of an imaginary "Feodor Vladimir Larrovitch; An Appreciation of His Life and Works." It included essays, a bibliography and "the picture of 'A Pressed Flower' from the grave of Larrovitch at Yalta, which is peserved and framed on the walls of the Authors' Club." Mr. Pearson didn't forget, and we hope our readers haven't forgotten, Dr. Walter E. Traprock, F.E.S.S.E.U., the bold explorer who wrote "The Cruise of the Kawa," still one of the most precious books on the library shelves of the Chappell of Kidding University. This hoax was followed by the disappearance of the South Sea bubble. Let the good work go on.

INTRODUCING THE SANGAR

A word hitherto used only on the Indian northwest frontier has appeared in the vocabulary of this war. It is sangar. A dispatch telling of operations of the Cape Breton Highlanders in Italy says:

"Some platoons lived in sangars, rocks piled up about them because there was no soil that would permit the digging of slit trenches."

That is just what the sangars used on the frontier are and why they are used. They are like sheep-folds with stone walls. Doubtless the Indian troops in Italy showed their use for protection in rocky hill country. — Saint John Times-Globe.

AGAINST DUPLICATE TAXES

The income tax is the fairest kind of levy, fairer than the sales tax or custom duties, and it must be largely used by the Dominion in meeting its heavy responsibilities after the war, for war pensions, interest on the war debt, continued maintenance of armed forces, and re-establishment of ex-servicemen, to say nothing of social security measures. The Dominion may share the proceeds of the income tax with the provinces as it does now, for it must assure all the provinces of ability to maintain their services. But we should not return to the expense and inconvenience of duplicate income taxes. The system adopted during the war will have to be continued, with whatever other readjustments may be necessary in the distribution between the Dominion and the provinces. — Winnipeg Free Press.

WOMEN AS EMIGRANTS

Women as well as men are taking an increased interest in the possibility of emigration. They have been receptive to talks about the Commonwealth that have been given in the Services. Information on the Dominions has been spread through the National Association of Girls' Clubs, and, of course, the women have followed the welcoming speeches of the Dominion Prime Ministers.

According to the Society for Overseas Settlement of British Women there has been a marked increase in the inquiries and applications, and this society, which arranged for the emigration of 18,346 women between the wars, is hearing from members of the Services, teachers, nurses, and land girls.

All this interest in emigration is rather embarrassing to the agencies which are having to answer inquiries before an official policy has been announced.—Manchester Guardian.

A Bible Message

And he came out, and went, as he was wont, to the mount of Olives; and his disciples also followed him. And when he was at the place, he said unto them, Pray that ye enter not into temptation.

And he was withdrawn from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down, and prayed, saying, Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done. And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him. (Luke 22: 39-43.)

Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto thee will I pray. My voice shalt thou hear in the morning, O Lord; in the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee, and will look up....

Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteousness because of mine enemies; make thy way straight before my face. (Ps. 5: 2, 3, 8.)

325 Air Force Members Back In Canada

OTTAWA, July 7 — (CP) — More than 325 airmen—the largest group ever to be repatriated to Canada—arrived in Ottawa Thursday from the battle fronts of Europe, the Middle East and India.

A large crowd cheered them into Union Station Concourse where a band serenaded them. Just before the Air Force train arrived a long Army train, bearing soldiers from Britain and Italy, discharged a dozen Ottawa district men and continued on to western Canada. They were played into the station by a pipe band.

The Airmen were fed ice cream and coffee by pretty Red Cross volunteer workers, welcomed by service and civic officials and then taken in buses to the Repatriation Depot at nearby Rockcliffe from where they will start 30-day leaves beginning tonight. Most of them will catch trains this afternoon to their homes throughout Canada.

The great majority have completed tours of duty and are back to pass on their experience to fledgling airmen in Canadian Training Schools.

The party included the tallest pilot in the R.C.A.F.—W.O. Jim (Bones) Bulman of Shawinigan Falls, Que. Bones is six foot five and he laughed good naturedly as photographers posed him beside the shortest man in the party—five foot two L.A.C. David Paton, of Toronto.

Bulman belongs to that hazardous company who swoop over Europe's bombed targets, take pictures and swoop back to Britain "bringing proof of what the guys have been doing."

Flt. Lt. Chuch McLean of Brockville, Ont., Scotsman who made a name for himself when he flew with Flt. Lt. George (Buzz) Beurling of Verdun, Que., over Malta, came back with the group.

He had been in Canada preciously recuperating from a crash which necessitated 4,000 skin grafts.

Another victim of a crash back in Canada is P.O. N. A. Hindmarsh of Oakville, Ont., who was injured in India.

London Evacuates 5,000 Small Children

LONDON, July 7—(CP)—In the great railway stations of London to-day scenes of the early days of the war and the fearsome blitzes of 1940 and 1941 were played over again as the government moved thousands of this scarred capital's children to safety areas deep in the countryside, far from the menace of the flying bomb.

Just as in the blitz the normal life of London continues and in no way has the vaunted terror-weapon demoralized its war-worker citizens and soldiers. But the exodus of children has begun as a safety measure, to prevent needless death.

More than 5,000 children, all tagged with their destinations — Yorkshire, the Midlands, Lancashire, Cheshire, North Wales—crowded the four main stations during the day.

Lose $32,000 Taxes

TORONTO, July 7—(CP)—Toronto's civic board of control has decided to enter into negotiations with the Ontario government concerning the estimated $32,000 annual taxes the city will lose when the province takes over the union stockyards here.

Mayor Fred Conboy said that an arrangement should be worked out whereby the city would receive an annual grant from the government in lieu of taxes.

Canadians In Battle Again On Lake Trasimeno Front

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE EIGHTH ARMY IN ITALY, July 7—(CP Cable)—In the forefront of battle up the Chiana Valley, west of Lake Trasimeno, since June 21, Canadian tanks to-day are in the rising country west of Arezzo and are still going strong after two weeks of fighting that carried them more than 30 air miles.

Censorship prohibited previous mention of Canadian participation in the current 8th Army advance.

In the first week, from June 21 to 29, an Ontario and an Eastern regiment fought slowly northward between Trasimeno and Lake Chiusi—roughly 80 miles north of Rome—against the Germans who had hastily organized the so-called Trasimeno defence line and held it with a combination of artillery, mortars, tanks and aggressive and able infantry, taking every advantage offered.

And they proved many for the defenders.

Three days of rain had given the enemy time to stem their headlong flight and organize a line. Their apparent purpose was to gain time to prepare some sort of stand on the Gothic Line to the north, running behind Florence from the north of Pisa on the west coast, to the south of Rimini on the east coast.

The Ontario Regiment was committed to battle June 21, just as the enemy turned and fought back in an unexpected defence, with Lake Trasimeno on one flank. By June 29 the advance had slugged out eight air miles over the gently rolling farmlands, grainfields and orchards, through compact little villages like Sanfattuchio, Pucciarelli, Badia Ranciano, Vaiano, Gioiella, Lopi, Casamaggiore, Pozzuolo and Petrignano.

8 Miles A Day

In one week an Ontario and one western Regiment pushed as much as eight miles a day as the enemy fell back behind demolitions and their rearguards. Against comparatively light opposition the advance passed the villages of Laviano, Valiano, Gabbiano, Fojana D. Chiana, Marciano San Giovanni and others, in a drive through the Chiana valley.

In the first day of action, June 21, tanks under Majors Doug McIndoe of Vernon, B.C., and E. K. Kennedy, a Prince Edward Islander, cleared the villages of Sanfattuchio and Pucciarelli in long, arduous fights lasting hours, forcing the tanks to shoot up many buildings.

More than 100 dead were found in the streets of Sanfuttuchio and two battalions of German infantry were knocked out by the Canadian tanks and Irish infantry.

The same determined resistance characterized the week, with paratroopers and other Germans frequently ambushing tanks and infantry from the high grain fields.

The other regiment was committed June 24 and promptly encountered similar or even tougher opposition in the country east of Lake Chiusi. Tanks under Majors Art Wood of Ottawa and F. W. Johnson of Three Rivers, Que., and Capt. (now Major) N. A. Dickins of Toronto, were in the advance. In Valiano alone more than 20 German dead were counted.

The action reached its bitter height on June 28 outide Casamaggiore when German tank guns from dominating positions on a slope, reduced the tanks under Johnson to three fighting tanks, put three temporarily out of order and destroyed eight. Dickins' tanks also suffered losses. Four German counter-attacks were beaten off June 28.

Teacher Honored At School Picnic

FAIRMOUNT, July 7—(ENS)—A picnic was held at Scott's Corners by Fairmount and the Town Hall Schools at which the parents of the children were well represented. The sports were in charge of the two teachers, Miss Nesbitt of the Town Hall and Miss B. Argue of Fairmount. Prizes were given the following winners: Edward Turner, Marie Ballantyne, Douglas Ball, Erma Shaw, Lly Seymour, Don. McIndoo, Audrey Fair. Three girls tied in high jumping, Marie Ballantyne, Eleanor Downes, Eleanor Bowles, and Edward Turner for the boys who jumped 42 inches.

Two ball games were played, Fairmount won in the senior game and the Town Hall in the junior game. Everyone then formed a large circle and Miss Argue, who is discontinuing her duties as teacher at Fairmount School, was asked to come forward, and Eleanor Downes read an address and Audrey Fair presented Miss Argue with a dresser lamp. Miss Argue made reply and expressed regrets in leaving, and wished her pupils the best of luck in the future.

Seventeen Are Confirmed In Bancroft Parish By Rt. Rev. John Lyons On Annual Visit

BANCROFT, July 7 — (ENS) — At St. John's Anglican Church, in Bancroft, on Sunday evening, a capacity attendance was present to welcome Rt. Rev. John Lyons, M.A., D.D., Bishop of Ontario. It was the occasion of the Bishop's annual visit to the parish at which service nine candidates were confirmed, having been schooled by the local rector, Rev. W. L. Simmons. At the commencement, a brief dedication service was held in which an honor roll of members of the Armed Forces who have enlisted from the church was dedicated, and also a bread box for sacramental use, a gift from the Girls' Junior W.A. During the other two services at Maynooth and Greenview at which Bishop Lyons officiated, eight other candidates were confirmed.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCaw and son Harry, Port Hope, were in town over the week-end visiting with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. William McCaw of Belleville spent the week-end holiday visiting with relatives in Maynooth and Bancroft.

Mrs. R. Fleming of Toronto is visiting at the home of Mrs. E. Hagerman of Bancroft.

Miss Peggy Lumb and Stead Lumb of Toronto arrived home over the week-end and will spend the summer with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Lumb of Bancroft.

Huns Use Women

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 7—(AP)—The Germans are using women in their bombing planes, Lieut. Robert Nelson of Danville, Ill., said yesterday on his return from the shuttle mission to Russia and Italy. He said he saw two men and two women parachute out of a Ju-88 which had been shot down.

Fairview School Is Awarded Gordon K. Fraser Trophy

FAIRVIEW, July 6. — S.S. No. 11, Smith, has won the Gordon K. Fraser Cup for the County of Peterborough, in the school grounds improvement contest. The school has been entered in the provincial contest, and will be judged early this month. The school is situated on the Centre Line at the corner of the 7th Concession, Smith, and is in R. F. Downey's inspectorate.

Under the direction of the teacher, Miss Olga Wilson, and aided by many residents of the community, the school and grounds were completely redecorated, with trees and shrubs being planted, flower-beds dug, and a new cement base for the flagpole erected. The school itself the woodshed, and the fence were painted, and the yard was levelled. Last fall Miss Wilson and pupils redecorated the interior of the school, painting the wals and ceiling in ivory and trimmed with blue; curtains in matching colors were placed on the windows

S.S. No. 11, Smith, was built in 1871, and the first school meeting recorded took place in 1874. The minutes of that meeting, as recorded, are as follows: Moved by A. Daley, and seconded by L. Davis, that Richard Waram be chairman. The motion was carried. G. W. Fitzgerald was chosen to be secretary, on a motion by Richard Chowen seconded by Charles Boyce. Lewis Davis moved that Thomas Robinson be first trustee, and this was seconded by Alex. Rosborough. Andrew Montgomery was chosen second trustee, on a motion by Lewis Davis and seconded by Andrew Daley. Charles Boyce moved, and S. Northey seconded, that Richard Chowen be third trustee.

"I will truly and faithfully to the best of my judgment and ability discharge the duties of the office of school trustee to which I have been elected.

(Signed)

Thomas Robinson, Andrew Montgomery, Richard Chowen, chairman, and G. W. Fitzgerald, secretary."

The present Board of Trustees: Elmer Milburn, Ernest Mahood, and Everett Cockburn.

During the month of June the 29 pupils bought $65.00 worth of War Savings Stamps.

Under the direction of the teacher Miss Marjorie Galbraith, the pupils of S.S. No. 4, Smith, won second prize in the school grounds improvement contest. S.S. No. 4 is also on the Centre Line of Smith Township, and is situated 3 miles south of No. 11. Both schools are in Mr. Downey's inspectorate.

Canol
WAS BORN IN 1920

SINCE THE ICE AGE Canada's vast Northland lay wrapped in timeless slumber . . . Then, in 1914, a little group of prospectors approached the Arctic frontiers in search of petroleum.

By 1919 Imperial Oil geologists had narrowed down this Northern quest to an area along the Mackenzie River near the tip-top of Canada's map. In 1920, near Fort Norman, the drill struck oil!

As the North opened up, a small refinery was built to serve the pioneer airplanes, mines and river craft.

Then came Pearl Harbor! Shipping on the Pacific seaboard was menaced. Could another supply of oil for coastal defence, for the protection of Alaska and for attack through the Aleutians be developed? Imperial Oil was asked by the U.S. army to get the answer to that vital question.

Thus Canol developed; and while Imperial geologists and drillers sought and found more oil, the enormous program of waterway, road and air transport, of pipe line and refinery construction, went on apace.

Today the Canol project is completed. A supply of oil for military needs has been secured; there is hope for further discovery, and the territory is open to all oil seekers who care to stake their knowledge and capital.

Imperial Oil has undertaken to risk large amounts of capital in an effort to "prove up" enough oil to warrant the enormous expenditure needed for a pipe line before the oil can be brought to commercial markets.

It is a job that calls for time, patience and perseverance, but it is no more fantastic than the Canol of today would have seemed to the men driving the first drilling bit down to Norman's oil sands twenty-four years ago.

In a keenly contested game in the Ladies' Softball League, Aircraft defeated Outboard Marines 17-5, at Ashburnham Bowl Thursday evening.

The Marines kept the score down to 3-3 in the first three innings, but in the fourth, Aircraft made five runs to give them a healthy edge over the Marines. In the sixth, Aircraft scored once again, and went on in the seventh to register 2 more runs. Outboard Marines scored twice in the eighth, as against Aircraft's 6 counters rolled in during the eighth frame. Neither team scored during the ninth inning.

Pitching for Marines, Maxine Monson made the best of a difficult game, striking out 2 and walking one. Norma Strickland hurled for Aircraft, striking out 16 Marines and walking 9.

Heavy hitter for Marines was Vera Mitchell, who smacked a home run in the first, bringing in another runner and herself.

Annette DeCarlo, of Aircraft, hit a sizzling double in the first inning.

The teams:

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

A week from tonight, Toronto Tip Tops, one of the smoothest softball machines in the Dominion will be here to battle the Peterborough All-Stars in a benefit game at Riverside Park in aid of the Kinsmen's charities and the exhibition looms up as one of the biggest sporting events of the year. Cam Ecclestone will be on the firing line for the Peterborough selects and big Suz Turner for Tip Tops and that should develop into a sweet pitching duel. The executive of the City League will select the local team for this outstanding softball attraction and the lineup will be announced early next week. The Tip Tops' visit last season when a huge crowd saw them play was a big event of the summer and this return engagement promises to be even more attractive. In addition to the chance of seeing the best game of the season and of helping a worthwhile cause patrons of the game have an opportunity of winning a valuable gate prize for no fewer than ten of these will be drawn for. The first and second prizes will be $10 War Saving Certificates donated by the Peterborough Hotelmen's Association; the third an Axminster mat, Brinton Carpet Company; fourth, a Stetson hat, Selkirk Men's Shop; fifth, basket of groceries, E. C. Braund; sixth, basket of fruit, De Carlonis Fruit Stores; seventh, eight and ninth, six theatre tickets, Capitol, Centre and Regent theatres, and tenth, 200 cigarettes, Sugar Bowl.

With the defeat of St. Peter's by Plazas last night the second-placers are now in a position to sew up the City League race by beating Switchgear when the two top teams clash next Tuesday night in what should be one of the feature games of the season. If the Plazas should happen to come through with a win on that occasion the two outfits would finish the regular schedule on even terms and necessitate an extra fixture to decide first place. And while the two rivals are battling it out in the upper bracket there is the keenest kind of a fight going on for third and fourth positions with Soldiers, U.E.W. and St. Peter's all very much in the running yet. Anything can happen and every game from now on is decidedly important as the following standing will indicate.

	Won	Lost	To Play
Switchgear	9	2	1
Plazas	8	3	1
Soldiers.	4	5	3
U.E.W.	2	7	3
St. Peter's..	2	8	2

Games next week—Soldiers vs. U.E.W., Monday; Plazas vs. Switchgear, Tuesday; St. Peter's vs. Soldiers, Wednesday.

Bill Whitty Gone

Many older Peterborough fans will be sorry to learn of the sudden death a few days ago of Bill Whitty of Stirling, one of the best-known sportsmen in the district and they will endorse this tribute paid the Stirling athlete by Ken Colling in his Belleville sport column: "The sympathy of a far-reaching area is today being extended the bereaved family of the late Wm. J. "Billie" Whitty, of Stirling, who died suddenly of a heart attack at his home yesterday. Billie Whitty counted his friends in the legions and only last Saturday captured the Fish Trophy as a team mate with his lifelong friend, Tommy Solmes, to take second honors in the local lawn bowling tournament. He was stricken upon his return home. His brother, Vincent "Benny" Whitty, played hockey for Belleville prior to the last war, in which he made the supreme sacrifice. The late Billie Whitty was a hockey and lacrosse player in his own right three or four decades ago. He was one of the principals of the old Trent Valley Hockey League when that puck loop rose to dizzy heights. It was Billie Whitty who put the largest crowd ever into the now Hume Arena for a hockey game. That was when the local palace de sport boasted of an artificial ice plant and in a playoff game between Stirling and Madoc upwards of 3,500 jammed every nook and corner of the arena. That was after Bill had contracted for the old Hastings Arena for $100 per night for the Trent Valley playoffs. Both Bill and the league reaped a beautiful harvest, while the management of the local ice igloo collected but a paltry century note per game.

Bill Gaynon of the Niagara Falls Gazette read Dominic Senese practically out of baseball recently and now has to come back with the following: "That no-hit no-run and almost perfect game which Dominic Senese turned in against Pt. Colborne-Crowland Vics last Friday night, shows the St. Catharines mound ace back in the form that characterized his play here with Brights three years ago. It came at a time when most of us were beginning to think the big right-hander had lost the old stuff and was just another pitcher. It also marked his second no-hit no-run game, the other coming against Chippawa in the 1932 season, while he was working for Canadian National juveniles. Only an infield error deprived Dom of having a perfect one Friday, it being the lone occasion throughout the contest that a Vic runner reached first. Always an admirer of Dominic's pitching, this party is quite tickled over his fine feat. The last time, we watched him against Welland, he was far from the hurler who established that 19 consecutive winning mark with Brights in 1940 and 41. Being hit freely after the fifth inning, Welland players said, he did not show much in the later sessions. This prompted us to suggest that the boy was no longer a winning pitcher, and we expressed regret over same. His splendid showing against Victorias has given such a thought the lie, and we can only say that it couldn't happen to a better fellow."

Girls Have Stage

There will be no game in the City Softball League tonight and that means the Girls' League will hold the centre of the stage with a league game at the Ashburnham Bowl that brings together the Brintons and Peterborough Lock. Both these teams have been playing good ball in recent engagements and a real crowd should be on hand to see them battle tonight. Bernice Stinson or Doris Walker will likely get the pitching call for the carpet team while the Lock outfit will probably assign Beryl Lee, former Brinton pitcher, for the task of trying to knock off her old teammates. The result should be a lively tussle with the victory going to the team which gets the breaks. The Girls' League schedule is rapidly being run off with the loop getting a fine break from the weatherman. Only a couple of games have been rained out and if it were not for the fact that the schedule has had to be juggled around to provide for Westclox, later for Aircraft holidays the whole list would have been run off in quick order for there have been few breaks in the regular schedule.

One feature of the doings in the big show yesterday was that the St. Louis Cards got their worst drubbing of the season at the hands of the New York Giants who turned on them after three straight defeats and knocked them off 10 to 1. The victory went to Bill Voiselle, hard-working rookie of the Giants. Another noteworthy event yesterday was the fact that Tex Hughson, Boston Red Sox ace garnered his 13th win of the season. This one was a soft win for the Red Sox staged their biggest offensive spree of the season at the expense of the Detroit Tigers, winning 13 to 3. Bobby Doerr drove in five runs and Bob Johnson hit a single, double, triple and homer. Bob Muncrief of the St. Louis Browns helped slam the cellar door on the Athletics by blanking the Mackmen 4 to 0 on four hits for his eighth win of the season.

Plazas Defeat S.P.S. 4-2 In Close Tussle

Inability to come throught with hits with runners on the sacks robbed St. Peter's of a chance to improve their position in the City League race when they clashed with Plazas at Riverside Park last night and were beaten 4-2 in a well-played game in which the losers left 14 ducks on the pond.

The loss gave Plazas a chance to wind up the regular season tied with Switchgear for first place. It all depends upon next Tuesday's battle between the two leading clubs.

In spite of the fact that Moorhead for the Saints allowed eleven hits and that Dave Wilson and Frank Stokoe for the winners gave eight bases on balls, the pitchers were top men when it came to shutting off hits when they would have meant runs. Altogether 25 runners were stranded on the base paths, the Plazas leaving eleven on the runways.

The Saints had the bases full twice with only one out in the seventh and got but one run and in the ninth they loaded the cushions with not a hand down and couldn't come through to drive in a run. In that frame Wilson passed the first batter and gave way to Frank Stokoe who walked the next two to fill the bases, and then got out of the hole by refusing to allow the next three to get the ball out of the infield.

There were some sparkling fielding plays. Archie Stewart, Saints' shortstop, had one when he ran far out back of third to spear a drive by Ellis, Murphy also dashed back to make a similar brilliant catch and Bob Carlson, who played second for the Saints, robbed Blewett of a hit by coming up with a beautiful stop of a hard-hit roller. For Plazas the defensive fireworks were supplied by Art Heal, who went high in the air to spear a rap from the bat of Archie Stewart that looked like a sure fire hit. There were runners in scoring position when the robbery was committed. Hawks knocked down a hot shot from Condon's bat and tossed him out.

Saints Score First

St. Peter's got away to a good start. With Condon out Hollingsworth singled to right. Conroy sacrificed and Hollingsworth ran to third on a wide toss to second by Ellis. Heal mussed up Pearson's roller and Hollingsworth scored on the miscue. Stewart singled through short but Moorhead fouled to Hawks.

Plazas did not even that up until the last of the fourth, after missing a couple of scoring chances. In that frame Burton singled to centre, went to second on Carlson's sparkling play on Blewett's roller and scored on Starr's double to short centre which Carlson almost grabbed.

In the fifth the winners went out in front. Ellis doubled over short but was nearly robbed by Stewart who made a great try. Wilson flied to Hollingsworth but Heal bunted safely and Pryde singled to centre to score Ellis. Burton popped to Carlson and Condon made a fine stop of Blewett's hard smash.

The Saints tied it up in the seventh and lost a great chance to go ahead. Murphy opened with a hot shot to centre for a base. Condon looped a single into left. Hollingsworth whiffed but Wilson then lost control and walked Conroy and Pearson in turn, forcing in Murphy with the tieing run. There was still only one out but Stewart flied to Blewett, the runners being held and Burton grabbed Moorhead's fly to left.

Plazas made better use of the same opportunity in their half. Heal bunted safely and Pryde walked. Burton lined to Hollingsworth. Blewett lifted an easy fly to the same player and got a life when the right-fielder stumbled and then dropped the ball, an excusable miss. Starr flied out but Tucker came through in the clutch with a double to left centre, scoring Heal and Pryde. Hawks flied out to end the inning.

Miss Great Chance

That was all the scoring but the Saints blew a great opening in the ninth. Dave Wilson walked Hollingsworth to open the inning and Stokoe was sent in to take over. The relief hurler made a bad start by passing both Conroy and Pearson to fill the bases with no one out. Stewart then slapped one at Hawks who threw Hollingsworth out at the plate and Starr's quick throw to third nearly doubled Conroy. Moor-

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

For well over two and one half hours, one hundred and twenty members (men and women) of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club turned out on Thursday evening, to play their regular schedule games. So great was the demand for bowling space that at 7.30 p.m. we were forced to narrow up the playing space to make room for more bowlers.

And this is not anything really special, it's just that our lawn bowling club has grown to such an extent that we are hard put for accommodation. And we are not saying this with the idea of boasting, it's only for comparison, that the crowd last night was far bigger than many open tournaments, held both here and in other bowling centres.

But all this has been brought about only by hard work on the part of the members of the different committees who make up one of the best lawn bowling organizations in the province of Ontario.

Yes, lawn bowling is slowly but surely coming to the fore as one of the outstanding summer sports.

The men's rink tournament for tonight is set for 7.30 p.m. Phone your name in early, be on time and bring along two bits.

Shanks Loses Fight After 27 Victories

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Wilfie Shanks, 159-pounder of Montreal, suffered his first setback in his last 27 fights last night at Fort Hamilton when he dropped a split, eight-round decision to Vic Dellicurti, 157, of the Bronx.

Shanks, a fancy boxer, held a decided edge through the first three rounds, but then elected to slug it out with the hard-hitting Bronx battler. Dellicurti had the better of the late going, after shaking Shanks with several stiff rights to the head.

The Canadian fighter was warned repeatedly for holding in the finishing rounds. There were no knockdowns.

Pensive, Kentucky Derby-Preakness winner, was never a contender in the $10,000 Arlington Park Skokie handicap at Washington Park yesterday which went to Twilight Tear by a length and a half over Sirde, a horse from the west coast. It was the ninth straight win for Twilight Tear which set up a new track record of 1.22 3-5 for the seven furlongs. Pensive, a running mate to the winner, finished fifth.

Luman Harris, a mainstay of Connie Mack's pitching staff, will twirl his last game for the Athletics tonight before going to the Navy. The Philadelphia club yesterday secured Outfielder Larry Rosenthal from the New York Yankees in exchange for Outfielder Lew Flick, who will be farmed out to the Newark Bears.

The Niagara Falls club of the Niagara Senior Baseball League suffered a setback yesterday when Eddie Bissell, captain and star player, was ordered to retire from athletics and employment for an indefinite period because of rheumatic fever. Prospective induction into the Royal Canadian Navy has also been deferred.

Royals Edge Rochester Red Wings, Take Top Spot

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals lead the International League today, but only after swapping top place with Baltimore Orioles for four consecutive days.

The Royals defeated Rochester Red Wings 4-2 last night with a two-run rally in the eighth inning. The heay artillery started booming with a triple by Red Corriden, who rode home on Moe Aderholt's 14th home run of the year. The blow put Moe in a tie with Buffalo's Eddie Kobesky for home run honors.

Newark Bears raised themselves from the cellar and tumbled Baltimore from the lead by defeating the Orioles last night, 8-0. High point was Johnny Maldovan's five-hit performance as he struck out 14, top mark for one game this season. The previous high was 13 by Red Embree, who opposed Johnny last night. The Bears were aided by five Oriole errors.

Jersey City Giants bounced back from a three-game losing streak to defeat Syracuse Chiefs, 3-1, making it seven out of seven this year. Cliff Melton, making his first start since being sent down by New York Giants, was the winner although he needed help from Frank Rosso and Ken Brondell.

The Giants scored all three runs in the eighth inning, up to which time George Woodend had allowed them only two hits.

Toronto at Buffalo was postponed.

Dodgers Moan Over Fate Lose 10 In Row

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

Boston is the current hot club of the American League and Cincinnati is running a fever temperature in the National but there isn't any doubt about the temperature of the Brooklyn Dodgers. It's a zero minus 10 for one of the longest losing streaks of the 1944 season.

The Flatbush flock hasn't won since leaving the banks of the Gowanus and needs only four more setbacks in the week-end series with Pittsburgh to tie the all-time Brooklyn record of 14, a disaster that befell Burleigh Grimes' warriors in 1937. They still have three to go to equal the Cubs' 13-game flop of early season.

Three defeats by Chicago, three more by St. Louis and now four more by Cincinnati is the Brooklyn road record following Bucky Walters' 14th victory of the season last night when he hurled Cincinnati to a 10-4 triumph at the expense of rookie Ralph Branca. It was the ninth Redleg win in their last 10 starts and Walters' sixth in a row. Rae Mueller, of Cincy set a new consecutive game catching record at 134 with 636 persons named Mueller in the stands as guests of the management.

Red Sox Stay In

Joe Cronin's Red Sox continued to stick on the heels of the St. Louis Browns in the American by taking a 13-3 walkover from Detroit as Tex Hughson notched win No. 13. Bobby Doerr batted in five runs with a perfect 4 for 4 day.

Bob Muncrief protected the Brownies 2½ game margin by shutting out Philadelphia with four hits, 5-0, with the help of Vern Stephens' 3-run homer. Woody Wheaton who started the season as an outfielder, lost his first pitching start for the Mackmen.

Hank Borowy tuned up for a probable All-Star appearance by whitewashing Cleveland on a four-hitter, 4 to 0 decision.

Micky Baefner of Washington turned back Chicago with the third American League four-hitter to earn a 5-0 edge over Orval Grove.

Bill Voiselle pitched the New York Giants to a 10-1 verdict over the Cardinals that snapped a 7-game win streak. Al Jurisich was charged with the defeat.

Chicago climbed back out of the cellar at Boston's expense, 11-6, with Bob Chipman outpointing Al Javery, although neither was there at the finish. Bob Elliott with a triple and two doubles led Pittsburgh to a 6-5 nod over the Phillies as Nick Strincevich took a win over Ken Raffensberger.

JAPS DON'T TREAT PRISONERS LIKE THIS! — Japanese prisoners who were captured by Chinese troops and interned in a prison camp near Chungking, are shown enjoying a game of baseball, a form of pleasant relaxation which the Japs never allowed their Chinese prisoners to indulge in.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP).—Importers of fistic talent on this continent may find a good prospect after the war in Vince Hawkins, Neligh middleweight who is rated a coming British Empire champion. ...This 21-year-old railway fireman recently belted the daylights out of Eire's champ, Pat O'Connor, for his 50th undefeated pro fight. The war prisoners aid organizations has just shipped 3.000 tennis racquets and 35,000 balls to Geneva for distribution to prison camps. It also reports a big demand for soccer equipment, which had to be obtained in Brazil because, shoes, bladders, etc., aren't available here.

Today's Guest Star

Goe Goutter, Paterson, N.J., News: "The salvage division of the WPB is reported to have collected as much as four tons of waste paper daily at the race tracks. In other words, do your bit—buy a losing mutuel ticket you can throw away."

The Holy Cross Juniors, a Manville, R. I., amateur baseball team, were victims of five no-hit games this season and then came up with 21 hits in two games—and lost them, too.

Historical Note

The day after Brooklyn's new kid shortstop, Eddie Miksis, was born (Sept. 11, 1926), his 1944 teammate, Paul Waner, hit two homers, a triple and a double for the Pirates in a doubleheader against the Giants.

TORONTO, July 7 — (CP. — There was a little double-dealing at a softball game in Windsor, Ontario, the other day but the customers still don't know whether to believe it.

Dom and Ben Papineau, identical twins in all except their batting averages, decided their slugging discrepancy must be due to the fact that the calibre of their team-mates differed. Dom plays with a second-place team, while Ben's outfit is in the cellar.

So the two 18-year-olds switched uniforms and teams for one game, with highly satisfactory results — for Ben at least. The erstwhile weak brother of the act banged three singles while his slugging identical didn't hit safely all night.

The boys told all to their managers after the game, but those worthies still can't credit it, especially after the way the brothers fell into their alter ego's batting roles.

Builders' stones:

Prospects for the future of baseball in Toronto look good, if you can prove anything by the calibre of youngsters turning out at the Maple Leaf Stadium for the minor loop workouts. Senior players are coaching the youngsters and uncovering some future talent at the same time. One of the brightest prospects is 16-year-old Frankie Deluca, who has pitched three no-hit games already, and has professional stance and poise to carry him through.

Incidentally:

Lacrosse is definitely in the doldrums in Owen Sound, Ont. A four-team league was formed three weeks ago, but enough players can't be obtained to get it going, so now it's being dropped to a three-team loop...Swimmers across the country are getting their webbed feet in shape for the Canadian swim championships to be held in Vancouver on July 19. Five entrants are expected from Quebec, eight each from Ontario and Manitoba, with four from Saskatchewan. What the other provinces will do is still indefinite.....Red Kress has gone around and around with Toronto Maple Leafs and other squads in his 18 years of pro baseball, but it was only the other night he was able to get behind the plate in catcher's gear though he has played every other position. Now he is spare backstop under Herb Crompton.

UNION JACK AS RENT

WINDSOR, England — (CP). — The King revived an ancient ceremony by accepting from the Duke of Wellington a silken Union Jack as annual rent for Strathfieldsaye state in Berkshire. The estate went to the Iron Duke on condition he pay a token rent of a Union Jack each year.

Nelson-McSpaden Set Team Record

MINNEAPOLIS, July 7—(AP)—Shaving 12 strokes off par with a best ball of 61, Byron Nelson and Jug McSpaden set an all-time team record Thursday in tying with the Bill Kaiser-Bob Hamilton duo for the first-round lead in the Golden Valley invitation golf tournament.

Nelson-McSpaden beat the team of Harbert and Mike Turnesa four up in match play and thus had a four-plus count in the scoring system. Harbert-Turnesa posted a best ball of 65.

Three teams in best-ball competition have scored 61 in the past at Toledo's Inverness tournament, but those counts were only 10 under par for the course, compared with the dozen strokes Nelson-McSpaden clipped off Thursday with 31-30 on the Golden Valley 37-36—73 par. The pair's brilliant 30 on the last nine was made despite a driving rain.

Ask School Children Pick Milkweed Pods

TORONTO, July 7 — (CP) — School children in Ontario, Eastern Quebec and Manitoba will be asked by the Dominion Government to help harvest 250,000 bushels of milkweed pods it was learned here to-day. Floss extracted from the pods is used as a substitute for kapok in lifebelts and flying suits and will help meet the vast expansion needs of the United States navy.

Dr. Harold A. Sinn of the Department of Agriculture, said that of the 250,000 bushels of pods 175,000 pounds of floss will be made. That will fill 125,000 U.S. naval lifebets.

French Railway System Wrecked

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

IRUN, Spain, July 7 — (AP) — Sabotage and Allied bombing have so wrecked the French transportation system that the Germans, who monopolize all means of travel, have suspended sending French workers to Germany for the present, advices from France said to-day.

Enlistments of Frenchmen fr the German labor service continue but now, according to the French press, those who register must remain in France until further notice because of the transportation tangle.

(This dispatch indicated the German decision was prompted prmarily by lack of transportation, but it appeared another reason might be the necessity of keeping collaborating Frenchmen at home to repair the railroad damage.)

Meanwhile, reports reaching the Spanish border said a guerilla battle in the Correze Department of France had reached such propo tions that powerful Maquis forces had surrounded several thousand German troops trying to free Tulle, capital of the Department.

W.A. Honors Mrs. C. Price

HAVELOCK, July 7—(ENS)—A social gathering of the three groups of the Women's Association of the United church met on Tuesday evening to honour thir secretary for the past nine years, Mrs. C. Price, who is moving to Peterborough at the end of the month. A short program was enjoyed under the chairmanship of Mrs. T. Easterbrook, and consisted of community singing of favourite hymns; reading by Mrs. Walter Nobes; solo by Mrs. G. Morrow; reading by Mrs. G. Young; recitation by Mrs. Wm. Smith; vocal solo by Mrs. C. Gall. and a reading by Mrs. Freeman.

Rev. J. W. Wilkinson was then called upon to read an address and the W.A. president, Mrs. Easterbrook, presented Mrs. Price with a matching crystal set of a sandwich tray and a cake plate, in cornflower pattern.

Mrs. Price replied thanking the association for the gifts. Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies of the church.

WINS SIXTH DECORATION.

LONDON—(CP) — Wing Cmdr. John R. D. Braham, 24-year-old top-scoring night-fighter ace of the R. A. F. has won a second bar to his D. S. O., his sixth decoration. He is the only man to hold three D. S. O.'s and three D. F. C.'s. He has 29 planes shot down to his credit.

Leaves Minden

PENETANG, Ont., July 1—Rev. R. L. McLaren will arrive her this week from Minden, Ont., to fill the vacancy left by Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly as minister of the two Anglican churches here—All Saints and St. James-on-the-Lines.

Before going to Minden three years ago, Rev. McLaren was stationed in Toronto.

Charge Meat Plants

CHICAGO, July 7—(CP)—Criminal informations charging Swift and Company, Armour and Company, and Wilson and Company, three of the nation's largest meat packers, with violation of price regulations were filed in court yesterday by United States Attorney J. Albert Woll. The information alleges the packers compelled retailers to purchase secondary meats in order to receive choice cuts.

AWARDED D.F.C.—First Cobourg boy to receive a D.F.C. is Pilot Officer Leonard Murie, shown above. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Murie of Cobourg. Enlisting in August of 1942 at Toronto he went overseas in March of last year. Pilot Officer Murie is 20 years of age.

111 BIRTHS

Vital statistics for June as reported at the City Hall were: 111 births, 33 marriages and 41 deaths, as compared with 86 births, 35 marriages and 34 deaths in June last year.

RANGERS ENLIST TWO

James I. Little, 525 Albert street and Leonard G. Dunstar, 27 St. James, have enlisted this week in the 2nd (R) Battalion, Prince of Wales Rangers.

GOING ACTIVE

Two men whose homes are in the city, William D. Forbes, 497 Dixon street, and Thomas R. Smith, 144½ Hunter, have enlisted during the past week in the Canadian Active Army through the local recruiting office. Other recruits are R. W. Sheppard, R.R. No. 5, Peterborough, and A. H. Kidd, of Coe Hill.

HOME FROM OVERSEAS.

Among those who arrived home from overseas on Thursday evening were Pte. T. E. Ferguson of Lindsay, Gnr. D. A. Nelson, 735 Water Street, Peterborough, Pte. R. L. Quackenbush, R.R. 4, Havelock, Cpl. W. S. Robertson, Bonaccord Street, Peterborough

MOBILE UNIT ENDS TOUR

The C.W.A.C. mobile recruiting unit is concluding its tour of M.D. 3 today after a successful drive which has brought its members to Peterborough at the end of the tour. In charge of the unit is Cpl. Lois Pilkington and the personnel includes L.-Cpl. Sally Prete, Pte. Lillian Bailley, Cpl. Idona Fader and Pte. Lillian Mink. The mobile unit, of which Pte. Mink is the driver, is an heavy-duty, four-wheel drive vehicle.

SORRY TO MISS FIGHT

Pte. "Joe" Devlin, Cricket Place, Peterborough, with the Canadian Army in Italy, says he was sorry to have been in hospital when the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment broke through the Hitler Line in Italy. He has now rejoined the regiment, and has recovered enough to help keep the Nazis on the run, an Army Public Relations despatch said today. Pte. Devlin joined the army in April 1942, and after traininng with the Prince of Wales Rangers, in Prince George, B.C., went overseas in June 1943. Before enlisting, he worked at De Laval.

HUGE SUCCESS

Despite a torrential downpour that literally washed out the first night of the Rotary carnival, from the standpoint of financial proceeds the carnival was an unprecedented success, with net proceeds well in advance of any in recent years, President G. A. Gillespie said Thursday. A paramount factor in things going over as big as they did was the passenger-car draw but the booths proved extremely profitable also and a terrific rush of business on the second night more than made up for the loss of business incurred through the opening's being rained out.

FRIENDLY MEETING.

Working on his father's farm in the 8th Concession of Marmora township a few days ago Lewis Phillips of Marmora, heard a noise in a clump of bushes near a fence. On starting to investigate, he suddenly found himself close to a good sized bear. Neither one was looking for trouble, so man and bear started in opposite directions at a good speed.

DIDN'T GET IT ALL.

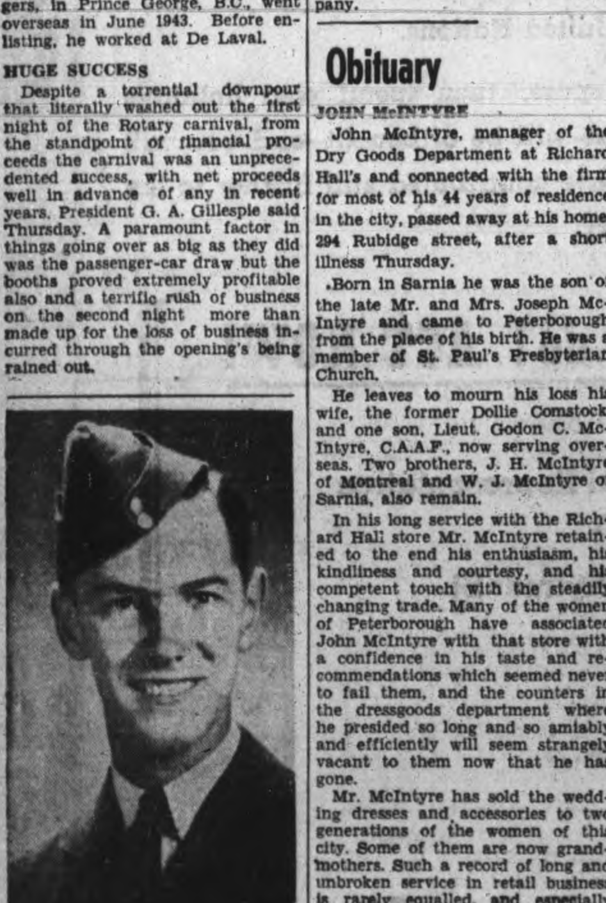
There is a mean thief around town who will probably feel even meaner than usual when he realizes that he mixed it up to some extent in a recent job. This individual stole a wallet from a member of the C.W.A.C.'s who was home on furlough. Later the purse was found on the street and $13 was missing. The thief, however, had overlooked $15 that had been in an inner pocket of the wallet.

VACANT STAFF HOUSE

Use of the vacant "staff house" on Monaghan road by the Department of National Health was suggested Tuesday in a resolution by Alderman Glover, seconded by Alderman Bradburn: "That the Minister of Pensions and National Health be requested to instruct officials of his department to acquire the use of these buildings and equipment for the purposes suggested, and that copies of this resolution be sent the Minister of Pensions and National Health and to Gordon K. Fraser, M.P."

DID A GOOD JOB

Pte. C. J. "Chuck" MacIlwain, McDonnel street, was the runner to No. 10 Platoon of the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment, in the attack on the Hitler Line, the Army Public Relations Department at Kingston said today. Looking well and ready for more, his chums say he did a good job throughout the battle. His wife, the former Margaret English, is living on Bethune street. Pte. MacIlwain enlisted in April 1942, and after training at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Kingston, and Prince George, B.C., went overseas in November 1942. Before enlisting, he worked at the Coca Cola Company.



LEFT COLLEGIATE — Leaving classes at Peterborough Collegiate to enlist in the R.C.A.F., Sgt. C. H. A. (Buster) Seal, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Seal, 87 Park Hill road, is now serving as a wireless operator overseas. He enlisted in March, 1943.

Obituary

JOHN McINTYRE

John McIntyre, manager of the Dry Goods Department at Richard Hall's and connected with the firm for most of his 44 years of residence in the city, passed away at his home, 294 Rubidge street, after a short illness Thursday.

Born in Sarnia he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McIntyre and came to Peterborough from the place of his birth. He was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, the former Dollie Comstock, and one son, Lieut. Godon C. McIntyre, C.A.A.F., now serving overseas. Two brothers, J. H. McIntyre of Montreal and W. J. McIntyre of Sarnia, also remain.

In his long service with the Richard Hall store Mr. McIntyre retained to the end his enthusiasm, his kindliness and courtesy, and his competent touch with the steadily changing trade. Many of the women of Peterborough have associated John McIntyre with that store with a confidence in his taste and recommendations which seemed never to fail them, and the counters in the dressgoods department where he presided so long and so amiably and efficiently will seem strangely vacant to them now that he has gone.

Mr. McIntyre has sold the wedding dresses and accessories to two generations of the women of this city. Some of them are now grandmothers. Such a record of long and unbroken service in retail business is rarely equalled, and especially when that service has been devoted entirely to the interest of one store and its customers.

The funeral will be held on Saturday at 2:30 p.m. from the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water street, with services conducted by Rev. William MacDonald Interment will be made at Little Lake cemetery.

Tag Day Appeal For Victims Of Robot Bombs

For the past three and a half years a real genuine sympathy for those who have suffered through enemy bombing attacks on Britain has been displayed by the people of this city and district in a decided manner, so when they are now threatened by a new type of danger from the rocket or pilotless bombs, it would seem quite in keeping with previous records of achievement on their behalf, that a tag day should be held to give all a chance to assist those who have become victims of this latest heathenish type of warfare, which has taken its toll in a greater measure than has occurred for quite a long time.

The more detailed report of the losses incurred in life and injury to thousands as just released by no less an authority than Prime Minister Churchill himself, would undoubtedly inspire all the supporters of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund to a greater effort, for experience has shown that when the need is fully realized people hereabouts have always risen to the occasion in a manner that really reflected to their credit.

This Saturday, July 8, through the kind permission of the Police Commission, and the co-operation of the Canadian Legion and various organizations and individuals, a tag day is to be held, and in view of the necessity of the moment, the fund management would make a heartfelt appeal for a generous support.

Starting at 8 a.m., the first two-hour period will be serviced by members of the Victory Workers through Mrs. R. L. Fowler, the Girl Guides under Miss Gladys Bridcott and the members of Miss M. Holden's Sunday school class at Mark Street United Church to be followed for the next like period by the Peterborough Navy Auxiliary, led by Mrs. Merrett and convened by Mrs. J. G. M. Wilson, who are turning out in force to take this whole shift on their own account as an assist to the fund.

Then at high noon members of the Echo Club and the Rebekahs, through the convenship of Mrs. J. P. Roberts, will take their turn, to be followed by members of the office staff at the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., through arrangement by Ben Smith, and the hostess girls servicing the uptown Service Men's Recreation Centre through the kind arranging of Mrs. C. M. Norman for the 2 to 4 p.m. period, while the final period from 4 to 5.30 p.m. still requires a few who will volunteer to serve at that time.

All workers are asked to report to the secretary of the fund at the Examiner office, ten minutes before they go on duty, and it should be mentioned that some public spirited business men have offered prizes so that the top scorer in each two-hour period will receive some special recognition in that manner.

Otonabee Schools Repeat Aid

Only as recently as June 17, S.S. No. 16, taught by Joseph May, were listed in this column with a gift of $6.17 for the fund, and then not being satisfied with this, they arranged a concert in the last few days of the school year to add another $12.31, at which they were assisted by Miss Fay Sexsmith, who played the accompaniments, to demonstrate a type of enthusiasm for a good cause which is truly commendable.

Then the Lang School, also in the Otonabee school area, taught by Miss Lilian Bowie, who have supported the fund on a number of occasion, are also represented once again today with another gift of $5.00.

Making an excellent start in doing good for others at the beginning of the holiday recess from school duties, three young girls, Dorothy McGee, Margaret Jean Smart and Connie Kylie had a stall on the lawn at the former's family residence on Water street to raise the nice sum of $7.00, and they were particularly desirous that those who had helped them with donations of saleable goods such as oranges and home-made baking should receive a full measure of thanks for their kind assistance.

Previously acknowledged	$77,230.66
S.S. No 16, Otonabee, per Joseph May	12.31
Lang School, Otonabee, Miss Lilian Bowie teacher	5.00
Proceeds of stall conducted by Dorothy McGee, Margaret Jean Smart and Connie Kylie	7.00
Total to date	$77,254.97

Building Permits In June $44,803

Building permits issued at the office of City Engineer Parsons last month amounted in value to $44,803, and for the half year $159,501.

The items were as follows: 3 garages, $150; six dwellings, $25,000; 33 miscellaneous, $19,653. Total, 42 permits, $44,803.

The corresponding statement for June last year: 1 garage, $75; six dwellings, $25,600; 35 miscellaneous, $20,021. Total, 42 permits, $45,696.

Permits for the six months ending June 30 last year represented an aggregate value of $106,345.

SERVING IN FRANCE

Mr. and Mrs. George Duncan, 90 Auburn street have received word that their son Pte. Arthur G. Duncan is serving in France. He enlisted with the Prince of Wales Rangers and went with a draft from the unit overseas.

TROPHY WINNER: The Fairview School in Smith Township has been awarded the Gordon K. Fraser trophy for the greatest improvement to school and school yard in the past year. (See Page 5, Column 6, for story.)

Unpredictable Canadian Troops Saunter Around In View Of Huns

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 6. — (Delayed). — (CP Cable.)—This is the Canadians' third day in Carpiquet which has been raked by shell-fire more than any other place along the front, but it was fairly quiet here for a change, and the garrison had a breathing spell.

The Germans were lobbing over some Werfer explosives which the Canadians now call "screaming Susie," and there was German shelling during the day which kept the troops holding Carpiquet on thier toes. However, this was nothing like what the Canadians went through during their first two tumultuous days here. It took plenty of courage and staying-power to hang on to the village and the north hangars along the edge of the big airfield.

The entire Canadian area is covered with slit trenches. And just as soon as shells or mortars scream they are occupied. Carpiquet in a few seconds looks deserted.

Nerve-strain on the troops holding this position has been extremely heavy, but they looked in good fighting form after two days and nights of battle noise.

Deep Dug-out.

By a hangar housing a charred Heinkel we met Lieut. Dave Philip of Toronto, who was sitting in the hot sun with his men just passing the time of day. He took us along a path and we went down into a deep German dug-out well timbered and fortified against bombing and shelling.

It looked like something out of "Journey's End"

Whether it is quiet or stormy in Carpiquet it still is the strangest spot on the whole Allied beachhead front.

It stands out here naked in the open fields and you feel as though the Germans have the spotlight on you all the time.

There are Germans on three sides of Carpiquet and the Canadians are practically rubbing shoulders with the enemy.

That does not worry the Canucks. They have settled down here after two days of really heavy going, and it looks as if they are going to stick right in their positions.

Up till today it was highly perilous to drive up the straight road which runs into Carpiquet from the west, but this afternoon Capt. Jack Golding, Saint John, N.B., Pte. Dave Farrow, North Bay, Ont., and I made it easily in our Jeep and wandered around this amazing forward position which is a real thorn in the side of the Caen defences.

Many Ruined Villages

We went down through Bretteville and then southeast through several more ruined villages with the stench of death still hanging over the rubble-piles, and rocketted down a straight-away over a shell-pitted macadam road leading to Carpiquet.

Skirting the airfield, you see a cluster of hangars along the south side of the field which were recaptured by the Germans in a strong counter-attack against Western Canadian infantry. They seemed close enough to hit with a mashie shot.

They warn you before you come to this straight road to keep your head down for shells and machine-gun bullets from those hangars but nobody paid any attention to us.

We breezed right into the town and the only sounds of war were the crash of our own artillery and the swish of our shells going over the airfield. Some mortars were pounding away somewhere but they were ours too.

Canadian infantrymen and sappers were sitting around on the edge of their trenches in full view of the south hangars held by the enemy. Soldiers were walking around in the debris-strewn streets and orchards as nonchantly as if they were in a base area.

Our tanks were there too in position on the perimeter, and there were anti-tank guns and machine-guns dug in on every side.

"The first day here was the roughest," said Lieut. Bob Rae of Toronto. "For instance our colonel and Capt. Ben Dunkleman of Toronto and myself were pinned down in a ditch just over there from 1 in the morning until four in the afternoon.

A Tight Spot

"We practically dug a tunnel with our noses with all that German stuff flying around us. The colonel was even cut off for half an hour among the buildings here by a German machine-gun. It was quite a day.

"The second day was not quite so tough but it had its sticky times and today Jerry has not been doing much to us except routine mortaring and shelling."

Rae told me R.A.F. rocket-firing planes did a "marvellous" job on the German dug-in gun positions at the eastern end of the airfield. He also praised the work of the Canadian and British artillery regiments which gave the Carpiquet assault force support from miles away.

"From our positions we can practically stand here and glare at the enemy," he said. "This business of our boys walking around Carpiquet as though they were taking a casual stroll is unnerving to the enemy somehow. Prisoners tell us the Canadians are so unpredictable that they never know what they're going to do next."

Canadian casualties from mortar and shell-fire here have not been light, though. Along the main road winding between shattered houses we saw Canadians solemnly burying their dead.

As a Canadian general said, there has been savage fighting here.

In Carpiquet nothing is left standing except riddled hangars and the walls of a few houses.

Shell holes are dotted between a multitude of slit trenches and dead cattle lie about in the orchards.

Reliable old bulldozers which have followed the Canadians everywhere are clanking around, clearing up some of the mess.

Here the Canadians hold out. They say the grub is all right and they have plenty of ammunition.

Bernard Tarling Killed In Italy

Official notification of her husband's death in action in the Italian campaign reached the wife of Sergeant Bernard F. Tarling, 502 Bonaccord Street, at her work Thursday morning at Genelco Limited. The message of sorrow was delivered by Rev. Fred Craik in the office of the works manager.

Sergeant Tarling was killed in the continuing rout of the Germans through Italy Wednesday, June 30. Almost five years ago he enlisted for active service. That was on September 15th, 1939, shortly after the outbreak of war. He joined the Oshawa Tank Corps, went overseas in 1941, and was with the Canadians who reached Italy last December.

In a letter to his wife just a week ago, Sgt. Tarling mentioned the comforting fact that he was then resting with his corps in the Lire valley.

Sergeant Tarling was born in Hamilton, Ontario, thirty-two years ago, but came here from Detroit a year before the Germans started their war machine rolling into Poland. He was employed with Parkers' Cleaners at the time of his decision to enlist. He is survived by his wife the former Edith Russel, also by his mother and sister in Detroit, and one brother in Santa Barbara, Cal. Sgt. Tarling was a member of All Saints Church.

Claims On Lord Mayor's Fund Been Heavy Especially During Recent Weeks In London

The effect of the recently pilotless bomb attacks on England is reflected in a cable received from the Lord Mayor of London acknowledging another gift of £500 from the Peterborough British War Victims' Fund, under the direction of F. G. Mann.

"There are many claims on my fund," the message from the Lord Mayor concludes, an under-statement that hints at rather than reveals the extent to which the new raids are causing suffering among the civilian population of England.

The message, received by Mayor Hamilton, is as follows:

"Gratefully acknowledge further generous gift 500 pounds relief air raid suffering. Please assure all contributors how deeply thier continued support is appreciated as there are many claims on my fund."

Sgt. Henderson Of Peterboro Hurt In Britain

"It's great to be home, at long last," exclaimed Sgt. A. J. Henderson, 186 Rubidge Street, as he returned home from overseas Thursday evening. His hand badly injured while training in England, he spent nearly eight months in a hospital in Great Britain before returning to Canada. His wife, the former Dorothy Dinsdale, and his 2½-year-old son Joseph, whom he had never seen, were on hand to lay out the welcome mat for him. He will spend 30 days at home before reporting for further duties at Kingston.

With the 3rd Division in England, Sgt. Henderson joined the 3rd Anti-Tank Battery in June, 1940, and after training in Lindsay and Debert, Nova Scotia, he went overseas with the Fourth Battery in October, 1941.

Before enlisting, Sgt. Henderson worked at Canada Packers, Peterborough.

A brother, Pte. Ray Henderson, is now serving with the Canadian Army Overseas.

Ask Dr. Berry To Visit City

Dr. A. E. Berry of the Ontario Department of Health is being requested by the city council to visit Peterborough "in order that he may submit recommendations for the correction of conditions prevailing in Little Lake."

This resolution Tuesday night by Aldermen Swanston and Dutton is contemplating a project which has been casually mentioned several times during the last few years as an undertaking which should be listed for postwar work.

It may not be known generally throughout the city that disposal of sewage from the community across the river has long followed the simple and unsatisfactory method of a big septic tank plan whose efficiency has perhaps been overwhelmed for years. The council and the Board of Health realize that the contamination of Little Lake is largely caused by that disposal of sewage and their opinions have been conviction that some change must be accomplished.

When Roland Denne was mayor, and even before his regime at the city hall, it was suggested that possibly the cheapest solution of this problem was to lay a sewer main across the river at Point St. Charles, that is from Burnham's Point to the end of Rink Street, a comparatively short span.

The alternative route is somewhere southerly along the east side of Little Lake, presumably to connect with the main sewage disposal plant on the Otonabee shore opposite the foot of Park Street.

The council is requesting Dr. Berry to assist in the preliminary survey of these possible routes.

That the council is disposed to press their demands for fulfillment of a promise made by the British American Oil Company was indicated in this resolution by Alderman Bradburn, seconded by Alderman Glover:— "That the Clerk again inform the British American Oil Company that this council expects some action from the company in respect to its storage tanks in Ashburnham, and that the company be reminded of its promise to have its representatives meet the residents of Ashburnham in order to explain to them the hazard, or lack of hazard, created by those storage tanks."

30-lb. Muskie

HASTINGS, July 7.—(ENS). — Thirty-pound muskie was caught by Bill Clapper, of Toronto, just east of Hastings or the Trent River. Mr. Clapper was using a home-made gold spool. Mr. Clapper is a former resident of Hastings and an ardent fisherman. This is one of five muskies he has landed since the season opened.

SERVING OVERSEAS — Gnr. Edwin S Smith, whose wife lives at 27 Frank street, is serving overseas. Before enlisting in December, 1943 as a truck driver in the Royal Canadian Artillery, he was employed at the C.G.E. Gnr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith 562 Bethune street. One brother, Pte. Bert Smith, is with the infantry, stationed at Farenham, Quebec.

Cpl. B. Kearney Arrives Home From England

His ankle severely injured when he was thrown from a motorcycle during a truck convoy movement, Cpl. B. M. Kearney, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Kearney, 700 Ross street, arrived home from England Thursday evening. He will spend about 20 days at home, before reporting to Kingston.

Cpl. Kearney said the English treated the Canadian boys marvellously, and expressed his desire to return to England, not only after the war, but during the war also. He told of hearing the new German secret-weapon robot bombs exploding, but failed to see any while in England. The English, he said, don't expect the newest Nazi terror weapon to last much longer.

He joined the 86th Bridge Transport of the Army Service Corps in July 1942. After training in Peterborough, Camp Borden and Nova

CPL. B. M. KEARNEY

Scotia, he went overseas in July 1943. Before enlisting, he worked at the Canadian General Electric Company. His wife is the former Mary Tobin.

Post-War Talks Engage Fliers

Canadians on an R.C.A.F. Bomber station in England turn out in capacity crowds on Sunday evenings to take part in forum discussions on social and political post-war problems, Ed. Otter, senior Y.M.C.A. War Services officer overseas says in a report to his Canadian headquarters.

"Not only were capacity audiences of over 300 present to take part in some of the discussions, but it was necessary on at least three occasions to turn some 50 away due to fire regulations and lack of seating accommodation," Otter's report states.

Special guests at the three occasions mentioned were Dr. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York, who discussed his trip to Russia; Beverley Baxter Canadian member of the British parliament who talked of the progress of the war, and Lt. Fred Oakes, one of the late Major General Wingate's junior officers, who gave the flyers a description of jungle fighting in Burma.

Subjects the young Canadians were most anxious to talk about included "Our Jobs After the War—If Any," "What Are We Fighting For" "Marriage in Wartime," and "The Future of The British Commonwealth."

Although all ranks are invited to the forum, audiences are composed almost entirely of N.C.O.'s and airmen, the latter being by far in the majority.

Responsible for getting this popular project going were A. R. McIntyre, of Oshawa, Ont., Canadian Y.M.C.A. Supervisor; Squadron Leader Earl Lautenslager, Protestant padre and former Sudbury clergyman, and Squadron Leader Brazeau, Roman Catholic padre with the R.C.A.F.

Explorer Killed

LONDON, July 7—(CP)—David Haig-Thomas, explorer who led an expedition to Ellesmere Island in the Canadian Arctic in 1937-38 and spent a year among the Eskimos, is missing in action in Normandy and is believed to have been killed, it was announced today. He had been serving with British Commando forces.

Saved By Agility

TORONTO, July 7 — (CP) — Twelve-year-old Shirley Keirl saved herself from death or serious injury yesterday when she escaped from her burning home by climbing through a window and pulling herself up to the two-storey building's flat roof. The girl was carried to safety a short time later when firemen arrived with an aerial ladder.

MADOC SOLDIER KILLED

Pte. John Douglas Kellar of Quebec regiment has been killed in action, the casualty list announced today. His wife is Mrs. Olive Kellar, of Madoc.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JULY 7, 1940—Five persons killed in day long German air raids over United Kingdom. Royal Air Force attacked military targets in many German cities and in occupied countries. Between 30,000 and 40,000 children began movement from British east coast towns to inland areas.

KILLED IN ACTION in Italy, June 2d, Sergeant Bernard F. Tarling had been in the Canadian Army nearly five years. He enlisted September 15, 1939, with the Oshawa Tank Corps. In a letter received by his wife at 502 Bonaccord street, a week ago, he mentioned that he was then resting in the Lire Valley.

Cherry Crop Is At Its Peak

The new crop of Irish Cobbler potatoes is yielding 70 to 80 bags to the acre as compared with the normal average of 125 bags, according to George Clarke of National Grocers.

"That is the information we have received from the areas supplying the earliest home stock. We had a car Wednesday from Harrow, retailing at the ceiling of 77 cents a peck. It is just about sold out this morning, but other deliveries are in sight.

The strawberry crop has vanished from the ordinary channels of trade; in fact mighty little of it was seen this season. The berries were intercepted on the way to market; high-jacked by enterprising folks who adhere to the principles of self-help, all the variously worded maxims of the go-getters verbally different but all meaning one and the same thing, "beat the other fellow to it."

And so they hied themselves off to the berry patches, and local growers are probably glad they have seen the last of that grabbing crowd whose operations burst forth and explode into action wherever scarcity appears in the stores, in the potato fields or bins, in the berry patches and so on.

So, raspberries are ripening and are expected into the stores by the middle of next week.

The crop of cherries is at its peak. British Columbia Byngs, large and red, are featuring the present market, at $1.90 to $2; black Tartarians and Schmidts are "in full swing"; and Mr. Clarke reports Black Windsors and Canadian Byngs are next in the ripening order, and only 45 to 50 per cent of the normal yield. They may be here Monday or Tuesday.

Montmorency sours, especially for canning, should be in the stores early next week, but their quantity is said to be comparatively light.

"There are also a few local gooseberries and red currants and an abundance of beans, peas, carrots, beets and other basket vegetables, and the "set onions" are coming into harvest with small quantities in sight because growers are finding it difficult to get labor that is needed."

KILLED IN ACTION — Another Peterborough boy to give his life in his country's cause is Pte. Sydney H. Youngs, who was killed in action in Normandy, fighting with the invasion troops. Only twenty years of age, Pte. Youngs lived in Peterborough until his enlistment with the S. D. and G. Highlanders in the fall of 1941, going overseas in March, 1942. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Youngs, have just recently moved to Toronto, where they are living at 187 Mutual street. Pte. Youngs' grandmother, Mrs. J. Schweier, lives at 516 Wolfe street, Peterborough.

NOTICE TO ORANGEMEN

The annual Church Parade of Peterborough district Loyal Orange Lodges will be held to Knox United Church, Peterborough, on Sunday evening next, July 9th, leaving Brock St. Hall at 6.15 p.m. sharp. When harvest time comes, we would like to see you in this sunny picture, helping the hard pressed farmer get his crops in.

It's a fine healthy, open-air life, herding sheep... soon to be food... and wool, badly needed in the war effort.

Beef on the hoof. Canada is called to supply higher quotas this year.

As their contribution to the Nation's war effort, Canadian farmers have been set increased quotas in most of the important items of agricultural production: more cows, hogs and sheep, larger volumes of hay and oats, greater all-round production. Yet the farmer has to meet this schedule with reduced numbers of farm workers, compared to peace times. He can only meet what is expected of him if he gets help from urban residents.

If you are in non-essential employment, if you can be spared for summer farm work without other important war production suffering, you should join the army of the land. You can help agriculture, which means helping to carry our obligations as a member of the United Nations.

If you have only your vacation time to spare, then spend your holidays working on a farm. The change and exercise will be of benefit—and you will have the experience of knowing that you have contributed still further to the national welfare in these times of emergency.

This is what YOU should do! ACT NOW!

Commandos Are Needed For Hay Harvest

With the haying season now in full swing and prospects for the crops this year looking very promising, the demand for commando farm labor is picking up and, says George A. Gillespie, who operates this essential service for district farmers, it is likely to continue at a high pitch until the harvest is all in.

All of last week and the beginning of this week, the call for willing, able workers to assist in their spare time farmers unable because of war conditions to hire full-time help, has been "slow to moderate," Mr. Gillespie said this morning. But that has changed within the past day or two due to the continuance of dry, warm weather, and this morning alone Mr Gillespie reported requests phoned in for ten or twelve commandos who will be transported out to various farms when they have finished their own working day this afternoon.

"Howard Quinn in Douro wants four," Mr. Gillespie said, "Will Renwick of Keene needs two men and so does W. A. Anderson in Keene. Harvard White and Stanley Douglas, who farm west of Jackson Park, are also asking for men today. Last week Bert Taylor on the Lindsay Highway and Ernest Kitney were two of those we sent workers to."

Mr. Gillespie explained that there are two main sources of farm labor to be drawn on in the city, the C.G. E.-Genelco and the local training camp. "So far this year they have given us everybody we have needed," he said, "and there is no question that they can bring us through even when we reach the peak."

Once the number of farm helpers that will be required on a given day has been established, Mr. Gillespie gets in touch with the Employment Office of the C.G.E.—or in the case of the training camp, with its headquarters—and puts in his request for a certain number of men. They will then be waiting at the gate of the C.G.E. to be picked up about 6 o'clock by citizens who have volunteered the use of their cars to take the commandos out to the farms. The soldiers are sometimes able to go earlier, or if they get a leave, to work most of the day. On Saturdays C.G.E. employees can get off at one o'clock.

Thirty to forty farm helpers were available during the peak of the season last year, Mr. Gillespie said, and the highest number supplied farmers in any one day came to over 30. This year the demand is likely to be greater than before, what with the promising outlook for crops and the fact that the influx of fulltime farm help from the West has not come up to expectations. Only 10 are travelling from Western Canada to assist farmers in this area, barely a third of the number that had been originally expected.

The farm help that leaves the city to assist farmers in the labor-shortage emergency after long hours of hard work in plants or a day of Army training works until dusk and then is brought back to the city by the farmers themselves. Sometimes, as Mr. Gillespie said, the farm commandos will go to jobs as far as 10 miles from the city.

Would Set Rules

TORONTO, July 7.—(CP). — A minimum set of safety requirements for all public halls in tthe province of Ontario was advocated yesterday by Judge Ian Macdonell, Royal commissioner inquiring into Ontario public halls here. The inquiry is beng held as a result of the Hamilton Moose Hall fire on May 23 in which 10 lives were lost. W. J. Scott, Ontario Fire Marshal, said that local conditions must be taken into consideration and that a blanket law could not be enforced in all municipalities.

Heads Dentists

CHARLOTTETOWN July 7 (CP) —Dr. Harold Campbell of Orangeville, Ont., was elected president of the executive of the Dominion Dental Council at its annual meeting there yesterday. He succeeds Dr. Heath McIntyre of Charlottetown.

FILM STAR PRESENTS CUPS

JOHANNESBURG — (CP) — At an inter-Allied sports meet in Italy Charles Green, Rand air mechanic, received two silver cups from the film star Madeline Carroll for winning two events. Miss Carroll works in an American hospital in Italy.

FIRST ON ALCAN—When Mrs. Rusty Dow climbed out of a truck in Fairbanks, Alaska, recently she became the first woman to drive the full length of the new Alaska highway, round trip, carrying a full load. She covered the 1,560 miles from Fairbanks to Dawson Creek at better than 200 miles a day, raced through a forest fire and lost 15 pounds from nervous strain.

IN CHARGE OF COMMANDOS — George A. Gillespie (LEFT) and Frank Paterson (RIGHT), who are in charge of the farm commando service in Peterborough County. Mr. Gillespie finds out the farmers who require the help and he, along with Mr. Paterson, endeavor to secure help in Peterborough. Many of the commandos are coming from the Training Centre, while others go out to the farms after they finish their day's work in the factories.

Canadians Pass Quiet Night In Carpiquet

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 7 (CP Cable)—Canadian troops in the Carpiquet outpost —with Germans on three sides of them—had another quiet night last night, and there were no enemy attempts to renew counter-attacks on the village.

There was little enemy shelling and mortaring as the Canadians went into the fourth day in this audacious salient position.

The troops were surprised at the lull but welcomed it for it gave them a chance to improve further their trenches.

It would take a heavy German blow now to break this line. From slit trenches and ruined houses on the eastern side of Carpiquet, the Canadians watched Allied medium bombers attack three bridges over the Orne river in the centre of Caen and put them out of action. Another bridge at St. Andre Sur Orne five miles south of Caen also was knocked out.

The only bridges in Caen which the Germans now may use are one pontoon bridge and a railway bridge on the south side.

During the night at least 16 members of the German army—including one Jew—surrendered.

Killed Near Japan

CHICAGO, July 7. — (AP).—A bishop and 62 Catholic priests, brothers and nuns being transported in a Japanese internment boat off the coast of New Guinea were killed last Feb. 6 by a strafing attack from American bombers, Rev. Anthony May, mission procurator of the monastery of the Society of the Divine Word at suburban Techny, said yesterday. His announcement said the Sisters begged permission to signal off the American attackers, but the Japanese denied the pleas.

TAKE A HOLIDAY BEATING HITLER!

HIGH school boys and girls . . . and their teachers, can make a very important contribution to the Nation's war effort by working on the farm this Summer season. Never before was such help of more VITAL IMPORTANCE, never before were food supplies more URGENTLY needed. Maybe you have felt that you yourself can do very little, but you yourself, multiplied by thousands of other willing helpers, can accomplish a very great deal. These are grave days and every ounce of our strength will be required to beat the enemy. We know you will gladly do your part.

This is what YOU should do! ACT NOW!

BOYS.. TAKE A HOLIDAY BEATING HITLER!

CANADA needs to produce more food today than ever before in history . . . food for Britain, for our armies, our allies and our folks at home. We have had to tighten our belts a bit because there is a serious shortage of farm help, and we are having a tough time producing all the extra food which war demands. This offers YOU a chance to do your country a great service. This Summer we ask you to help the farmer . . . to spend vacation time on the land. Farming is a real man's job . . . a fine open air job, which puts steel in your muscles. You will feel pretty good on the farm, good because you are doing your bit for Canada . . . bringing victory nearer. Talk it over at home, and we are sure your folks will be proud to know that you are anxious and willing to help.

This is what YOU should do! ACT NOW!

A very pleasant feature of the meeting was the presentation to Miss J. Jackson, an honorary president, of a Dominion Life Membership and pin. On behalf of Group No. 4 Mrs. A. H. Campbell gave Miss Jackson a dainty nosegay. It was decided to hold the next meeting on September 12th. After an offering was taken for the upkeep of the homes for Missionaries in Toronto, the singing of a hymn concluded a very pleasant outdoor meeting.

Audrey Boate Wed In Emily

EAST EMILY, July 7 (ENS) — A wedding of interest took place on Saturday, in Bethel United church, Emily, when Audrey Lila, eldest daughter of Mr. Ross Boate, and the late Mrs. Boate, became the bride of Spr. William Harry Boyd, of the R.C.E., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boyd of Cavan.

Rev. R. M. Patterson officiating. The church was beautifully decorated with delphinium, roses and orange blossoms, and the wedding march was played by the organist, Mrs. William Howden.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wilfred Jackson, the bride wore a gown of white Swiss embroidered taffeta with puffed sleeves and small covered buttons from neckline to waistline. Her veil was of Queen Ann style and she carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Alta Boate, wearing a street length dress of powder blue sheer with a hat of mohair and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. The groom's brother, Kenneth Boyd, acted as best man. The ushers were Earl Guthrie and Kenneth Harrison.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Jackson, where the bride's aunt received with the groom's mother, the bride's aunt wearing a two piece dress of blue crepe with white hat and accessories, and a corsage of roses. The groom's mother wearing a dress of gold figured crepe with black hat and accessories, she also wore a corsage or roses. A dainty wedding supper was served to thirty guests.

The happy couple left for a trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls. For travelling the bride wore a powder blue sheer dress and blue wool coat with a Peter Pan black velvet collar and white accessories, and wearing a corsage of Bettertime roses.

On their return the groom will leave for his training post in British Columbia.

A BEDTICKING PINAFORE—This piece is tilted with just such a name as make men think women are crazy when it comes to fashions. The simple explanation is that the pinafore, above, with the flounced skirt and sunny day top, is made of that cool, opaque, non-wilting cotton called bedticking, which is used for covering mattresses.

Mrs. E. McFaul Is Given Shower

Mrs. E. McFaul, nee Effie Graham, was guest of honor recently at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. George Young and Miss Mary Samis at the home of Mrs. R. Waldie, Albertus street. During an evening spent in games and contests, the bride received many beatuiful gifts, which were drawn into the room on a decorated wagon by a miniature bride and groom. Marlene Cavanagh and Ken Waldie. Lunch was served by the hostesses.

Mrs. McFaul also reecived a table lamp and end table as a wedding gift from her fellow employees of A. Wander Limited.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON
(Society Editor of The Examiner)

Newest styles in lingerie feature the brevity which has been much in evidence in summer dresses and play suits, and a great many are designed especially to meet the briefer, more severe lines, of the newest fashions. Girls who are going in for this summer's bareback fashions, which are being seen for town as well as beach wear, are having difficulty in obtaining slips cut to match. The solution to the problem is the old-fashioned petticoat, and smart styles in cotton or silk jersey are light, easy to launder, and really fill the bill.

A new style of slip—one that is really a "must" for wear with dainty white or pastel blouses—is the sleek two-color suit slip, complete with a lacy white camisole top and a black or navy skirt. It's ideal for wear with suits, since it provides the light top, but a dark skirt to bolster thin dark summer suit material.

Coolest thing yet for sleeping are the new short sleeper-pyjamas, with the pants cut short. They're called "short stops" or "breezy brevities", and are made with above-the-knee pants. In addition several styles are featuring the jackets, just off the midriff, for added comfort during sticky summer weather. In bright-hued cotton or rayon, in floral patterns, they're ideal for lounging, yet are smart enough to double for a sun suit.

However, for the more conservative girl, it's pretty hard to beat cool sateen pyjamas, which, since they pack easily, are ideal for vacationing. And here's an added thought; a girl in the service would certainly appreciate a gift of a pair of these pyjamas.

Salvage Sour Milk

Warm weather brings the inevitable problem of milk souring before the housewife can use it up. Far from being worthless, there are several ways in which the houswife can use her sour milk, bleaching freckles excluded.

Sour milk gives a richer, softer texture to scones, chocolate cake and gingerbread, and the milk acid of sour milk aids in softening meat tissue, making tough cuts tender. A cup of sour milk in a beef stew goes a long way toward making the meat more tender. The flavor of salty cured pork can be much improved if it is soaked in a mixture of equal parts of sour milk and water.

Summer Chapeaux

Although the summer is well on its way, it's still not too late to talk about summer hats, since smart accessories can make or break an ensemble, and, even in the summer, the effect of a chic outfit can be spoiled by the absence of at least an excuse for a hat, even if it's only a wisp of straw and a flower.

This season's "lids" have been shown in every conceivable size and shape, from small sailors and half-hats, to the big cartwheel, but the trend has definitely been toward the the latter style. Large, shady, cartwheels, are certainly effective, and flattering to most women. Although not very practical for everyday wear, a big hat is definitely an asset to any wardrobe, since summertime brings many opportunities for "dressing up" and looking as dainty and feminine as possible.

Don't overlook the possibilities for unusual touches for summer hats offered by the family flower garden. Any attractive flower, which harmonizes with the color scheme of an ensemble, is a welcome addition to a summer hat, and gives just that little "extra" smartness, which every women seeks. And don't think that hats are out of place with new cotton styles. On the contrary, cottons and ginghams look charming with gingham bonnets or big straw hats, banded with colorful ribbons.

Purses Too

Speaking of accessories, the handbag shouldn't be forgotten, since it plays a great part in the "finished" effect of any ensemble. Raffia and natural straw bags are particularly popular this season, with the envelope style still in demand, but being slowly outbidded by the big pouch bag, the over-arm bag, and the carry-all, which are much newer.

Handbags of flowered and striped chintz and chambray, with wooden frames, are still in demand. Attractive frames of natural wood are being featured, and are particularly useful, since they can be recovered with a different fabric, to suit milady's changing tastes. Make-over bags are becoming quite the vogue, as each needlewoman seeks to make something new and different. It's not even necessary to buy new material to cover the frame, since any salvageable wool garment, which will yield sufficient material, is all that is needed. Newest thing in make-overs is a shoulder-slung bag, made on the draw-string style, with rings, or loops of matching material, instead of the usual closed seam.

Toilet Hint

Nails discolored from doing your bit in the family victory garden? Here's a solution which does the trick in removing stains. Mix one ounce each of rose water and elder flower water, with one dram of tartaric acid, and dip fingers in, washing the hands thoroughly afterward.

Red Cross Workers Complete 2 Quilts

NORWOOD, July 7 — (ENS). — Mrs. John Nevins and Miss Florence Nevins were hostesses for the Red Cross War Workers' group for the July meeting, and afternoon tea on Wednesday afternoon at their home in Norwood. During an afternoon spent in completing two large quilts and three crib quilts, and brief program, in charge of Mrs. H. J. Ford was also presented. Mrs. Tolley, soloist, sang "From Ocean Unto Ocean," accompanied by Mrs. Roy Nevins.

Work turned in for the month included two crib quilt tops and linings and a large batt, by Mrs. Robert Elliott. Mrs. H. B. Peters gave a large lining, and Mrs. H. J. Ford a large quilt top. Mrs. W. N. Hagerman and Mrs. Ford turned in 12 afghan blocks, and Mrs. Ford donated two baby bonnets and a pair of baby mitts, while Mrs. W. J. Scott, a former member, turned in a pair of socks for the I.O.D.E. In the business period, invitations for meetings were extended by Mrs. A. B. Greenbank and Mrs. E. T. Buck. It was decided to send another box to Wesley Nevins, who is overseas.

During the social hour afternoon tea was enjoyed. Mrs. Nevins poured tea at a dainty table attractively arranged with lace cloth and a crystal bowl filled with summer flowers, flanked by pink tapers in crystal holders. Miss Evelyn Buck and Mrs. D. W. Skuce assisted.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Different recipes for conserves will take up our attention today. These make tasty dishes used in many different ways, such as with cold meats, hot meats and for sandwich filling.

Pineapple and Rhubarb Conserve

1 quart shredded pineapple, 4 quarts rhubarb, 2 oranges, 3½ quarts sugar, 1 cup nut-meats. Cook the pineapple in a covered kettle with a small amount of water until tender. Add the rhubarb, juice, grated rind of the oranges and the sugar, and cook until thick. Add the chopped nuts and seal in hot jars. This makes an excellent filling for sandwiches.

Grape Conserve

2 pints grapes, 2 oranges, 1 cup seeded raisins, 2 2-3 cups sugar, 1 cup walnut meats. Wash, stem and seed the grapes. Slice the oranges very thin and add to the grapes. Add the raisins and sugar and cook until the mixture is transparent and thick. Add the chopped nut meats. Pack while hot in hot jars and seal.

Quince and Apple Marmalade

Wash the quinces and remove the blossom end. Cut the fruit in small pieces, add sufficient water to cover and cook until soft. Put through a sieve and combine the pulp with an equal measure of tart apple pulp. Use 2-3 as much sugar as pulp. Cook until thick and clear (about 20 minutes). Turn into hot glasses and when cold cover with hot paraffin.

Cherry Conserve

3 pints pitted sour cherries, 1 pint black raspberries 2 2-3 cups sugar. Combine all ingredients and cook until thick and clear.

Conserves like marmalades may be made of large or small fruits. They differ from marmalades in that several fruits may be combined with the addition of nuts. In this way it is possible to develop pleasing combinations of flavors and to combine fruits which have good acid or pectin content with fruits that lack these qualities. Conserves are made in the same way as marmalades. When nuts are used they are added after cooking is completed as heat toughens the nut-meats.

Grape Butter

4 pounds grapes, 1 pound sugar. Wash and stew grapes. Cook in a small quantity of water until the skins are soft. Press the pulp through a strainer to remove seeds and skins. Add the sugar and cook until thick and clear. Pour into hot glasses and seal.

Lakefield Board Hires New Teacher

LAKEFIELD, July 7 — (ENS).— Lakefield Public School Board hired a new teacher this week to replace Miss Aileen Young, the new teacher being Miss Ella M. Crough of Peterborough, who made a personal application. Present at the meeting were E. H. Northey the chairman, and Trustees M. O. Kingdon, W. J. Frankish, W. F. Whetung, and Rev. S. A. R. Wood. Written applications for the vacancy were received from Miss Helen Rosbel and Miss Maureen Brown.

It was moved by Trustees Wood and Kingdon that the personal application of Miss Ella M. Crough of Peterborough for the position on the Public School staff be accepted, salary to be $1,200 per annum. Carried.

Principal Everett Sloan was present and reported attendance as being 247 pupils, average 79.6 per cent. Actual attendance for the school year, 41,164½ days, with an absence total of 6,325 days.

The treasurer presented estimates for the year 1944 of receipts and expenditures.

Moved by Trustees Wood and Frankish, that the Municipal Council be requested for the sum of $5,300 for current expenses for the year 1944. Carried.

Accounts — The report of the Finance Committee recommended payment of the following accounts: Bell Telephone Co., telephone, $3.15; Department of Labor, boiler inspection, $3.00; Lakefield News, printing, $2.75; W. W. Leonard, supplies, $20.70; Lakefield Hydro-Electric Commission, light, $18.23—total $47.83.

HAPPINESS MUST BE HUNTED

Little Comes to Girl Who Sits and Waits; Modern Youth Must Boost Own Charms

DEAR MISS DIX—I am just 20 years old and I feel that I am not getting any kick out of life. What shall I do? I don't step out much, not because I don't want to, but because I haven't met the right man. Should I sit around and wait, or should I go when I have a chance, and thus try to brighten my life. I am a business girl. Please advise.

MARY JANE R.

Hunt For Happiness

ANSWER: Well, Mary Jane, when you are older you will find out what we mostly have to put the kick in life ourselves, and that if we find happiness we have to go out and hunt for it. Mighty little comes to those who just sit down and fold their hands and wait.

At 20 when you complain of life being dull, stale, flat and unprofitable, you doubtless mean that you lack dates, and that there are not many boys on the horizon. If this is the case, then you certainly should take advantage of every opportunity to go about and let them find out that you are on the earth.

In the olden days, according to the novelists of that period, the maid most admired by men was the shy, shrinking, timid-violet sort of young person who always stayed at home in her mother's shadow, and who was sought out by some adventurous swain who boasted of his discovering her.

But that type of girl does not ravish the masculine fancy nowadays to make them see that she is living. She has to beat upon the cymbals and boast of her charms and graces, and, in the commercial phrase "sell herself" to them, or else she is left lamenting. That is why a girl can't sit back and take things easy and wait for Mr. Right to come along.

So keep yourself as well to the front as you can if you want to be noticed.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am an unmarried woman in my early thirties. My best pal is a married woman whose husband is about fifteen years her senior. Whenever she goes out of town, sometimes for a day or two, sometimes for several months at a time, her husband makes dates with me, phones me and sends flowers and candy. Whenever I refuse him a date he gets hurt and moody. What would you do if you were me?

MARTHA T.

Apply Golden Rule Toward Friend

ANSWER: I would try to practice the Golden Rule, Martha, and do as I would be done by. I would treat my friend as I should want her to treat me. I would be loyal to her as I would want her to be to me. I wouldn't want her flirting with my husband as soon as my back was turned.

I would try to put the fear of God in her husband's heart and make him realize what a poor, contemptible role a man plays who decieves the wife who trusts him. I would tell him that if he had ceased to love his wife and was tired of her to come out like a man and say so, and get a divorce so that he would be free to pay other women honorable attentions.

Nothing is more disgusting than these old married Lotharios who make love to young girls while they are hiding safely behind their wives' skirts, and it is strange that any girl is silly enough to fall for them. A woman of 30 should have enough sense and knowledge of the world not to let herself be compromised by a flirtation with a married man. So if I were you, I would simply say "scat" the next time my friend's husband came around, and shut the door on him.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am very much in love with a man and have asked him to marry me, but he says he does not love me and refuses to marry me. What shall I do? I know he loves me even if he says he does not.

X. Y. Z.

ANSWER: Give him the benefit of the doubt. He should know how he feels about you.

Says Farmers Be Exempt On Income Tax

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 7 — (CP) — The House of Commons took a brief respite from the budget debate today as that discussion assumed an increasingly controversial tone.

The discussion was put over until Monday when Defence Minister Ralston will lead off with what is expected to be a reply to Progressive Conservative critics of the manpower policy who have argued that home defence troops should be either sent overseas by compulsion or discharged from the army. Today members will return to Munitions Minister Howe's bill to establish an air transport board.

The controversial tone developed yesterday as Liberal members, after a series of opposition speeches, began rapping at the opposition and advancing arguments for the return of the Liberal party at the next election.

Bruce McNevin (L—Victoria) and Gilbert Weir (L—Macdonald) both wound up speeches laudatory of the government and budget with a warning that Canada needed the best possible representation at the peace conference because of the vital consequences of a sound settlement to Canadian economy.

From this they both drew the same conclusion that Canada could not afford to be represented at the conference by a man less qualified in experience, knowledge and ability than Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Wants Action

Long-simmering impatience among both rank and file and front bench Liberals with the persistence of G. G. McGeer (L—Vancouver Burrard) and others in arguments for monetary reform flashed into the open in a speech from Ralph Mayband (L—Winnipeg South Centre).

In effect he told Mr. McGeer and others to put their monetary proposals into concrete form or cut their speeches short and stop running down the country and its fiscal system.

The Maybank speech was an echo of the prolonged discussion in the banking committee on a revision of the Bank Act in which Mr. McGeer, Arthur Slaght (L-Parry Sound) and John Blackmore, Social Credit House leader, have spoken at length. Mr. McGeer was not in the House at the time.

Mr. Maybank said Mr. McGeer frequently quoted Mr. King with approval on economic and social questions, yet condemned the policies Mr. King followed.

Kiss and Kick

"I have difficulty," he said "in following Mr. McGeer when, in one and the same breath, he extols the Prime Minister with respect to his economic thinking as well as his emotional reactions and at the same time denounces the Prime Minister's chief economic instrument as something which is utterly without health.

"An all-out attack I can understand. I can understand full-throated and complete approval but kicking and kissing at the same time has never been comprehensible to me.

"If there is a new money system which will make our life easier let us see it. But there is no advantage in merely criticizing the system under which we have done the great deeds we have done. In other words there never was any advantage to any person in merely crying 'stinking fish' on his own doorstep."

From E. E. Perley (PC-Qu'appelle) came the suggestion that the entire wheat trade, marketing, handling, shipping, storing and financing be nationalized.

The Western member also thought farmers should be exempt from income tax, a suggestion with which Bruce McNevin (L-Victoria, Ont.), an Eastern farmer, did not agree. He thought it would result in many wealthy people becoming farmers to escape income tax and encourage large-scale farming.

Rodney Adamson (PC-York West) urged steps to encourage the mining industry through the tax changes in order to ensure the development of new mines for the post-war period, but J. W. Noseworthy (CCF-York South) pointed to profits made by large mining companies as an indication the industry needed no special assistance.

George Fulford (L-Leeds) said the duties of Mr. Ilsley should not be made harder "by sniping at him from angles, especially by members of his own party."

Some condemned Mr. Ilsley for doing what he knew was right. The Finance Minister would have enjoyed reducing taxes, but the war was not done although the German army was showing signs of disintegration.

Plan Effective

TORONTO, July 7.—(CP).—Acting Premier T. L. Kennedy said last night the Provincial Act fixing the work week in Ontario at 48 hours and providing for one week's holiday a year now is in effect. Regulations dealing with the Act were approved at a cabinet council meeting last Tuesday. It does not, however, apply to industries engaged in war work.

SERVICES CONDUCTED IN NORMANDY ORCHARD—The Rev. H. Crawford-Scott, RIGHT, R.C.A.F. squadron leader, conducts services in a Normandy orchard attended by a group of soldiers. Rev. THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, July 8

A suddenly precipitated event or set of circumstances, although proving disconcerting, amazing and possibly threatening a radical and far reaching upheaval or crisis in the affairs, should eventuate in surprising progress and good fortune. The abruptness of this occurrence might be so exciting that its importance may be undermined. This demands a serious weighing of conditions, with reason, sound decisions but as well with alacrity and swift grasp of exceptional opportunities. These affect the business, financial and purely personal ties and should be considered with due regard for legal and conventions tenets. Shun arguments and twisted ideas.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of sudden and quite unprecedented opportunities for turning the tide of threatened events into progressive, productive and highly gratifying channels of achievement. There may be devastating or disruptive circumstances, but these handled with reason, sound insight, ingenuity and sagacity should bring excellent returns of radical reactions on the future, its fortunes, and gratifying security. Shun strife, discussions, legal entanglements and happiness and high adventure are in sight.

A child born on this day may have unique talents or exceptional creative ability, with art, literature and drama strongly indicated for public acclaim.

Police Suspect White Slavery In Windsor Area

WINDSOR, July 7—Police said Thursday they were investigating the possibility that white slave traffic has established an international connection, following the conviction at Detroit of Walter Andrews, 37, formerly of Windsor, on a charge of "importing an alien into the United States for immoral purposes."

Evidence was that Andrews had brought a young woman with him to Detroit and had lived with her at two Detroit hotels.

Sgt. Alex Innes of the Windsor police department's morality squad was one of the witnesses in the Detroit case. He reported to the United States court that Andrews is wanted over here by Toronto police. Andrews was sentenced to four months imprisonment.

Members of the Windsor police department's morality squad said they had been investigating the possibility an organized white slave traffic is operating in this province, bringing girls from Quebec municipalities and from Northern Ontario spots, Sudbury principally, to war production centres in this part of the province. American authorities are interested in discovering if girls are being brought to Detroit through somewhat the same channels.

Rain Needed

TORONTO, July 7 (CP)—M. M. Robinson, director of the Ontario Food Distribution Council, said last night a survey shows that unless there is rain within a matter of days serious drought conditions in many parts of the province will drastically reduce vegetable and berry yields.

Roofer Killed

GUELPH July 7 (CP) — Garfield Karn, 34, contractor engaged in tarring and gravelling the roof of the Guelph Mercury building, was killed yesterday when he fell 40 feet to the ground after a beam on which he was standing is believed to have broken. He was the father of five children.

Crown Requests Week's Adjournment

A charge of drunken driving against Richard McMahon which was to have been heard in police court this morning before Magistrate R. B. Baxter was adjourned until July 12 at the request of the police.

Inspector James F. Reid informed the court that the Crown wanted to bring a witness from Oshawa and asked for a postponement on that account.

Two Havelock men, G. A. McLaughlin and George Graham who entered written pleas of guilty to a breach of the Liquor Control Act were each fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

KILLED IN ACTION

TARLING, Sergeant B. F. — Killed in action in Italy on June 28, 1944, beloved husband of Edith Tarling 502 Bonnaccord street. Montreal and Detroit papers please copy.

IN MEMORIAM

HALL—In ever loving memory of a dear Father, J. Warren Hall, who passed away, ten years ago, July 7, 1934.

The flowing stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair,
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of him who once sat there
His life was one long sacrifice,
His heart was true and tender.
He toiled so hard for those he loved,
Then left us to remember.
—Sadly missed by his Family.

WILLIAMSON—In memory of our dear father who passed away July 7, 1943.

He suffered patiently and long
His hope was bright, his faith was strong
The peace of Jesus filled his breast
And in His arms he sank to rest.
—Sadly remembered by daughter Gertrude, Son-in-law and family.

WILLIAMSON—In loving memory of husband and father, Arthur L. Williamson who passed away, July 7th, 1943.

His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Farewell, dear Father, thy work is o'er
Thy willing hands will toil no more
A loving father kind and true:
No one on earth we'll find like you.
—Always remembered by his loving wife, son and grandchildren.

WILLIAMSON — In loving memory of my dear Father A. L. Williamson, (Sr.), Omemee who passed away July 7, 1943.

I often sit and think of you,
When I am all alone,
For memory is the only friend,
That grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak,
When all other things decay,
Our love for you will still keep green,
And never fade away.
—Sadly missed by his daughter and son-in-law, Mildred, Don and family of Oshawa.

CARD OF THANKS

Children's Program Features WMS Meet

FAIRMOUNT July 7 (ENS) — The July meeting of the Fairmount W.M.S. was held July 5th in the Howden Memorial Hall with the children of the community taking the program under the leadership of Mrs. C. W. Seymour.

The devotional exercises were in charge of Miss Ada Earle. Theme, "Youth of the World Cruise." Hymn, "Praise Him, Praise Him." Scripture lesson from the 28th Psalm. Prayer by Mrs. R. C. Hanbidge and a poem, "O Canada" by Ada Earle.

The following program was then taken by the children. Piano solos by Katherine Earle, Audrey Fair, Donald McIndoo, Betty McIndoo and a piano duet by Margaret Earle and Myrna Seymour. A temperance play was taken by Doris Fair, who sang a solo, "Dare to be a Daniel," Lila Seymour, Barry Whitnell, Harry Seymour, Earle Windrem and Jimmie Seymour. A recitation, "A Maiden's Bonnet," was given by Hazel McIntosh. Another play, "Why He Came," was taken by all the children, in which Lily Seymour sang a solo and Margarette and Jean Dunlop a duet.

The meeting then came to a close and games were played on the lawn and lunch served.

RIVER WATER FATAL

LAVERSTOCK, England — (CP) — Deaths of four children in this Wiltshire village from scarlet fever were attributed to polluted water. Because the school water supply was practically non-existent, the children had taken to drinking from a nearby river.

Vacation Club Opens Monday

The "Y" Vacation Club, providing a variety of educational and athletic activities for boys of the city between the ages of eight and 12, will get underway next Monday with Don Munro, vice-principal of Queen Alexandra School, serving as director. This is the seventh successive year of the Vacation Club's operation. Don Lech and Tom Rush are two of the older boys who will assist Mr. Munro in ensuring good times for the youngsters during the two weeks the club will be meeting.

Registration, through the Y.M.C.A. office, is on Saturday and an enrolment of 80 boys is the objective which has been set. So popular was the Vacation Club last year that over 100 boys registered and it was found that the group was too large to be handled properly and adequate attention given to all. Therefore, registration this season will have to be limited.

The program of activities which has been devised for the entertainment of the boys will occupy most of the day, starting with an assembly period at 9:30. This will be followed by a game of softball and a swim in the "Y" pool; and in the afternoon visits to various industrial plants will be shown on the rainy days. A feature of the program, something the boys always enjoy, will be a bird hike conducted by Alex Kay. Among the places the boys will be shown through are the Filtration Plant and the Zoo.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LEARN BRIDGE FAST
41—How to Learn More

BY FAR the most important factor in learning to play a better game is to want to. If you get acquainted with any of the world's outstanding competitors, those who have earned fame at the bridge table, you will find that, without a solitary exception, they are constantly trying to learn more about the game.

The only players who "know it all" are those with a relatively slight amount of knowledge which has gone to their head. It is so in all phases of life. The top men or women in any line consider themselves still students. They have gone far enough to realize how much more there is which will always be beyond their grasp, but also that they can grasp more and more of it if they keep their minds open.

Among several opportunities a player has to increase his knowledge and skill, the greatest of all comes in the "post-mortem," the discussion following the play of a hand. Then is the time to listen more than you talk. Even if your partner is berating you, it will pay you more to try to "get" what he is trying to say than to try to show him how wrong he is. Learn to ask questions at this time, especially of some more experienced player in the game. Find out not only his or her opinion of what you should have done, but the reasons for what he or she did.

That same habit may be practiced away from the table. Any more experienced player feels complimented when asked to give you something out of his own book of knowledge, and also feels a sort of kinship with other players who are anxious to learn.

Most especially, seek out opportunities to watch more experienced players in action. In other words, be a "kibitzer" whenever you can. The way to get the most out of kibitzing is to watch just one player's hand. Before he bids or plays, try to think of what you would do, before he acts. Later, if he has done something different from what you expected, ask him why, if it is agreeable to him. That watching of just one hand, and trying to make every possible deduction about the other hands, will do you ten times as much good as sitting on the corner and watching two hands at once, or getting up to go around the table to see what everybody else holds.

Did you ever hear of a "dormitzer?" He—some call him a "dorbitzer"—is a person who kibitzes a kibitzer. He watches someone else watch the game. In brief, the dormitzer watches the game, too, but he also listens particularly to the comments of the kibitzer, and tries to get him to whisper sage advice. It pays to be a dormitzer once in a while.

It will profit you to read the bridge columns regularly, and puzzle out every hand and question until you understand thoroughly just what is meant. You may even have the thrill of catching the columnist in a mistake once in a blue moon—nobody is perfect—and when you get far enough along will doubtless diasagree with some of his statements. When an especially intricate hand is shown, you can make its points crystal clear by getting a deck of cards, setting up the deal and studying carefully as you play it through.

If you get a chance to look over bridge books in a library or belonging to your friends, that is bound to help. And, of course, if you get a chance to attend bridge lectures or take lessons from a good teacher, you are unusually lucky.

But, when all is said and done, the question of how good a player you become is mostly up to yourself, and depends principally on how good a player you want to be.

Asks Schools To Aid Curbing Crime

TORONTO, July 8 — (CP) — A general decrease in the number of crimes in Toronto during 1943 was reported to-day by Chief Constable D. C. Draper in his annual statement to the Board of Police Commissioners. Burglary and housebreaking decreased 64 per cent from the previous year, the report said, and robbery decreased 40 per cent.

However, murder showed a sharp increase. Seven murders were committed in 1943 as compared to three in the previous twelve months.

Pointing out that Toronto's traffic fatality toll increased 27 per cent during the past year, the report said that of the 88 persons killed, 81 were pedestrians.

The Chief Constable disclosed that 881 crimes were committed by juveniles during 1943, which compared to 935 in 1942 and 902 in 1941. Theft was most prevalent of the offences.

Contending that the principles and uncoordinated machinery now in operation to control juvenile delinquency was "totally inadequate," the Chief Constable's report recommended that "the school under the leadership of the Department of Education is the proper and logical authority to give leadership in this field, with support through co-operation and co-ordination of all the other agencies."

6th Victory Loan Oversold By More Than 200 Millions

OTTAWA, July 7 — (CP). — Finance Minister Ilsley announced yesterday in the Commons that a total of $1,407,547,650 in bonds were sold in the Sixth Victory Loan campaign last May.

Mr. Ilsley expresed satisfaction at the volume of sales, which exceeded the objective of $1,200,000,000 The total sales represented more than 3,770,000 individual applications.

The objective was divided into $525,000,000 for individuals and payroll savings and $675,000,000 for the large investors.

Both these objectives were "exceeded by a wide markin," he said.

The contribution of members of the armed forces to the loan came in for special mention from the Minister. Sales to the forces totalled more than $47,000,000, and the forces overseas took more than $13,000,000.

This, he said, constituted an example and challenge to those at home.

The cost of the bond issue, while not finally determined, would not exceed 88 cents per $100 of bonds.

An answer to a question by H. H. Hatfield (P.C.-Victoria Carleton), showed that up to May 31 expenses charged to the Sixth Loan aggregrated $3,829,927. This was made up in round figures of $386,090 for commissions, $522,524 for salaries, $15,975 for radio programs, $601,565 for advertising, $351,524 for living and travelling expenses, $72,333 for rentals and $2,096,183 listed as "other expenses."

Cash subscriptions in the first five Loans were as fololws:

First Loan $730,000,000, second Loan $843,100,000, third Loan $991,400,000, fourth Loan $1,308,700,000, and the fifth Loan $1,375,000,000.

Union Groups Want Cohen As Candidate

WINDSOR, Ont., July 7—(CP)—Stewards of three United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O) Locals at a meeting last night passed resolutions urging that any candidate in the next Federal election supported by the U.A.W. in Essex West run on a C.C.F.-Labor ticket and that the candidate be J. L. Cohen, national counsel for the union and former member of the National War Labor Board.

The resolutions are subject to the approval of the membership of the locals. The meeting, attended by about 300 members of the Political Action Group of the Stewards, resolved further to seek C.C.F. approval of their action.

Mr. Cohen, who is in Windsor for the resumption of U.A.W. negotiations at the plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., could not be reached for comment.

Peterboro Noted For Courtesy To Americans Visitors Enjoy Fishing And Accommodation

"The people of Peterborough are extremely courteous, and go out of their way to help tourists, and believe me, we appreciate it," said Mrs. R. Kingsley, who with Mr. Kingsley, vacationed at Buckhorn Lodge. In Peterborough to-day, on their way home to Medina, N.Y., they have been spending several restful days in and around Peterborough. Mrs. Kingsley said several other people in Medina are planning to visit these parts in the next two weeks, and added when she arrived home and began to tell abou the good fishing she enjoyed on Buckhorn lake, there'll probably be plenty more coming from Medina. With just enough gas to make it back home, the two like the country around Peterborough very much, and promised, although this is their first trip this way, they'd be back next summer.

It was the first time here in fifteen years for Dr. W. C. Harcomb and A. Miller, of Cleveland, Ohio. They said although Peterborough has become a much prettier city since then, and resorts and facilities for enjoying a vacation have improved tremendously, the wild and primitive woodlands hereabouts have lost none of its charm....also, the fish are biting just as well. Mrs. Harcomb and Mrs. Miller are with them, and so far, a couple of 4-pound pickerel are all they have to boast about in the way of fish, but they'll be here for a few more adys, and expect to hook some bigger ones between now and then.

While in Canada, they are staying at Hiawatha.

Noticing no marked difference in the daily life of Peterborough residents and the people in the United States. Dr. Harcomb praised the people here for their courtesy and friendship and promised the "good neighbour policy" will apply equally as well on his side of the border, when Canadians visit Cleveland. And speaking of good neighbour policies, he pointed out Canadians and Americans have been living side by side for so many years, the good neighbour policy isn't on paper, it's something we've all been practising since 1812.

W. A. Wagner, who hails from Detroit, Michigan, says although his gas ration is rather sparce, he hopes to be able to drive back home in his own car. The 40th visit here, Mr. Wagner is staying near Lovesick Lake, Forest Hill Lodge. He has already caught a 15-pound muskie, and in the next two weeks, hopes to catch a couple more, bigger and better.

Mrs. Wagner and their son are here too. When asked whom he thought will win the forthcoming presidential elections in the States, Mr. Wagner said, "Let's just let that question hang in the air." Which we did!

Germans Build Dummy Tanks

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MADRID, July 7—(AP)—The Germans in France are making systematic use of decoys in an effort to divert Allied air attacks and have stationed lightly-armed troops throughout the country to give an appearance of military strength in every section, refugees reaching Spain declare.

"All German troops not actually fighting are set to work building dummy tanks," said one man who served with German occupation troops in the south of France.

"These wooden tanks are built by soldiers in their spare time and placed on hill tops and other points where they are likely to be seen by low-flying Allied air Marauders in an effort to divert their strafing and bombing from actual tanks and motorized equipment concealed elsewhere.

"Every company has been ordered to build at least one dummy tank a week."

Another refugee reported that Nazi troops transferred to France after severe fighting on the Russian front arrived lacking the most essential arms and equipment, which had been abandoned during their retreat.

"While awaiting new equipment," he said, "we were stationed in various towns and villages, moved from one place to another frequently—apparently simply to show the German uniform and convince the French that the German army still was ready everywhere.

"Our outfit certainly did not have arms enough to put up a real fight."

British Take Six Towns Crack Caen's Defences

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 8 (CP)—British tanks and bayonets spearheading a powerful new offensive against Caen smashed within little more than a mile of the heart of that German anchor in eastern Normandy today, and six towns fell to British-Canadian forces which broke "through the crust of Caen's major outer defences." "The British and Canadian advance on Caen is going very satisfactorily. We are breaking through the German lines," a British staff officer said today, as it was announced that the troops captured Herouville, two miles northeast of Caen, and Gruchy and Buron, some 3 miles northeast of Caen, before 8 am. this morning.

The offensive swept forward on a front nearly five miles wide.

Canadian Press War Correspondent Ross Munro said that Canadian and British tanks operating with infantry along an 8,000-yard front had by 9 a.m. advanced 1,500 yards at the furthest point.

"This is definitely a big operation and its goal is the capture of Caen," he wrote.

The Canadian force at Carpiquet is in action too.

Simultaneously, American offensives captured St. Jean de Daye in the centre of the Normandy front, and won nine square miles of hard-fought ground near the western hinge of the Nazi defensive line at La Haye du Puits.

Gen. Montgomery sent his offensive forward before dawn under a canopy of a blasting artillery barrage and planes, and cracked through lines termed by headquarters as more heavily-held than any attacked in this war.

Vanguards pushed a little closer to Caen as flamethrowers cleaned out pillboxes.

Americans to the west expanded their push in the centre of the line. The twin Allied offensives were gaining ground against vigorous Nazi resistance.

Fleets of fighters and medium bombers pounded German defences ahead of the advancing troops as Montgomery strove to crack the densely-packed German front where headquarters announced Field Marshal Rommel has concentrated more troops to the square mile than in any battle in this war.

Air Cover Heavy

British units were advancing, with the River Orne on their left flank.

It was the first big attack by the 2nd Army since the Canadian troops moved into Carpiquet early July 4.

The offensive was launched against German forces already dazed from a terrific night assault by British bombers which saturated the area with 2,500 tons of explosives.

"The first phase has gone well," said an advanced headquarters spokesman to Roger D. Greene, Associated Press war correspondent with the British Army before Caen.

Creeping Barrage

The British assault was made by infantry and tanks which moved forward under a creeping barrage across rolling hills and wheat fields.

Ahead of the Tommies there were German heavily fortified with pillboxes and dug-in tanks. They fought for every inch of ground.

No mention was made in today's Allied communique No. 65 of the Canadian units holding Carpiquet

Reds Besiege Wilno On 3 Sides

Nazis Withdrawing To Bug River On 350-Mile Front

BY EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 8 — (AP) — Gen. Ivan Cherniaknovsky today aimed three strong spearheads of calvary and tanks at the heart of Wilno (Wilna), while inside the city its German garrison gathered for the defence of the gateway to east Prussia less than 100 miles away.

Front dispatches said the golden domes of the ancient cathedrals of Saint Stanislaw and St. Nicholas glistened in the sun, standing on the knot of hills that make up Wilno, within sight of the Red Army drawing up on the city's border— and perhaps by now inside it.

(DNB News Agency quoted Col. Ernest Von Hammer, a German commentator, as saying that up to last night Nazi troops managed to repulse all Soviet attacks on Wilno, or hold them on the city's outskirts.

(A German report said the Nazis were withdrawing to the Bug River west of Kowel at the south end of the 350-mile long fighting front, shortening their defence line along the natural barrier guarding the approaches to Warsaw')

Take Key Village

Northeast of Wilno Russian columns captured the village of Kemelishki, only 10 miles from the important railway that runs between Wilno and Daugavpils (Dvinsk).

1. From the direction of captured Bistritza, 22 miles to the northeast. Here the Russians have crossed the River Viliya, the last natural barrier before the Lituanian capital.

2. Down the Minsk-Wilno Railway from the vicinity of captured Ostrovets, 25 miles to the east. This attack had liberated Gudogaie about five miles southeast of Ostrovets.

3. Down the Minsk-Wilno Highway from the direction of captured Oshmyana, 29 miles to the southeast.

Still stunned from the blows received in the powerful Red Army offensive, German troops poured back into Wilno. Their commanders seeking to create a defence, thew them into prepared positions in four suburban villages outside the capital—Antokol, Likishki, Polgulyanka and Sarechye.

Also of great importance to the Germans was Baronowicze, 110 miles southeast of Wilno, and the Russians were within four miles of the city limits of this town controlling the railways and highways to Poland and Germany.

A Red Star dispatch said the Germans threw a fresh Alpine Division into the fighting for Baronowicze, hurling the new troops repeatedly against Soviet Cavalry and tanks moving on from the liberated village of Litva.

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's troops pushed upon Pinsk, 70 miles south of Baranowicze, from liberated Stolin, 32 miles away.

The Russians who took Stolin are across the Gorin river, the last big water barrier east of Pinsk. The way is hard through the marsh land, but Rokossovsky was making tremendous gains. Within 24 hours his light cavalry and tanks moved ahead 42 miles from Turov.

In the northern sector Gen. Ivan Bagramian's 1st Baltic army reached places 16 miles from the border of Latvia.

Hitler Calls Emergency Military Council To Study Reich's Critical War Position

AT THE GERMAN FRONTIER, July 8.— (AP).— Germany's military leaders have been holding the most serious discussions with Adolf Hitler on the Reich's critical military situation and a complete revision of defence plans may be made before the end of the month.

The conferences with Hitler, reported through trustworthy informants, began early this week, were said to be comparable with the Kaiser's famous grand council in August, 1918, when it was decided the war could not be won, but that all was not yet lost and that bitter fighting might yet bring an acceptable peace.

1500 Flee Forest Fires One Town Burns, 2 Menaced

VAL D'OR, Que., July 8.—(CP).—Fifteen hundred residents of three Quebec mining communities today found refuge in Senneterre and Rouyn after raging forest fires destroyed one town and roared dangerously close to two others.

The town of Perron, with a population of 300, was evacuated this morning as the fires swept to within 1,000 feet of the town limits. Perron residents were taken to Senneterre—a town of 2,000 population 40 miles northeast of here—where 800 from Pascalis sought safety last night before the flames swept through that town, leaving only two buildings standing.

Evacuate Cadillac

The fires—worst in Quebec since May, 1943—also menaced the towns of Cadillac from which 400 women and children were taken to Rouyn for safety and still held a threat for this mining centre as well.

A 30 mile wind which yesterday sent the flames roaring through tinder-dry forests had abated somewhat early to-day and hopes were high that further disaster would be averted. Rain was reported falling in the Amos area, 20 to 40 miles from the fire zone.

Thirty trucks carried the 300 residents of Perron to Senneterre, 40 miles northeast of here, this morning, a recently built mining centre. Only a shed and a two storey house remain standing in Pascalis.

Half Mile Distant.

Cadillac, seriously threatened yesterday when evacuation of women and children was orered, last night, seemed to be safe although fire-fighters were fighting flames at only half a mile from the town.

Here, bush fires were raging at about one and a half miles from the town where all available manpower had been dispatched to the danger zone to fight the blaze.

At all points water pressure was reported good and government agencies and mining companies had provided all pumps and other fire-fighting apparatus. However, there was a certain anxiety regarding the growing number of evacuees. There were reports that direct appeals to the Federal and Provincial governmens would be made during the day for help and that Red Cross assistance would also be requested.

Germany Loses 31 Generals

LONDON, July 8 (CP)—Germany has lost four more of its generals—two killed and two captured—it was announced yesterday, increasing to 31 the number of top-flight Nazi officers killed in action or accidents or taken by the Allies since warfare blazed out on three fronts in June.

The German radio announced that two generals had been killed on June 23, the same day that Col.-Gen. Eduard Dietl, commander of the Nazi forces in Finland, died in a plane crash.

Simultaneously, the Russians announced two others had been captured in the day's fighting on the eastern front.

The generals whose deaths were announced were Gen. Emil Von Vickede, commander of an army corps, and Lt.-Gen. Karl Eglseer, commander of an Alpine Corps. Both were identified as East-front veterans. The Berlin broadcast gave no details of their "accident" but implied they might have died with Dietl.

Moscow announced capture of Maj.-Gen. Mueller Bulow, commander of the 246th infantry division, and Lt.-Gen. Traut, commander of the 78th German assault group.

Since the Russians started their current offensive they have accounted for 15 Nazi generals—four killed and 11 captured.

The Moscow radio said this "rate of at least one a day is showing how great is the debacle of German armies in White Russia."

Bradley's Unit Captures Town

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN FRANCE, July 8 — (AP).—Throwing armor into the attack across the Vire River, Lt.-Gen. Bradley's American troops battered the enemy back to-day south-east of Carentan and captured the town of St. Jean de Daye.

The swift attack across the Vire River east of the town and over the 35-foot Ivre et Taute Canal north of St. Jean swept the enemy back and placed our troops beyond marshlands through which they had to fight their way.

At noon our troops were astride the main road from St. Jean de Daye to St. Lo, about eight miles to the south, and across the lateral east-west road just south of St. Jean.

With a firm bridgehead across the river and canal, the Americans committed armor to the battle and sent tanks rumbling across bridges erected by engineers yesterday in defiance of German artillery and mortar fire.

The tanks smashed their way along a dry ridge running from Cavigny to Saint Giles, blasting at the enemy, who was dug into the hedgerows along the high ground.

The advance continuing south and west of St. Jean, is straightening out a bulge in the American lines north-east of St. Lo while the other American forces are battering at the enemy all the way from the Vire River westward to the sea.

199 German Planes Bagged in 24 Hours

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR, Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 8.—(AP).—Up to 500 American heavy bomb-ers pounded flying-bomb launching sites and other targets in France today after thunderous night operations in which R.A.F. heavies ripped railroads and a huge robot bomb depot in the Paris area.

The big American bombers, escorted by nearly 750 fighters, struck this morning in varied weather, bombing at least seven launching sites visually.

The widespread night operations followed a few hours after an R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. pummeling of German troop, tank, and gun concentrations just north of Caen in Normandy to pave the way for the British Second Army assault opened today.

One fleet of night-flying Lancasters hit one of the largest German robot-bomb depots at St. Leu-D'esserent 30 miles northof Paris, another hammered the Vaires railway yards on Paris' outskirts, and Mosquitoes dumped 4,000-pound block-busters on Berlin and a synthetic oil plant in the Ruhr. Thirty-four R.A.F. bombers were lost, only one at Vaires.

Non-stop Blows

These non-stop blows followed a double assault by U. S. bombers from Italy and Britain yesterday against 3 high priority targets in Germany. Friday's raids sent down at least 193 Nazi planes, but 60 American bombers and nine fighters were lost. Another six German planes were downed by Mosquito Intruders last night over France, Belgium and Germany. Four of the kills were credited to R.C.A.F. pilots.

German radios warned this morning of Allied planes heading toward the Upper and Lower Danube river. Indicating Italian-based planes might be raiding again.

Switching to tactical support of ground troops in Normandy, the bomber command sent British and Canadians to pound German concentrations on the northern outskirts of Caen with more than 2,500 tons of bombs.

Aiding New Push

U.S. medium bombers joined the preparatory steps for Gen. Montgomery's offensive there. Marauders bombed Nazi installations and a rail and highway junction 15 miles south of the battle line, and Havocs attacked the Dives river railway bridge at St. Pierre south of Caen late yesterday.

Others earlier had hit at the rail bridge over the Loire at Tours-Lariche, and American fighter-bombers swept the Nantes-Caen-Orleans triangle, bombing and strafing trucks and train concentrations.

The crushing attack at Caen was carried out shortly after 10 p.m. at

Americans Win 2 Towns Nearing Leghorn

By JOHN F. CHESTER
Associated Press War Correspondent

ROME, July 8 — (AP) — The viciously-defended towns of Rosignano and Castellina on west coast highways to Livorno (Leghorn) and Pisa have been catured by American infantry after three days of bitter street-fighting, Allied headquarters announced today.

In the meantime, British 8th Army units withstood counter-attacks in the Arezzo area, while Indian troops in the Upper Tiber Valley pushed on from Umbertide to Montone.

"The enemy fought to the last house," a headquarters officer said.

So rugged was the German defence that the 5th Army was forced to extend 21,447 rounds of artillery in one 24-hour period. At Rosignano the Americans threw back at least three strongly launched counter-attacks.

Flanking Movement

The two towns were key points of the Nazi outer defence line before Livorno. Volterra, inland to the east, remained as the sole anchor of the current defence line still in enemy hands.

The fall of Castellina will allow a flanking movement toward Livorno from inland, while other forces push directly northward along the coastal plain.

French troops of the 5th Army likewise moved forward through the mountains to the east, sweeping through Colle Di Val D'Elsa and fighting their way to a point less than three miles from Poggibonsi, 42 miles east of Livorno and only 21 miles south of Florence. In their advance the French destroyed two of six Tiger tanks which sought to block their path.

Strongly co-ordinate German defences along the ridge immediately north of the lateral highway running eastward from Volterra succeeded in stalling two Allied tank attacks, but other tank forces forced

Sasebo Bombers Return Safely

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — Twentieth Air Force Superfortresses hit five enemy targets in their second strategic mission against the Japanese, three of them on the enemy's home island of Kyushu and two in China, a communique reported today.

The communique, summarizing the results of the new attack by the huge bombers, which returned to their bases without loss, said the targets were Sasebo, a big naval base, war plants at Yawata and Omura, both on Yyushu; and Laoyao, a shipping port on the China coast north of Hangchow, and Hankow, 450 miles inland on the Yangtze river.

The Superfortresses encountered only very weak fighter opposition and light anti-aircraft fire.

The communique said that an earlier report that Tobata, across the river from Yawata, had been hit was in error.

First announcement of the assault came apparently while the Superfortresses were over their targets—one enemy broadcast hours later complained plaintively that the American radio was announcing the attack while the bombs fell.'

In the early hours of Saturday morning the Superfortresses had returned to their bases in China, and Gen. H. H. Arnold's headquarters was able to announce that not one had been lost. Four of the huge bombers had been lost on the July 15 mission.

CCF Nominates 29 Men Across Alberta

EDMONTON, July 8 — (CP) — Political machinery speeded up today with nominations called in many constituencies next week in preparation for the Alberta general election, Aug. 8 when the world's only Social Credit government will seek its third mandate from the electorate.

Hon. Ernest C. Manning, 35-year-old Premier who succeeded the late Premier William Aberhart June 1, 1943, to become the Empire's youngest provincial Prime Minister, announced the election to coincide with Quebec's polling day.

Enumeration of voters will begin immediately in all 49 ridings. In the 1940 general election, there were 427,245 names on the Voters' List but this number is expected to be exceeded due to reduction of the voting age from 21 to 19 years this year.

Fifty-seven members will be elected this year including the five member constituencies of Calgary and Edmonton, and later three members to represent Alberta personnel in the Armed Services outside the province will be elected.

Armed Services personnel within the Province will vote Aug. 8 in the constituency where stationed but for candidates in their home constituency.

Social Credit Leads

The ninth legislature was desolved. The standing at dissolution was Social Credit, 35; Independent, 15, Liberal 3, C. C. F. 1; Labor 1; Independent-Social Credit 1, and vacant 1.

In the last general election the Social Credit Party elected 36 while the Independent Citizens' Association, a coalition of Liberals, Conservatives and others opposed to Liberal and Labor parties one each. Social Credit, elected 19, and the Sixty-six candidates, representing four parties, have been nominated. The C.C.F. have 29 nominees in the running, Social Credit, 28, Labor-Progressives, five, and Independents, four. The C. C. F. will hold 20 nomination conventions within the next fortnight.

Jap Strength Shrinks Daily

By RICHARD JOHNSTON
Associated Press War Correspondent

ABOARD JOINT EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF SAIPAN, July 8. — (AP-via Navy Radio). — Japanese soldiers still fought bitterly from their caves on Marpi Point today, but Japanese civilians sick, tired and hungry, streamed down a designated refugee road into American lines.

The response to American leaflet invitations dropped in the Japanese-occupied northern tip of Saipan surprised American military leaders. They had feared that many Japanese civilians would either elect to remain or would be forced to remain with the Nipponese forces in the constantly diminishing area of the saw-toothed northern point of the island.

Elsewhere the remnants of the island's defenders attempted a hopeless, desperate counter-attack reminiscent of the Attu and Makin fighting.

Hundreds of Japanese soldiers died in an assault against American Army lines. Japs who managed to penetrate the lines were mopped up in canefields and ditches of the western coast.

Forest Fire Sweeps Town Almost Trapping Citizens

Leon Plouffe, manager of a hotel at Pascalis, Que., gave first warning yesterday to his fellow-citizens of the impending forest fire that later wiped out the Quebec mining centre. In the following account, he tells the story in his own words.

Written for The Canadian Press
By LEON PLOUFFE.

SENNETERRE, Que., July 8 (CP)—I had left Pascalis in my car early yesterday afternoon to attend the Liberal convention at Amos. On my way to Val d'Or, I noticed many bush fires along the road.

When I reached Val d'Or, I felt uneasy about what I had seen on the way and decided to return to Pascalis. The fires had spread considerably on my way back and seemed to be gaining ground toward Pascalis.

When I finally reached my home town I noticed that nobody seemed to be aware of the impending danger although a thick black smoke had started to enshroud the town.

The fire was rapidly sweeping towards town and now high-leaping flames could be seen.

Sonuded Warning.

I jumped back in my car and went through the locality honking my horn as long and as loud as possible, shouting: "Run everybody. Run everybody. The town is going to burn down."

I toured the place once more. The flames were now encircling the town and some sheds were already burning up. I rushed to my hotel to salvage few personal belongings. I got to my office when somebody shouted from outside to come out as the town would be soon completely surounded by the blaze.

I ran out forgetting my belongings.

The whole town was then terribly panicky.

Women and children were crying, running around like mad people in the streets while the men were trying to get out of the houses all the furniture they could, piling it up in the middle of the street.

But it was already too late. Everybody realized it and started to look for cars and trucks to carry them away in a hurry.

The smoke was so black and dense that one might have thought it was the middle of the night. The heat was terrific. Women and children were first evacuated by car to Lake

Nazis Wipe Out Entire Greek Village

IZMIR, Turkey, July 7—(Delayed)—(AP)—Copies of a Greek puppet government communique which reached here today said the Nazis on June 10 slaughtered more than 1,000 residents of the Greek village of Distomo in a cold-blooded reprisal comparable to that carried out at the Czechoslovak town of Lidice.

The communique said that not even babies in arms were spared and the massacre was crowned by the burning of the village.

The killing was carried out by the Nazis as revenge for the death of 30 German soldiers in a battle with the Eam and Andarts resistance groups near the village.

Pacific Front Bright Spot Despite Losses At Saipan

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Events across the Pacific have taken a sharp turn for the better to match developments in the roaring Russian-Allied three-front war against the Nazi-Nipponese Axis in Europe.

The second flight of Superfortress bombers from China to blast at the main Japanese west coast naval face of Sasebo puts Tokyo on notice of the aerial crossfire being prepared against it. The Japanese main fleet can soon feel secure nowhere, at home bases or at sea, against the rising tide of sea and air power being brought to bear against it, both from China and newly captured bases in the Pacific.

Attrition Toll Up

Whether any portion of that fleet lay at Sasebo when the B-29's came over is yet to be disclosed. It cannot be doubted that the attack stepped up sharply the heavy attrition toll being taken of the Japanese Navy and cargo fleet, however. There was already ample evidence that enemy shipping in the Pacific theatre is going down faster than it can be replaced.

The second Superfortress raid on Japan upon the seventh anniversary of her unprovoked attack on China, lent immediate support to the Chiang Kai-shek anniversary statement to his war-weary and ill-equipped people that help was coming. And to cap it came Chungking disclosure that the enemy offensive in Hunan Province had been definitely blunted at Hengyang.

Breakthrough Averted

Chinese spokesmen said the danger of a Japanese breakthrough to cut China apart from Peiping to Canton had been averted for some time to come.

The Japanese drive along the Peiping - Hankow - Canton railway was primarily aimed at preventing Allied use of Southeastern China air bases. The Chinese victory at Hengyang foreshadows new super-bomber raids against the heart of the Nipponese war effort in Japan itself. Details both of the second Superfortress raid on Japan and of the battle of Hengyang are still to come and their full significance is yet to be indicated. It appears certain, however, that the enemy again badly underrated Chinese ability and will to fight and Allied ability to get important stocks of fighting equipment to Chinese troops despite all communication difficulties.

Air Transport Program Brings Debate

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 8 (CP)—Establishment of an air service from Canada to Australia and New Zealand is under consideration, Munitions Minister Howe told the House of Commons last night shortly after the Prime Ministers of the two other Dominions had visited Ottawa and conferred with members of the Canadian government.

Mr. Howe made his brief statement in answer to a question from Howard Green (PC - Vancouver South) during prolonged debate in committee of the whole on a Bill to create an Air Transport Board.

He did not elaborate on the statement, but presumably it had reference to a post-war development in aviation. It was recalled that last week Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand when here said both Australia and New Zealand favored International operation of Trans-Ocean Air Services.

C.C.F. Support

If that could not be attained the New Zealand chief of government said it was desirable that the countries of the British Commonwealth touching on the Pacific have a service of their own and should not be dependent on United States controlled air lines for transportation between their own territories.

Sharp opposition to the Air Transport Board set-up came from Progressive Conservative members while the project drew support from the C.C.F. This led Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative leader, to suggest there was an alliance between Mr. Howe and the Socialist group, but that the C.C.F. members had been deceived in that the compulsory separation of air services from railways, to which the Progressive Conservatives object, would not necessarily mean government ownership of Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said that unlike some other members, the C.C.F. supporters were ready to support members of other parties when they did something with which they were in agreement and they had no hesitation in supporting the government proposals.

"I have no illusion about the Minister (Mr. Howe) being a Socialist," said Clarence Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton south) in direct reply to Mr. Graydon, "but I'll say this. He is an engineer. He wants to get things done. He is practical."

Despite the fact that Mr. Howe accepted two amendments proposed by the official opposition and appealed to members to pass the Bill as he could not be in the House next week, the Bill did not go through. A number of sections were left over.

Adopt Amendments

One amendment adopted at the suggestion of John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) provides for an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada on points of law and jurisdiction from decisions of the Board which will have power to advise the Minister on questions of aviation policy and deal with the licensing of air lines and the issue of certificates of airworthiness.

The other amendment accepted from the opposition was to alter the period of appointment for the first appointees to the Board. The Bill provides for a 10-year term for the three members. For the first appointees it provided that the terms should be 10, nine and eight years.

G. R. Boucher (PC—Carleton) and Percy Black (PC—Cumberland) said the terms for the first appointees should be shorter in order to leave the way open for airmen now overseas to aspire to these positions.

This provision was changed to make the first appointees serve for periods of 10 seven and four years. Mr. Howe said some men now overseas with suitable qualifications already were being considered for the posts.

The intention is that the Board shall develop its own judisprudence with respect to aviation and hence a measure of permanence in the appointments is desirable. The Board of Transport Commissioners had developed a jurisprudence with respect to railways. Under the 1938 Act which put aviation under that Board it was found that railway jurisprudence was not applicable to airways and some absurd situations developed.

Socialistic.

The chief points stressed in opposition to the measure were that it placed too much power in the hands of the minister, that it was socialistic and that it was a mistake to separate airway from railway ownership.

"It does smack of Socialism," said Hon. W. Earl Rowe (PC-Dufferin-Simcoe).

Mr. Defenbaker said the minister would have the say as to whether a provincial government such as Ontario could operate an ai rline.

Mr. Howe said Premier Drew had promised to open air services in the north and he proposed to remind the Ontario premier of that promise. If Ontario made an application for an air route it would be considered. He said he presumed that in the meantime Col. Drew was arranging for airports, aids to navigation and radio services.

George Black (PC-Yukon) said the two railways were better able to provide air services than any other organizations and should not be pushed out of the field.

John MacNicol (PC-Toronto Davenport) said competitive rather than monopolistic government services would lead to a speedier opening up of air services throughout Canada.

RUSSIAN SQUEEZE IS ON WARSAW—With the evacuation of Kowel by the Germans, as admitted by the German high command, the way is now clear for the Red Army to apply the pincers to the strategic city of Warsaw. Map shows how Minsk and Kowel may be used as springboards for that drive. Vilna also is threatened from Minsk, while Latvia's capital city, Riga, is now menaced by a drive from Polotsk (TOP ARROW).

Germans Lose

The Allies believe the Germans may be planning attacks with a rocket bomb capable of dropping from a height of 45,000 feet and causing much more damage than the present type of bomb.

Officials in London said the first of special deep shelters will be opened tonight. There are sufficient shelters to accommodate everyone, it was announced, with bunks available for 4,000,000. The exodus of the city's children continued, with 15,000 evacuated yesterday. More of the capital's activities were moved underground, including the law courts.

the request of the British Army there, and even before the bombers returned to their base the British 2nd Army sent a message of congratulations for a job well done.

This important attack rounded out a day in which some 4,500 sorties were flown by Allied air units based in Britain and Normandy. Bomber and fighter-gunners blasted 142 German planes from the skies, including 114 by the 8th air force in flaming dog fights over Germany.

In yesterday's operations from Italy, 51 enemy aircraft were destroyed and 24 heavy bombers and three other Allied aircraft were lost.

The new day and night attacks followed daylight assaults yesterday by more than 1,100 U.S. heavy bombers on 11 high-priority targets in central Germany—attacks that touched off the biggest aerial battle in six weeks. The enemy lost 114 planes, at a cost to the Americans of 36 bombers and six fighters.

Many Air Battles

In addition, more than 500 heavyweights from Italy struck oil plants near Blech-Hammer and Odertal, about 75 miles southeast of Breslau in German Silesia, leaving them wreathed in flames and explosions. An undisclosed number of German interceptors was shot down in vigorous battles.

The force from Britain dropped 3,000 tons of bombs on objectives in the Leipzig area, defended spiritedly by the long semi-dormant German air force. The targets were an oil refinery at Merseburg, synthetic oil plants at Litzendorf and Bohlen, and figh er-plane assembly plants at Mockau, and bomber factories at Bernberg, Halle and Aschersleben.

Raging dogfights were reported by the American airmen, who said many of the German planes were Junkers 88's, not used usually for fighter combat. The Germans threw heavy smoke screens over the area, but failed to hide the objectives from the highflying U.S. bombers.

Bag 15 Nazis

R.C.A.F. squadrons destroyed five of 15 German aircraft shot down over France yesterday by one 2nd Tactical Air Force fighter-bomber group. An Australian squadron shot down seven.

Earlier, R.C.A.F. fighter pilots shot down two enemy aircraft northeast of Bernay, France, raising to 67 the numbr of planes destroyed by Canadian fighter wings in Normandy since June 28.

Flying-bomb attacks on London and Southern England, ranging from light to heavy during the night, tapered off toward daylight today, while the German radio boasted that the attacks would continue with additional types of secret weapons.

Some of the bombs that fell on the capital caused damage and casualties, it was announced.

Chinese Gains Upset Japanese Plan

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Chinese success in breaking the Japanese siege of the strategic junction of Hengyang, on the Peiping-Hankow-Canton railroad, is one of the best pieces of news to come out of China in a blue moon.

The victory gives at least temporary relief from the powerful offensive which has threatened to cut China in two, from north to south, and thereby vastly increase the Allied difficulties of ousting the Japanese invaders from the continent. The peril isn't yet past, but the gallant Chinese have won a memorable breathing spell.

Lest we get a distorted perspective of the position it must be pointed out that the 14th American Air Force contributed to the victory by demoralizing the Japanese supply lines. The Chinese army is weak in all categories of war supplies, and one hates to think what would have happened long ago but for this air support.

This Japanese offensive, which was begun a couple of months ago, was inspired by fear of two contingencies — amphibious invasion of southern China by the Allies, and bombing of Japan from American airfields in southern China. The drive was aimed at control of the thousand-mile trunk railway running from Peiping in the north to Canton on the south coast.

While Japanese success in capturing the Peiping-Canton road, thus raising a barrier through the heart of China, would create grave difficulties for the Allies, it wouldn't prevent the latter from finishing off Tojo's gangsters. That job is well on its way already, as witness yesterday's fresh attack on the mainland with our mammoth B-29s.

Coincident with the victory at Hengyang, General Chennault 14th Airforce commander, made this interesting forecast:

"The time will come soon, perhaps before another 12 months have passed, when the Japanese will be driven forever from Chinese soil.... As soon as Hitler has been forced into unconditional surrender the entire might of the Allies will be turned against Tojo and his henchmen."

You get an interesting combination when you read this along with General De Gaulle's prediction yesterday in Washington that the 'year 1944 won't pass without the last German in France being killed, captured or chased from our soil."

The Pascalis fire started at four o'clock in the afternoon and took the residents so much by surprise that they were unable to save much of their personal belongings from the rapidly-spreading flames. There were no casualties announced and a report that two men were missing was still unconfirmed this morning.

Perron, where most of the residents of Pascalis worked at the gold mine there, was still untouched by the flames but fears were expressed as the mass evacuation of the locality's population was carried out.

At Cadillac, one of the evacuees in Rouyn said, the dense smoke in the streets was such that "you could not see from one house to another." Police Chief L. P. Gauthier, however, was hopeful that with the wind abating "the fires might be put under control some time today." Fires were reported last night spreading over about 10 square miles around the town and six gold mines in the vicinity were at one time threatened although only two building at the Thompson mine were burned down.

Here in Val d'Or the most serious outbreak still was at Thompson at a point between one mile and a half and two miles from this town. No danger was seen for Val d'Or proper, however, unless a sudden change of wind occurs.

Frontal Attack

and fighting for its airfield to the south. Ross Munro, chief Canadian Press war correspondent in the field, said in a front dispatch yesterday that the enemy was not counter-attacking as he had previously.

The American offensive on the west had virtually surrounded the German defence anchor, La Haye du Puits. The bridgehead over the Vire river was expanded to one mile in width and two miles in depth.

These advances along the 33-mile American battlefront coincided with a front dispatch by Don Whitehead, Associated Press war correspondent, that American forces have captured St. Jean de Daye, objective of a drive which yesterday forced the Vire river in a thrust so swift that the Germans did not have time to blow up the main bridge.

There were strong indications from the manner in which the offensive was going forward that Lt.-Gen. Bradley had given up trying to take La Haye du Puits by frontal assault and was by-passing it on both sides, forcing it to fall automatically.

In the area from La Haye du Puits eastward to the forest of Mont Castre, American lines advanced about three miles on a three-mile front, liberating nine square miles of French territory containing four small towns.

Face A Trap

On the other sideof La Haye, also, the American line was pushed forward and at a point two miles south of the town threatened the road to Lessay. If the Americans had not already cut this road, they were within rifle shot of it. It appeared the enemy had no alternative but to fall back on Lessay 4½ miles south, or be trapped in La Haye.

German resistance along the whole front continued stubborn and costly. Every advance had to be fought for.

Another 1st Army column pushing south from Carentan advanced 1½ miles beyond Culot, captured yesterday, to points 800 yards east of Sainteny, which is 5¾ miles from Periers.

This drive already was a threat to out-flank Lessay, a coastal defence point near where the river Ay empties into the Atlantic.

In support of the push over the Vire river which took Airel, the American column launched an attack directly south across the Taute canal toward the road junction of St. Jean.

The Supreme Command disclosed today that the French underground army had engaged units as close as 50 miles from the present Normandy battlefront while in Southern France the Maquis had tied up a whole German panzer division destined for Normandy fighting.

Allied naval authorities reported German E-boats had renewed their activity with continuous night attacks, but these failed to break through the protecting barrier of light coastal forces and destroyers.

Some—not many—fled to Perron, a mile away, with the men who already were organizing to fight the blaze. They later were evacuated to Senneterre with the rest of the Perron population.

Already, we could no more get in touch by telephone with the outside world as all the lines and poles were burned down with the rest.

Now, the whole population of Pascalis has taken shelter with hospitable families in Senneterre.

We are waiting for some help from provincial authorities as we have lost everything. Help from the Val D'Or Red Cross is also expected.

Huckleberries Sold On Market

Huckleberries were quoted on the market this morning at $2.50 for six quart baskets by John Mallory of Warkworth.

"The crop is nothing like last year's," he told a reporter. "I sold huckleberries on this market for seven weeks last year. In the Sandy Lake country north of Havelock the berries are only a fraction of the big harvest last summer."

New potatoes were 77 cents a peck with only a light offering. Most of the farmers who specialise in potatoes were selling the remnant of their 1943 crop. Peas in the pod were 50 cents for a six quart basket, beets were two bunches for 15 cents, and other new vegetables were available, although carrots were generally scarce.

West coast patrols reported they encountered a second regiment of the German 16th SS Division, indicating an entire division had been thrown into the line in an effort to block the advance on Livorno. Previously only one regiment of the division had been active.

Along the 8th Army front, the Allies maintained their pressure in the Arezzo sector, which the Nazis must hold if they hope to successfully withdraw their Tiber Valley forces while developing their Gothic line, now only 30 miles away.

Despite enemy reinforcements, 8th Army units gained the southern slopes of Castiglion Maggio, six miles south of Arezzo.

In the Tiber valley north of Umbertide, the town of Carpini was taken and Montone was being mopped up by British troops, despite heavy demolitions. Farther east in the Appenines forward elements advanced within five miles of the railroad junction fo Fabriano.

The pace of Mediterranean warfare was stepped up yesterday with strong forces of American heavy bombers stabbing deep into German Silesia to blast the Blechhamer and Odertal synthetic oil plants, and other planes hitting Nazi communications and other targets from southern France to Greece.

Fifty-one enemy aircraft were shot down in the day's intensive activity. The M.A.A.F. lost 24 heavy bombers and three other aircraft in making 2,200 sorties.

Council To Aid Transporting School Pupils

CAMPBELLFORD, July 8—(ENS) —At the regular meeting of the town council held last evening with all member present, the chairman of the Board of Education, Mr. Armour addressed the council in regard to aranging for the transportation of pupils from the Brighton-Campbellford district. The attendance at the High School has dropped sharply and after discussion the council on motion by Deputy Reeve Fowlds decided to pay Harry Ames three dollars per month per pupil. Communication was received, asking for volunteers for farm work and Donald Brady and Bell were appointed a committee to look after this matter. Ronald Hagull on behalf of the Kinsman's Club, who are sponsoring a safe bathing location on Trent Creek, stated that it would not require supervision and the matter was left with Reeve McMillan for legal opinion.

A communication in regard to the safety of public halls was referred to the fire chief and one from the Aeronautic Institute of Canada re provision for returning airmen was left with the industrial committee. On motion of Taylor and Fowlds the milk bylaw was adopted as read. Mr. Birmingham, tax collector reported that $24,000 had been collected which is $2,000 more than last year.

The need of public wash rooms and lavatories was brought to the attention of the council by Councellor Brady, for it was felt the accommodation provided and for which a rental of $50 a year was paid to Mrs. O'Keefe of the St. Lawrence Hotel was not sufficient to accommodate the public.

Gen. De Gaulle Again Meets FDR

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—General de Gaulle goes to the White House again today to continue his talks with President Roosevelt, while the round of formal receptions and presentations continues unabated.

He has seen Mr. Roosevelt on each of the three days he has been in Washington, and their conversations are understood to be progressing successfully.

Primary aim of the talks is to establish friendly relations between this government and the French Committee, and President Roosevelt said yesterday the question of recognition would not come up. Gen. de Gaulle has not referred to it since his arrival.

Personal reactions of the two leaders to each other are thus of prime importance, and American diplomats said that meetings this far have been extremely smooth, contrasting with the clash of personalities which developed at their last meeting at Casablanca in 1943.

Last night Gen. de Gaulle was honor guest at a dinner given by Acting War Secretary Robert P. Patterson which was attended by about 60 army and navy officials including General Marshal, United States chief of staff.

Red Army Has Cut Warsaw-Leningrad RR

LONDON, July 8—(CP-Reuter)—The Red Army has cut the main Warsaw - Leningrad railway, main traffic artery escape route for the German forces in the Baltic state.

"Soviet artillery and stormtroops moving across country have brought the line under fire northeast of Vilna and effectively severed this link between the Vilna garison and the German groupings in the north," said Duncan Hooper, Reuter's special correspondent, in a cable from Moscow.

Unworldiness and Humility Chief Marks of Saints

REV. E. R. JAMES

MATTHEW THE PUBLICAN, St. Matthew 10; 3.

A devout Pharisee, like Saul of Tarsus, is reading this book with some interest wondering if he would be really interested in such a Messiah. He can understand that the Messiah would have a number of close friends whom He would send forth. Then He comes to this ordinary statement:— "Matthew the publican". Can you see him laying down the manuscript with disgust, muttering to himself. "This Man has chosen a publican to be one of His closest friends; a Jew can fall no lower than to be a tax gatherer of his nation for the Gentile rulers, who for a time have conquered the Holy Land". So you can understand why respectable Jews classed the publican with sinners.

But the Lord Jesus was no ordinary Teacher. He looked below the surface and saw in St. Matthew qualities which would enable him to take his place among the Apostles.

The official tax gatherer one day looked into the Face of "The fairest of men" and heard Him say:— "Follow Me". He arose and followed Him.

Being in comfortable circumstances St. Matthew makes a feast for his old companions and invites the Lord and His disciples, who are by no means delighted. Their Pharisee friends read them like a book. "Why eatest your Master with publicans and sinners?" is their biting taunt. Naturally they have no answer. The Lord comes to their defence:—"They that are whole need not a physician, but the sick, I came not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance".

"Matthew arose and followed Jesus". Then followed months of the closest association with the greatest of Teachers. His Personality and teaching gripped the mind of the one time publican. Slowly, gradually the mind of this Jew is being filled with the wonder of his Teacher. He is a Man; yet more than a Man. He is the Christ, the Son of the living God. Unconsciously he comes to give Him the value of God.

UNWORLDLINESS is the chief mark of a saint. St. Matthew had been a business man and as a publican he could have made money easily and become rich. Now money has no more fascination for him. He has not sold his soul to money. Do not forget that he alone gives us the parable of the Pearl of great Price, which has made a deep impression upon his mind. He is willing to pay the price.

HUMILITY is another mark of a saint. Humility does not mean servility. It means that a man has realized the great gulf between himself and God. He has had a vision of God's holiness and sees his own sins and wickedness in all their blackness. "Woe is me, for I am a man of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the KING, the Lord of hosts."

When you walk humbly before God you will not be afraid to face the wrath of men, or to speak your mind when the occasion calls for it. St. Mark and St. Luke give lists of the twelve Apostles but only St. Matthew mentions the fact that he is a publican. No other Evangelist would have dared to write the word "publican". St. Matthew shows his humility by doing so. He wishes all men to see what great things the Lord has done for his soul in calling such a man to a place in the Apostolic band; to be "one of the twelve".

The Lord give Levi, the son of Alpheus, the new name of Matthew, which means "The gift of God". In due time he is moved to write the Gospel of the Kingdom of Heaven, which has brought peace and happiness to multitudes.

WHAT DO THE LORD REQUIRE OF THEE, O MAN, BUT TO DO JUSTLY, AND TO LOVE MERCY AND TO WALK HUMBLY WITH THY GOD.

Former Presbyterian Minister Serves as RAF Radio Mechanic

A former Pictou, N.S., clergyman is one of the many Canadians serving at R.A.F. stations in England as radio mechanics, doing a vital job which is contributing much in the Allied invasion of Europe.

He is LAC (the Rev.) Donald Campbell, B.A., of Heatherdale, P.E.I. who, until he enlisted in the RCAF in 1941, was pastor at the Pictou Presbyterian Church. He is a graduate of McGill University.

Since leaving his former post, Campbell has travelled widely, serving with RAF radio detachments in far corners of the world. In July, 1942 he arrived in the Middle East and spent 18 months in Egypt, Lebanon, Transjordan, Jerusalem, and Libya.

The P.E.I. clergyman still recalls a visit he made with several other airmen to pre-Christian caves at Benghazi in Libya—a visit he wished he'd never made.

"We had just walked into a cave where there were several rush couches," he explained. "I felt my trouser legs being literally pushed up. We hurried out and found that we were practically covered with brown lice. We took our clothes off—and it was cold—and spent three hours trying to get the lice off our clothes and bodies. I still scratch when I think of it."

In Jerusalem, where he arrived at three o'clock one morning, Campbell visited the famous "wailing wall." "It was like a picture out of the Old Testament," he said. "It was most impressive to realize that here there was no change in a changing world."

Taking Possession of Canaan

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 9 is Joshua 13, 14, Judges 1: 19-21, 27, 28, the Golden Text being Joshua 14:9, "Thou hast wholly followed Jehovah.")

WE START today's lesson with a picture of Joshua, now an old man, "stricken in years," as the Bible tells us.

The Lord spoke to him, saying that He saw that Joshua was old, and there was still much land that had been promised to the children of Israel that was still not in their possession. Some of it had been conquered, but it had not passed out of the hands of its possessors into those of the Israelites. The Lord commanded Joshua to "divide thou it by lot unto the Israelites for an inheritance" to the nine tribes and the half tribe of Manasseh."

Our lesson tells minutely of the land still not divided, and just what tribes were to get the various parts, including cities and pastureland. While the land was to be divided by lot under Joshua and Eleazar, the priest, yet, says our commentator, "the people themselves were to give the inheritances larger or smaller in proportion to the population of the several tribes." We have no precise information concerning just how the lots were cast in the account given in our lesson, but there is a statement elsewhere that tells us that there were two urns, in one of which were the names of the nine tribes and one half tribe, the other with the names of 10 districts, and that one of these were drawn alternately.

Caleb Is Lesson's Hero

The real hero of today's lesson is Caleb, "a prince of the tribe of Judah," and first mentioned in the list of princes who were sent to search the land of Canaan in the second year of the Exodus. He and Joshua were the only ones to encourage the people of Israel to go up and take possession of the land.

Caleb came to Joshua and asked for certain land for his people.

"Forty years old was I when Moses the servant of the Lord sent me from Kadesh-barnea to espy out the land; and I brought him word again as it was in mine heart.

"Nevertheless my brethren that went up with me made the heart of the people melt; but I wholly followed the Lord my God."

Moses had promised, said Caleb, that "the land whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance, and thy children's forever, because thou hast wholly followed the Lord thy God."

Now Caleb was 85, and "as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me," therefore he asked for Hebron, and it was given him. "And the land had rest from war" which had been almost continuous since the children of Israel had sighted the Promised Land.

The picture of these two old men, Joshua and Caleb, who had seen the Lord that was promised them as theirs and pronounced it good, is very touching. Caleb, at 85, was strong and enterprising, asking for a land that was desirable but difficult to conquer, and knowing he would succeed because of his faith in the God whom he had followed unswervingly.

God With Judah

"And the Lord was with Judah, and He drave out the inhabitants of the mountain; but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had chariots of iron.

"And they gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moses said, and he expelled thence the three sons of Anak."

Caleb, the faithful, conquered his enemies wholly, but Judah could not drive his out of the valleys "because they had chariots of iron"—probably these were ordinary war chariots such as are described in the Iliad. It is probable if Judah had been more courageous, with faith that the Lord was with him, he could have conquered even this handicap.

The children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebusites, and they dwelt with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem "unto this day."

"Neither did Manasseh drive out the inhabitants of Bethshean" and the other towns therein, "but the Canaanites would dwell in that land.

"And it came to pass, when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute, and did not utterly drive them out." The influence of the Canaanites was unfortunate, leading at last to turmoil, increasing corruption and ultimate idolatry.

Rev. R. Woods Visits City

Rev Robert F. Woods of Toronto, the district superintendent of the Ontario District, Church of the Nazarene, will be speaking in the Nazarene Gospel service, 213 Charlotte street at all services on Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Woods is a youthful stirring speaker. For many years he has been pastor of the largest church of the denomination in Toronto. He has been the president of the Young People's Society for seven years. A year ago he was elected district superintendent, and has recently been re-elected.

This is his first visit to Peterborough.

According to legend, the weaving of silk began when Si-Ling-Chi, the Queen Consort of Hoang-Ti, emperor of China, studied the activities of silk worms and invented the processes needed to turn silk into cloth.

Obituary

MRS. A. V. HILL.

LAKEFIELD, July 8 — (ENS).— A large number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of A. V. Hill on Wednesday for the funeral of his wife, Mary Evelyn Doidge, who died on Monday, July 3. Born in Lakefield 71 years ago Mrs. Hill had resided in the village all her life and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Doidge. She died in St. Joseph's Hospital Peterborough, following an illness of three months.

Beside her husband she is survived by two daughters Mrs. Nelson Robinson (Mary) of Rochester, and Mrs. Elwood Garbutt (Doris) of Dummer. A son Stanley died in February. She also leaves two sisters Mrs. D. H. Webster of Lakefield and Mrs. R. S. Garbutt of Toronto and three brothers W. A. Doidge of Toronto, E. H. Doidge of Saginaw, Michigan, and G. A. Doidge of North Battleford, Sask.

Mrs. Hill was a member of Lakefield United Church, and also the Women's Auxiliary. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. George Kelly of Lakefield United Church. Interment was at Lakefield Cemetery. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The pall-bearers were Theodore Crawford, Frank Coyle, Allen Clark, Norman Moore, Bruce Garbutt, and Judson Hull.

Taking Possession of Canaan

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Joshua 13, 14; Judges 1:19-21, 27, 28

When Joshua was old and "stricken in years," the Lord told him there was much land to be possessed by the Israelites, telling him what it was.

The Israelites' inheritance was divided by lot, as the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine tribes and the half tribe of Manasseh.

Caleb came to Joshua and asked that Hebron be given him for his inheritance, because he had, as he said, "wholly followed the Lord."

The Lord was with the tribe of Judah and help it drive out the Canaanites from the mountain, but not from valley.

The President's Proposal

In 1920 F. D. Roosevelt ran for Vice-President of the U.S. on Woodrow Wilson's peace program; the proposal which the President recently made for an international plan to preserve peace shows that he has not forgotten his Wilsonian ideas, and that although he has tried many variations on them and has at times seemed to reject them, he has returned to them at last. What the President has proposed is in effect a revival of the League of Nations.

The League was severely crippled at its inception by the refusal of the United States to join it; the League became progressively weaker as the pusillanimity of its members in the face of danger became apparent. The essence of the League idea was that all members were to go to the aid of any member which was attacked; Manchuria, Ethiopa, Spain and Czechoslovakia were the milestones on the road of its retreat from that principle. But the idea of the League was a good one, and it appears that the President thinks that if the League were given another chance it might succeed. And as there has been no contradiction of what he has said, it may be assumed that his country agrees with him, and is ready to take a place—necessarily an important place,—in such a revived League.

The President has had plenty of opportunity to see the old League at work, and he has brought the knowledge thus gained to his proposal for a new League. National sovereignty of the countries uniting in it is not threatened, although it is obvious that the decisions of such a League modify the national sovereignty of each member country. The President would like to see an assembly of all peace-loving nations, with a council consisting of representatives of Great Britain, the U.S., Russia and China with representatives of "a suitable number of other nations" elected by the assembly. The resemblance between this scheme and that of the old League is plain; the provision for legislative and administrative action by the smaller nations is also a Wilsonian idea.

But President Roosevelt's proposal is not merely a re-statement of Wilson's plan for the League. The emphasis is the same, but the structure is different. The council which he speaks of would have greater powers than the council of the old League, and it would have more freedom to act. In the old League unanimity of opinion was necessary before action could be taken, and often that proved an impediment to prompt and forceful deeds when deeds, and not words, were needed. The council which the President foresees would be fully representative, and thus able to act on its own volition.

The President also proposes that outside the field of "peaceful settlement of international disputes and the prevention of threats to the peace and breaches of the peace" the new League should act "through such agencies as may be found necessary", which means that the international organizations which have been formed during the war and which have done good work would be maintained during the peace. Thus UNRRA could continue its relief work, the world nutrition agreement could be maintained, and the currency stabilization authority (if one emerges from the present conference) would all keep up their organizations and the work which falls into their various spheres.

The President has not been at all specific about the organization of this revived League; perhaps he felt that it would not be politic to put forward too definite a scheme without consulting other interested nations. But as he has outlined his plan, it has the great advantage of growing out of the international co-operation which the war has brought about, and could thus be accepted by the world more readily than a scheme made out of whole cloth.

Economy In Saskatchewan

From now until the general election the Dominion as a whole will be keenly interested in the doings of the C.C.F. Government of Saskatchewan. Mr. Coldwell has assured the nation by radio that his party will sweep the country at the next election, and will form the next ministry in Ottawa, and therefore Saskatchewan may be looked upon as a preview, or trailer, of the great show to come.

The new Premier of Saskatchewan, the Rev. T. C. Douglas, has made a popular start by cutting the salaries of his cabinet ministers. Under the grasping Liberal regime which has been banished these gentlemen received $6,000 a year for their services; now, although the C.C.F. ministers are clearly worth much more than their predecessors (being entirely new to power and therefore uncorrupted by it), they are going to serve their fellow citizens for $5,000 a year. Although Mr. Douglas has not said anything about it, we presume that his own salary of $7,500 will be reduced proportionately. This move will obviously command the respect and admiration of the whole province; men who are willing to give their province a full C.C.F. program of reform, and that on reduced salaries, are true patriots, reminiscent of the noble Romans of old.

Of course, it takes a full staff of good men to govern a province properly. The former Liberal Government of Saskatchewan did not realize this, and tried to get along without ministries of Labour, Rehabilitation and Reconstruction, and Cooperatives and Industrial Development; no wonder it was defeated. Mr. Douglas has established these ministries, thus raising the cabinet from nine to twelve members, and the bill for ministers' salaries from $49,500 a year to $61,500. The officials who will do the work of the three new ministries will cost something, also, but you can't expect good government for nothing, can you? If a province expects to have the best, it must be ready to pay for it.

An Unconventional Match

A contemporary writes with a good deal of asperity about a wedding which recently took place in Vancouver, Washington, between a 16-years-old boy and a 37-years-old widow who has two children. The bridegroom maintains stoutly that he fell in love with the lady nine years ago. 'Piffle', cries our contemporary, and asks what the world is coming to?

Frankly, we do not know, but strange marriages and strange love-affairs are not uncommon, and they do not always turn out badly. Dante met Beatrice, for instance, when they were both nine years old, and although he saw her infrequently afterward, she was his ideal until he died—a fact which may have been irksome to the woman whom he married. John Knox, whom no one has ever accused of being a flighty man, married Margaret Stewart when he was 59 and she but 17; it was said of this marriage that "by sorcery and witchcraft he did so allure that poor gentlewoman that she could not live without him". Not every marriage is that perfect statistical affair in which the groom is 26 and the bride 23; not every love-affair has the boy-meets-girl pattern of a Hollywood romance. Certainly it is somewhat unusual for a lad not yet out of school to marry a woman old enough to be his mother, and to proclaim publicly that he fell in love with her when he was seven, but we are not going to say that for that reason the match is doomed.

In the conduct of our lives we observe certain conventions, because they usually make life smoother for us; convention is entirely a matter of convenience. We must beware of setting up conventions as iron rules of conduct. There will always be people whose lives do not fit the conventional pattern and many of them are the most valuable people in our civilized community. When they make strange marriages we may raise our eyebrows, but we are well advised to keep our mouths shut. Until we are dead and buried there is no guarantee that we may not some day be in an unconventional situation ourselves.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Many women are worried as to whether they will be able to command a man's pay after the war. They will if they marry.

Under a new rule, British sausages are to be one-half meat. From which we deduce that sawdust has taken on a new value as an instrument of war.

Diary Of A Right-Handed Man

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Visited some people at a summer cottage today and, as often happens on these occasions, arrived just as there was a lot of hard work to be done. This time it was shifting a bathing float from the beach to the water, and we did it by the method used to build the Pyramids,—slave power. After an hour of heaving and straining the accursed thing was in the water and I escaped with nothing worse than a cut thumb and a great deal of mud on my person; some of the other guests were in far worse condition. We had earned our tea many times over, and the obvious jubilance of our host did little to cheer us....A summer cottage can be a lovesome thing, God wot! but not unless it has proper plumbing. Lover of the old and picturesque though I am, I do not love old and picturesque privies which have assumed the gravity-defying obliquity of the Leaning Tower of Pisa. Employing a special form of Yoga I transcend the physical side of my nature and avoid them utterly.

MONDAY: Had a long talk this evening with a left-handed lady who tells me that approximately two-thirds of the world's population are right-handed and that the other third are condemned to spend their lives in a greater or less degree of confusion because they do not conform: their trouble ranges from simple left-handedness to such complexities as mirror-vision, which greatly impairs the victim's ability to judge distance and is likely to make him painfully clumsy. The left-handed child who is compelled early in life to eat and write with his right hand is likely to be a bad speller and a worse writer, and will suffer a certain amount of discomfort all his life as a result of his teacher's groundless predilection for the right hand. The classic case of left-handedness was Leonardo da Vinci, who wrote backward and upside down. I asked her if Jews were predominantly left-handed, as their books read from back to front and from the right of the page to the left; she could not tell me, but was of the opinion that a majority of early Jewish scribes must have been left-handed; she also said that a right-handed person attempting to read a Hebrew book would get an idea of what a true lefty goes through all his life long.

TUESDAY: An extremely hot day, which I spent on the train surrounded by fractious children, prostrate old ladies and all the usual victims of a temperature of 92 degrees. Nature has endowed me with a magnificent cooling system, and if I could go naked in hot weather I could bear anything; but convention demands that I swathe myself in layer upon layer of cloth, and as a result I feel as though I were in a cold compress which had unaccountably become lukewarm; the sensation is uncomfortable but not unbearable....Had a two hour wait at a small junctional point, so I strolled about, viewing the town, and musing idly on the architectural hideousness of Ontario. This town had tried to smarten itself by hacking down most of its trees, giving an indescribable impression of ravagement, like the skull of a woman who has gone bald through fever....At the station attempted to get a meal, but though the menu was long there was no food in the kitchen, so I had to make shift with a doughnut and a bottle of ginger ale. Then off again on another train which was air-cooled, though not noticeably so.

WEDNESDAY: Even hotter today, a fact which was drawn to my attention by several boobs who asked me if it was hot enough for me? I enjoyed the heat, and took three tepid baths; sometimes I think that I might do well to move to a semi-tropical country; people who do so are said to become lackadaisical, losing their initiative; but I lose my initiative in cold weather, so perhaps it would work the other way for me, and I would become a demon of energy. ....Every man I met today was perspiring so grossly that I may risk the indelicacy of using the word 'sweaty' to describe their collective condition. But I did not see a single woman who appeared to be suffering in this way. Why? Why are women dry when men are wet? Why don't women ever sweat? It is this characteristic, more than any other, which led our ancestors to put woman on a pedestal. Of course, the fact that women weigh their clothes in ounces, while men weigh theirs in pounds may have something to do with it. The stupidity of modern male dress will be a favourite joke of succeeding generations.

THURSDAY: One of these days I must take a spare hour and clean the defunct raffle tickets out of my pockets; my coat is heavy with them. I detest the things, for I never won anything on a raffle or a game of chance in my life, but it has become the custom to support a number of charitable causes by what may be called sanctified gambling, and a week rarely passes that I am not stung for a dollar, or a quarter for a chance on something which I don't want and certainly will not get. While waiting for my train on Tuesday I was bullied into buying a ticket on something—I don't know what—to aid a society which buys hair-dye and distributes it to destitute albinoes. If one refuses to subscribe to these charitable ramps one is a blasphemer and an outcast; gambling, which was once a source of pleasure, has become a dreary obligation....Saw some gypsies today. Not picturesque gypsies, but frowsy, ugly-looking specimens. The most beautiful girl I have ever seen was a gypsy. She made your Miss Americas and your Hedy Lamarrs look like ten cents worth of cat's meat.

FRIDAY: To the movies to see "Lifeboat," about which there was so much fuss when it was first released. The complaint was that all the democratic people in the lifeboat were simpletons and grabbers, while the single Nazi was a resourceful chap with a secret hoard of water and energy pills. From what I could see there were not many real democrats in the boat; there was one communist, who was full of talk but couldn't do anything useful because he was stupid; there was an amiable tough who had no brains and thus was of little help; there were two rich people who were greedy and foolish; and there were two young people and a negro who seemed to be genuine democrats. Any well-trained Nazi could bamboozle that crowd. One of the popular modern mistakes is to imagine that anyone who is not a totalitarian is therefore a democrat; not at all; many people are political and intellectual zeros; they are the fifth columnists of civilization....Alas, and alack, the strawberry crop has failed! Nature's sovereign fruit came and vanished again almost before I had time to lick my chops.

SATURDAY: Was cornered by a lady who wanted to talk to me about the iniquities of mothers who buy permanent waves for their small daughters; not only was such a wave aesthetically unsuitable for a child, she insisted, it was cruel as well. I tried to explain that there is no law which prevents people from being cruel to their children on the pretext of beautifying them; after all, some people regard straight hair as a disfigurement equal to crooked teeth, and no one complains about children having bands on their teeth....The craze for curly hair is one of the inanities of our age. In Queen Elizabeth's day it was considered an insuperable misfortune to be born a brunette; today we do not care what colour hair is—I have seen it both blue and purple—so long as it is not straight....The truth is that only a limited quantity of beauty can be created by hairdressers and cosmeticians. The really important part of it must be created by the individual, and as most women have no clear idea of what beauty means they have no idea of how to set about making themselves beautiful. They curl and daub frantically, and wonder why the effect is not better.

MORE HORRORS OF WAR

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

REPLY TO REEVE LEAN

Sir,—I had hoped that no new situation would arise calling for any further explanations from myself, however, I feel that the statements of Reeve Lean of Burleigh and Anstruther as reported in the Examiner of June 19th, call for explanation. As no one else has offered it I will do so.

From "The Examiner" report of the proceedings for the County Council on the above date referring to proposed Provincial Park I quote:

Reeve Lean of Burleigh-Anstruther expressed opposition to the boundaries as at present drawn saying they were unfair to families living in the area and that occupied land should not be taken into the Park. There are thirty-five families in the proposed area he said and the Park would be plenty large enough leaving out all occupied land . I cannot and will not support a Park that force these people in—unquote.

Reeve Lean had expressed this opposition to me in March and upon my request for information to Mr. H. R. Scott, M.L.A., he wrote the Department of Lands and Forests receiving a reply from Mr. H. W. Crosbie dated May 3, 1943 and this information was passed on at once to Mr. Lean—Mr. Curtin and Mr. Flynn, the three northern reeves, parts of whose municipalities form the proposed Park. I am quite sure Reeves Curtin and Flynn are clear on this question but as Reeve Lean does not appear to be and as statements such as he is reported to have made must be disturbing to the people not only in his district but all over the county, I will quote from Mr. Crosbie's letter which was also read to the council in session on June 16th.

Mr. Crosbie states: "The Provincial Parks Act does not at the present time provide for the inclusion of lands which are patented in Provincial Parks. As lands occupied by settlers within an area of a park would not be part of the Park these lands would not be subject to the regulations effecting the control of Park lands." In addition to this section 4 of the Provincial Parks Act R.S.O. 1927—Chap. 82—S4 reads as follows:

"Where any land which has been located, sold, leased or granted is subsequently included in a Provincial Park, or where any of the land so included is covered by a license or permit to cut timber, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may impose such terms and conditions with respect thereto as he shall deem proper but so as not to curtail or diminish any of the rights of the locatee, purchaser, lessee or owner of such land or the holder of the timber license or permit, except wtih his consent."

From all this information, which had been given to Mr. Lean it must be clear that while the roads would be the Park boundaries for the general public the boundaries for the settlers would be the boundaries of their land on which Park regulations would not apply making it possible for them to hunt and trap on personal property as they have always done.

Reeve Lean's alternative apparently would use the road for a boundary until it reached land which was owned by Settler. Then the boundary of the Park would leave the road and skirt his property coming back to the road at the next unoccupied lot and following this procedure completely around the Park.

The difficulty of enforcing regulations where well defined boundaries do not exist should be clear to Mr. Lean as it is common knowledge that the present Crown Game Preserve has been a private poaching ground for a few people ever since it was established. The government are willing to exempt the settler from Park regulations on the property where he resides in order to have well defined boundaries, applicable to the general public.

It may be unfair to the settler, Mr. Editor, to establish a Park around his holdings the regulations of which do not apply to him or his family. I believe, however, that it will take a lot of such hardship to break his spirit, or ruin his future.

In conclusion I would just like to state that it is quite obvious that some people will be opposed to a park under any conditions that human ingenuity can devise. Is it not time we quit pussy footing with questions such as this and proceeded to do something more constructive than rack our brains for excuses why a community should remain dormant because it has always been so?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

F. C. MARSHALL.

TEMPERAMENTAL SALVAGE COLLECTORS

Sir,—Today was salvage day in our district, and we had put out bundles of newspaper, rags, brown paper and bags, and cardboard boxes flattened down. We ran out of string so filled an old metal doll carriage (also for salvage) with some of the flattened cardboard boxes, and put brown paper and bags into an old cardboard box. The collectors only took what was tied up with string, leaving the carriage and cardboard, and the brown wrapping paper in the box.

Now, salvage is salvage, and the government is urgently requesting us to save every scrap of paper, cardboard etc. I, for one, am through saving it until we get collectors that aren't so temperamental about having it prettily tied up. It's a good thing that our soldiers aren't so fussy, and that they don't demand hand-grenades etc. to be tied with a pretty pink ribbon before they throw them.

For the past month I went to the trouble of saving every bit of wrapping paper and paper bags, and cardboard boxes. Surely the collectors could pick it up as long as it's in a container. I was so mad I just took it and put in the furnace, and until we are assured that it will be taken I'm through saving it. Yours,

INDIGNANT SALVAGER.

Primate on the Profit Motive

Two years ago the Archbishop of Canterbury published a small book entitled Christianity and Social Order, in which he supported claim that the Church and the Clergy should take an active interest in politics and economics. At the same time His Grace laid it down that Church courts or clergymen could hardly claim the right to propose terms for the solution of economic problems or disputes because "they lack the specialist knowledge required." "The main task of the Church," he said, "must be to inculcate Christian principles and the power of the Christian spirit."

Most people will agree with those statements, for politics, business and social and individual life generally need all the moral and spiritual guidance and inspiration the Christian Church can impart. But the Archbishop was apparently not satisfied wtih his own definition in matters on which it "lacks specialist knowledge." In his book he deals with many technical questions in connection with business and economics. He condemns the profit motive in business as an expression of selfishness and damaging to the general interest. He suggests the converting of banks into publicly administered institutions, to be run on a cost of administration basis. His Grace assumed that banking was merely a matter of bookkeeping, and that money could be lent at a fractional percentage of interest.

At the same time, the Archbishop admits that "unless he makes a profit the producer cannot survive." So far as banking is concerned, the profit motive is vital to its survival, whether banks are privately or publicly owned. When a bank grants credit to customers, it takes the risk of their ability to repay in due course, and all banks have bad or doubtful debts, for which they have to make provision.

In reviewing the Archbishop's book, Hartley Withers reminds His Grace of the parable in which Jesus likened the Kingdom of heaven to a man who, travelling into a far country, called his servants and delivered unto them his goods; to one five talents, to another two and to another one. The man with the five talents went and traded with them and made five talents more (100 per cent profit), the man with the two talents gained another two, but the man with the one talent buried it—apparently he did not believe in the profit motive. What happened when the Lord returned is well known. The men who doubled their talents were "good and faithful servants," and were rewarded accordingly, while he who had buried his talent was an "unprofitable servant," and he lost the whole of his capital by trying to save it.

Whether this parable be applied to economics or to natural gifts, it is a divine sanction and insistence upon the profit motive. The Archbishop is on solid ground when he says that "it is no part of the duty of a Christian as such to draw plans of a reformed society. But it is part of his duty to know and proclaim Christian principles, to denounce as evil what controverts them, and to insist that those evils must be remedied."

RADIO ON THE RAILS

The humble potato made up the freight load of the first railroad train to employ two-way caboose-to-locomotive radio in a transcontinental journey. Thus was marked an innovation in safety.

One needn't be a railroader to understand what hazards of travel are removed by this type of instant communication. What is thus begun should become standard equipment as fast as radio equipment can be provided.—Detroit Free Press.

THE SUFFERINGS OF FRANCE

Long after this war is over, man will marvel at the faith and courage which upheld the people of those European States which were overrun by the Nazis and held in subjection for a long and gruelling term of years. High on the list will stand France; betrayed at home, split fatally asunder, the unwiling host to a gross and hated oppressor, raped in all that a sensitive and God-fearing people revere and hold dear. Human imagination dwarfs before realization of all the reality must have been, and is today.—Victoria Colonist.

THE PETAIN LEGEND

Petain's broadcast on the eve of the invasion must extinguish whatever is left of the Petain 'mystique." It is strange how long it has lingered and what shocks it has survived. Our correspondent with the forces in Italy reported not long ago that he found officers in the French Army who were still followers of Petain. The old story was that Petain was a clever schemer who, while outwardly collaborating with Germany, was seeking means for obstructing her and that his policy was to avoid open quarrel and wait for the moment when France could strike. Events made it more and more difficult to accept this interpretation. There seemed no concession that he would refuse; no point at which he would defend France or Frenchmen.—Manchester Guardian.

A Bible Message

There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing. But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No. And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes....

As soon as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread....

Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord. Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead. (John 21 2-6, 9, 12-14.)

War Community Centres Favored to War Memorials

Several resolutions and topics brought up at the meeting of the National Council of Women in Port Arthur recently, were discussed at a meeting Friday of the sub-executive of the Local Council of Women, at the home of Mrs. W. H. Morton, Water street. One of the most important discussions, and the topic of a resolution passed by the National Council, was the new National Council for the promotion of Physical Fitness, recently set up by the Minister of National Health, under the Physical Fitness Act. Members were greatly interested in the plan, and endorsed its aims.

In connection with this new physical fitness program, the plan of building war community centres, instead of war memorials was thoroughly studied, and the feeling was that the centres would be a definite advantage to any community, and could be dedicated as war memorials. Along the same lines, the plan of taking over the recreation centres now set up for 'teen age youth, instead of dismantling them, was also agreed upon by the meeting.

Several other items, and different phases of health, were discussed, and statistics quoted to bring more clearly to mind the problems to be met. Mrs. Morton, who presided, said that Alberta had been the first province to have free maternity care for 12 days, and that it was a forward step toward providing adequate medical care for all. A resolution, providing that a letter be sent to the Peterborough Lions' Club, commending them of their work toward furthering health in Peterborough, and congratulating them on their newest project, the wading pool, was agreed upon, and the secretary was instructed accordingly. Mrs. Morton presided.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP

Our little chat on recipes today will be devoted to salads. This is the season when both fruit and vegetables are at their very best for salad making and nearly everyone enjoys them on a hot summer day. One very important point to remember in making a salad is to always have the ingredients well chilled as well as the bowl that they are mixed in and the salad plates.

French Fruit Salad

1 orange, 1 banana, ½ pound Malaga grapes, 1 dozen walnuts, lettuce, dressing. Peel the oranges and cut the sections from the membrane with a sharp knife or pair of shears. If the fruit is allowed to stand in cold water after peeling the bitter white membrane will come off easily. Peel the bananas and cut in quarter-inch slices. Remove the skins and seeds from the grapes, break in small pieces but do not chop the walnut meats. Mix these ingredients thoroughly and place on the ice. When ready to serve place on lettuce leaves and serve with a boiled dressing.

Pineapple and Cream Cheese Salad

6 slices canned pineapple, 1 cup broken pecan nuts, French dressing, 6 tomatoes, mayonnaise, salt. Mix pineapple with nut meats and let stand in French dressing in the refrigerator. Peel and cut off the top of each tomato, leaving a strip to form a handle. Carefully scoop out the centre and fill with the pineapple and nuts. Place one teaspoonful of mayonnaise on top of each basket. This salad is very tempting, both in taste and in appearance.

Egg and Peanut Salad

6 hard-cooked eggs, ¼ to ½ cup chopped peanuts or peanut butter mayonnaise, celery curls garnish of peanut halves. Cut the eggs in half lengthwise, remove the yolks and combine with chopped peanuts or peanut butter and mayonnaise to moisten. Fill the whites with this mixture. Put 2 halves of egg on a plate, surround with curls of celery. Put 2 tablespoons dressing over each egg, and garnish with peanut halves. Lay a halved peanut on each celery curl.

Chicken Salad

2 cups diced chicken, 1 cup diced celery, mayonnaise, lettuce, garnish of celery tops, beets cut into dice, capers, egg yolks.

Leftover chicken makes a very good salad. To prepare a chicken especially for a salad, rub well with salt and pepper, place one small onion and one bay leaf inside, wrap in a napkin, tie securely and steam for three hours. When the chicken is cold, cut the meat into small pieces. The most carefully made salads only contain white meat, but the dark meat has a juiciness and flavor not possessed by the white meat. If dark meat is used cut in smaller cubes than the white meat and the white will predominate in appearance. Marinate the cut up chicken and let it stand. Make a mayonnaise dressing, stir part of it into the celery, place the celery on a thin layer of lettuce. Heap the chicken mixture in the centre, pour over it remainder of the mayonnaise and garnish with white celery tops, boiled beets, capers, cold hard-cook egg yolks that have been pressed through a colander or any other suitable garnish.

MOTHER DEPOSED IN OWN HOME

Children Don't Even Give Her Title of Respect; School Girl Desides Vital Issues.

WHAT has became of the pedestal on which Mother used to stand? Time was when Mother was an awesome figure to which her children looked up with fear and reverence. She wielded autocratic powers in the family and no one disputed her opinions or questioned the truth of the axiom that Mother knows best.

But now Mother has fallen from her high estate, and whether she was deposed by her offspring or abdicated her throne of her own accord, she doesn't know herself. Her children don't even pay Mother the respect of giving her title. They call her Sally or Jane and so far from believing that she knows everything, they think she doesn't know anything at all.

Mother No Longer Rules

As the head of the house Mother has simply passed out of the picture. An adolescent school girl decides where the family shall live, how the house shall be furnished and what sort of entertainments they shall give. Even the babies have Mother under their thumbs, for they know she is deathly afraid of them and wouldn't dare to try to make them behave. No modern mother would try to force obedience on a proud four-year-old. She would just try to cajole him or bribe him into eating his spinach, or picking up his toys, instead of turning him over her knee and giving him a spanking.

Of course, one might say that mothers prefer to sit in the dust at their children's feet rather than perch on a pedestal. It is their own affair. Let 'em do it. But the matter isn't so simple as that, for when a mother loses all authority over her children, she also loses her influence over them, and she has no way in which she can restrain them, or help them, or guide them.

Everywhere you hear the wail of mothers: "I can't do anything with Mamie. She is only 15, but she is running with a wild crowd and refuses to go to school." Or: "Bob is breaking my heart by spending his time loafing around pool rooms and not coming home until all hours of the night.

When Mothers Controlled Children

But mothers did do something with their children in the days when they still sat on their pedestals. They ruled their children instead of letting their children rule them. They didn't give high-spirited youngsters their heads and let them bolt. They held the reins steady over them and made them go a decent gait. And because children were taught to respect and obey their parents, we had no juvenile delinquency problem as we have today.

The mothers who put themselves on a level with their children claim that it makes for greater comradeship between them and their youngsters, but in this they are mistaken. Children don't want their mother to be a pal. They want her to be a goddess. They want to look up to her, not down upon her. They want her to be the queen of their little world, not a poor little weakling who hasn't as much intelligence and backbone as they have.

At any rate when mothers still sat enthroned on their pedestals there were fewer hoodlum boys and girls than there are now. Which suggests that it would be a good thing for mothers to get out their antique perches and dust them off and mount them again.

EVENING GLORY—Here surely is one of the most beautiful dinner dresses of this or any other season. It is a New York design and made of pink silk shantung and the skirt is trouser draped to give a graceful line. The matching bolero is jewel encrusted and lined with pale blue crepe. It does a good cover-up job of the low draped dress bodice. —By Alice Alden.

McQuarrie-Borland Nuptials Held In Murray Street

Murray Street Baptist Church, decorated with delphiniums, roses, ferns and other summer flowers, was the setting for a pretty wedding today, when Iris Georgina Florence Borland became the bride of Alexander M. McQuarrie. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Borland, 744 George street, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. McQuarrie, of Edmonton. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, assisted by Rev. J. Ferguson, of Nephyr, officiated. Stanley Northrop was at the organ and accompanied Miss Mary Hanlan when she sang, "Through the Years" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a gown of floor-length white chenille satin with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and full skirt with train. Her fingertip veil of English embroidered silk was caught to her head with tiny velvet roses, and she carried a shower bouquet of Bettertime roses and gysophilin.

Miss Edna Borland was her sister's attendant in a gown of pale yellow moire taffeta made on similar lines to the bride's with floor-length skirt. She wore a matching bandeau and shoulder-length veil and carried a nosegay of Briarcliffe roses, cornflowers and sweet peas. The soloist was also gowned in pale blue on similar lines to the bride's gown.

David Frisk, of Toronto, was best man, and ushers were Melton Clysdale and Donald Cole.

At the reception held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother received the guests in blue lace with a white straw hat and a corsage of pink roses. Also receiving, for the groom's mother, was Mrs. A. Stanley, of Ottawa, in turquoise blue crepe, white flower hat and veil, and a corsage of pink roses.

For travelling the bride donned a dress of white silk jersey on the long torso lines, white hat and accessories and a green brocaded bag. After a honeymoon spent at Stoney Lake, the young couple will make their home in Peterborough.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON
(Society Editor of The Examiner)

Warm weather and humidity make the job of keeping blouses, skirts, and even dresses, looking fresh and dainty, extra difficult, and the job of washing and ironing is doubly tiring in the hot summer days. To keep these articles fresh-looking longer, don't forget the old trick of starching them, because, when properly used, starch gives new life to limp garments, and keeps them fresh for a longer time.

Here's the method: mix equal parts of starch and cold water, and pour it into a bowl of boiling water, stirring constantly; cook two or three minutes, until the mixture turns transparent. Remember, a cloth placed over the bowl of freshly-made starch will prevent skin from forming on top.

Before starting, be sure that all garments have been thoroughly washed in good suds. If feeling particularly flush, because butter coupons have come due, add a lump of butter the size of a marble to the starch and cold water, before pouring the mixture into the bowl of boiling water. This added touch gives a shiny gloss to collars. While adding things, here's another little tip. Linens will have an added sheen if a pinch of salt is dropped into the starch mixture. Also, the salt prevents the starch from sticking to the iron.

For best results with finer fabrics, such as muslin, and lace, mix the starch with milk instead of water, or melt a little sugar in boiling water, and add it to the rinse water. And here's something for war workers; a heavy starch finish on slacks or overalls not only keeps them clean much longer, but helps them keep their shape, and makes them safer for working around machines.

For something a little different, try using ordinary gelatin instead of starch, to restore rayon dresses and blouses to their original freshness. It really works better than starch, not only with most rayon fabrics, but also with delicate organdies and fine voiles.

The amount of gelatin used, depends on the stiffness desired, but two tablespoons is usually enough for a rayon dress. After soaking the gelatin for a few minutes in a little cold water, dissolve by adding boiling water, and strain in the same way that boiled starch is strained, adding enough water, about two quarts, to make sufficient solution to cover the article. Dip the dress, after it has been washed, in the cool gelatin solution, and squeeze gently through it. Then roll it up in a thick towel until ready to iron.

Life Saving Pupils Pass Examination

Four life-saving pupils of the Y.W.C.A passed their intermediate and bronze medallion examination on Thursday morning: Patricia Martyn, Lenore Edwards, Helen and Agnes Weddell, the two latter qualifying for the Y.W.C.A. camp councillor at Inglestane. Gordon Minty was the examiner and Caroline F. Littlefield the instructor. The Peterborough Y.W.C.A. has to its credit 200 girls who have qualified for the Royal Life-saving Society certificates and medals during the past ten years. Despite war conditions the life-saving certificates are still being sent from England.

Garden Tea Is Held In Emily

The Ladies' Guild of St. James', Emily, held a garden tea on the beautiful and shaded lawns of Mrs. Robert Nurse, Fowler's Corners.

During the afternoon two quilts were quilted for the Red Cross, after which the Rev. Mr. Pooley introduced a short program consisting of Hawaiian selections by the Misses Betty and Lila Milburn, Mrs. Jack Dawson and Alan Boate.

A very inspiring address on conditions in China was given by the Rev. Howard Veals of Omemee recently returned missionary from China. About seventy-five enjoyed a delicious salad supper. The draw for the quilt and a fish pond in charge of Marion Franks and Gladys Davis brought a very pleasant afternoon to a close.

Iris Borland Is Entertained

Miss Iris Borland, whose marriage to Alexander McQuarrie takes place today, has been entertained on several occasions by her friends and fellow employees. Mrs. J. Kingsbury, Stewart street, was hostess recently for a miscellaneous shower, with about 30 friends of the bride-elect in attendance. Mrs. K. Cousins, Gilchrist street, entertained at a crystal shower, when girls from the Genelco gathered to present Miss Borland with many useful crystal pieces.

Mrs. A. E. Borland gave a trousseau tea in honor of her daughter, Iris, at her home, 744 George street. Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. A. Stanley and Mrs. W. Moorhead, and pouring tea in the evening were Mrs. J. Kingsbury and Mrs. James Reid. Mrs. Stewart Hanlan and Miss Mary Hanlan showed the trousseau, and Mrs. Borland and the bride-elect received the guests. Master Albert Stanley was at the door.

Miss B. Steenburgh Wed In Hilton

A wedding of interest took place Thursday in the parsonage of Hilton United Church, when June Blanche Steenburgh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Steenburgh, Peterborough, became the bride of Pte. William John Dunk, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Harold Dunk, Colborne, Ontario. Rev. Dr. Treffry officiated and Mrs. Treffry was at the organ.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a gown of white angelskin, on torso lines, with a square neckline trimmed with dainty lace. Her veil of white net in halo shape was caught with white roses, and she wore a corsage of pale blue delphinium and carnations. Miss Jean Castle was bridesmaid, in a blue gown made on similar lines to the bride's. She wore a halo hat of white lace, and a corsage of blue delphinium and pale pink carnations. Gerald Dunk was best man.

At the reception held at the home of the groom the bride's mother received in blue and white gown with white straw hat and a corsage of red roses. Also receiving was the groom's mother, in heaven blue crepe and a corsage of red roses.

For a wedding trip to Pembroke and points north, the bride chose a white dress and white accessories. On their return Pte. and Mrs. Dunk will make their home in Peterborough.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, July 9

SUNDAY'S horoscope is an exceptionally interesting, eventful and dramatic one, with forecast of strange or unusual adventures or contacts which may affect with stirring force affairs of home, finance, business, science or any form of creative expression. With all such emotional and productive faculties there should be expansion, promotion, spectacular events, incident to a sudden change following an upheaval or radical move. Unique talents wisely applied should beget much success and security with happiness.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a progressive and lucrative year although prefaced by a sudden or astonishing turn of luck, with an upheaval. This sagraciously managed should lead on to progress, promotion, honors and romantic happiness, with a stable future, adventurous and dramatic as well.

A child born on this day should possess many unusual talents, founded on an advanced philosophy and studious mind, with fidelity and responsibility, assuring promotion and security in its career. A happy emotional life is seen.

For Monday, July 10

Monday's astrological forecast holds splendid promise of a gratifying and progressive advance upon long cherished objectives, with ambitions, and aspirations of an idealistic, unique, or romantic nature, reaching high fruition and honors possibly at public hands. But such advanced goals should be striven for by orthodox or regular methods and not by eccentricities of emotional instability. Art, science, invention, or special creative skills should merit attention and development as well as monetary rewards. But keep alert to treacheries.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The notices are out for the big mixed rink open tournament for Wednesday, July 19. It's the Ovaltine Trophy. The standing of the groups up until Friday night is as follows.

Men's Section

Group No. 1—T. McMillan 16 pts., H. Darling, 13 pts.

Group No. 2—W. Jeffries, 12 pts., H. Martin, 12 pts., R. Payne, 11 pts.

Group No. 3—C. Williamson, 12 Pts., G. Sorenson, 12 pts., P. Moore, 13 pts.

Group No. 4—C. Lawrence, 12 pts., W. Ashby, 9 pts., J. McDonald, 9 pts.

It was a nice crowd of men bowlers that came out Friday night. Although it was warm, yet there was the odd breeze blowing across the greens and that sure did help a lot. If the weather stays fine, and at the time of writing this column we see no indication that it will not, we shall have our usual mixed rink tournament this evening at 7.30 p.m.

Winning Rinks

First—H. James, Dr. Barr, G. Coleman, Jr., B. Chesler, skip.

Second—B. Collis, N. Killingbeck, R. Brown, G. Sorenson, skip.

Third—B. Grant, A. Black, S. Williams, W. Jeffries, skip.

All received a parcel of groceries.

Castano Tops League Hitters

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—Second Baseman Antonio Castano of Toronto Maple Leafs continues to top International League hitters this week with a .337 average, although he dropped from his .341 of last week.

Blas Monaco of Baltimore moved into the runner-up spot with a gain of 14 points, which boosted him to .328. Following Castano and Monaco, on averages computed through Wednesday's games, are Elmer Durrett of Montreal who fell from second to third place with .327, Stan Benjamin of Baltimore, fourth with .322, and teammate Bob Latshaw, fifth with .321.

Rounding out the big 10 were Bobby Maier, Buffalo, and Morris Aderholt, Montreal, tied for sixth with .309, Eddie Kobesky, Buffalo, eighth, with .308, Chico Rodriguez, Syracuse, ninth with .304, and Howie Moss, Baltimore, 10th with .303.

Two Pairs Tied In Golf Tourney

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8 (AP)—The teams of Bill Kaiser-Bob Hamilton and Byron Nelson-Jug McSpaden tied today for the lead in the $10,000 Golden Valley invitational best ball matches after the tournament had narrowed down at the end of 54 holes to an exceptionally close race.

Although making a best ball of 65, eight under par, in the morning round, the Nelson-McSpaden powerhouse could do no more than break even with the twin cities combine of Les Bolstead and Joe Coria. In the afternoon, Nelson-McSpaden gained a one up margin over the entry of Jimmy Hines-Willie Goggin after pasting a 66 to the New York's team's 67. This gave the favored Nelson-McSpaden duo a plus five count in the scoring system for 54 holes.

Kaiser-Hamilton also were stopped without an advantage in the morning session by Harry Cooper and Ellsworth Vines—each twosome carding a 66. Vines misser a three-foot birdie putt on the last hole for a win.

Pro Lex Robson To Play At Royal York

TORONTO, July 8.—The combined Ontario Open and Amateur Golf championship is scheduled for the Royal York Club on Tuesday, July 18. The date was selected with an eye to the Millar Trophy matches which start two days later.

A large entry is expected from both the amateur and pro ranks. The amateur stars competing include Phil Farley, Sonny Adams, John Lewis, Bill Taylor, Bill Hamilton, Toss Holdroyd and the new Ontario junior champ, Ed Smith, Bud Masterson, captain, Jack Cole and the Cassidy brothers, Mike and Elmer, will represent the home club. The only father and son combination in recent years to play in a championship have also entered. They are Bob Cunningham, veteran money player, and his son Bob going after the amateur title.

Last year's Millar Trophy finalists, siege-gun Bob Gray and Lex Robson, chip shot wizard from Peterborough will be locking horns for the first time since their memorable final last year.

The event is 36 holes of medal play, open to all professionals and to amateurs with handicaps of 12 or under.

There is no admission charge for spectators.

Hagg Sets New Distance Record

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, July 8—(AP)—Gunder Hagg clipped two seconds off the world record for 1,500 metres Friday, racing the distance in 3.43 to avenge a defeat suffered two weeks ago at the hands of Arne Andersson.

Andersson, holder of the world mark of 3.45, set Aug. 17, 1943, also bettered his previous mark Friday as he was clocked in 3.44. He finished second to Hagg in Friday's event.

Two weeks ago, over the same distance at Stockholm, Andersson defeated Hagg in their first meeting in two years, turning the 1,500 metres in 3.48.8 while Hagg was timed in 3.50.2.

Andersson's record of 3.45 was set while Hagg was absent from Sweden; and his victory over Hagg two weeks ago was his first over his countryman.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The amazing U.E.W. team which surprised the world last Wednesday night by toppling the league-leading Switchgear will be back in action Monday night against the fast-travelling Soldiers and one of the most interesting battles of the season should be the result. The Military Training Centre is riding high on a three-game winning streak and are confident of adding another to the string at the expense of the Union. The latter outfit cannot see it that way. They claim that with the smokeballer Haddy Eakins and the dipsy-doodle tossing of Mac McPherson they have the best pitching in the league and that if the team holds together behind the clever hurling of this two-man staff they are going to go places. It has not been announced yet whether Eakins or McPherson will get the call against the Soldiers. It is the latter's turn. The Military Training Centre will in all probability start Earl Revoir, the tall pitcher from down east who has won three games in a row. Every game from now on means a lot and both teams are dead anxious to cop the verdict Monday night. The result should be a red-hot struggle all the way. It will start at 7 o'clock.

Two outstanding softball events, in addition of course to the stirring doings in the City League these night are on the cards in the near future. Next Friday night the famous Toronto Tip Tops with their full retinue of stars will meet a team selected from the City League ranks with Cam Ecclestone pitching for the Petes in a benefit game for the Kinsmen's charities and that should produce softball at its brightest and best. The Tip Tops are top-heavy with talent. Their membership includes many of the foremost softball players of the day. They are smart in the field and at bat have oodles of power while their pitching is about the best of the crop. That game should be a honey. Then two weeks from today there should be another treat for softball fans when the crack Oshawa Colts, twice intermediate champs and now playing senior ball will be here for an exhibition game with Manager Murph Chambers' Switchgear outfit who are leading the City League. The Colts with Dean McLaughlin and big Preem Whiteley as a pitching staff and with all of last year's stars except Red Jubenville available are roling along in great style again this season and their clash with Switchgear should be a lively engagement, about which more anon.

Another New Record

A Canadian's record that has stood the onslaught of major league baseball stars since 1909 was equalled yesterday when Cincinnati's Ray Mueller caught his 133rd consecutive game for the Reds while the latter were beating Brooklyn, writes Billy Westwick in the Ottawa Journal. Back in 1909 George "Mooney" Gibson set up his record with the old Pirates. Gibson, one of the few Canadians to achieve major league greatness, now lives in London, Ont. For 35 years he has watched big league backstops fail to equal that mark. The only time it was seriously threatened was 11 years after Gibson had set the record, when Steve O'Neill worked in 100 games for Cleveland. Now comes Mueller to match that feat and will probably pass it, as he shows no signs of slowing up. Mueller started on his stretch on July 31, 1943, working regularly each day in one of the toughest spots of them all. His chore has probably been more difficult than that of Gibson for the reason that he has worked the doubleheaders. This year alone the Cincinnati catcher has been behind the bat for 12 twin bills. Mueller's record-equalling achievement yesterday is a reminder that Cincinnati players have a reputation for their durability. There is the case of big Frank McCormick, the Reds' first sacker, who is still looked on as one of the "Iron Men" of baseball. It will only take a few more games before McCormick has payed 1,000 games for the Reds. But even then he won't be doing anything unusual for a Cincinnati ball player. Eddie Roush, Heinie Groh, Ernie Lombardi, Ivy Wingo and Tommy Corcoran all topped the 1,000 mark in the past as members of Cincinnati teams.

* * * * * *

Johnny Allen's three hit shutout against Cincinnati last Sunday, caused many oldtime fans to wonder if the onetime Yank and Indian ace was due for his most consistent season since he left the American League in the late thirties, says Niagara Falls' Bill Gaynon. In his hey day, the southern boy was a mighty effective pitcher, but his temperamental habits deprived him of establishing marks that his ability earned. On his right days, it's questionable if a better righthander has been seen in many years, but John had the habit of arguing with umpires and getting kicked out of games, and this weakness accounted for his numerous shifts. At times, Allen has been known to fly in to a rage when a mate booted one, and it was by no means an uncommon thing for him to toss his glove in the air over an umpire's call, which is about the quickest way to be sent to the clubhouse. He certainly lowered his monthly pay cheque when he got in wrong with Joe McCarthy and was traded from a perennial championship team to Cleveland. Later he was relegated to the tailend Browns, and after a brief stay in the mound city, was waived out of the American League. Despite his age, he might still win a lot of games, but dispositions do not change when surroundings differ, so it seems idle to expect too much from the eccentric John.

Girls Play Monday

Although there was no game originally scheduled for Monday in the Girls' Softball League there will be a battle that night, nevertheless for the fixture that had been billed for Wednesday night between Peterborough Lock and the Quakers has been moved up to Monday night. It should be a good battle for the teams are improving steadily and both outfits have made a fine showing in recent starts. The Peterborough Lock girls for example gave the intermediate champion Brintons a real argument for the honors last night and were only nosed out 16 to 15 in a game that they might quite as easily have won. Beryl Lee will be the probable Lock pitcher for Monday night's affair while the Quakers will call upon Gertie Masters to do the twirling honors for them.

* * * * * *

Pitcher Luman Harris of the Philadelphia A's dons a Navy uniform today and so far as the Chicago White Sox are concerned they would have been quite satisfied if the call had come a day earlier. Harris finished up his American League baseball for the time being last night by defeating the White Sox 4 to 3. Harris allowed 12 hits but spread them out well in winning his seventh triumph of the season. The Cincinnati Reds who were getting quite cocky over their four-game winning streak were perceptibly cooled off by young Charlie Schanz of the Philadelphia Blue Jays, who, aided by three fast double-plays defeated the Reds 3 to 2. In the American League Ernie Bonham of the Yanks won his fifth victory of the year by coming up with a five-hitter against the Detroit Tigers and the New Yorkers took the decision 3 to 1 at the expense of Lefty Overmire. The American League leaders, the St. Louis Browns were stopped by the pitching craft of Milo Candini who held the Brownies to six hits and shut them out 6 to 0.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Members of the City Softball League executive are reminded of the meeting at Riverside Park Monday night. ....Phil Lawson, wrestling coach and manager is spending the week-end at Viamede, Stoney Lake....Plazas blossomed out in new uniforms for their game with St. Peter's Thursday night....Incidentally that battle set a season's record for men left on bases. Altogether there were 25 players stranded on the runways and only six runs scored....St. Louis Cards took a 10 to 5 drubbing at the hands of the Boston Braves with the tail-enders getting 17 hits off three Cards' pitchers....Ken Keltner of the Indians had a double, triple and homer against the Boston Red Sox Friday and that, chums, is pretty fair country hitting....The third and last round of the regular schedule of the City Softball League is rapidly being run off and not a position is definitely settled yet....That makes it quite a race and provides a thrilling finish.

Empire City Stake At Jamaica Attracts By Jimminy

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—By Jimminy, recent winner of the Dwyer and Shevlin Stakes, will attempt to climb another rung in his bid for the three-year-old turf championship today in the $50,000 added Empire City Stake at Jamaica.

The son of Pharamond 2nd from Alfred P. Parker's barn will oppose seven others of his age in the mile and three-sixteenths races with the odds 2 to 1 that he'll take down the major share of the purse. By Jimminy will carry 120 pounds, six less than will be picked up by William Ziegler's Bounding Home, surprise conqueror of Pensive in the Belmont Stakes last month.

By Jimminy's chief opposition is expected from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Stir Up, who'll also carry 120 pounds. Stir Up finished a fast closing second to the Parker colt in the Dwyer and last Monday showed that he was fit by running away from three rivals in a mile and one-eighth affair.

George D. Widener's Lucky Draw, a horse with plenty of early foot, also will take another crack at By Jimminy. R. J. Dienst's Brief Sigh; the Wheatley Stable's in-and-outer, Free Lance; A. A. Baroni's Autocrat and R. S. Clarke's Smolensko complete the field.

Lucky Draw is in the same weight bracket as By Jimminy and Stir Up, while the remainder of the field will pick up 110. Jockey Ted Atkinson from Toronto will be astride the favorite with Eddie Arcaro on Stir Up, Johnny Longden from Calgary on Lucky Draw and Gayle Smith on Bounding Home.

Greets Canadians

With The Canadians at Carpiquet, July 8.—(CP).

AS the Canadians stormed into Carpiquet earlier this week, the first French person to greet them stood in the smoke of battle in the centre of what was left of the main street and with a bottle of wine in one hand and half a dozen glasses in the other, waved to the advancing Canucks.

This was during the dawn attack Tuesday when Canadian infantry and tanks broke into this German strong point. As soon as the Canadians found time they stopped and drank with their insistent host the toast "A La Liberte!"

TORONTO, July 8 — (CP). — It's reported around Montreal that an armistice may be signed shortly between the Quebec Lacrosse Association and the insurgents who broke away and formed the outlaw Provincial League a few weeks ago.

Members of the J.L.A. are said to be eager to kiss and make up, especially since the Provincial Leaguers showed they could run their own show with more than passing success. The outlaws don't actually need to make peace with the Q.L.A., except that it would give them entree again to Mann Cup circles.

The rebels firts hoisted the Jolly Roger because the Q.L.A. refused them the usual first-of-season grants, but they probably will demand more than that before they consent to perform a prodigal son homecoming. One thing they probably will ask will be lifting of the suspension of Angus Thomas, banned for life but reinstated this summer by the outlaw league.

Production note:

Don't you hunters wish you could get lots of shells now? Ducks unlimited, the game body backing up our feathered friends in their struggle for existence, reports the birds are more than holding their own in the Red River Delta, northeast of Winnipeg. The "duck factory" is in better shape than it has been during the last 30 years, says Ducks.

Saturday stew:

Suspicion is manifest in Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle's comment on the gee-gees. Andy thinks some of the nags can read the odds board, or else their owners or jockeys can, because "how else can Joe's Beetle run last to-day at even money and first by five lengths a week later when the price is 11 or 12 to 1?" That's unkind....Boxing promoters in Halifax are trying to line up Johnny Greco, Montreal, for a bout down East. They'll probably have to wait in line....The Excel Rowing Club of Montreal has a proud record in this war. The honor roll carries 168 names, and eight former members have been killed in service while three are war prisoners. The club has a tough time keeping even its juvenile teams, because they run off to enlist as soon as they are old enough. Seven of last year's crew enlisted in the Navy or Air Force as soon as they reached 17½ or 18—and that's the way it goes every year.

Jersey City Blanks Syracuse Chiefs

By The Associated Press

Syracuse—a team that was largely responsible for Jersey City finishing in the International League's cellar last year, may help the Little Giants win their first flag since 1939.

Jersey City defeated the Chiefs 4-0, last night, for its eighth victory in as many starts against Syracuse to climb into second place one game behind the League-leading Montreal Royals.

Ken Miller notching his fifth victory, scattered eight hits off Bob Katz.

Two streaks were kept alive as Newark defeated Baltimore, 5-2. It was the fifth straight victory for the Bears and the sixth loss in a row for the Orioles.

Zeb Eaton of Buffalo turned in a Fank Merriwell stunt to thwart the Red Wings in the ninth inning. With the bases full and none out, Eaton replaced Hank Oana, struck out two men and forced the other to fly out, thus preserving the Bison's one-run lead and give Buffalo a 5-4 decision over Rochester.

Coming from behind to score four runs in the seventh and one in the eighth, the Toronto Maple Leafs squeezed out a 7-6 decision over the Royals. Morris Aderholt hit his 16th homer for the Royals, to take the lead in that department.

Yanks Knocking On Door Behind Boston

BY JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

Haunting the old homestead is a favorite pastime of baseball castoffs, and Fritz Ostermueller, Nate Andrews and Joe Heving today have the last laugh on the Brooklyn Dodgers, St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Red Sox who once turned them out.

Ostermueller is the most celebrated case as it was on decoration day that Branch Rickey sold him down stream to Syracuse. Fritz finally donned a Pittsburg uniform in which he has won three of four including yesterday's 13-2 slaughter of his old Dodger mates.

Rickey is mixed up in the Andrews vs St. Louis Cardinals "feud" because he was boss man of the farm system that nurtured Nate for six years before letting him go to the Browns for the Waiver price in 1939.

Back up in the Nationals by way of Syracuse a year ago, Andrews stopped the Cards, 10-5, last night for the second time this year although he had to get help in the ninth.

Heving has been back and forth between Boston an Cleveland so many times that he can't hold a grudge, but he did beat his old Red Sox pals, 8-5, in a relief chore for Steve Gromek.

Luke Sewell's Browns still hold a 2½-game lead although they were shut out 7-0 by Milo Candini of Washington.

New York is knocking on the door again, only a game back of second-place Boston after Ernie Bonham's 3-1 triumph over Detroit, a team they have beaten only twice in eight starts. Stubby Overmire couldn't check the Yanks. Lum Harris pitched his farewell game before entering the service and scattered 12 hits in leading Philadelphia to a 4-3 nod over Chicago.

Philadelphia and Washington's night games were the first of eight war fund tilts in the America, realizing approximately $27,000.

Mel Ott was hot with seven hits in eigth times at bat as his New York Giants grabbed the second game from Chicago—6-2 behind Frank Seward after ace Adams had bowed to Hank Wyse 3-2 in the opener. Charley Schanz of the Phils beat Cincinnati 3-2 on Coaker Triplett's two-run double in the sixth.

GEORGIE DRUM WINS—Georgie Drum, the entry of the Drumheller stable, came in first in the Stars and Stripes handicap in Chicago before a crowd estimated in excess of 40,000 persons to win the $50,000 added event. He covered the distance in 1.49 4-5, which was a scant one-fifth second over the track record. Equifox, 4A, was second, while Rounders, 6, was third. G. Woolf was jockey on the winner.

Brintons Trim Peterboro Lock

Brintons defeated Peterborough Lock 17-15, in a closely-contested Ladies' Softball League game, played before a good crowd Friday evening at Ashburnham Bowl.

Brintons failed to score in the first frame, while the Lock Company eked out a single run. Neither team made any runs in the second, but in the third frame, Brintons began to gather their score, when four runs were turned in. In the third inning, the Lock Company gained two counters.

The fourth frame netted Brintons one run, while the Lock girls failed to score. Brintons, in a splurge of hard-hitting, dashed off eight runs in quick succession in the fifth inning, and Peterborough Lock feebly attempted to match the opposers, but only scored three times.

However, in the sixth, the Lock Company gained 3 runs, with Brintons scoring once. With 3 runs turned in by Brintons in the seventh, and one by Peterborough Lock in the same frame, the score at the end of the first seven innings was totalled at 17-10, with the Carpet-Weavers holding the 7-run edge. Brintons chalked up no more runs during the remainder of the game.

In the eighth inning, the Lock Company began the attack that finally brought their score up to within 2 runs of the wniners, by making a single run. In the ninth inning, a 4-run rally fixed the final count.

Beryl Lee pitched for the Lock Company, striking out six, and managed to keep any of the Brintons from walking.

Helen English hurled for Brintons, striking out two and walking seven of the losers.

Hard-hitting star for Brintons was Elsie McKenzie, who batted out the only home-run of the game. Brintons' Jean Vass smacked a long triple in the fifth.

Thelma Batle played a good game, and besides being a hard-hitter at bat, handled the third base assignment for Brintons neatly.

Betty McMahon played a good game on third base for Peterborough Lock.

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—The rather notable lack of success experienced recently by some of the youthful major league pitchers recalls Frank Shaughnessy's explanation for the "Kiddie Korps" failures ...Quoting Carl Hubbell's statement that any pitcher who can throw "three different kinds of breaking stuff and get it over the plate" can make good in the majors, Shag maintains that when the inexperienced kids get in a tough spot they start "aiming" their pitches for the plate and consequently lose their stuff...Chick Meehan, who put N.Y.U. on the football map, has been making a tour of the United States to survey prospectie sites for post-war pro clubs. No report yet on what he learned.

CIRCUS FIRE TAKES MANY LIVES—Death toll in the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus fire at Hartford, Conn., is now 146. Most of the victims, either burned or trampled to death when flames turned the mammoth 550-foot "big top" into a fiery pyre during the afternoon performance, were children.

Proper Equation Is Necessary Between Exports And Imports

Searching for means whereby to increase Canada's foreign trade in the postwar world must go hand in hand with an equally vigorous policy of raising imports and of maintaining a proper equation between the two, it was stated by Gordon Langley, C.G.E. Works Engineer, in an address delivered to the Kiwanis Club Friday noon.

Mr. Langley scored as uneconomical and bound to lead eventually to disaster thinking that placed emphasis solely on increasing exports at all costs and to the exclusion of other vital factors. Nevertheless he said, this was the theme at present of most discussions of Canada's trading future, and it arose from the fact that due to the tremendous pressure of wartime needs industry in this country had now grown to the point where it was able to produce far in excess of the requirements of domestic consumption. "It is entirely logical now that Canada engage in large-scale production," Mr. Langley stated, but the catch in the program advocated by the export enthusiasts is that this country will not be able to take manufactured goods in return."

Important Subject to Study

He advanced the proposition that a great deal more thought be given to any possible fields in which volume of imports could be stepped up without saturating the Dominion with goods and services it can only too well supply for itself; and mentioned percentage figures by which inports in certain products might be increased to the country's benefit. Though increasing importation of such things as machinery and farm implements, automobiles, rolling mill products, most metals and petroleum would not be feasible, there were things like coal, fruits, vegetables, wool, sugar and silk of which Canada could conveniently absorb anywhere from 50 to 100 per cent. more each year than it does at present, Mr. Langley said.

A point in regard to foreign trade which one must not overlook, the speaker declared, was that advanced industrial countries are more than likely to be faced with the problem of a radical increase in manufacturing facilities in what are now termed the backward countries, and for this reason will lose some of their best prewar markets for exports. Rather than increase, external markets will probably exhibit a steady decline, Mr. Langley asserted.

Suggestions Made

Five fundamental steps pointing towards the solution of economic problems, the lifting of the Canadian standard of living, and keeping the country on a even keel to avoid the possibility of future depressions, were suggested by the speaker. Firstly, it was imperative to maintain the export-import equation in balance. It was necessary to acknowledge that industry alone cannot keep employment up to satisfactory levels and, therefore, that consideration should be given immediately to an upward revision in work programs in medical, conservation fields and other useful services. After the latter had been done and there still remained a surplus labor supply, the country must realistically decide on slashing working hours and the working life. Lastly, and in Mr. Langley's opinion one of the most essential needs, there

OBITUARY

WILLIAM HERLIHEY.

DOWNEYVILLE, July —(ENS). —The funeral of the late William Herlihey was held from the residence of his son Walter in the village on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock to St. Luke's Church, where mass was said by Rev. Father McFadden. Rev. Father Kay and Rev. Father McAuley, both of Lindsay, were present in the sanctuary. The funeral was largely attended by his many friends and relatives from Toronto, Peterborough, Ennismore, and a very large number from Lindsay.

William Herlihey was born in Emily 86 years ago, youngest son of the late William Herlihey and Mary Sheehey, both coming from Ireland, and were pioneers of this settlement. He was the last surviving member of his family. He lived on the old homestead in Emily until about 17 years ago when he and his wife and family moved to Lindsay, where they have resided since. He was highly esteemed and liked everywhere he went and in all walks of life. For 17 years he as a member of the Emily Council, a member of the church committee, and also served on the School Board while living in Emily. He was a kind and loving husband and father and a great friend to those in need, although his good deeds were never known. The large number of floral and spiritual bouquets and the hundreds of people who visited the home where the remains rested testified to the high esteem in which he was held. It was his desire to be brought back and buried in Downeyville. For the last few months his health was failing and he died on Saturday at his late home in Lindsay, and his remains were brought to the residence of his son Walter.

He is survived by his wife, the former Martha O'Leary, two daughters Misses Lillian and Della, both of Lindsay, Five sons, William in Erie, Penn., Fred with the American Army overseas, Alphonse and Stephen of Detroit, Mich., and Walter of Downeyville, and 12 grandchildren. Had he lived until July 10 he would have been 50 years married.

The honorary pall-bearers were: Thomas Flynn, William O'Brien, Henry Carroll, Thomas Lucas, Dennis O'Leary of Wowneyville, Joseph Doran of Ennismore, William Patrick of Dunsford, and William Crowley of Toronto. The pallbearers were: William C. Herlihey, Peter Perdue, Jack Herlihey of Downeyville, Frank Grady of Lindsay, Albert Herlihey and John J. O'Leary of Downeyville. The sympathy of the community is extended to the family.

TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH

TO WIT:

BY VIRTUE OF A WARRANT made under the hand of the Warden and Seal of the County of Peterborough and to me directed bearing date the 8th Day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-four, I am commanded under the authority of the Statutes in that behalf, to levy on the land hereinafter mentioned and described for the arrears of taxes due thereon, with the costs as hereinafter directed by the said Act. Therefore, I give notice that unless the said arrears and costs are sooner paid I will proceed to Sell, by Public Auction, at the Court House, in the City of Peterborough, on the Third Day of October, 1944, at the hour of Ten o'clock (D.S.T.) in the Forenoon, the said Lands or so much thereof as may be necessary for the Taxes, and all lawful charges incurred, in and about such Sales, and the collection of the Taxes.

A List of the Lands for Sale for Arrears of Taxes will be published in The Ontario Gazette on Saturday, July 1st, 1944. Copies of the List of Lands for Sale may be had in my Office.

FOR BOMB VICTIMS

Many taggers were out early this morning, occupying all the downtown corners, in a drive for more money for the British War Victims Fund. The response was obviously good, citizens apparently having been convinced that the new robot bomb raids on England are creating an increased need of assistance for thousands of fresh victims of Nazi ruthlessness.

TO ENTERTAIN WORKERS

There will be no speaker at Monday's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club. The citizens who assisted the club in making the annual carnival a huge success will be the guests of Rotary for luncheon and an informal program is being arranged for the occasion.

DISTRICT MEN KILLED.

A/Cpl. Donald Gilbert Stackhouse, the son of Mrs. Hazel L. Stackhouse of Bancroft, has been killed in action in fighting with the Canadian Provost Corps. Pte. Edward William Thompson, whose wife is Mrs. Mildred M Thompson, of Madoc, died of wounds sustained in action with an Eastern Ontario regiment.

LINDSAY BOY MISSING.

Trooper Leonard D. Magee, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Magee, of Lindsay, is reported missing in action in Normandy. He has been serving as a wireless operator with a Canadian Armored Regiment. He trained at Peterborough and Camp Borden, and has been missing since June 11.

'Give 'Em Hell Canada' Shouted English Villagers To Canadians

With four sons serving in the armed forces overseas, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Moore, 43 Frank street, have received word that two of them, Pte. R. H. Moore, and Craftsman Alden Moore, are with the Allied armies in the invasion of France.

In a letter written from the fighting front, received by Mrs. Moore, Craftsman Alden Moore said, "At least we rolled our winding convoy through the quaint old villages in England, to the cries of 'Give 'em Hell, Canada,' and reached our southern port where we waited a few hours as the ships and barges were being loaded. We were fortunate enough to stop our lorry right in front of an American field kitchen, so naturally I strolled over to the tent and asked the Negro cook, 'How's chances for some chow?' He said 'Sho' 'nuff Canada, help yourself.' I helped myself to a couple of the best and largest steaks I could lay my hands on, and about four cups of good American coffee. The night before we stopped on the other side of the same port, and folks came out with bread and jam, making sandwiches for us right on the flag doorsteps. One milkman gave his entire wagon-load away, shouting, 'Give 'em what they deserve, Canada.'"

Splendid Quarters

"We came across to France in an American luxury barge, and rolled our trucks right into the mouth of it. We had fine sleeping quarters with hot and cold running water. The Royal York couldn't be better, and our meals were fit for a king, including pineapples and pears for desert. I began to think it was the last before the execution, but brother did I enjoy that food!"

"We passed the largest armada of ships ever assembled. As I write, I can look out of the truck I'm in, and see hundreds of them. They seem to be shelling somewhere beyond here, and their shells are whizzing overhead."

"I've been on the gate as Regimental Police since we've been here. The main road out there is really something to see. Every type of wheeled vehicle has been rolling by, as the front is not far away."

Captured Germans

"The day before yesterday, we captured a couple of hundred prisoners who had been dug-in about a half a mile from here. What would you like for souvenirs?"

"We sleep in trenches at night, and I dug mine plenty deep. It's comfortable though, and I have blankets and tarpaulins over and under me. Yesterday, I found the gate off a truck, and I placed over my dug-out just in case. The Jerries come over every night, but keep to their own territory during the day."

"I just saw the corporal that instructed us as Basic Training, going up to the front with an infantry regiment. This part of the country is just like the grounds around Moncrief's farm, only it is much flatter. While the boys are repairing tanks in the field, the cows are eating grass around them, not caring, it seems, who wins. This isn't a bad life though, the only trouble being we are confined to our own individual field, and the towns are out-of-bounds. I guess that will be changed as we move on. I have been on the lookout for Roy, (Pte. R. H. Moore), and he isn't far away, I know."

Craftsman A. Moore enlisted in August, 1942.

Lt. Alec Young Graduates

A former president of the Peterboro Collegiate Students' Council, Alec Young, graduated today as a second lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Artillery at Brockville. Lt. Young, who has been in the Army a little over a year, is the younger son of Rev. E. W. Young, minister of St. Andrew's United Church, and Mrs. Young, 439 Rubidge street.

Twenty-three years old, Lieut. Young enlisted in the artillery last summer and advanced to the rank of bombardier before being chosen for officers' training four months ago. He was one of 60 men picked from a group of 180 from different camps in a stiff 10-day elimination test.

After graduating from the Collegiate, Lieut. Young studied for two years at Victoria College, Toronto, before joining up and specialized in economics and social sciences.

Port Hope Cadi Has Very Light Docket

Magistrate R. B. Baxter made the trip from Port Hope this morning to preside over the local police court and was greeted with a very light docket.

Duncan C. Whetung, whose case has been adjourned a number of times entered a written plea of guilty to a drunk charge and was fined $10 and $2.50.

That was the only case in open court but His Worship had to deal with a charge against a young boy in the juvenile court. It was withdrawn, in view of the fact that the youngster had already been sent to the Bowmanille Boys' School on another count.

HELP NEEDED

CITIZENS OF PETERBOROUGH

I have been requested to appeal to you for seasonable help on farms in this locality. The situation is serious, with full and part time help needed. By spending a few hours a week helping the farmer we can do our share in harvesting a needed crop.

At the present time, fine help in this regard is being given by the local Army Corps, C.G.E. and others, but more is needed. For information contact—

F. C. PATERSON, Agricultural Representative, or Phone 6851
G. A. GILLESPIE, 378 Aylmer St. Phone 8620 or 5113

Yours Sincerely,
JAMES HAMILTON,
MAYOR

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JULY 8, 1940—Premier Angus Macdonald of Nova Scotia named navy minister in Canadian federal reshuffle. British air and naval units severely damaged French 35,000-ton battleship Richelieu at Dakar, French West Africa.

JULY 9, 1940—French naval authorities at Alexandria turned over to British navy all units of the French Mediterraneon fleet based there. The units were demilitarized. Ten civilians killed and eight enemy planes downed in Nazi raids over Britain.

Orange Lodges Walk In Hastings

Orangemen of Peterborough county, including the city, will celebrate the Twelfth of July at Hastings, those at any rate, who can turn the day into a holiday and have a supply of gasoline at hand.

"Many of our members will not be able to get away from work," E. F. Reid told the Examiner today, "but at that there should be a fairly large representation at Hastings where some of the Northumberland lodges are also expected to take part."

The pre-war custom of observing the Twelfth in the five counties of Northumberland, Durham, Ontario, Peterborough and Haliburton, in turn, continues suspended.

Contributing reasons and causes are the large number of members engaged in essential industry, refusal of railways to provide special trains, and the rationing of gasoline.

"So, we just have to keep on marking time until the war is won," Mr. Reid said.

Victoria and Haliburton lodges are converging on Fenelon Falls next Wednesday. At the end of the day in Peterborough here will be the usual evening parade from the C.N.R. square as members return home. The route will be along Charlotte street to George, north to Brock, then by way of Brock, Water, Dublin to George; south on George to Brock with dispersal at the L.O.L. Hall.

Fall Wheat Is Ripening Fast

The agricultural year is steadily advancing beyond its more shining mileposts.

The hay crop has been tucked away in the barns, fall wheat is ripening, oats are turning yellow and the first potatoes are coming to market.

"The last ten days gave us grand weather for haying," a Smith farmer remarked to the Examiner today, "and this week-end will leave little grass uncut throughout the country."

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, said the hay crop in the western section of the county was not quit so heavy as a year ago, but it seemed generally to be well up to the average, with a heavy yield. In some of the sections of the eastern part of the county around Norwood and Hastings the effect of winter-killing has been apparent.

"Rain this week-end would be a great help," Mr. Paterson said. "It is especially needed for the pastures and grain and the root crop. Right now there are signs of drouth, and that is not surprising after the last ten days or so of sunshine.

I think some of our farmers will begin cutting fall wheat in a week; oats are coming on, too, and there is a big job ahead. Production of cheese in this county and district is ahead of last year and the flow of milk has been steady. The supply of eggs has shrunk slightly, but there is a much larger poultry population in this county as compared with the flocks of a year ago."

CAR IS STOLEN

An automobile belonging to Irvin Wedlock, 93 Rubidge street was stolen Friday night, the police department has been informed. The car contained around 12 gallons of gas.

Germany Is Holding Best Troops Behind Boundaries Of The Reich

Germany is holding her elite troops in reserve near the boundaries of the Reich and throwing conscripts and second-class soldiers as buffers in the fighting now raging in Italy and Russia, Sgt. W. S. (Bill) Robertson said to-day after his arrival home for the first time since October, 1939.

The first Peterborough soldier to reach England, on a convoy in December 17, 1939, after enlisting on September 13 of the same year, Robertson has been serving with the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals. He expects to be posted as an instructor after his 30-day leave is over.

Veteran of Spitzbergen, Sicily and Italy, this tall soldier states the feeling is general among the troops now that Hitler has withdrawn his Herman Goering Division and the men of the Afrika Korps to the inner circle, and is using young, rather inexperienced units to slow the Allied advance toward Berlin, and the worst battles are yet to come.

"In Italy it was not unusual for a company to shoot one German and have 25 surrender, composed mostly of Poles, Russians, Slavs and Nazi schoolboys. These men of the conscript army have little desire to serve their Nazi masters," he stated.

Narrowest Escape.

Asked about his narrowest escape, Sgt. Robertson stated he believes he owes his life to some member of the underground, because a large calibre German shell landed 15 feet from him and failed to explode. "Some war worker friendly to the Allied cause fixed that shell, and it was a good thing for me he did, for three of us would have been blown to smithereens if it had been a good one."

This took place at a small town called San Leonardo on the Adriatic side of the Italian peninsula, as Robertson served with the Signal Corps alongside the British 8th Army.

"I'll never hunt rabbits any more," he said, and went on to tell about an occasion when he was out alone, carrying a tommy-gun and making a line reconnaissance. "I had just stepped out of a clump of trees when three rifle bullets whizzed past me, and I ducked over an embankment and started to run down a road. For a few seconds I though the whole German army as firing at me, but in times such as that, one is prone to exaggerate. I zig-zagged down that road until I saw a small culvert, and I dove under it, and stayed there until dark. I was lying in mud and water, but wouldn't have traded that cosy spot for the softest chesterfield in the world. Thinking about it afterwards I felt I knew what rabbits go through when three or four hunters start potting at them; so, from no on, the rabbits are safe from me."

Tales of Horror.

The story of the Allied advance across Sicily and up the Italian peninsula is pock-marked with tales of horror, tragedy, heroism and the heart-tingling events that are etched in the soldiers' minds for all time, and like all the other gallant men who travelled in this victorious Army, Sgt. Bill Robertson could tell of many incidents that would border on the miraculous.

"What was the most tragic thing you can recall in that campaign?" he was asked, and without a moments hesitation the soldier said, "Regalbuto." This is the place in Sicily where orders got mixed up, and American Mitchells flattened the town after the Allies had reached it. Of course, the place had been subject to Allied bombing, too, and it is not known whose bombs caused this tragedy After the bombing, Canadian soldiers passed through, and they came across a little boy age 4 and a little girl about 7, trying to lift a heavy beam off their mother in a ruined home.

Covered with sweat, and dust and crying, the tiny children struggled and clawed at the beam that was pinning their mother down. In a matter of seconds, husky soldiers had body of the woman free, but it was too late—she was dead. What happened to these two orphans is unknown; they were part of the jetsam of war tossed in the wake of an army that had only their best interests at heart, but often without wanting to, added their misery.

The Italian wine wasn't strong enough for one bunch of Canadians so they took two petrol cans, salvaged a section of copper tubing from a wrecked German tank, and made a still. They distilled the vino bianco, and the resultant concoction was dubbed "smoke." It had more kick than a whippet tank, but when diluted half and half make a very palatable drink.

Describing the trip to Spitzbergen when Canadians and British troops destroyed installations and rescued the inhabitants, Sgt. Robertson said, "It was a pleasure jaunt."

Before enlisting he was employed at Leeming & Leeming stock brokerage office as a telegraph operator, and later was an insurance salesman. His wife and two children live at 588 Bonaccord Street.

Obituaries

THOMAS F. BLUE.

Hotel proprietor in Madoc for forty years, Thomas F. Blue, owner of Blue's Hotel, died Thursday afternoon after an illness of two years. He was born 73 years ago in Little Metic, Que., and is survived by his wife and one son, Captain Lloyd Blue of Ottawa. The funeral under Masonic auspices is taking place this afternoon.

MRS. IDA MAY BROOKS.

The death occurred this morning following an illness of three weeks of Mrs. Ida Brooks, 554 Douglas avenue, at her residence in her 78th year. She was the wife of Samuel James Brooks.

Born at Trent River, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nixon, she had resided in the city for over 30 years, coming here from Norwood. She was a very active worker in the United church.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, two daughters and three sons, Mrs. Henry Turner, Peterborough, Mrs. A. D. Ferguson Detroit, Bruce and Alfred Brooks of Port Hope and Albert, overseas. One sister, Mrs. A. Hall of Peterborough, also remains.

The funeral will be held on Monday at 2.30 p.m. from the Nisbett Funeral Home. 347 Charlotte street, with service conducted by Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James United church. Interment in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. WM. ROWAN.

Another pioneer resident, Mrs. Wm. Rowan, 75, died this week in her 76th year, widow of the late Mr. Wm. Rowan, who predeceased her in March, 1943. Mrs. Rowan was the youngest daughter of the late Mr. Alexander Land and his wife, nee Elizabeth Lang of Manvers Station, and was married at Bethany April 29 in 1891.

She is survived by three of her children, viz.: Walter Henry Rowan, living on the homestead at Bethany, Mrs. Rev. Victor Walker, nee Olive Mae, of Stirling, and Harold Marvin Rowan of Springville. The body rested at the Comstock Funeral Parlors, Peterborough, until Tuesday afternoon, when a public service was held at Bethany United church. Rev. Mr. Everson of Springville and Rev. Mr. Henderson of Bethany, officiated, with interment in the United church, cemetery, Bethany.

Pallbearers were Mr. Ormie Hutchison, Reaboro; Mr. Melville Johnston, Springville; Mr. Wilbert Peel, Peterborough; and Lloyd Lang, also of Peterborough; Mr. Clarence Rowan and Leslie Lang, Bethany. Flower bearers were Willis Lang, Ray Hutchison, Peterborough; Nelles Rowan of Toronto; Jack McLean, View Lakes; Ralph Rowan, Bethany and Mr. Harold Cathcart, Springville.

Want Compensation

HAMILTON July 8.—(CP).—The Hamilton District Trades and Labor Council, at a meeting last night, decided to ask the Trades and Labor Council of Canada to urge the Ontario government to allocate money to the Workmen's Compensation Board to be paid workers who become major disabilities in later life as a result of minor injuries suffered in industrial accidents.

Nature Club Gives $25 To War Victims

A Nature Club must needs become very mindful of the beautiful works of a Great Creator, which have been created for the use and service of the human race, much of which provides them with the very sustenance necessary for their earthly existence, and the more that one delves into the mysteries of the production of these bounties, the more one comes to realize how dependent everyone is that winter and summer seed time and harvest should not fail.

When one comes into an intimate knowledge of just how well their temporal needs have been provided for, a spirit of thankfulness that could well take the form of giving aid to those less fortunately situated than oneself would seem to be a logical outcome, and this has on occasion been demonstrated by the Peterborough Nature Club giving aid to the victims of enemy bombing attacks over the British Isles through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

Some time ago this club in association with the Peterborough lady teachers group, sponsored a lecture by Dr. Dymond on the social habits of animals, and their share of the proceeds amounting to $25.00 have now been given to this fund to do its bit towards alleviating the increased distress now more prevalent in Britain through the advent of the rocket or pilotless bombs projected from the shores of France.

This group is organized for educational values particularly in the wonderful works of Creation through a study of nature, far removed from the idea of pecuniary gain, and whatever funds they have had available both under Dr. Madill and V. H. Henry, past and present heads respectively as president have found their way into useful channels into connection with the war effort. This latest gift was received through Allan Brown their secretary-treasurer.

Five Young Boys Do Their Bit

Five enterprising young lads took a notion they could do something to help things along so they set up a stand, and with the sympathetic aid of their parents wet into the wholesome business of selling lemonade and other concoctions (not what some fellows might think) for they ingeniously took orangeade and putting it into a refrigerator cube recepticle, they made popsicles which sold quite readily.

These five lads, Jim Turnbull, Peter Bailey, John McCarney, Ronny Doughty and Teddy Nobbs were able to make a nice $2.30 in this manner, which is listed in their name to-day, and besides getting a deal of satisfaction out of it themselves, their offering would be very well received in the prevailing hot weather, besides doing a good deed for afflicted people in much need.

When one gives in a personal way for four times in a short space of time, evidence of a considerable concern for those made desolate by the misfortunes that war has inflicted is displayed and this would surely seem to fit the picture aroused by another donation listed today from under the heading of "A Friend, receipt No. 3737" who comes into this category.

RAY McDOUGALL, E.R.A.

Ray McDougall Is On Landing

"I never dreamt I would be on one of the first ships to start the Second Front," are the words of Engine Room Artificer Ray McDougall, the son of Mrs. W. C. McDougall, 712 Stormont street, who has written home describing the story—or as much of it as censorship will allow—of his part in the initial stages of the landing. Ray, who has been in the Navy now for a year, is the husband of Mrs. Irene McDougall, who is working in the Arsenal at Lindsay at the present time.

"It certainly is an experience here I'll never forget," he writes home. "You can hear the rumble of the gunfire now. My ship, H.M.S. Orion, was the first to open fire in our section of the beach. We went in ahead of the troops to bombard the gun emplacements. We broke the world's record for the number of shells fired in a bombardment in one day, and the Army has sent us congratulations for helping them out."

ERA. McDougall said that he didn't have much chance to write as "we are at action stations all the time except for meals." He added that he had only had his clothes off for six hours in the previous six days.

Soldiers Get Their Milk Fresh From Cows

"We are really living in a fine style in this country" writes Pte. R. H. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Moore, 43 Frank street, from his station somewhere along the flaming battlefront in France.

"We had eggs for breakfast, and chicken for dinner, and veal steaks for supper, and that's just one day's menu, too. When we first arrived here, there was plenty of champagne around, but that didn't last long," Pte. Moore reports.

The letter continues, "Right now, it's milking time at our place and the boys have just returned from milking with fresh milk for tomorrow's breakfast. I am writing this letter on a shaky box, that just won't keep still".

Pte. Moore has been with the S. D. and G.'s for three years, and was attending Peterborough Business College before enlisting.

Three other brothers are also serving overseas. They are: Craftsman A. Moore, also taking part in the invasion of France, Flight Sgt. John Moore, overseas, and Pte. T. Moore, with the Canadian Army in Italy.

Chest Survey Is Completed At Six Plants

Of all the employees of Canadian General Electric Company and Genelco Limited only about fifty declined the chest examination which is being extended through Peterborough's industrial establishments by representatives of the Ontario Department of Health.

"Only very few of our folks refused this service, and we are hoping that for their own good they will change their minds while the Department's staff is still here," Ian F. McRae, works manager, told the Examiner today.

"Most people in the plant realized that this chest review was for their own benefit and as conducted by the provincial government it was a confidential and private arrangement between the government and the individual. All that our company has to do with it is to pay the incidental expenses.

We advised our employees to take advantage of this examination in a matter of their own health, and we repeated the recommendation. Some fifty persons, for reasons known to themselves, just would not have anything to do with it. Some of them may change their minds yet and ask for it."

Fourteen Compaiens

Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., informed the Examiner this morning that the chest survey has been completed at six of the city's industries, and eight others are listed for this investigation which is no likely to be wound up before the end of the month.

"Between five and six thousand persons have already been examined," Dr. Kelly said. "We have had two units of this service. One came on the 19th of June and the other on the 26th. One of them left us on Friday, and the other is remaining.

The chest survey was recommended to the heads of the city's industries by the city's Board of Health for the benefit of the employees and especially as a means of promoting public health in Peterborough by obtaining accurate information pertaining to the pulmonory health of a large number of citizens by the convenience of examination at the places of their employment.

Mr. McRae explained the small X-ray photographs which are taken are all examined in Toronto by doctors of the Ontario Department of Health.

"If some suspicious sign appears on one of these films, a large plate is taken for re-examination, and if the signs warrant it the information as to what is disclosed is given to the individual. It is then up to him or her to decide what is to be done, if necessary."

SEEING ELEPHANTS

The story is going the rounds on Main Street that the fact that the elephants shown here at the C.G.E.-Genelco picnic last Monday remained over in Peterborough this week has caused a certain local man to sign the pledge. He had been indulging in the cup that cheers as well as inebriates the other evening and crossing Hunter street bridge happened to glance southward along the river-bank and saw two elephants apparently feeding on the grass there. He rubbed his eyes and looked again. The elephants were still in sight. That was enough. "If I've got to the stage that I can see elephants on the banks of the Otonabee it's time I stopped drinking," he muttered as he headed for home.—C.

IN MEMORIAM

WALL—In loving memory of Doreen Wall, who passed away July 9, 1941.

Gone from the earth so swiftly
Just like a flower in bloom,
So young, so fair, so loving,
Yet called away so soon.
We shall meet her some bright morning,
Resting by waters fair,
She is waiting for our coming
In the upper garden there.
—Mother, Father and family.

Women Urged To Study World Affairs

WINNIPEG, July 8.—(CP).— The ninth annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women closed here last night with election of Alderman Hilda Hesson of Winnipeg as president.

During the convention delegates were told that women must play an important part at the peace table. Urging women to take a greater part in world affairs, Miss Caroline Haslett, president of the British Federation of Business and Professional Women, said women were playing a "marvellous" part in secondary positions in preliminaries to the peace conference.

However, she said, "there are still too few at the policy-making table."

She characterized as preliminaries, the United Nations' relief and rehabilitation administration, the International labor office, the education conference recently held in London, Eng. and the monetary conference now taking place at Bretton Woods, N.H.

An advisor to the British Ministry of Labor, Miss Haslett said the women of Great Britain have given up their freedom and are finding themselves capable and able to do an equal job with men with equal training.

Accident Victim

GUELPH, July 8.— (CP).—Ten-year-old Beatrice Norma Hill died in hospital here yesterday from injuries suffered last Sunday when the automobile in which she was riding with her father collided with another auto on the Guelph-Hamilton highway. Work 300 Days Entitled To Holiday

TORONTO, July 7 —(CP) — Official interpretation of the new hours of labor and vacations with pay which will come into effect on July 1 was given today by officials of the Ontario Industry and Labor Board here.

Basically the Bill entitles every person who has worked 300 days in the year to July 1 to one week's holiday with pay. The only exception to the 300-day rule, officials said, is absence caused by sickness or accidents. However production of a doctor's certificate to the firm where that person is employed, covering the time absent from the job, places them in good standing and entitled to holiday with pay.

The measure exempts war industries.

Hydro Users Get Substantial Rebate

TORONTO, July 7 — (CP) — Customers of the Toronto Hydro Electric System will receive a "substantial rebate or reduction in rates this year," Mayor Fred J. Conroy said today following a meeting of the Toronto Hydro Commission.

"The least we will give is a rebate equal to one month's bill either in October or November and both domestic and commercial users will receive the same," the Mayor said.

Last year the domestic customers received a rebate of a month's free power and commercial customers a rebate of one-half month's free power.

Signal Corps Wins Praise

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, July 8 — (CP). — Regimental signallers are busy people during a battle, but their praises are not often sung. Around Headquarters of the Perth Regiment these days, however, fine words are making the rounds about the two operators who were responsible for keeping the colonel in constant touch with his forward companies as well as his rear echelons.

The two men are Cpl. R. I. Bell of Atwood, Ont., and L.-Cpl. Fred Schwartz, Kitchener, Ont. Both normally carried No. 18 wireless sets on their backs. One was always with the colonel, the other always at his tactical Headquarters so that orders could be transmitted and acted upon with a minimum delay.

At Ceprano, after the regiment had crossed the Liri River, Bell had to carry two sets. One was to maintain contact forward, the other beamed back to rear elements not yet across the river. For 24 hours he had to keep both sets constantly with him and in operation.

Later, while operating forward with colonel, some distance ahead of regimental Headquarters, Bell's messages were relayed to Schwartz, who was posted half way between the colonel and Headquarters, and Schwartz in turn relayed them to the adjutant.

Regimental signals officer is Lt. James E. Morgan(R.C.C.S., of Montreal.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LEARN BRIDGE FAST
42—How to Win

It's not just a case of the cards you get
For play or work or strife,
Or whether you triumph or whether you're "set"
That counts in bridge or life;
The test of a woman or child or man
Applied since the days of old
Is whether you're doing the best you can
In playing the cards you hold.

THERE IS a good deal more than just sportsmanship in those sentiments. It is the winning attitude. In bridge, as in many other games, your fortunes ebb and flow as does the tide. The greatest player the world ever saw has been through plenty of losing sessions. And so will the greatest player yet to come.

But—and this is what makes a great player—the true competitor is in there making the best of every situation as it arises. Or at least trying to. He makes mistakes, yes. He holds bad cards sometimes. Occasionally he sees good cards go wrong because every finesse fails or every suit is divided unfortunately against him. He also sees his partners throw him occasionally. But he knows that is all in the game. When he takes a licking, he tries to see that it is no worse licking than necessary. And he keeps his good disposition, knowing that sooner or later things will begin to come his way, and he will make up for his run of losing.

The way to win in the long run is to keep your heart about you and use your head. Don't do anything just because some writer told you to—whether his name is Culbertson, Jacoby, Barclay, Smith or Jones. If what such a fellow said commends itself to your own thinking, then go to it not because he said it, but because it seems to you to be the thing to do.

Try to have some kind of reason for everything you do, even if it may be a wrong reason. Try to figure out everything you can, from what you hear in the bidding and what you see in the play. Then act upon what you have figured out. Even if it may be wrong figuring, it is better than pure guesswork. But, if you are going to enjoy the game and have others enjoy playing with you, do not let your thinking make you unduly slow. Develop, if you can, the kind of keen, close, yet relaxed and pleasant manner of concentration which will enable you to use your brains without boring your companions.

Whenever you meet a situation in which you think it will pay you to violate some so-called rule of sound bidding or play, go ahead and violate it. Remember that by so doing you are following the main rule of winning bridge, which is to do whatever you think is most likely to contribute to success. Let it not be said that you play "book bridge," the kind of bridge taught in a book. For if your book told you to play that kind of bridge, it was a bum book.

A final, simple lesson in winning bridge—you will never receive a better one—is this: Hear all the bids and see all the cards, the exact size of each one.

And now, as we close this "Learn Bridge Fast" course, and proceed with a series of actual hands—

The best of luck, but, better still,
We wish for you the best of skill.

Japanese Admits Imphal Defeat

IMPHAL, India, July 2—(Delayed)—(AP). — Admiral Lord Louis Dountbatten told his victorious troops to-day that Lt.-Gen Mutaguchi, commander of the Japanese 15th Army, had confessed failure of the Assam-Manipur incursion and admitted the desperate plight of his forces.

The Allied Commander publicly read a captured Mutaguchi order in which the enemy general described his position as "indeed most regrettable."

"Withholding my tears, painful as they are, I shall for the time being withdraw my troops from Kohima," said the order. "It is my resolve to reassemble the whole army and with one great push capture Imphal.

"This forthcoming plan of operation will be the army's last. You must fully realize that if a decisive victory is not obtained we shall not be able to strike back again."

The Allied forces are steadily making the Japanese position worse. The Imphal-Kohima road has been cleared and Ukhrul, important enemy base north-east of Imphal, has been captured.

DENVER, Colo., July 8.—(AP).—"Pardon me, lady, I thought you were my mother-in-law," Mrs. Martha Martin said was the explanation a strange man gave her last night after accosting her on the street and punching her in the left eye. She told police he appeared to have been drinking.

... in fact, quite a serious shortage of bottles and cartons. However, it can be overcome if customers return their empties, in the original containers, promptly—to the nearest Brewer's Retail Store—as these can be used over and over again. In this way you can help us maintain steady supplies for you.

Thank you!

Red-Faced Sleuths

NEW YORK, July 8. — (AP). — Crimson-faced detectives were hard at work today. Someone looted a safe in police headquarters of $750 in cash and war bonds. The sleuths were without a clue, but Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine expressed the opinion that the brazen crime was perpetrated "by a dishonest employee."

Hope To Sink Shaft To Entombed Men

BELLAIRE, O., July 8—(AP)—Skilled crews today prepared to begin drilling through 350 feet of earth in the desperate hope of reaching 64 men entombed in the Powhatan mine 15 miles south of here.

Two high-speed drills, one three inches in diameter, the other nine inches, were being brought here to sink shafts through which food and water could be lowered to the coal miners if they are alive.

Roosevelt States Situation Bad

WASHINGTON, July 8 — (AP) — President Roosevelt said today the war in China is not going well and that the United States is a good deal concerned over the outlook.

Mr. Roosevelt tempered his news conference remark however, by saying the Japanese are in a poor strategic position because their supply linse are so extended and are being menaced by the Allies.

The fighting in China does not seem to be stopping the Japanese advances, he said.

He agreed with a reporter who observed that if the coast of China is lost the situation would be serious but said it would not be so serious today as a year ago because we are now within bombing range of Japan.

That is something, the President observed.

War Correspondent Missing After Raid

LONDON, July 8 — (CP Cable) — BBC War Correspondent Kent Stevenson, formerly of Winnipeg, is missing from an R.A.F. heavy bomber raid over Germany, it was learned today.

Stevenson came to England in 1935. He joined the BBC's Empire Department in March, 1941, and later was transferred to the North American Service. He became a member of the War Reporting Unit last February.

The total of Allied War Correspondents killed or missing in the present war now is 36, including two Canadian correspondents. Sam Robertson of The Canadian Press was lost when his ship was torpedoed in the Atlantic in 1941, and Edouard Baudry of the CBC was killed when an arplane in which he was flying was shot down in North Africa in 1942.

Striking Coal Miners Returning To Pits

STELLARTON, N.S., July 8—(CP). — Striking coal miners at four Pictou collieries began returning to work late last night under a temporary agreement negotiated on the dispute over working hours that tied up the mines for a day.

H. R. Pettigrove, Federal Labor Conciliator for the Maritimes, wired a proposal to H. M. C. Gordon, Acadia president, suggesting that the old conditions be permitted to continue until a conference of the men and operators was held.

Gordon agreed to this, but advised Pettigrove he "still maintains the men must work a full shift" and will take that stand in the negotiations.

Parity Prices For Farm Products Await Clear Definition In House

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 8—(CP)—A clear definition of parity prices for various farm products probably will be possible after Agriculture Minister Gardiner presents to the Commons a promised bill establishing floor prices.

In asking for parity prices, farmers in the past usually said they represented the prices received for their products in 1926-29 when there was what they called a satisfactory relationship with the prices of goods they had to buy.

Some have gone further back to find what they considered the best relationship between farm income and farm outlays, but always they have argued that higher prices for farm production mean little if the cost of goods the farmer must buy has increased beyond parity.

Authorities said that parity prices must be considered when floors are established, otherwise the proposed protection for farmers against declining values will have limited value. A floor satisfactory under existing conditions might be too high or too low if the general level of commodity prices changes. The prospect, therefore, is that provision will be made for adjustments, with the basis of parity established and a specified relationship between farm and other prices maintained.

Reading: The House this week was concerned about the reading of speeches, banned for the ordinary member by ancient rules. Rev. Dan McIvor (L.—Fort William) said he would not read a speech because he always remembered the story of two other clergymen. The one read his sermons, and argued he could think clearly in his study but not so clearly when he faced his congregation.

The other, who did not read his sermons, replied:

"That's all right, but you leave little blanks in the manuscript, and when you come to a blank to tell a story to illustrate your point the devil is looking over your shoulder and he spoils the whole thing for you, but when I am speaking the devil himself doesn't know what I am going to say."

Monetary Fund May Use Gold

BRETTON WOODS, N.H., July 8 (AP)—The proposed International Monetary Fund is vital to world trade with the only alternative return to the barter system of medieval days, Lord Keynes, head of the British delegation to the United Nations monetary conference, said yesterday.

"I can't see daylight on any other alternative," he told a press conference in which he said the fund would provide distressed nations with a "breather" in solving their foreign trade problems.

Lord Keynes also said he favored linking gold to currency in the fund, asserting it was "absolutely essential" that the fund make full utilization of the world's gold reserves and gold production. His reference to gold came in reply to a question about his speech in the House of Lords last May in which he said Britain would never return to the gold standard. He explained here that he was opposed to tying Britain's currency rigidly to gold and said there was strong opposition at home to any return to an inflexible standard.

Italian Patriots Take Over Florence

LONDON, July 8 — (CP-Reuter) —Reports from the Italian frontier appearing in Bern, Switzerland, newspapers say that Italian Patriots have taken over the administration of Florence "since the Germans and Fascists evacuated the open city."

Patriots are also maintaining order and organizing the distribution of the scanty food supplies in Leghorn, Arezzo, and Ancona, said the reports. The anti-Fascists have taken up arms against the Germans to prevent them from carrying out demolitions, it was said.

The Germans recently asserted Florence was an open city "in order to preserve its historic and artistic treasures." No Allied statement has been made on the subject.

Flame-Throwers Used

WITH THE CANADIANS IN CARPIQUET, July 8—(CP Cable) —Flame-throwers were used in the Canadian assault on Carpiquet, I learned to-day from a Canadian colonel whose tanks took part in the attack.

"I saw flame-throwers manned by British crews flush out an least two German pill-boxes," the colonel said. "They also did well in driving enemy infantry and machine - gunners out of the grainfields along the approaches to Carpiquet."

Young Officer Has Had Busy Month

OTTAWA, July 8 — (CP) — Lieut. Leo J. Heaps of Ottawa and Winnipeg, who celebrates his 22nd birthday in an Army Base Hospital in Britain Friday probably has seen more action in a shorter space of time than any other Canadian soldier.

Heaps left Ottawa May 1, after passing through the special school at Sussex, N.B., which is turning out junior officers for loan to the British Army.

He landed in Britain May 13, became attached to the Dorsetshire Regiment, May 17, transferred to a Glider Regiment about May 31, landed behind enemy lines in Normandy on D-day—June 6, found time to write a letter June 9 saying Allied superiority seemed "overwhelming" at that time, later was cut off. Of his battalion of 35 officers and 600 men only four officers and 120 men were left.

June 18, Heaps suffered concussion when a German shell exploded nearby and laid for two days in a field until picked up by a British Relieving Force. He was sent to Britain when he had fully recovered.

Germans Team 2 Top Generals

LONDON, July 8 — (AP) — Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluge and Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, both once defeated in this war on the eve of a major German victory, have been teamed up for a second chance as Adolf Hitler's anti-invasion commanders in Western Europe.

The Berlin radio announced last night that Von Kluge had been moved up to high commander in the west to take the place of Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt who, it was said, will probably get a new command in the near future.

The removal of Von Rundstedt, often reported at odds with Hitler was viewed in London as a victory for Rommel, the immediate commander of the German defence forces along the Atlantic wall.

Underground sources have pictured Rommel as insisting that his superior, Von Rundstedt, throw in strategic reserves to break the Allied beachhead in Normany—a move that Von Rundstedt refused to make.

By contrast, neither the new supreme commander, Von Kulge, nor the hot-tempered Rommel are likely to wait.

12-Year-Old Boy Amnesia Victim

BRANTFORD, July 8 — (CP).— A boy about 11 or 12 years of age, apparently suffering from some mental disability, and who does not know his name, address, or age, was located by Provincial Police on Thursday night.

The boy stopped at a farmhouse to ask for something to eat, and was taken in hand and given a meal by the people, who also notified police.

He was described as weighing 105 or 106 pounds, and is 5 feet 3 or 4 inches in height He has fair hair blue eyes, and a fair complexion. Later he was taken to the Children's Shelter for the night.

He was picked up by a motorist near Ancaster.

Nazi Prisoners Treated Well

TORONTO, July 8 — (CP) — Morale of Canadians in Italy is tops it was stated by Hon. Capt. N. A. Healey, Protestant Chaplain and one-time Pastor of Schumacher, Ont., United Church, on his arrival here from overseas.

"The fighting has been tougher than most people realize," he said. "The conditions are frightful—mud, lice and filth. But the boys know they are doing a good job and their spirits are high.

Capt. Healey was one of 12 officers and 125 men who arrived back from overseas yesterday.

Included in the group was a prisoner-of-war guard, who said that Nazi prisoners aboard the westbound ship were given oranges and plenty of cigarettes during the crossing while their Canadian guards went without.

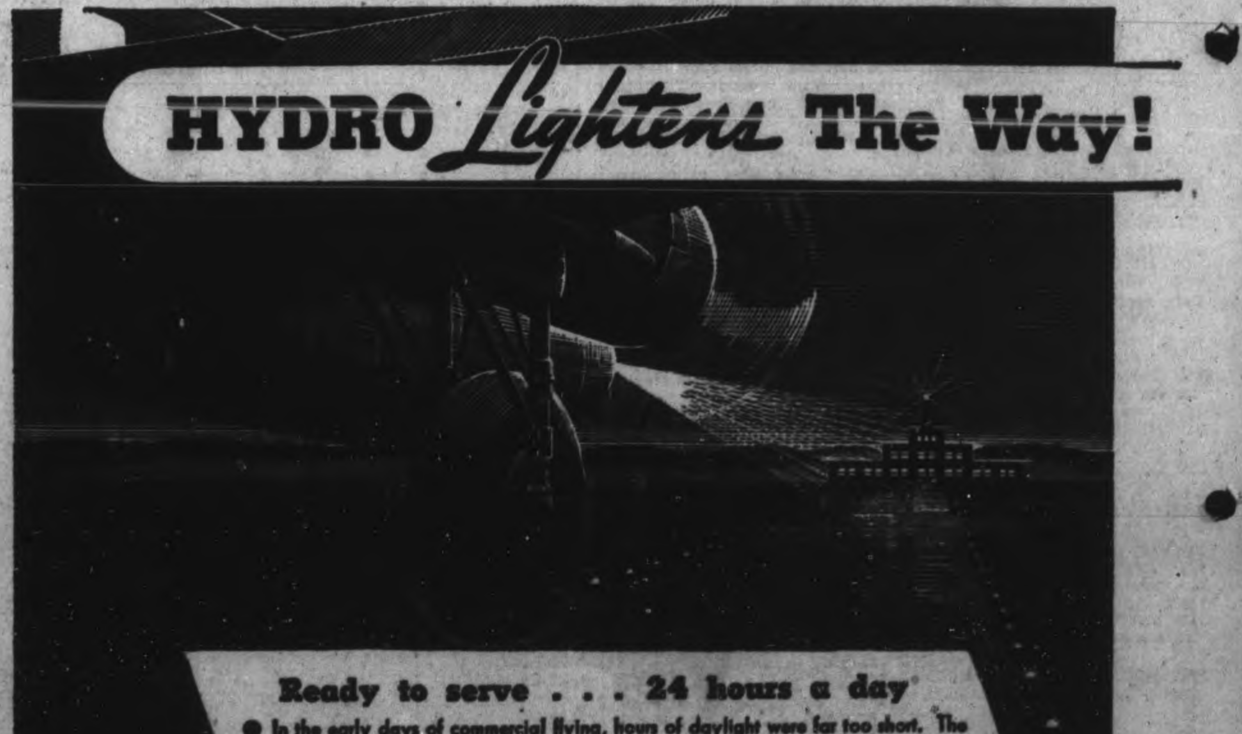
The escort, who would not reveal his name, said "most of us hadn't seen an orange for a long time and we felt pretty sore looking at those Nazis gulping them down."

"We didn't get cigarettes until we arrived in Halifax," he said.

He added that many of the prisoners were boys of 15 and 16.

Montgomery Honors Seven U.S. Soldiers

IN NORMANDY, July 8 (AP)—In a trampled hayfield within earshot of booming Allied guns, Gen. Montgomery, commander of all ground troops in Normandy, pinned British ribbons of valor on seven U.S. soldiers today for heroism in the invasion of France. Three others received awards but were not present. One of those receiving awards was Maj.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of the 101st Airborne Division, who jumped with his men in the invasion of France, and received the Distinguished Service Order.



Ready to serve . . . 24 hours a day

● In the early days of commercial flying, hours of daylight were far too short. The mantle of night automatically cancelled flying schedules. But . . . because electrical engineers discovered ways and means of flooding runways with light . . . swift couriers of the air tonight are cutting hours off time, carrying precious burdens of humanity and vital correspondence that may mean the saving of thousands of dollars before tomorrow's workday has been completed.

Electricity has not only helped to make flying economically sound, but, with the aid of modern electronics, flying is safer. Today . . . tonight . . . airplanes are guided safely, surely on their course by a beam of electrical waves which electronics made possible. In every field of endeavor, as in the field of aviation, electricity stands ready to serve 24-hours a day.

The development of electrical devices in the field of aeronautics is but one indication of what lies ahead for the world of tomorrow. In the electrical field it can be truly said . . . the best is yet to come. Electricity is the servant of mankind. In commerce . . . in industry . . . at home and on the farm . . . it lightens our tasks, makes life more comfortable. Plan and save now, so that, when the day of peace arrives, you will be ready to enjoy more of the benefits that electricity can bring you.

Tremendous Artillery Assault Preceded Drive

AFTER HOLDING FOR FIVE DAYS WEDGE IN LINE AT CARPIQUET CANADIAN TROOPS BATTLE FORWARD TO CAPTURE AIRFIELD

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS ON THE CAEN FRONT July 10 (CP Cable)—Canadian troops fought their way forward from Carpiquet village across the wide airfield to the south yesterday morning after holding for five days the wedge they drove into the Germans' Caen defence ring.

The Canadians rushed to the smashed southern group of hangars and a concrete defence emplacement and also struck south-east to the airfield administration buildings which the Germans also had converted into a strongpoint, supported by embedded tanks.

This attack followed the big push started Saturday by British and Canadian forces which smashed into rubbled Caen.

The sheer weight of the bombbardment of the German lines was what set the ball rolling for the sweeping advance that toppled Caen. Heavy mortar and machine-gun fire supplemented the artillery barrage.

Yesterday, the same kind of tremendous artillery bombardment was poured into the hangar defences as Canadian infantry advanced from Carpiquet village.

From the highway linking Caen and Bayeux I could see our shells landing in the midst of the hangars but the explosions could not be heard because of the roar from the guns.

As one German village position after another was beaten to a rubbled skeleton after the advance on Caen got started Saturday, the enemy plastered the roads in front of the advancing troops with shells from 21 centimetre mortars and medium artillery. Telephone posts were clipped off like twigs and orchards torn up.

The Germans used phosphorus smoke shells whose white clouds rolled through the meadows, concealing everything. Our shells raised clouds of brown smoke.

Over the din of exploding projectiles could be heard the roar of aircraft, including rocket-carrying Typhoon planes which have given the ground troops spectacular support.

The smash into Caen was undoubtedly the smokiest, noisiest, and, perhaps, bloodiest battle in Normandy.

The Canadian highlight of the first day was the junction of the Eastern troops in Carpiquet, including French-speaking soldiers who have performed with distinction, and the forces which swept forard from points farther north.

Seize Chain of French Towns Troops Mopping Up in Caen

By WES GALLAGHER, Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 10—(AP)—General Montgomery's British 2nd Army, starting to swing shut the door on Germans still standing across the Orne River in the southern suburbs of captured Caen, today seized a chain of Normandy towns and strongpoints guarding the enemy's imperiled flank.

Striking in typical hard-smiting Montgomery style, the British and Canadians plunged eastward from their Odon bridgehead behind the embattled Germans in the suburb of Vauborg De Vaucelles, and captured Beretteville-sur-Odon a mile southwest of Caen.

Eterville, next in the chain and three miles southwest of the city Maltot, four miles southwest, and Hill 112, a bit further southwest, all fell in quick succession in plunges which took the British and Canadian troops within a mile of the Orne River.

3 Mile Front

Montgomery's bludgeon, more than three miles broad, was matched by a British bridgehead across the Orne to the north and east of Caen which also threatened the last-ditch Germans with a squeeze offensive.

The British fought forward two miles in this latest attack with the objective of freeing the docks of Caen from the threat of German artillery fire so that a stream of Allied freight might soon begin pouring in to match the reinforcements from Cherbourg. All the points fell before noon after the initial jump off at 5 a.m.

In the centre an American smash into the German lines from the Vire River bridgehead at St. Jean de Daye also made steady prgoress on a seven-mile front to depths of more than a mile in hard fighting through difficult low country hidden by fog and drizzle.

The Americans captured Sainteny, six miles south of Carentan and about the same distance from the road junction of Periers.

Periers is about 5½ miles southwest of Lessay, a coastal road junction bordernig a deep inlet from the sea where the Germans might attempt to defend a bottleneck against other Americans rolling swiftly southeastward from captured La Haye du Puits.

Front line dispatches said the latter drive was breaking through German strong defences and and opening an exit out of the Cherbourg peninsula through the few channeled passages between swamps and lowlands. The Germans were said to be falling back to new defences.

Lessay is about 4½ miles below La Haye.

Montgomery's assault was a typical flanking job.

Headquarters said however that there was no sign of German disorganization, that the Germans were withdrawing in orderly fashion and not seeking to disengage their forces.

Only a few hundred prisoners had been captured in Caen, although the numbers were growing.

Many In Trap

Already pocketed were the remnants of a division and a half of German troops caught at Herouville, northeast of Caen.

The capture of Caen and hundreds of prisoners disclosed that an attack by 450 R.A.F. Lancasters and Halifaxes on Friday evening in direct support of the offensive against Caen had been one of the most successful applications of heavy night bombers to a tactical target in the war.

Montgomery's smash was aimed

Units Drive 20 Miles In Lithuania

Terrific Speed Of New Push Bewilders Germans

LONDON, July 10—(CP)—British press reports placed Russian vanguards within 60 miles of East Prussia tonight while the Red Army clamped tighther a death hold on Wilno (Vilna), where the German garrison has been forced behind barricades into the centre of the virtually encircled city.

Russian columns racing westward at startling speed storemd past the Wilno flanks to the nearest approach to East Prussia.

Northward, the Soviets ripped through the German Wilno-Daugavpils line, penetrating to Utena, more than 20 miles into pre-war Lithuania. The Soviet plunge across the Lithuanian Plains toward Memel on the Baltic could cut off more than 60,000 square miles, an area larger than Georgia, garrisoned by a force estimated in London at 40 German divisions.

Cut Mile Gap

Red troops had cut 70-mile gap in German lines strung down from the Balic Sea and narrowed the land corridor between the breach and the sea to less than 120 miles.

The Moscow radio asserted that German and Lithuanian troops mutinied in Wilno and Kaunas. The latter city, capital of Russia's Lithuanian republic, was menaced by Russians charging less than 50 miles away.

Farther south, the Red Army made fresh progress in a swift advance toward the major railroad centre of Bialystok and Brest Litovsk on the Bug River. Both cities guard the approaches to Warsaw.

"Reconnaissance has observed lively railroad and highway traffic on the right wing of the southern sector," the Berlin radio said. "In the Iasi sector (of Romania), local Soviet attacks have been checked but it is clear that the Soviet command will stage a big offensive."

Gen. Ivan Bagramian's first Baltic Army struck northeast of Wilno and seized Sventsyani, 48 miles from the capital, and just inside the Lithuanian border, bringing the Wilno-Daugavpils (Dvinsk) Railroad under fire.

The Nazi garrison in Wilno fought stubbornly for every street square and house in the city, but with the lines southwest to Bialystok and northeast to Kaunas the only remaining rail communications, it appeared doomed to early destruction.

Gen. George Zakharov's 2nd white Russian Army, which has been lagging behind the others in the offensive, crossed the Lida-Baranowicze Railroad taking 150 towns, including Dyartlovo, 30 miles south of Lida and Novogrudok, the same distance to the southeast.

The Soviet communique said more than 700 towns northeast of Wilno were captured in the new action on the first Baltic front. These included Braslav, 25 miles southeast of Daugavpils, Druya, and the railway junction of Lyntuni between Daugavpils and Wilno.

13 Theatres Closed By Robot Bombs

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 10 (AP) — The evacuation of women and children from London and various cities in Southern England continued in orderly fashion today as the German flying bomb offensive went into its 26th day.

More than 50,000 children alone have been moved out of the immediate danger zone with only one minor hitch in arrangements, and that was quickly solved. It developed when some residents in raid-free York appeared reluctant to take evacuees into their homes, but the mayor signed a compulsory order and within a few hours 1,600 bombed-out women and children who had detrained in that city were safely billeted.

At the Central station in Leicester several hundred cheerful children—all evacuees—pulled in just as a hospital train arrived with a load of wounded from Normandy.

The youngsters and soldiers cheered each other and the troops showered the children with chocolates and cookies.

It was a noisy night as the Germans took advantage of overcast skies over Dover Strait to sneak their robot planes through the defence wall. An official announcement acknowledged damage and casualties in London and the Southern Counties.

Before darkness set in, however, fighter pilots were credited with shooting down a considerable number of the buzz-bombs into the sea.

Many at Cricket

Despite the blind bombing attacks, cricket matches at Lord's, greyhound races and other outdoor sporting events drew large crowds over the week-end. At White City track, spotters were mounted atop a 100-foot floodlight tower and alerts were sounded over a loud-speaker system.

London's legitimate theatres, however, felt effects of the robot assaults, 13 of them closing Saturday night. Most of the remainder played to meagre audiences.

The government, meanwhile, opened the first of eight deep shelters equipped with comfortable bunks to accommodate 8,000 persons each.

The shelters, 100 feet underground, have large canteens serving hot drinks and sandwiches, radios, hot and cold running water and large

Bacon Shipments Set Record

OTTAWA, July 10—(CP)—Canadian Meat Board purchases of bacon for the United Kingdom to July 1 totalled 464,000,000 pounds, although the total minimum commitment for the calendar year is only 500,000,000 pounds it was learned today.

The United Kingdom is taking all the bacon which can be made available by Canada. Under a two-year agreement Canada agreed to supply a minimum of 900,000,000 pounds in the years 1944 and 1945, but assured that every effort would be made to provide additional quantities.

Because of the enormous deliveries of hogs to market in every province, it now appears possible that the minimum requirements of the two years may be met in one which would mean the purchase of 900,000,000 pounds of bacon for the United Kingdom in 1944.

"As things stand it looks very much as though we will be able to buy 800,000,000 pounds at least," one authority said.

It appeared certain that new records would be made in the shipment of bacon this year, although officials said that the rise in Canadian bacon production to the end of 1943 had been "startling."

They said the 1944 figures indicated that fears of a decline in hog production this year because of attractive grain prices had not as yet been borne out. There had been some forecasts that western farmers in particular might decide that raising grain for sale was more profitable than continuing hog production on a large scale.

Exceeded Contract.

Under a 1939 contract Canada supplied 330,000,000 pounds of bacon to the United Kingdom. Under a 1940 contract more than 440,000,000 pouns were provided. Under

Wind Change Saves Cadillac Rain Needed To Curb Fires

BY D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VAL D'OR, Que., July 10 — (CP) — Wearied residents of the northern Quebec mining area looked skyward today and prayed as they have never prayed before for rain that would kill raging forest fires which were still burning perilously close to several communities.

"Rain is the only hope," said Mario Colini who as a travelling salesman had seen the flames spreading over an area of 100 square miles.

Colini, who was taken from his work to assist fire fighters here in their struggle, said: "We need rain for at least 24 hours to put out the fires that are burning now.

"A slight wind storm would send the whole area into a mass of flames again and the threat then would be greater than ever."

Scattered thundershowers during the night from Saturday to Sunday and favorable changes in the wind direction saved Cadillac, 32 miles west of here, from the fate of Pascalis, 16 miles north-east of here, which was wiped out by fire Friday night. At most other points in the danger zone, the situation was also reported improving for the same reason.

As one rides along, the fires can be seen smoldering at the roots of trees. The fire follows the roots underground and the heat causes a combustion. With the resulting explosion the flames leap up the tree and burn fiercely from branch to branch. When neighboring trees are burned the fire drops to the ground again and continues its smouldering advance.

Germans Fear Breakdown Of Transportation System

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MADRID, July 10 (AP)—Far behind the tumult and destruction on the great battlefronts of Normandy, Russia and Italy, the Germans are struggling desperately to stave off defeat on the transportation front—on which the defence of all the others depends.

The desperate situation on this far-flung front which links production areas with the armies is disclosed in German newspapers reaching spain.

They appeal to the German people to understand the complete stoppage of railway traffic in certain areas, and not to lose patience. There are numerous articles glorying railwaymen and urging them to still greater effort "under conditions of personal danger similar to the fighting front."

In addition there are reports of campaigns to divert every possible self-propelled or horse-drawn vehicle to supplement the dwindling capacity of the bomb-battered and sabotage-ridden railway network.

During the three months ended May 31, some 800 persons were reported killed in train wrecks in Germany, but this is only one feature of the transportation battle.

The Berlin newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, praising efforts of German railwaymen in France to keep supplies rolling, describes the terrific intensity of the Allied bombardments preparatory to the Normandy offensive.

"Hundreds of British and American heavy bombers dumped on little railway junctions in France gigantic weights of bombs sufficient to transform whole cities into rubble and ashes," the newspaper reported, "and in addition countless trains have been shot up by cannon and machine-guns of marauding planes."

"Since the Normandy landings it has become even worse with the onslaughts of saboteurs," the newspaper added. Nevertheless, through efforts described as superhuman, railroaders have managed to keep trains moving to the front it declared.

The French leader said he explained to the president "as well as I could, how France, gradually emerging from her temporary misfortune,

Bombers Stream Across Channel Fighters Supporting Infantry

By GLADWIN HILL, Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 10.—(AP).—Large forces of Allied bombers and fighters streamed across the English Channel in improving weather today in support of Allied troops advancing on the Normandy battlefront.

During the night R.A.F. Mosquitos and medium bombers ranged deep into France and attacked 18 trains and railroads leading to the German front, highway convoys and Seine river bridges.

Mosquitos bombed a synthetic oil plant at Buer. Heavies under fighter cover attacked an unidentified military objective in Northern France. Other R.A.F. planes laid mines in enemy waters and not an aircraft was lost in night operations.

German reinforcements struggling westward across the Seine near the coast just east of Le Havre on ferries and pontoon bridges were bombed and strafed over a 30-mile stretch between Quillebeuf and Duclair.

The German radio said single Allied raiders were over northwest Germany early this morning.

Daring Flying

German positions only 50 yards ahead of Canadian troops were attacked by Typhoons that swooped in no more than 10 feet over the soldiers' heads.

"Those pilots keep bearing on the target even when the enemy fire is really heavy," said Maj. D. G. Crofton. "You can hear the Typhoon cannon open up after the rockets whoosh in— and the lads love it."

"Tell those Rocket pilots they are doing a grand job and they are great morale builders," echoed another Canadian officer, Lt. Thomas Burdge.

A Normandy-based Spitfire Wing received a congratulatory telegram from the British 2nd Army for yesterday's bag of 85 German tanks, trucks and armored cars destroyed and damage.

Eleven Allied planes have been reported lost thus far in yesterday's 3,500 sorties, made despite poor weather, and at least the same number of German planes were shot down. Three of the Allied

Allied Forces Invaded Europe One Year Ago

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

CATANIA, Sicily, July 10. — (CP Cable).—It's a year ago today that Sicily—one of the world's loveliest islands, was invaded by Allied armies.

On those beaches between Pachino and Gela British, American and Canadian troops trod their first steps on the threshhold of the fortress of Europe. Within 39 days the Hun was swept off to the mainland to be followed later by Allied forces after a brief rest for reorganization and re-equipment.

Sicily was liberated and told to pull herself together and prepare for the years of peace.

Last night, writing in the Grotte Uluisse, a luxurious garden restaurant in the Catania waterfront, it was difficult to realize this land had ever been touched by war.

With Capt. Alisdair Fraser, Montreal, Sgt. J. E. Deguire, Ottawa, and Pte. David King, Burlington, Ont., all veterans of the '43 campaign and members of Canadian Army Film and Photo Unit, I completed a tour of the Sicilian battlefields now linked with the name of Canada.

Those battlefields have just delivered their year's crops. Demolished bridges and blown-up roads have been either fully or nearly rebuilt and everywhere Bailey bridges have been moved to more useful positions.

Except that the track is still out between Fiume and Freddo and Messina, most of the normal railway routes are functioning. Lighting and water facilities operate as previously. Postal and telegraphic communications have been resumed and telephones too.

Schools and universities are open again.

Most of the bomb-torn buildings and homes are rebuilt or nearly so, but two towns—Regalbuto and Andrano—are still rising from the rubble. Elsewhere new sections of simple stone cottages resemble vast prewar housing projects.

The word "war" has no further reality for the Sicilian. His own experience of it was so transitory and his memory is so elastic that to him it means merely that living is expensive and relatives and friends, now prisoners abroad, cannot return.

Alleged Slayer Goes To Police

BRANTFORD, July 10— (CP).—Harold Simon, 25, is under arrest here to-day on a nominal charge of vagrancy in connection with the death of 77-year-old John Baker on Friday night.

Simon walked into the police station late last night and surrendered himself. He was to appear in court to-day charged with vagrancy.

After being assaulted while barring a party of five young men and women from entering a carnival, Baker died and was released for burial on Saturday following an autopsy. His assailant swam the Grand River to escape police.

Baker was a city works employee and was on vacation.

30,000 Voters Added In West Election

EDMONTON, July 10. — A new group of voters, those 19 and 20 years old, who were given the franchise in provincial elections at the spring session of the Legislature, may decide the winner in Alberta's Aug. 8 vote. That's what the observers said last night as they scanned the results of the last general election in 1940 and tried to pick a winner in this one.

The province moved the voting minimum down to 19 after long debate. One of the arguments in favor of the move was that if these youths were fit to die in the skies over Europe in defense of Canada and the Empire, then they were old enough to vote. Observers believe that under ordinary circumstances there might be 30,000 voters added to the list by this legislation.

If the race is as close as it was the last time, this 30,000 may determine the outcome of the election. In the general election of 1940, Social Credit candidates obtained 132,869 in the popular vote. The Independents, the chief opposition group to the Government at that time, got 130,603. The C.C.F. received only 34,316, and, under the "all others" classification the total was 11,076.

Only Two By-Elections

Despite the narrowness in the popular vote, Social Crediters were well out in front in the number of candidates elected. Social Credit elected 36. Independents got 19. Liberal and Labor each got one.

There have been two by-elections since that time. Social Credit took one; C.C.F. the other, when Elmer E. Roper, the Alberta C.C.F. leader, was the winner in Edmonton constituency.

Since the 1940 general election, the C.C.F. organization has increased its power. At the same time, it appears that the loosely knitted Independent association may have slipped a little ground. The chief part of the Independent platform in 1940 was that the organization was anti-Social Credit. Its candidates were drawn from the United Farmers' Association, the Liberals and the Conservatives.

It appears that there might be a flood of candidates for the Aug. 8 vote. The Social Crediters can be expected to put up candidates for each of the 57 seats. So will the C.C.F. group. The Labor-Progressives will have many candidates, perhaps the full number.

Short Campaign

James A. MacPherson, who has run in elections before under the Communist banner, is the leader of the Labor-Progressives.

It's going to be a short campaign. Premier Manning dissolved the Legislature on July 7, and announced the election date was just one month and one day away. There's hustle and bustle, in all of the political groups. The election announcement came with many candidates still to be named, and there's a blood of nomination meeting announcements.

It's significance that Premier Manning selected the same voting day as Quebec. There's one well-founded report that he had selected Aug. 10, and moved it up to Aug. 8 when Quebec came out with its announcement. The reason? The "experts" figure it this way: The way Soci Credit candidates fared in Quebec might affect the Alberta election.

intends to participate with her Allies, at her rightful place, first in the war and then in the life of the world at peace."

Gen. de Gaulle said President Roosevelt spoke to him of American responsibilities for the war and for the peace "with a breadth of view, a knowledge of the problems, and an idealism which particularly impressed me."

The general, who will go to Montreal tomorrow spoke in French after an initial "good morning, ladies and gentlemen" in English.

First he read a statement expressing his satisfaction with the talks with the president, State Secretary Hull and other officials. Then he answered questions freely.

So far, there have been no concrete agreements made known but since American relations with the French committee have depended so much on personalities the new atmosphere of friendship is considered a good sign that details of plans for administration of liberated France can now be worked out to mutual satisfaction.

directly at breaking out of the invasion beachhead into the open country of France.

Headquarters said "there are no signs the enemy has any definite prepared defensive positions short of the Seine," and suggested that Marshal Erwin Rommel would probably resort to a town-by-town strongpoint system of defence.

Have Little Rest

The new attack, flung with a thunderous artillery barrage at 5 a.m., came just 15 hours after British and Canadian forces had taken Caen, 120 miles from Paris, and opened the way to a favorable flat battleground on the plain of Caen south of the Port of Falice.

On the western end of the line an American drive made progress in all sectors following the capture of La Haye Du Puits, bitterly-defended German stronghold.

Field dispatches assaying the extent of the British-Canadian victory at Caen said the German 12th SS. Panzer Division and a field division had been badly mauled in trying to hold the town. The 12th Panzers were reported whittled to 45 per cent. of their normal strength, a loss of perhaps 5,500 men.

The town of Caen was so badly battered that the British had to bring up bulldozers to push the rubble aside because vehicles could not get within 500 yards of the river.

Severe Reverse

"The Germans have suffered a severe reverse," the Allied Supreme Command asserted in commenting on the capture of Caen, stubborn bastion on the eastern wing of the bridgehead front, but hastened to add:

"They have not yet suffered a major defeat in the field."

The bulk of the German troops engaged in the area staged an "organized retreat," in the words of a headquarters statement, and took a new stand along the south bank of the Orne.

The Germans' whole Normandy front was described as in "a state of strain" today.

Lt.-Gen. Bradley's American 1st Army advanced an average of a mile along many parts of the Cherbourg Peninsula front. In the St. Jean De Daye sector it captured Cavigny, three miles southeast of St. Jean, and also Le Desert, two miles southwest.

"In this fighting American troops occupied the reverse position that the British did in the capture of Cherbourg, the Supreme Command explained.

"They tied up many German divisions while the British and Canadians attacked Caen. Just as the capture of Cherbourg would have been impossible without British held in the past, so the capture of help in the past. so th ecapture of without American help in the west."

Caen Falls Sunday.

To-day Allied troops were on the move everywhere along the Normandy front except in the sector from St. Lo to Caumont. German lines were being bulged to the bursting point.

Caen, an objective for 35 days, fell to British and Canadian troops at 2 p.m. Sunday (8 a.m. E.D.T.). La Haye, previously by-passed on both sides, was mopped up by American infantry at 10 p.m. Saturday night (4 p.m. E.D.T.).

The capture of Caen, barrier on the road to Paris, 120 miles away, was the most important Allied victory since the fall of Cherbourg and an exploit typical of Montgomery.

"Monty," as always, waited until he was completely prepared. Then he cut loose with a mighty artillery barrage. His infantry and tanks followed through.

The result was similar to his great 1942 victory at El Alamein which sent Rommel's Afrika Korps into its final retreat.

One Allied officer called Caen the "El Alamein of France." It remained to be seen whether Rommel again Montgomery's opponent, could rally his forces quickly enough to stem the Caen break-through.

Stubborn SS. Elite guards fought to the death in shattered La Haye and today American troops battled southward in the seventh day of a bitter battle from pillbox to pillbox, hedge to hedge. A three-headed American assault menaced Rommel's centre and his left flank.

Pocketed behind Allied lines in the Caen area still were the remnants of 1½ divisions of German troops. The mopping-up of these points of resistance was in progress today.

The actual taking of Caen was surprisingly easy. The main body of German defenders apparently fled across the Orne river Saturday night.

Fall Back on Falaise

With this shattered city in Allied hands, the next likely communication points where Rommel might make a stand were Falaise, 21 miles south of Caen, and Lisieux, 28 miles east of it.

Front dispatches said the Germans had opened floodgates at Cabourg, sending tidal waters into the heart of France and along the coast to Le Havre. This probably was designed to prevent a break-through to the mouth of the Seine.

Rommel used at least seven tank divisions and some of his best troops in a desperate effort to hold Caen. Montgomery's artillery and overwhelming air power softened them up for tank and infantry attacks. The Germans tried a last-ditch stand which cost them heavy casualties. Thousands of prisoners were streaming into cages today.

planes lost were heavy bombers None reported lost were Canadian.

The Allied strategic air campaign against the German war effort was carried forward yesterday by about 1,000 United States heavy bombers which flew in from the west and south escorted by a like number of fighters while many formations of other types continued direct tactical support of the Normandy beachhead.

American 15th Air Force heavies from Italy hit the Romanian oil centre of Ploesti. Britain-based U.S. heavies on three major missions pounded bridges in the Tours area in France, firing bomb launching sites in the Pas de Calais zone and a German airdrome at Chateaudun, 75 miles south-west of Paris Four heavy bombers and 3 fighters were lost in the attack on French targets.

The R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. also sent fighter-escorted four-engined bombers against the buzz-bomb sites as these terror missiles continued to fall in Southern England and the London area. Bad weather hindered Allied bombing.

American mediums also were out, some bombing a highway bridge south of Orleans, while others hammered a fuel dump near Rennes. One was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

Hit 55 Engines

The fighters, which escorted the heavy bombers from Britain dropped to low levels and hit targets of opportunity. They destroyed or damaged 55 locomotives, 388 freight and tank cars, 68 trucks and other motor vehicles and 30 railroad ammunition cars.

Perhaps 500 U.S. heavies participated in the blow against oft-raided Ploesti. One group directed its bombs against the Concordia-Vega refinery, and another hit the Xena refinery. As they left great billows of smoke arose.

Early yesterday an R.C.A.F. Wellington squadron of the coastal command successfully attacked two forces of enemy shipping off the Netherlands coast.

Buildings believed to house a German headquarters southwest of Caen were hit Saturday night by members of a Normandy - based Typhoon squadron.

That the Germans are becoming hard-pressed for motor fuel was shown by the capture in Normandy of an increasing number of tanks and trucks which had run out of fuel.

One field dispatch reported a German order had been issued forbidding tank commanders from drawing fuel from German air force supplies.

spruce with white birch underbrush.

In some of the lands the fire has made a clean sweep, but in others have woven a crazy pattern, leaping over large areas before beginning its destruction again.

Tension was still particularly high in Val D'Or, Cadillac, and at Malartic. Fires burned on the very outskirts of the three towns, with all available men using a variety of equipment carrying on the fight far into the night. Their fight was made particularly difficult by the fact that underbrush extends from the forests into the back yards of homes on the outskirts of the villages where houses are clustered together in an irregular fashion.—

Although fires still burned around Cadillac, the threat of destruction diminished sufficiently to allow 406 women and children, evacuated Friday night, to return to their homes.

No "extremely valuable" timber limits had yet been touched, it was said. However, not even a rough estimate of damage was available although it was added that it would probably be "very high" when stock was taken of damage done to private residences in towns' villages and rural routes, timber limits, loss of work and communication lines.

LONDON—Paris radio announced tonight that Georges Barthelemy, former deputy and mayor of Puteaux, was assassinated this morning by Terrorists.

Americans Wrest Saipan from Japanese

PEARL HARBOR, July 10.—(AP).—Vast new possibilities of sea and air smashes toward Japan and the Philippines were in view today with the conquest of Saipan and Noemfoor Islands in the Western Pacific. Onrushing American forces wrested Saipan Saturday from a terrified Japanese garrison trapped on the island's northern tip. It fell 24 hours after Allied forces took over Noemfoor near New Guinea's northwest end.

Associated Press War Correspondent Rembert James, representing the combined Allied press, relayed first details of the savage bitter-end struggle the trapped Japanese offered on Saipan.

"Organized Japanese resistance ended just before dusk yesterday (Saturday)," he wrote. "Civilians were surrendering by the hundreds.

"From Saipan American planes can fly across Japan's sea and air routes southward from the empire and even Japanese home islands will be in reach of the long-range planes."

James said probably 95 per cent of the Japanese garrison, estimated at more than 20,000 when the invasion began July 14, had been destroyed.

"The finale yesterday was an ugly spectacle of senseless dying," he reported.

Super-fortresses could operate from Saipan against Tokyo, 1,450 miles north of the Philippines, 1,500 miles west. The island also has great potentialities as a naval supply point and submarine staging base.

Noemfoor's three airfields, 800 miles south-east of Mindanao, were captured within five days last week.

Vat Built In 1886 Now Being Replaced

The relining with heavy lead sheeting of a vat that has been long in use at the plant of B. F. Ackerman, Son & Company has been an out-of-the-ordinary job at the plumbing shop of Archibald & Richmond, Water street. Its capacity is perhaps one-half more than the average bath-tub, and its plumbing craftsmanship was chiefly in the wiping of joints and corners.

The Ackerman harness business has been operating in Peterborough for about seventy-two years. A date on the inside of the old lining of the vate was 1886, which might have been the time it was made here for Nicholls Hospital from whom it was purchased at the time some repairs were made at that institution.

The original was apparently put together more than half a century ago, and has given a long and honest service. In fact, the stout wood shell shows no weakness and will probably continue in use for still many years as a water vat for the dipping of leather.

35 People Met Sudden Death Over Week-End

(By The Canadian Press)

Twenty-five persons, including six in a grain elevator explosion and fire at Midland, Ont., died in accidents in Eastern Canada during the week-end. Sixteen of the deaths were recorded in Ontario, six in Quebec, two in Prince Edward Island and one in Nova Scotia. Ten drownings were included, and in addition to the 25 listed deaths, police announced the finding of the body of a newly-born baby boy on the beach at the Humber River in West Toronto.

The death toll on the Mount Bruno, Que., military camp shell explosion last Thursday rose to 11 when Pte. Arthur Chippendale, of Kingston, Ont., died from injuries suffered in the blast. In Ottawa's suburban Woodroffe the body of E. G. Wills, former justice department employee, was found hanging in a shed at the rear of his home.

The six men killed at Midland lost their lives in an explosion and fire at the Aberdeen grain elevator. It was caused by spontaneous combustion. The dead are Isaac Fry, 42, John Wheeler, 70, Appie Cowie, Clarence Miller, 24, Alfred Robbins, 73, and Midas Bierriault, 42.

Six persons—including four 'teenage youths—were drowned in Ontario—Harold Roberts, 17, of Guelph, in the Ontario Reformatory artificial lake on Sunday; Charles Peterson, 14, of Buffalo, N.Y., in the Niagara River at Fort Erie on Saturday; Pat Morris, 16, of Durham, Ont., in the Saugeen River near his home Sunday; Pte. George Heinz, 18, of Windsor, Ont., in the Thames River at Chatham Saturday; three-year-old Larry Cain of St. Catharines, Ont., in a pool at a neighbor's home, Saturday; three-year-old Lois Ewing, found drowned Saturday in the well on a farm near Hillsville, Ont., 15 miles from Napanee, where her father was employed.

At London, Ont., on Saturday, 80-year-old Allan G. Simpson was killed when his bicycle collided with an automobile; Mrs. Elmer Crawford, of Hindon Hill, Ont., was killed near Haliburton, Ont., when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into a truck.

Raymond Coon, 35-year-old construction worker, was killed in a plant at Niagara Falls, Ont., Saturday.

At Primrose, P.E.I., two children —Frances Millar, five, and his three-year-old sister, Harriet Theresa—were burned to death when fire destroyed their parents' home.

Gnr. N. A. Hearts, 19, R.C.A., of Toronto, was drowned in Kearney Lake, near Halifax, Sunday. Three persons were drowned in Quebec Saturday. — Onesime Robinson, 43, and Andre Bernier, 12, near Ste. Rose, about 15 miles northwest of Montreal, and Gerard Coutu, 30, in a Laurentian lake.

Joseph Vincent, 50, of St. Paul L'Ermite, and Maurice Gagnon, 23, of St. Come, Joliette County, were killed in an automobile crash Sunday near Point Aux Trembles.

Nazis Planning General Retreat

LONDON, July 10.—(CP).—The Germans declared East Prussia a "rear area of operations" and are planning a swift withdrawal from the Pskov-Narva sector of Estonia, information reaching a person with close connections with the German underground said to-day.

This informant asserted the Nazi plan called for the evacuation of all of Estona and most of Latvia to strengthen the defences of East Prussia, cradle of Junkers military leadership.

The Berlin radio said the garrison of Wilno, 95 miles from East Prussia, had withdrawn to the centre of the great rail centre in a "rear-guard action."

Restriction on civilian travel and other activties were reported in East Prussia as the Russian army groups thundered westward at a startling pace. Gauleiter Erich Kock and the military commander of Koenigsberg, capital of East Prussia were said to have been given dictatorial powers to aid the defense of the province.

The retreat near the Baltic, which may already be started, would move the German 16th army from the Nava area to Tallinn, capital of Estonia, for evacuation by sea to East Prussia. The 18th German army was reported scheduled to retreat from Pskov to Riga where it also would be evacuated by sea or land to East Prussia, depending on how swiftly the Russians smash through toward the Latvian capital.

Further accenting the growing German manpower shortage were reported reaching Norwegian circles in London of the withdrawal of Nazi troops from Norway for service in France. Garrisons were said to have left Gardermoen and Hvaldsmoen, and transports were reported leaving Lillehammer.

Three Escape Death In Train Crash

BAILIEBORO, July 10— (ENS). —Mr. and Mrs. James Fair and Mrs. Way Byers narrowly missed death when their car was struck by a south-bound C.N.R. train at the Cavan Street crossing in Port Hope on Friday. Mrs. Fair was driving and due to short range of visibility at this crossing their car had reached the tracks when the train was sighted. Unable to reverse in time, their car was struck and thrown to the east ditch.

Mr. Fair was the most seriously hurt, and suffered a serious loss of blood from a cut artery in the left arm, as well as numerous other cuts and abrasions, one on the forehead requiring several stitches After hospital treatment he was able to proceed to his home.

Mrs. Fair and Mrs. Byers escaped with bruises and slight cuts and a severe shaking. The car was almost a total wreck.

Automobile Theft Is Laid To Soldier

Pte. Edwin A. Kerr, a young soldier stationed at St. John, Quebec, was charged in police court before Magistrate E. A. Gee this morning with the theft of an automobile from Elmer Eldred, Apsley, taken from in front of 121 Stewart street, during Saturday night.

Eldred had left the machine there around 10.30 o'clock Saturday night while he made a trip to Lindsay. When he returned at 2.45 o'clock Sunday morning his car was gone.

The city police were notified and communicated with the police departments in other cities with the result that Oshawa police arrested Kerr early Sunday morning in the stolen car.

Officers John Stevenson and Harold Mesley brought the young soldier back to Peterborough Sunday afternoon.

He was remanded without plea or election in order that the military authorities might be notified.

Hun Stronghold Volterra Falls To 5th

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ROME, July 10.—(AP).—Overcoming dogged enemy resistance, American infantry men who yesterday captured the German stronghold of Volterra, have knifed forward another four miles and driven a "significant" wedge in the German defences fronting the so-called Gothic line, Allied headquarters announced today.

No important gains were reported by British 8th Army troops threatening the vital communications centre of Arezzo, where the Germans have been digging in for a prolonged battle. The Nazis are counter-attacking fiercely in that area, but British spokesmen announced they had restored all positions overrun in these thrusts.

Further east in the Apennines, the 8th Army captured Pietralunga and repulsed two strong night counter-attacks. In the upper Tiber Valley, a gain of five miles was recorded as the British mopped up Montone and Carpini and pushed on some eight miles northeast of Umbertide.

Close Fighting

Close-quarter bayonet fighting resulted from a German attempt to dislodge British units from newly won hill positions west of Carpini.

Eighth Army patrols in the Adriatic sector surprised a German position and captured 60 prisoners near Filottrano. Limited gains were reported heavy fighting which carried up to the line of the Musome River.

The American action in driving the Nazis from Volterra was described officially as a setback to the enemy's intention of imposing the maximum delay on the Allied 5th Army's drive toward the Arno River, in which are situated the cities of Florence and Pisa.

Progress Slow

Progress, however, remained slow along the entire Italian front as the Germans continued to mass guns and troops and to fight desperately from every vantage point.

On the west coast, an Allied spokesman said, American troops made an advance of unspecified distance toward Livorno (Leghorn) despite heavy enemy fire of all kinds and widespread demolition. The troops in that sector were last reported only 10 miles from the big port.

Another American force moved up to attack Pomaja, eight miles inland and 14 miles southeast of Livorno. This village is astride the important north-south highway. Lajatico, 21 miles east of Livorno, was threatened by another thrust.

Elements of eight German divisions have been identified in the line facing the 5th Army. Among them are the 36th S.S. regiment and the 9th Panzer Grenadier regiment.

Supported by 20 tanks, the Germans launched a strong counter-attack against French forces in the vicinity of Ranza, 8¼ miles east of Volterra, and heavy fighting raged in that section.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10 (ENS) —Flying Officer Eric Douglas who was born in Campbellford 31 years ago and whose two brothers are also on Active Service is now presumed to be killed in action somewhere over the Mediterranean, according to official word received by his father D. W. Douglas, now of Hamilton, Ont. Eric, Paul and Evan Douglas were educated in the Campbellford Public and High Schools while residing here where their father was agent for the Ford Motor Co. of Canada. There grandmother, Mrs. John Douglas and uncle, Ross Douglas, solicitor, reside in town. At the time of his enlistment FO. Douglas was on the staff of the College St. branch of the Bank of Montreal in Toronto.

Cobourg Road Group Completes 32 Quilts

HASTINGS, July 10.—(ENS). — Mrs. Virgil Oliver was hostess to members of the Coboung Road Red Cross for their July meeting.

Miss Clara Williamson presided and they quilted two quilts during the afternoon. Mrs. Foster also handed in two quilts completed, which she had made. This making a total of 32 quilts for the group this year. Mrs. Cecil Oliver, sewing convener, handed in seven pair of pyjamas.

Mrs. Arthur Beamish, knitting convener, gave the report for the past two months as follows: 8 pairs socks, 4 helmets, 1 turle neck long-sleeved sweater, and 1 pair of gloves.

Messrs. Arthur Beamish and Howard Kelleher have gave blood at the blood donors' clinic, Peterborough, this month.

Mrs. Coveney and Mrs. C. Olliver are a committee appointed in charge of the parcels for the boys overseas this month.

A travelling apron has started to make its rounds from house to house. Mrs. Coveney, Mrs. Dickey and Mrs. Cleary are in charge of the apron.

The August meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Richard Kelleher.

Heavy Rain In Cobourg

COBOURG, June 10 —(ENS)— Much needed rain fell on Sunday afternoon and evening in Cobourg. It was accompanied by a mild thunder storm. The rain came in intermittent showers, and although it helped some, it did not do as much good as a steady all-night rain. Local gardens have fared pretty well this year in regard to moisture but during the past week there was a tendency for many gardens to show the effect of the continued dry weather.

WHERE OVER FORTY DIED IN TROOP TRAIN WRECK—A view of the scene where a Louisville and Nashville R.R. troop train was derailed and plunged into a 50-foot gorge of the Clear River 11 miles south of Jellico, Tenn. Between 40 and 50 persons were killed and scores injured, according to the latest accounts from the scene. Because the train was carrying troops, the army has taken charge and full details of the accident have not yet been revealed.

Austin Maher Hurt In Cobourg C[illegible]

COBOURG, July [illegible]). — Austin Maher of Cobourg was badly shaken up in a motor accident which occurred here during the week-end at the corner of Chapel and College streets. According to police, Maher was proceeding north on College when a west-bound car came off Chapel street, driven by Clayton McGregor of R.R. No. 6, Cobourg, and struck the rear right fender of the meat truck driven by Maher. The truck was sent against the left curb and then turned over. Damage was slight to both vehicles. "Mike" Maher, son of the driver of the truck, was with his father at the time but escaped injury.

Seymour Soldier Is Wounded In France

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10. — (ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Lancelot Stephens of Seymour township have received word that their son, Gunner Stanley Stephens, had been wounded by shell fragments in the right elbow and left hip on June 23rd, in the battle of France. Gunner Stephens enlisted with the 14th Field Battery of Cobourg in the fall of 1939 and has been overseas for nearly four years. He is convalescing in a hospital in England where his wife also resides.

Troop Train In

TORONTO, July 10 — (CP). — Rfmn. Fred Wilson of Thorold, Ont., who was wounded on D-Day by a sniper's bullet in Normandy, arrived here during the week-end. Also arriving Saturday night aboard a troop train were 49 other soldiers, veterans of the Italian campaign. Among them was Pte. Robert T. Jones of Brantford, who served with the Royal Regiment of Canada through Sicily and was felled by shrapnel in fighting beyond Ortona in Italy.

Wing Commander Johnson After Scalp of Nazi Ace

By MONTAGUE TAYLOR

WITH THE R.A.F. IN FRANCE, July 10 (CP-Reuters)—Wing Cmdr. J. E. (Johnny) Johnson, 28-year-old English commander of a Canadian fighter wing an top-scoring Allied fighter pilot, has challenged one of Germany's vaunted aces, Mantoni, to an aerial duel.

Johnson, with 35 destroyed enemy aircraft to his credit, revealed yesterday that he had sent out the challenge over his radio telephone to Mantoni, known to be fighting in the Normandy area, who claims to have destroyed 100 aircraft.

"I have sent out an invitation to Mantoni over the radio telephone," Johnson told me.

Ready for Meeting

"Of course, it is very difficult to spot him in the midst of a dogfight, but we have seen the uncommon sight of a Focke Wulf flying in the middle of a formation of Messerschmitt 109's as they slipped into cloud cover before we could get among them.

"Perhaps there will be a meeting one fine day. I'm ready."

Even making allowances for the scarce appearances of the Luftwaffe in the skies, Mantoni has not made himself conspicuous to date. Our pilots have invited him, taunted him, even playfully abused him over their radio telephones which they know are constantly tapped as they fly.

"Now then, where's this cracked-up Mantoni?" frequently crackles in the ears of the Luftwaffe radio operators in Normandy.

Mantoni's favorite trick is to fly on top of his formation, and then, as the fight begins, he pounces underneath at the opposing formations.

He is an expert at dropping on the tails of stragglers, or those of pilots who are temporarily trying to take evasive action in a tight corner.

Mantoni is not the only veteran Luftwaffe pilot to be reported here, a fact that further stresses the German's strange reluctance to offer constant and heavy challenge to our fighters.

Mantoni gained his reputation in Italy.

Obituary

FREDERICK HOAR

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10 (ENS) — Frederick Hoar of Toronto, who had been spending his holiday with his brother, Joseph and Mrs. Hoar of Campbellford, died suddenly with a heart attack Saturday. He had been fishing and was sitting in the shade of a tree with his brother when the seizure occurred. He is survived by his wife, one son Harold of Peterborough, one daughter, Mrs. Percy Ward of Toronto, and two brothers, Joseph of town and George of Toronto. Mr. Hoar was 74 years of age and had been living retired. The funeral was held from Bennett's Funeral Parlour at 1:30 p.m. Monday. Interment was in Cobourg Cemetery.

"DERRIS DUST"
INSECTICIDE KILLER

Insecticides compounded with "Derris" have both contact and stomach poison properties. "Derris Dust" will kill both biting and sucking insects such as many kinds of aphids, bugs, beetles and caterpillars. Control results should not be assessed until several hours after application. "Derris Dust" is extremely toxic to insects but relatively non-poisonous to humans and warm-blooded animals. This advantage should be given particular attention by commercial growers since "Derris Dust" may be applied "anytime", even shortly before treated crop is to be harvested and consumed.

"SULFORON"
SPRAY KILLER FOR FUNGICIDE AND INSECTICIDE

"Sulforon" is specially prepared micro-fine sulphur. It is so fine that thousands of these tiny particles would be required to cover the head of an ordinary pin. For this reason "Sulforon" should not be classed with old type mesh sulphurs. "Sulforon" is a more active form of sulphur than other coarsely divided products. This gives a better control of those fungus diseases which can be controlled by sulphur sprays. The small particles of "Sulforon" are immediately effective on application. These penetrate the fuzz on the undersides of apple leaves, very small apples, many stone fruit and the common fungicides of flowers. Also useful as a good control on "Two Spotted," "Pacific", "Pear Blister" and "European Red" Mites. Sulforon, like all elemental sulphurs is protective fungicide. It is not caustic, like liquid or dry lime-sulphur and thus does not affect the normal activity of the foliage.

Modern Canada Starts Here

Electric Power

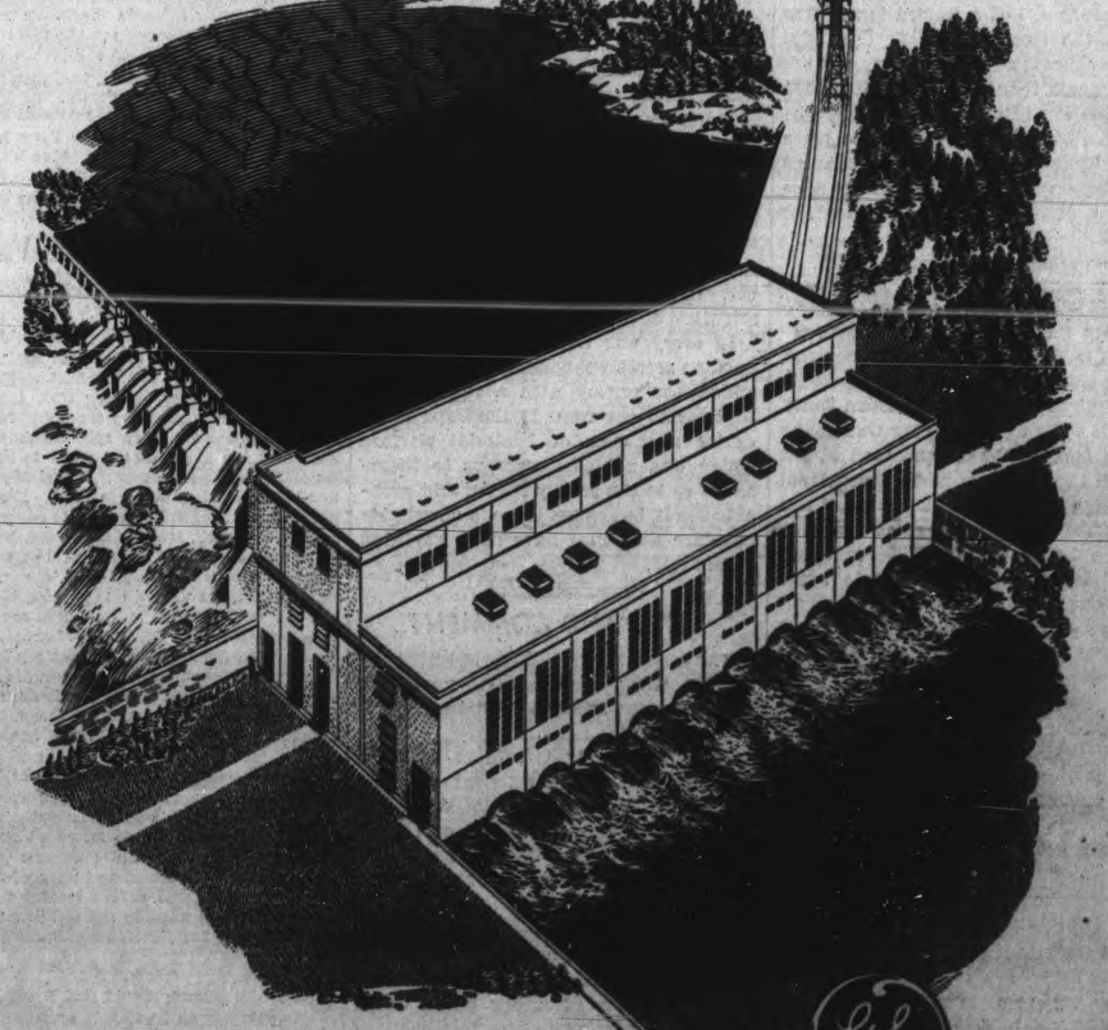
KEY TO OUR NATION'S DEVELOPMENT

● Behind Canada's growth as a modern industrial nation, behind Canada's proud record of war production, behind all the plans for swift and splendid Canadian development after the war—stands one predominant factor, Electric Power!

Abundant, thrifty, inexhaustible—Electric Power, derived from the thundering waters of our mighty rivers, already has contributed much to Canada's progress. It has powered our factories and mines. It has stepped-up the output of our shipyards, lumber mills and farms. It has been a major factor in raising us to the position of fourth place among the arms producers of Democracy.

Yet, despite all that Electric Power has done and is doing here in Canada more and more uses will be found for it in the future. Wisely and widely applied in the days after Victory it can enrich us to an unimaginable degree—with finer cities, with worthier homes, with added leisure. It can lay the foundation of a still higher standard of living.

But such progress must be planned for. It must be planned for now—by all of us. By you, for your home : : : by you, for your business or farm . . . by you, for your community. True there must be no relaxation of our war effort today, yet by planning we prepare for action ahead . : . we prepare work ahead : : : we prepare markets ahead which will absorb our fullest productivity—create full and gainful employment for everyone—and thus establish the firm and stable basis upon which our nation's future can be built. Let us "Think Big" and plan big—now!



As "Canada's Greatest Electrical Workshop", Canadian General Electric is proud of the part it has played in the Dominion's electrical progress. C.G.E. for 52 years has been bringing the benefits of electrical living to the people of Canada. Today, with seven great plants and a staff of 10,000 workers, the Company is going all-out in support of Canada's vast and vital programme of war production.

The Civilian's War

Mr. Churchill has pointed out that more civilians have been killed by the robot bombs in London than were killed in the first 15 days of the invasion of Normandy. The robot attack, which was rather foolishly dismissed as a nuisance by certain news agencies when it first began, has proved to be as bad as the Blitz, and once again the Prime Minister calls upon London to 'take it'.

London will take it. She took it during the Blitz, when the bitter joke was made that the Army's job was to knit comforts for the poor civilians. She will take it again, while the Army fights in France. And taking the kind of attack which the Germans reserve for civilian populations demands a very special, and very high, type of courage. The fighting man is in danger and a considerable degree of physical discomfort, but he has the great satisfaction of knowing that his enemy is within reach, and that he is giving as good as he gets, if not a little better. The civilian has a harder lot; he must endure the bombs which he cannot fight, and run for shelter when every instinct urges him to seek an enemy and destroy him. There is a George Cross for civilians who have done particularly meritorious work under bombing, and the King has bestowed this honour upon the island of Malta; we hope that when the war is won His Majesty will see fit to award another George Cross to the Metropolitan City of London.

The robot bomb is not a military weapon, for it cannot be used with accuracy; it is an engine of indiscriminate slaughter, intended to terrorize civilians and kill them in droves. Far from being a mere nuisance, it is a great danger, and until it can be dealt with there is nothing for Londoners to do but endure it. The Prime Minister has said that fighting in Normandy must not be allowed to suffer in order that the robots may be dealt with, and there are few Londoners who would wish him to make any other decision. But a hatred is growing against the Germans which the Blitz never produced; rough-and-ready as the bombing was then, it was possible that most of it was intended for military objectives. But the robot bomb is a piece of gratuitous terrorism, a last upsurge of the German desire to kill for the sake of killing. It will never be forgotten nor forgiven.

Death And Taxes

Modern methods of taxation have reduced the citizen, and his government, to some shifts which would have delighted the misanthropic soul of Dean Swift. A few months ago Sir Harry Oakes, the mining magnate, was murdered at his home in the Bahamas and a sensational trial followed. At that time the point was emphasized that Sir Harry had made his money out of Canadian mines, and that he had left Canada in order to avoid heavy Canadian taxation. The suggestion was that Sir Harry had behaved somewhat less than honourably, and that he should have remained in Canada and contributed to the Canadian treasury. Sir Harry, during his lifetime, insisted that if he lived in Canada he would be forced to make over a fabulous proportion of his income to the state, and that he was not in business primarily to provide revenue for the Dominion of Canada. The dispute was not a pretty one, but it went on for years.

Now that he is dead, a news item tells us that Ontario succession duty officials are exploring every possibility which may give them a claim on his fortune. The Provincial Treasurer, Mr. Leslie Frost, sees several million dollars coming his way if it can be proved that Harry Oakes retained 'Ontario domicile'. The Dominion Government, also, is doing what it can to establish a claim on some of the boodle. "There is always a chance we may get something", Mr. Frost is quoted as saying; that is the attitude of modern governments toward the death of any citizen who dies with more than enough to bury himself.

Considering these matters, the truly liberal citizen must sometimes feel that if socialism is to come to Canada, it had better come at once. As things stand at present the capitalist is victimized in life and despoiled in death. If he exercises his natural talent for developing the natural resources of the country, the country will reward him by taking back all but a tithe of what he makes; if he raises himself from rags to riches, he may die with the pleasant assurance that his children will be reduced to rags once again. He cannot attempt to establish a family distinguished for its patronage of the arts or the sciences, because the government will not leave them the money with which to do so (and will not do so itself). As matters stand at present, men of unusual ability might welcome a system which arbitrarily limited their incomes, for under such a system they would not be pillaged in life and after death.

Bacterial Warfare

A book has appeared called Japan's Secret Weapon, written by Barclay Newman, which does its best to make our flesh creep by insisting that the Japanese have elaborate plans for bacterial warfare. The author backs up his assertions with a quantity of scientific detail which we are not qualified to criticise; nevertheless, we find it hard to attach great importance to what he has said. Bacterial Warfare, like rocket-bombs and space-ships, is a great deal easier to talk about than to use in practical warfare.

Its great disadvantage, of course, is that a microbe does not distinguish between the Japs who put it to work and the Chinese or Americans whom it is supposed to infect. It might be possible to start an epidemic of bubonic plague or black fever, or river fever in China, but if the epidemic got under way it might kill more Japs than Chinese. Malaria is perhaps easier to control, but it could only be used in a somewhat static type of warfare; the American defenders of a position might be wiped out by malaria, but it would then be necessary for the Japs to free that position of malaria before they could occupy it without great danger to themselves; such action would take time, and in warfare there is not usually much time for these refinements.

Mr. Newman lists ten different sorts of disease which he says that the Japs have used, or intend to use. Malaria is the least horrifying; leprosy and cancer are perhaps the worst. But unless we are greatly mistaken, it takes considerable time for a man to be seriously infected with leprosy, and several years before the disease shows its characteristic hideous result. As matters stand at present we do not think that the threat of leprosy will deter either Chinese or American fighters. As for cancer, Mr. Newman insists that the Japs would spread it by the use of hydrocarbons, and he says that the Japs have cancer-causing chemicals which they mix with war gases. But again, cancer takes time to develop, and any signs of a cancer epidemic among troops would deserve, and get, the immediate attention of Allied medical skill. We do not venture to contradict Mr. Newman, who writes with impressive solemnity on these matters, but we very much doubt whether a nation of second-rate intelligence, like the Japs, has discovered the secret of cancer, which has so far eluded the best scientists of the more intelligent nations.

In every war there are scares about devilish secret weapons, and people who endow the enemy with a cunning far superior to our own. If the Japs could devise a scheme of bacterial warfare which was not as dangerous to themselves as to the enemy they would probably use it, but so far there is no reliable evidence that they have done anything of the sort.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Japs have something to be thankful for. They don't have to go so far from home in order to fight their war.

Governor Dewey is said to have "a smooth-running and efficient Republican machine" supporting him. Was there ever a candidate successful or unsuccessful, of any party, who was not equipped with one of these miraculous machines?

Since the invasion began, crime in London, England, is said to have reached a new low level. Not one major crime has been reported in the Metropolitan Police District, and only a few small cases were reported in the 16 days following D-Day. It is interesting to note that important war news has been consistently followed by a big drop in crime, particularly in the Metropolitan Area. The phenomenon is further evidence that patriotism is not confined to law-abiding people.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

WE have high hopes about Canada's crop this year. Since the war began we have reaped grain in abundance in this country. We know how a few days of severe drought can evaporate the moisture from the soil on our western plains, and how hot winds can render a crop worthless. We have escaped these calamities, and we had one crop so abundant that housing and storing it became a problem difficult to overcome. Britain, at the seat of war and far from the world's surplus grain, has harvested in the last two years, crops that shall be remembered. This year, when a dry winter almost made British farmers fear the results, rain came and prospects brightened greatly.

Water has been a problem on many British farms this spring and its scarcity brought home to many the fact that farming without water is more dangerous than they ever imagine while it is raining. The result is that preparations are now being made in England, on a quite elaborate scal,e to supply piped water to a great many farms, and at the close of the war, when it will be possible to get workmen, that many large schemes for water supply for rural districts will be undertaken ,and upon a scale never considered before. Water supply and drainage will greatly increase the normal production of food in Britain.

WHEN the world has the curse of active warfare lifted off it, the production of food and clothing will occupy a place leading anything it ever had before. Russia has a land area greater than that of Canada, United States and Central America combined. The population, however, of Russia is over 170 million people and this country is determined to better its standard of living. It has a climate which demands fats in its food and wool in clothing so Russia is not likely to be, for a long time, an exporter of food and clothing to any great extent.

There is a population of 491 million people in China, thousands of whom are living under the threat of famine, and they will be a world problem before very long. Japan is responsible for much of the want in China, while the world stood by. We are now to be faced with the duty of feeding the Chinese and feeding the armies of the world while they fight to free China from Japan's domination. Japan has now gone on and conquered the half of Burma, the most of the Philippines and almost all the East Indies. They have Korea and Manchuria and the entire coast of China. They started out to make the Japanese Empire the grdeatest in the world. The Japanese Empire before war began had a population of 105 million people. What is to be done with them when they are smashed for their greed and betrayal? The Atlantic Charter is to grant the Four Freedoms, its aim will only be achieved by the production of food enough to keep the world from going hungry.

WE have had grand haying days. The last week of June was one of the finest that could be wished for and the first week in July was wonderful. It would be difficult to estimate the increased value of the hay put up in such fine curing weather over that harassed by frequent showers. There is enough moisture in the soil to start the aftermath at once and grazing and second cut of alfalfa both promise good. Corn has come on fine—there has been enough warmth to bring this hot-weather crop on at a good pace. It will pay to raise all the good heifer calves you have this year, and if your cattle are beef breeds bring the steer calves along as well. We are near enough to the downfall of the Germans to make an increased cattle population in Canada quite useful, and feed prospects are favourable for feeding a few extra beasts.

LAST year a considerable quantity of binder twine was made from waste paper in Sweden and the results were so satisfactory that this year all the binder twine used in that country will be made from the same material. This may mean that binder twine in the future may be made from wood pulp and manilla twine abandoned as pulp would be much cheaper than manilla.

HEAVY beef cattle are being marketed in large numbers in England. Manor Farm in Sussex is feeding 50 three year olds. Five Irish bullocks were marketed at Cornhill that averaged 2128 lbs. There were 39 head in the lot and the average weight was 1800 lbs. This is the kind of beef to feed the troops. It will be well finished and much superior in flavour to calf-like baby beef and each animal will produce a substantial quantity of food.

ORDERS have been issued by the British Minister of Agricuture to the War Agricultural Executive Committees to allow fruit growers and nurserymen land for planting fruit trees and root stocks for propagating orchards. Britain's fruit production has been splendid during the war and there is substantial effort to be made for its future improvement. Everything seems to be going mechanical these times. It appears that bees are not going to be able to swarm without ringing a bell, and the Queen can be located in a hive of 50,000 "busy bees" like water in the ground with a divining rod. The warning device to indicate when a hive is going to swarm and the "rod" to point to the Queen are inventions by a television expert in London, England. When the signal for swarming is sounded by the new Queen the exit from the hive is closed automatically and a new one is opened into an empty hive provided and the Queen and her "workers" settle down in their new home.

UNDER an Army Agricultural Scheme in England last year some 12,000 acres were cultivated by the Forces and produce sold or consumed totalled 20,000 tons valued at about 1¾ millions dollars. The whole success of this scheme can be attributed to plenty of help by able-bodied men who worked because they enjoyed it. A man who tills soil will be more successful if it is the job he understands and enjoys.

ONTARIO farmers should find it worth while to plan for an increased acreage of fall wheat for 1945. Wheat stands at the head of food-stuffs, and this province produces a good quality of fall wheat which will likely be much needed next year. Plans must be made now on each farm where wheat is to be seeded this autumn. Wheat should go on land in a good condition of fertility and tilth and some care in preparation of the soil is necessary. The addition of a few bushels to the acre on a fall wheat field can usually be obtained by proper cultivation. If you have barnyard manure the wheat field is a good place to use it, and it is pretty generally agreed that top dressing is the best plan of application. Manure will rot well when used in this way and the crop will get the full benefit of such an application.

NOT SO TERRIBLE —By Thomas

Finding Jobs For Veterans

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

THERE is heartening satisfaction in the report from Labour Minister Mitchell that, largely because of ready co-operation by employers, restoration of war veterans to their former jobs has thus far been carried out without difficulty. Not a single prosecution has been required to enforce the stipulations of the federal law covering the matter.

This lends support to the general belieff, based on concrete evidence, that the great majority of employers are sincerely anxious to comply with the spirit as well as the letter of the law. The average employing executive is eager of his own volition to do everything possible for ex-employees on their return from service with the armed forces.

In many of the larger firms exhaustive study has been given by personnel, production and executive staffs to the special problems of reabsorbing members of the services into suitable jobs, and definite programs laid down for re-establishing former employees in civilian life on as advantageous a basis as possible. In some cases, company officers have been designated to devote all or most of their time to working out these preparations and handing the actual reinstatements as they become necessary.

The encouraging record of the re-employment process to date is all the more creditable in view of the complex problems which undoubtedly have arisen in numerous cases, and which will increase in both complexity and volume as the fighting forces begin to be demobilized in large numbers. As time goes on, the conquest of these problems will challenge the ingenuity and the earnest goodwill of employers throughout the country.

It may hardly be necessary to urge that where such diligence and goodwill are patently lacking, to the disadvantage of the returned veterans, the Government should not hesitate to resort to the powers of compulsion and prosecution which so far it has not had to unsheath. The welfare of demobilized defenders of their country is too important, the debt of the country to them too great, to tolerate shoddy evasions of the law or heartless indifference to the real claims of the veterans to preferment and help in taking up the threads of their war-disrupted lives.

At the same time, it is essential that employers, the Government, the public and the veterans themselves recognize the inherent difficulties that will have to be faced. There is, for example, the problem of young men who left their jobs for the forces in their late 'teens and are now in their early or middle twenties, in many cases have risen to positions of high rank in the various services. Many ex-employees will return from the wars handicapped physically.

In such cases, it will be impossible to re-instal these men in former jobs or equivalent work. In some instances, better jobs will have to be opened up; in others, special posts will have to be developed that will make allowance for handicaps or a general need for rehabilitation and training. Solution of these and kindred problems will indeed call for tolerance, adjustment and wise judgment on the part of all concerned.

Not the least of the problems to be met is the treatment and re-employment of present employees who have taken over the post of members of the forces. Some of these, particularly women, will not remain in the market for jobs, but many others will have to seek other employment if they are displaced by returned veterans. While the veterans should and will get unquestioned priority on available jobs, those they will displace and the thousands laid of from closed war plants cannot be neglected. They, too, are citizens of Canada and will expect to have some share in the high national income and employment aimed at for the post-war period.

The Grim Reality

(LONDON TRIBUNE)

THE terrible battle for survival the French Maquis is now waging. Last week we reported that there had been no premature and rash action by the French. However their order did come on D-Day to attack German communications and hamper the occupying power as much as possible.

The French responded with unbelievable elan. At first it was difficult to sort out the conflicting reports about the situation, but now the main facts are established beyond dispute. A conservative estimate of Frenchmen in arms against Germans is 150 thousand actively engaged and they are now increasing at an unprecedented rate. Eisenhower himself has stated the extent of the sabotage by the French and the great help this has been to the Allies. But now, Rundstedt too has produced a most conclusive evidence.

The crack German SS panzer division Das Reich was stationed near Bordeaux. It was reported to be the only panzer division on this coast. Now the press has reported that this division has moved into the Normandy area but without its panzers. This panzer component of over two hundred tanks could not be sent to relieve the hard pressed Germans at Caen; it had to be sent against the Maquis in the south. It is here that the grim news comes. These men have rallied as we wanted them to rally and encouraged them to do. But one report after another, that reaches us through a friendly Swiss source, indicated their terrible plight unless they were reinforced with supplies and arms, more firmly and quickly.

These reports describe how the French Maquis —with rare exception—are still only armed with sten guns and light equipment, useful for raids against militia forces, are suicidal for use against tanks. They describe a terrible shortage of boots, a decisive factor in mountain warfare. But above all they emphasize the ghastly shortage of medical supplies. One account of the long drawn out battle fought by one of the large Maquis, estimates that the casualties suffered by the French numbered over a thousand. The majority of these were light wounds but in the absence of medical supplies, a tragically large number of them developed complications, gangrene and all sorts of other horrible developments from bullet wounds inadequately dealt with.

Tax-Free Foxholes

Back in the day when personal taxes were small, corporation taxes not onerous and excess profits taxes nil we were wont to think that consumer co-operative societies wouldn't get very far. They were a mere sect in the retail field. On this continent the great food chains had done the job of reducing the cost of distributing food to ultimate consumers in cities. The Rochdale plan, it seemed, hardly could be established in this land as it had been in England. The same savings can't be made twice.

Yet look at us now.

The Wheat Pool elevators may cause the line elevators to fold. A great deal of gasoline is being distributed by co-ops on the Prairies. Co-operative retail establishments are advancing like locusts. In Saskatchewan it's said that the co-ops had an eighty-million-dollar volume last year. Regina even has a co-operative funeral home; prices are standard but there are fat rebates, called dividends, to the deceased when the books are balanced.

If the co-operative prairie fire continues to spread, other businesses will fail or will have sold out to co-ops.

The reason for this change in outlook simply is that co-operatives don't pay federal taxes on profits. If the corporation were freed of ordinary corporation taxes, let alone excess-profits taxes, it would stand or fall on its merits. But no retail business, in which the net margin of profit is small, can survive such competition.

There is nothing wrong with the co-operative principle—either consumer or producer co-operative—but if it is a principle which deserves to survive, it should be subjected to the same taxes as any other type of business. No type of business should have a tax advantage over any other type of buiness.

Mr. Ilsley will have to do something about this rush to dig tax-free fox-holes.

AT FIRST SIGHT

A motorist, who was picked up unconscious after a smash, opened his eyes as he was being carried into a nearby garage. He began to kick and struggle. When he was afterwards asked the reason, he explained that the first thing he saw was a "Shell" sign and "some fool was standing in front of the 'S'."

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS

Perhaps we shouldn't worry about events so far in the future, but we would like to be around a hundred years or so from now, just to see the reaction of people reading in their history books that, in the midst of the greatest war, men stopped work through disputes over a bottle of pop and whether they had to wear ties while on the job.—Windsor Star.

LEARN THE HARD WAY

To many, a farm appeals as a form of retirement—an easy, comfortable, slow-moving existence. And no matter what the farmers tell them to the contrary, they will not be convinced. The only way a stranger to the country can learn what farming is really like is the hard way. The present parade to the country will be followed a few years hence by an equally large parade back to the city.—Renfrew Mercury.

UNIQUE DINING TABLE

Benjamin H. Marshall, 70, design-for-living architect, died of a heart ailment; in Chicago. He designed Chicago's Blackstone, Drake and Edgewater Beach hotels, New York's Maxine Elliott Theatre and Philadelphia's Forrest, for himself designed a pink, gaudy, tricked-up house which boasted a Ming bed that slept seven, a dining table that came up with the soup course, sank to the kitchen below, came back with the chicken and gravy.—Time.

A Bible Message

And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature... And these signs shall follow them that believe; In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover.

So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God. And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them and confirming the word with signs following. Mark 16: 15, 17-20.)

And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place... And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with other tongues, as the spirit gave them utterance. And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven....

Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost....

Then they that glady received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls. And they continued stedfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers. (Acts 2: 1, 4, 5, 38, 41, 42.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The tale is going the rounds how an American journalist on the cross-channel boat to Dublin met an athletic young man with a beautiful soft brogue, wearing civilian clothes. The American went straight to the point:

"Why don't you let the British use those bases?"

"We hate the English," answered the young man.

"Don't you want them to win the war?"

"Oh, yes."

"Then what are you doing to help them?"

"I'm a Hurricane pilot," said the young man.

Haliburton Crash Kills 1, Hurts 4

HALIBURTON, July 10 — One woman is dead and four people are in the Outpost Hospital here as the result of a head-on collision between a car driven by Wesley Crawford of Hindon Hill, and a truck driven by Mr. Homewood of Parry Sound, just outside Haliburton, Saturday.

The dead woman is Mrs. Elmer Crawford, Hindon Hill, whose skull was fractured. Cuts and bruises were suffered by Mrs. Crawford's 20-months-old baby, Mrs. Wesley Rivers, Miss Doris Crawford and Mr. Crawford. Four passengers in the truck were unhurt.

Police say the Crawford car was on the wrong side of the road; that the truck driver swerved to avoid a collision and that the driver of the car swung across the road at the same time.

Cavan Girls' Club Holds Achievement Day

CAVAN, July 10 — (ENS). — The Stitch and Chatter Club in connection with the Junior W.I., under the leadership of Mrs. Mervin Kinsman assisted by Miss Audrey Keene, held its Achievement Day last week in the Community Hall. There are seven members — Wilda Armitage, Mary Richards, Myrtle and Wilma Seymour, Edith Elson, June Miller and Betty Adams. The hall was attractively decorated with flags and flowers in a scheme of red, white and blue, red peonies, blue delphiniums, and white hydrangea. Mrs. Kinsman said an address of welcome which was followed by a sing-song, with Miss Jean Dawson at the piano. The girls put on a skit entitled "Making the Most of Our Clothes." Miss Jean Scott of Bowmanville, who is home economics director of the Agricultural Society, gave a talk on home-making problems. At the close of the program lunch was served.

Plastic Tanks

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 10—(CP)—The Germans are dressing their 60-ton Tiger tanks in plastic hulls in an effort to foil the "sticky" bombs which Allied troops are using to destroy them, it was reported yesterday. The plastic hulls, camouflaged grey green, have a smooth surface which is supposed to shed the bombs.

8 Nazis Escape

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 10—(CP)—State police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents combed Michigan and adjacent states yesterday for eight young Nazi prisoners of war who escaped from two Western Michigan encampments Saturday night. Five prisoners fled from a camp at Lake Odessa, Mich., and three from Fremont, Mich.

This Year We Want A Rest

Vacation this year has a somewhat different meaning to many people. Real rest of body and mind is sought for and an opportunity to replenish the exhausted nervous system.

Long hours at work, worry, anxiety and loss of sleep have brought on a condition of chronic fatigue. You are nearly always tired, have fickle appetite and digestive troubles. Lack of energy tends to make you downhearted and discouraged.

Rest and the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a combination that is hard to beat when you are seeking to get back health and vigor.

Why not make the most of your vacation this year by trying out this plan of supplying to the system the Vitamin B_1 and minerals which are essential for your restoration.

In many summer places the tin can diet is so general that you fail to get in your food enough of these ingredients which your system so greatly needs. This is another reason why it is so advantageous for you to take with you Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of helping to supply what is essential for the improvement of your health.

Ask your druggist for the new economy size bottle of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and prove to your own satisfaction the benefits to be obtained from this treatment.

St. Kitt's Score Lacrosse Win Over Mimico

ST. CATHARINES, July 10.—Paced by Punk Morton and Bobby Thorpe with five goals apiece, St. Catharines Athletics retained second place by a comfortable margin in Senior O.L.A. competition here on Saturday night. They defeated Mimico Mountaineers 21-11 in the second home game of the young season. The two most colorful visitors were rookies Blain and Jack McDonald, sons of past president Jack McDonald of the O.L.A., who also coached the Toronto suburbanites.

A's had cagey Carl (Gus) Madsen out for the first time this year, to bolster the home defense, thus giving them a weighty four-some of 180 pounds in Sid Wright, Doug Cove, Gus and Frank Madsen. The Garden City blues put the game on ice fairly early, leading 6-1 in the opener and 10-3 at half time. They ran the count to 16-3 then eased off the pace.

Mimico Mountaineers — Goal, Saint; defense, McLean, Dinsmore; rover, Breakspear centre, B. McDonald; wings, J. McDonald, Doyle. Subs Curran, Hayes, Woods, McKay Jannaway.

St. Catharines Athletics— Goal, Whittaker; defense, Wright, F. Madsen; rover, Cove; centre, Mackie; wings Morton, Gatecliff. Subs, C. Madsen, Thorpe, Coles, Whitely, Macdonald, Bye, Croft.

Officials— Max Peart, Port Colborne; Claude Clarke Hamilton.

133 CONSECUTIVE—Ray Mueller, above, shown in the dugout of the Cincinnati Reds, caught his 134th consecutive game there when the Reds played the Dodgers. This beat the record of 133 consecutive games for one pitcher made by George Gibson in 1909 for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Mueller, however, caught 62 o his games in 1943. But they are consecutive games, nevertheless.

1,200 Attend Horse Races At Collingwood

COLLINGWOOD, July 10—(CP).—More than 1,200 spectators attended the first annual meeting of the Collingwood Harness Racing Club here on Saturday at the Exhibition Park.

Bud Volo, owned by A. Diesburg of Kitchener, took first place in the 2:20, best time being 2:17½. The 2:29 was run off in two divisions due to the large number of entries, with Del Peters, owned by N. Ruthig of New Hamburg taking the first division and Midnight Volo, owned by Diesburg, winning the second.

In the free-for-all Hollyrood Belwin, owned by L. Montgomery, of Port Dover, won, with the best time being 2:10.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Tonight's City Softball League battle between Soldiers and U.E.W. has all the earmarks of another hard-fought struggle between two teams who are dead anxious to pull off a victory. The Military Training Centre, rolling on a three-game winning streak, want a win to tighten their hold on third place and the Union outfit also want to come down in front to head of the St. Peter's team with whom they are battling for a playoff position. With the game meaning much both clubs are planning to field their strongest teams and the game should be full of excitement. Either MacPherson or Lindsay's Haddy Eakins will do the gunning for the Union while the Soldiers will probably give Earl Revoir a chance to win his fourth game in a row. Tomorrow night there will be another ace game on the cards with first place at stake when Switchgear and Plazas meet. The former are leading the loop by one game which means that they can cinch first place by handing Plazas another trimming while on the other hand the second-placers can tie up the race and make another game to decide first place necessary. The meeting between the two leading teams with so much hinging on the result should make tomorrow night's game one of the best of the season. Neither club has announced its starting pitcher. It may be Freddy Elliott for Swichgears and Terry Woods for Plazas but in both cases that is only a guess.

From the comment around town the biggest crowd of the year is assured for Friday evening when the crack Toronto Tip Tops, featuring big Sus Turner on the mound, will meet the Peterborough All-Stars in a benefit game for the Kinsmen's charities. The reputation of the Tip Tops as one of the outstanding Canadian softball clubs and a lively recollection of the quality of ball dished out last summer when the two teams met in a similar game at Riverside has convinced the fans that this clash will be the biggest sporting event of the summer. They are anxious to see how a Peterborough team with the able assistance of the great Cam Ecclestone on the mound will make out against the fast-travelling Tip Tops and they will be out in droves to watch the battle. The Toronto outfit are bringing all their stars at their own expense to stage this attraction in aid of a splendid cause. The lineup of the Peterborough team will be announced after tonight's meeting of the executive. From the ranks of the City Leaguers it is hoped to select an outfit that will prove worthy opposition for the powerful Tip Tops. Interest in the game will be heightened by the fact that ten gate prizes are to be drawn for some lucky folk are going to be well paid for taking in this softball classic.

Two Good Battles

The attraction in the Girls' Softball League tonight will be the clash between Quakers and Peterborough Lock, first scheduled for Wednesday but moved up to tonight. These teams are developing fast and are playing interesting softball so that the contest between the two should be well worth seeing. With Gertie Masters the likely pitching starter for the Quakers and Beryl Lee scheduled to hurl for the Peterborough Lock the pitching end should be well taken care of. Then tomorrow night one of the most exciting battles of recent weeks should be the result of a tussles between the Johnson Motors team and Brintons, two of the most likely aspirants for this season's intermediate championship. Outboard Marines who were the baby members of the loop last year and went through the season without winning a game are the most improved team in the circuit this season and are right in the running for the intermediate honors, Brintons have won the title twice in succession and would like to make it three in a row. Tomorrow night's game between the two should be a hummer.

This column commented on Saturday about the wealth of extra softball attractions that are coming up in the near future with Tip Tops playing the local All Stars here Friday evening and the Oshawa Colts meeting Switchgear a week from next Saturday. Now a couple more fixtures with outside teams have been added to the list. On Saturday of this week Victory Aircraft, Toronto, will send both their girls' team and their men's softball club here for games with Peterborough clubs. The Victory Aircraft girls will clash with the local Aircraft team while the visiting men's team will battle with Plazas. That should make two most interesting contests for Saturday afternoon and evening and provide plenty of softball for Peterborough fans. The Victory teams both are said to be strong outfits and it looks as if Aircraft and Plazas will have lots of opposition on their hands this week-end. More details of these two games will be given later.

Baseball Picks Up

Here and there gratifying signs that baseball is due for a revival are making their appearance. The game is still flourishing in Kingston, Oshawa has minor league baseball operating, Belleville is also doing something in the junior division and now Cobourg offers evidence of a quickening interest in the good old diamond pastime. The Cobourg Kiwanis Club, doing a fine bit of missionary work, has sponsored a four-club junior town baseball league and sportsmen like Fred Dufton, prominent as an executive in O.H.A. clubs and the Galloping Ghosts, Roy "Scotty" Black who used to be a soccer star and lacrosse referee and others equally well-known are behind the move. Sweatshirts, gloves, pads, bats and balls have been supplied by four companies, Cooey's, the Matting Factory, Cobourg Dye Company and Edwards and Edwards, the teams bearing the names of these plants. Experienced managers were chosen for the four clubs and the names of all the players available were placed in a hat and drawn for. The teams play every Wednesday and Friday nights on a good skinned diamond on the Lakeshore Park and have been drawing pretty fair crowds in spite of having to compete with men's and girls' softball games on nearby diamonds.

St. Louis Cards got great pitching from Mort Cooper and Harry Brecheen yesterday to finally climb above the '500 mark on the season with the Boston Braves, the club that has given the champs their greatest trouble. Both Cooper and Brecheen checked in with five-hit shutouts, the Cards winning 1 to 0 and 9 to 0 to make the Sunday doubleheader a complete blank for the Boston outfit. The Cardinals, incidentally, did not monopolize all the good pitching. Passeau of the Chicago Cubs turned in a grand performance against the New York Giants holding the Ott outfit to three hits in a neat pitchers' battle with Bill Voiselle, the hard-working rookie of the Giants who had to take a 1 to 0 beating. In the American League the Yanks, with two freshmen pitchers grabbed off both ends of a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers. Walter Dubiel with a little help from Atley Donald won the first game 4 to 3 and young Emmerson Roser, holding the Tigers to seven well-spread-out hits had little trouble in the other half of the twin bill, winning 8 to 2. The Yanks had the only clean sweep Sunday, Boston Red Sox breaking even with Cleveland, the Athletics doing the same thing with the White Sox and St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators each picking off a game in their series.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: The Westclox girls will return to the softball wars a week from Wednesday, after their holidays layoff....Baltimore players went into the stands after Jersey City fans Sunday and there was a battle of fisticuffs....Both St. Louis clubs are asking for permission to play more night games and the Chicago White Sox are demanding the same privilege....Is daytime baseball on the way out?....Mel Ott is leading the National League in home runs with 20 and Frankie Hayes and Bobby Doerr top the American with ten circuit clouts....That is certainly a wide departure from the old days when the American loop predominated in four-masters....With Stan Musial of the Cards leading the National League in batting and Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox the American the batting averages have a more familiar look....The Brooklyn Dodgers are going so badly that the home town fans do not bother even

The Ontario Baseball Association, at a meeting in Hamilton Saturday, gave pitcher Tommy White and second-baseman Hank Biasetti, now playing on teams in London, Windsor and Chatham, until next Saturday to declare their club for the O.B.A. senior playoffs. Niagara senior clubs were given permission to play several imported ball tossers.

Although fire destroyed four stables and a barn at North Randall, O., Saturday, racing officials announced the grand circuit card would be held to-day as scheduled, with unfinished events added to the program. No horses were destroyed.

When he protested against being removed from the box in the ninth inning of an American League game yesterday at Boston, Ed Klieman was fined $100 by Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians. After the incident Cleveland won the game 8-2.

With a best-ball score of 447, 64 strokes under par for the Minneapolis course, the team of Byron Nelson and Harold (Jug) McSpaden won the Golden Valley golf championship tournament yesterday, three points better than the Bill Kaiser and Bob Hamilton combination.

IT'S A REAL CARD

Promoter Frank Tunney has lined up three of Canada's greatest wrestlers for Tuesday night's ace card at the Brock St. Arena and the bill looks like one of the best of the entire season. The main bout brings together the popular British Empire champion, Whipper Billy Watson against John Katan, the Palermo Panther and the battle should be a memorable argument. Katan has alway claimed that he should be the British Empire champion and he will do his best to prove that he is right by taking the favorite Whip for a ride. Watson, on the other hand, says he is fed up with Katan's claims and is going to show him where to head in. The semi-final will see the hard-hitting Verne Baxter tangle with the flashy Pierre DeGlane while Bunny Dunlop is matched against his favorite sort of victim, Cherie Valina in the opening bout. Bunny likes to tangle with flashy performers like the Spanish grappler from Florida.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Besides the regular games this coming week, we have two tournaments, and they are both sponsored by the ladies' game committee.

The first one is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Wednesday and it's the ladies' Tip Top Tailor competition.

On Friday night at 7:30 p.m. the ladies are offering their "Milk for Britain" tournament. This contest is open to every member of the club and the ladies are looking forward to a large crowd. It will be a mixed rink tournament, drawn from the board at 7:30 p.m. Fee, 50 cents per player. Keep Friday night open. We'll have more about this tournament later on in the week.

Hereafter if any skip (lady or gent) desires an "extra" green to play a postponed game or to play a game ahead of time they must make arrangements with the secretary of the men's games committee, at least two days in advance, and their request will be granted, if it is at all possible. In this manner it will do away with overlapping and in many cases disappointment.

We are going right out on the end of the branch and make this prediction. That before long these Saturday night mixed tournaments are going to be the most popular of any of our local tournaments. Saturday night over twenty-five per cent of our total membership came out and played three 7-end games to finish up close to eleven o'clock.

The winning rinks were:

First—Mrs. O. Williamson, N. Killingbeck, Mrs. R. Dyer, R. Dyer, skip.

Second—Mrs. S. Lowe, G. Nimmons, Mrs. L. Campbell, R. Burns, skip.

Third—Miss A. Sobie, C. Nicholson, Mrs. H. Beatty, S. Lowe, skip.

All received War Savings Stamps.

Ball Players Punch Heckling Fans

By The Associated Press

One of the closest International League races in history apparently has the players as well as the fans on edge. Three Baltimore Orioles, Stan Benjamin, Frank Skaff and Ab Tiedemann jumped into the stands at Jersey City Sunday to trade punches with heckling fans and today face possible fines and suspensions as a result.

The Orioles won the opener, 3-2, and provided the fireworks in the eighth inning as the three players lost control of themselves. League president Frank Shaughnessey has called a meeting today in his New York office to consider the imbroglio.

Skaff made a more normal contribution to the opener with a home run in the sixth as Bobo Palica hurled his ninth win. The Little Giants hammered out a 10-hit 9-1 victory in the second.

Montreal Royals retained the league lead as they split with Toronto Maple Leafs at Montreal, losing 4-0 and winning 3-1. The first game was a sterling three-hitter by Alex Mustaikis as the Leafs put together a run in the first inning on a walk, a steal and a single, and added three more later.

Tom Warren's victory in the nightcap, his sixth without a loss, was sparked with fine fielding play. Toronto's Luther Knerr walked in the winning run in the third.

Rochester Red Wings turned on Buffalo Bisons after eight straight defeats and swept a double-header, 2-1 and 3-2. After stretching their winning streak to seven straight by defeating Syracuse Chiefs 10-1 in the first game, Newark Bears lost the second, 9-3.

Right-Handers To Start All-Star Tilt Tuesday Night

BY JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH, July 10 — (AP) — Bucky Walters of Cincinnati looms as the probable National League starting pitcher in the 12th annual all-star game tomorrow night at Forbes Field with Marse Joe McCarthy of the American Leaguers expected to choose between Hank Borowy of New York Yankees and Tex Hughson of Boston Red Sox.

Pending definite announcement from Skipper Billy Southworth of the Nationals and McCarthy, baseball men figured today the two pilots would lead the ace right-handers.

With Lefty Max Lanier of the Cards out of action for 10 days due to an arm injury, Southworth is expected to follow Walters with Rip Sewell of the host Pittsburgh Club and Nate Andrews of the Braves in an attempt to smash the junior Cicuit's six-year win streak.

Bob Moncrief of the Browns and Hal Newhouser of the Tigers are available for late duty with the McCarthy clan and Bobo Newsom of the A's may get a chance to strut his stuff before a sell-out crowd that will approach 40,000 and dump $100,000 into the bat and ball fund for servicemen.

Unless Southworth calls in the Phils' Ken Raffensberger the Americans will see all right-handed hurling. With that in mind, McCarthy's line-up may read like this: George McQuinn, Browns, first base; Bobby Doerr, Red Sox, second base; Vern Stephens, Browns, shortstop; Ken Keltner Indians, third base and Thurman Tucker, White Sox, Stan Spence, Senators and Bob Johnson, Reds outfield; with either Frankie Hayes, Athletics or Rick Ferrell, Senators, catching.

Ryan Likely In.

Southworth can use Phil Cavaretta of the Cubs at first base when McCarthy is using a right-hander or Frank McCormick of the Reds if a southpaw is on the hill. Connie Ryan of the Braves is the likely second baseman with Martin Marion of the Cards and Eddie Miller of the Reds sharing shortstop.

Bob Elliott's recent surge may get the Pirate third-sacker the call but Whitey Kurowski of the Cards is a better bed for the hot corner. Walker Cooper of the Cards and Mickey Owen of the Dodgers are due for catching duty while the outfield probably will include Stan Musial of the Cards, Mel Ott of the Giants and either Dixie Walker of the Dodgers or Bill Nicholson of the Cubs.

Players trekked into town to-day following Sunday double-headers as club owners and executives held separate major league meetings to discuss additional night ball, continuation of the office of high commissioner held by K. M. Landis, whose term expires in 1946, and a change in the system of acquiring players. The Cards, Browns, White Sox, Phils and A's are understood to be asking for more night play.

After the big league single sessions the majors will meet in joint conclave to-morrow morning.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Russ Derry and George Stirnweiss, Yankees—Derry's pinch single with bases full and one out in ninth, won opener, 4-3 from Tigers; Stirnweiss made three hits, including homer, and stole 21st base in nightcap, to lead Yankees to double win.

Newman Shirley, Browns and Dutch Leonard, Senators—Shirley hurled two-hit shut-out in opener; Leonard retaliated with five-hit blanking over Browns in nightcap.

Buddy Rosar, Indians and Bobby Doerr, Red Sox—Rosar made three hits to lead Indians to 8-3 win in opener; Doerr became first player of season to make 100th hit as Red Sox took nightcap 4-2.

Mort Cooper and Harry Brecheen, Cardinals—Pitched pair of shutouts, 1-0 and 9-0, against Braves to give Cards record of better than .500 in season's series.

Dodgers Slump; Durocher On The Griddle

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sport Writer

Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers seems to be on the spot again. His position, shaky the past few years, has been made more precarious than ever by the current losing streak of the Dodgers, which reached 13 yesterday.

Brooklyn's 13th successive loss, which matched the season's low set by the Cubs, was handed to them by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-1 in the opener of a double-header. They almost tied the longest losing streak in the history of the club when they trailed 9-7 in the nightcap, called at the end of eight innings by Pennsylvania's 6:50 curfew law. The game will be played later.

After losing seven out of nine to Detroit, New York Yankees made an about face and swept a war relief double header from Detroit Tigers 4-2 and 8-2 before 33,482, who paid $38,102.50. The double victory moved the Yankees to within a game of second-place Boston Red Sox.

The league-leading St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators exchanged shutouts. The Browns, behind Newman Shirley's two-hit pitching, won the first, 10-0, and the Senators, with Dutch Leonard pitching five-hit ball, took the second, 5-0.

Hits 10th Homer

The Red Sox and Cleveland split their double header, the Indians winning the opener, 8-2 and the Red Sox the second, 4-2. Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox became the first American League batter to make 100 hits.

Frank Hayes banged his 10th homer as Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics divided a twin bill, White Sox taking the opener, 4-3, for Bill Dietrich's 10th victory, and the A's annexing the finale, 8-2.

St. Louis Cardinals handed the Boston Brave a double blanking, with Mort Cooper winning his 10th game in the opener, 1-0. Harry Brecheen gained his seventh win in the nightcap, 9-0.

Chicago Cubs climbed out of the cellar as they defeated New York Giants twice, 6-2 and 1-0. In the second game Andy Pafko singled with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

Cincinnati Reds moved to within five percentage points of second place with a double victory over Philadelphia 9-5 and 7-5. Woody Williams made six hits over the Reds.

16 Golfers Qualify For Chance At Title

Hap Wilgar, secretary of the handicap committee of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, has announced the draw for the club championship.

Sixteen qualified for the title hunt and the first round must be finished by July 23. The draw is as follows:

R. Hay vs. C. Low.
A. Hood vs. T. J. Miller.
H. Weir vs. S. Hall.
B McLeod vs. S. Whiddon.
J. Watts vs. R. Jones.
R. Aikers vs. H. Wilgar.
K. Smylie vs. W. Brown.
F. Dunfield vs. K. Currie.

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—The Rev. Harold J. Martin, head of the non-operating Canadian-American League, has organized the St. Lawrence Inter-Scholastic Summer League to keep his hand in. Six teams will play through July.

By a roundabout route comes this report from Gib Sandefer, Hardin-Simmons U. athletic manager who now is a Red Cross field director with General "Vinegar Joe" Stillwell's forces in Burma...Gib claims to have the largest hat in India (it would make all the 10-gallon toppers in Texas turn green with envy) and the longest short snorter in the world (1000 feet))..."Told 'Uncle Joe' he could pick 25 of his good Chinese boys and we would bring them back to the campus," Sandefer wrote. "Have 10 British boys coming for Merle Evans cowboy band three French girls from North Africa who play native instruments, and plenty of good GI's that will be ready for our Sammy Baugh-Bulldog Turner, our Frank Kinbrough-Clark Jarnagin or our Warren Woodson-Jewell Wallace coaching combinations after the war. We will make it an Allied university after this is over, and all get to understand each other better, or we will have another in 25 years."

TORONTO, July 10. — (CP).— Claiming races always have been a bone of contention among members of the racing fraternity, and every once in a while the thing bubbles over on the surface when some owner loses a good animal in a cheap race.

That's what happened in Vancouver the other day when the gelding Commendable was claimed for $800 but youthful owner Joe Shine at first refused to give him up. He got a bit hot under the collar when he thought of the winter's feed bills and the trouble and expense of training the horse, only to lose him the first time out. But the thing was straightened ou eventually, at least to the partial satisfaction of everybody.

It's just the luck of the game these claiming fatalities, but they still hit your small owner hard. The only thing he can do is wait his chance and claim the animal back, but sometimes this method has developed into a none-too-satisfactory feud in which the little fellow generally is hurt.

Fan Mah Brow:

It must be the heat that started the hockey stew bubbling on the west coast. Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell reports that Seattle promoters are angling for the entire Vancouver Maple Leafs club for next winter—a nice trick if they can get it. He also suggests that New Westminster, home of the western senior finalist Lodestars, may not be in the picture come ice-team. The fans at home didn't show enough interest all last winter to give the boys much encouragement.

Incidentally:

In a small scale admittedly, the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association has gone back into competitive sport. The sport organization that used to be a power in many branches of Canadian sport is sponsoring a football team as a start on the comeback trail......Alf (Vancouver Sun) Cottrell tells a story about Mel Lunde, youthful coast athlete killed on the French beachhead. Mel always was a fatalist, it seems, and when he started overseas he had the idea something would happen. "I won't be coming back from this road trip," he told his friends."

42 Lambs Are Killed In Emily

Sheep-killing dogs in the Township of Emily have been playing havoc with farmers' flocks and also with the finances of the township.

Bills presented at the meeting of the Township Council to compensate farmers for damages resulting from the loss of sheep and lambs ran up to a total of $541 for the month.

Altogether six sheep and 42 lambs were killed and one sheep and eight lambs injured as a result of the attacks made by canine slayers.

F. L. Weldon, county treasurer, informed Council that the following sums will be required from the Emily Township for county purposes in 1944: General county rate $5,025.20, House of Refuge rate $1,732.83, Patriotic grants $2,599.27, Roads $3,898.86, total $12,656.16.

H. W. Hill, secretary-treasurer Municipal Telephone System, requested an advance of $1,000 until the end of the current year.

Robert Doman (or Dowman), of the Palisades, California, wrote asking for information regarding a person of the same name who came to Canada with the Peter Robinson immigration in 1825 and settled in the vicinity of Peterborough.

The following payments were authorized:

Roads $165.98, F. L. Weldon for indigent patient $7.88, advance to Emily Telephone System $1,000, David Weir saalry $100, and T. H. Laidley stationery and stamps $1.51.

Schools—No 3 $250, No. 7 $100.

The live stock valuers presented the following bills to be paid:

Joe Smith, 1 sheep killed $16, 1 lamb killed $2, $20; Alexander McGahey, valuing sheep of J. Smith, $1.50; Stephen Winn, 4 lambs killed $40; Leonard Atwell, valuing lambs of S. Winn, 3 trips, $4.50; J. M. Lucas, 1 lamb killed, $12.00; J. Herlihey, 1 lamb killed $10, 1 injured $2, $12; A. Piggott, 1 sheep killed $11, 1 lamb injured $3, $14; Frank Morrissey, 23 lambs killed, $230; W. C. Herlihey, 1 sheep killed $12, 4 lambs injured $13, $25; William Flynn, 1 lamb killed $10, 1 injured $4, $14; Michael Duffy, 6 lambs killed, $60; Martin Begley, 1 sheep and lamb injured, $12; D. M. Costelo, valuing sheep of 8 parties, $13.50; Leo Kearns, 6 lambs killed, $60; Elmer Hickey, valuing lambs of L. Kearns, $1.50; James Piggott, 1 sheep killed $15, 1 injured $5, $20.

The Council authorized the treasurer to have all outstanding dog taxes collected at once with costs.

The Emily Municipal Telephone System was allowed an advance of $1,000 until the end of the current year at 5 per cent per annum.

Council adjourned to meet on Tuesday, August 1.

Elderly Man Killed In Fight

BRANTFORD, July 10 — (CP) — John Baker, 77, was beaten to death in a fight at a carnival here last night and police to-day were seeking a "husky young man" as the slayer.

The elderly man, a City Works Department employee on vacation, was working as a watchman at the rear entrance to the carnival grounds. Police said that a party of three young men and a woman tried to enter without paying and that when Baker barred their way, one of the men attacked him.

Baker fell to the ground and the assailant fled as police arrived, jumping into the Grand river and swimming westward to west Brantford.

The victim died in an ambulance while being taken to hospital.

Our "boundless resources" are worth only what we can sell them for. If the system under which we exchange our surpluses for our requirements breaks up, our surplus and chief staple resources will cease to be resources.
Report from the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations, 1940.

● Canada's prosperity has been founded on export trade.

The times of greatest prosperity in this country have coincided with the greatest export activity.

Canada will always be most prosperous when she sells abroad the surplus products which remain after satisfying domestic needs, just as other countries supply her from their surpluses.

Exports have brought employment and national income to new peaks during the war. They must continue to build prosperity in peacetime.

Here, as in the past, the role of The Dominion Bank, one of the Chartered Banks of Canada, will be to make its facilities available in the extension of Canada's export trade.

NICKEL MINE WAS OPENED TO MEET INDUSTRY'S GROWING DEMAND FOR CANADIAN NICKEL

DURING WORLD WAR I, the demand for Canadian Nickel for battleship armor and other war uses multiplied rapidly. Plant and equipment for Nickel production were vastly expanded to meet the demands of the Allies.

At the end of World War I, Nickel's war markets disappeared. Yet in less than ten years after the close of the war, this industry's entire output was being devoted to the needs of a world at peace.

Step by step, new peacetime industrial markets were developed throughout the world, and these added up to ever-increasing totals. By 1924 the demand for Canadian Nickel had substantially increased. Shaft sinking was begun on the Frood—the world's greatest Nickel mine.

Today Canadian Nickel is again devoted to war purposes and again the industry looks to the future with confidence. Plans are ready to develop and expand old and new peacetime markets, so that the Nickel industry may continue, through its own initiative and enterprise, to make still greater contributions to Canada's welfare.

TAG DAY SUCCESS

Very gratifying returns resulted from the tag day appeal made on Saturday on behalf of the bomb victims in Britain. Splendid work by those who undertook this service for the cause resulted in a gross total of over $675.00, and it is expected the net returns will approximate $660.00.

IN GOOD HEALTH

Pte. E. "Jack" Edwards, Havelock, was with the 10th Platoon of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment when it made the break through the Hitler Line in Italy, it was announced by the Army Public Relations, and says Jerry is by no means invincible, as has been proven by his regiment.

FIREMEN AT CO-OP.

Firemen were called to the Co-operative building, 199 George street, at five o'clock this morning when the sprinkler system was discovered leaking, but the trouble was mended without any damage being caused. This was one of the few fire alarms so far this month, and no fires causing any real damage have occurred yet in July.

BACK TO THE LAND.

Magistrate E. A. Gee, of Lindsay, who has completed his vacation, found his holiday turned into a back-to-the-land movement this summer. His brother, who operates a farm in the Hagersville area, had the misfortune to fall from a load of hay and break his leg and so the Cadi took over the job for the holiday period, spending his vacation in farm work.

NO BUSH FIRES

Chief forester at Tweed, when telephoned this morning, reported Hastings, Peterborough and Haliburton Counties free of bush fires. There are few minor fires burning along railroad tracks, but all are under control and no property or settler's homes are menaced. He stated this district has been particularly fortunate, and urged tourists and campers to take every precaution with cigarettes and campfires.

PAPER SALVAGE.

Tonnage of paper salvage collected in the city during the four days of the monthly drive last week amounted to 10 tons, the Salvage committee announced to-day. Considering the fact that only a month before 30 tons comprising the collection of the committee and the special drive of school children, had been shipped out of the city, it was thought the showing was fair enough, even though the total was less than that of the four days in June.

SACRAMENT

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including First Church of Christ Scientist in Peterborough on Sunday. The Golden Text was "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me. Selections from the Bible included the following from John 4:23: "But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship Him." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following: "We worship spiritually, only as we cease to worship materially. Spiritual devoutness is the soul of Christianity. Worshipping through the medium of matter is paganism. "The true worshippers shall worship in spirit and in truth."

Ten Men Named In Two Lists

Three casualty lists of the Canadian Army issued Sunday and Monday contain the names of two Peterborough men and eight district men two having died of wounds. The fatal casualties were A/Sgt. American Catches Two Big Muskies

The Lyons are still going strong at Rice Lake. For more than a score of years Michael Lyons, proprietor of a restaurant and tavern in East Liverpool, Ohio, has been visiting this section and he usually has plenty of angling luck. Last year he hooked one of the biggest muskies of the season at Rice Lake. This time Mrs. Lyons threatens to take all the laurels.

Saturday she hooked on to and landed a 23-pound maskinonge, doing the whole operation herself and yesterday she was back at it again, landing a 17-pound muskie before she was 300 yards away from Bewdley. So far her husband has had to be satisfied with a 12-pounder.

The Lyons are registered at the Kennedy House, Bewdley and expect to spend six weeks at that resort.

40 Farmers Organize 500-Bu. Per Acre Club

Forty farmers of Durham county organized for this season a "five hundred bushel potato club" following the example of South Simcoe Crop Improvement Association who succeeded in bringing together twenty growers four of whom exceeded the Club objective of 500 bushels to the acre.

Among the Durham members are some producers well known on the Peterborough market: Delbert Olan of Cavan, George Thorn from the same district, Henry Blakely of Pontypool, one of the most successful potato men in the Manvers area, Milton Weatherilt of Bethany, Allan Beer of Manvers, Alf Johnson of Pontypool Ernest Cavano and others.

The Durham potato club is sponsored by the county's crop improvement association. Prizes by the special committee projecting the club are a gold watch worth at least fifty dollars and nine other prizes.

Only one acre plot from each field is accepted for competition. Growers are allowed to use the varieties they prefer. E. A. Summers of Bowmanville, county representative of the provincial Department of Agriculture, is secretary of the club.

100 Sea Cadets Enjoyed Life At Camp

Some of the picture of the real life of the Canadain Navy was brought back to Peterborough Saturday evening by nearly 100 boys of the Sea Cadet Corps "Howe," returning from a delightful two weeks spent in summer camp at Rotary Island, a mile out in the St. Lawrence from Gananoque. The boys, under strict naval discipline all the time, were treated exactly as if they had been in the Navy, ate navy rations and in general carried out the sort of training the Navy gives its recruits.

"Absolutely perfect weather," as one Sea Cadet officer expressed it, helped to make the whole program an outstanding success. "In the entire time there was only one storm and it came about suppertime and lasted for only a couple of hours."

The training consisted of all kinds of boat work and seamanship, boat-pulling with the Corps' cutters, swimming and instruction in sailing in dinghies. The latter was especially popular with the young lads and gave them a real thrill. R.C.N.V.R. instructors were assigned to each 20 boys, who were under their immediate supervision throughout the camp period, and thus had the opportunity of getting as much as possible out of the training. In addition, each boy went on one or more cruises on training ships, which were steam or diesel-powered yachts converted from private ownership.

Formal Inspection

The high spot of the camp was a formal inspection of the Sea Cadet Corps, by the area commanding officer, Lieut. Commander Hugh Plaxton. It took place on the mainland, and the boys, dressed in their whites, paraded for a mile down the main streets of Gananoque, Commander Plaxton taking the salute and inspecting the ranks. Both he and the camp officer expressed surprise and pleasure at the smart appearance of the Peterborough Corps.

Rotary Island only began to be used as a full-scale training station this year, and the young sailors were under canvas instead of being housed in permanent buildings as was the case last year. About 125 of the Weston Sea Cadet Corps were at the island along with the Peterborough Corps.

On Thursday, the day after the inspection, an all-day program combining a regatta, field and swimming events, was held by the entire camp, and the Peterborough cadets marched off with many of the prizes in inter-Corps competition with Weston. They won the inter-divisional cutter race, the inter-corps softball game, placed first and second in horseshot pitching and second third in dinghy sailing. In the various swimming events, boys from the city took first and second places for those 14 and under; first place for the 15 and under race; second place in the race for 16 and under; and won handily in the open swimming contest. Rope-climbing and a tug-of-war, in which they were defeated by Weston, were also included in the day-long activities.

Another softball game won by the Cadets was an unscheduled combat with the officers of their corps, which was tied at 10 all when twilight came on. The boys, however, insisted upon "just one more inning," and this was played in the dark, with the result refeat for the officers.

Throughout the time the boys were in camp there was a medical officer in attendance and a sickbay attendant. Assigned as sickbay attendant until he received his call on Friday to Newfoundland was Harry Hunter of Lakefield, who has been in the Navy four years and formerly worked at the Lakefield Canoe Co. He in turn was followed by another sailor from Peterborough, Lawrence McBain, who formerly worked at McLeod's Drug store.

Church Parade

Rev. W. A. Filer was one of three padres, two Protestant and one Roman Catholic, who were at the camp with the boys. Prayers were said at "Divisions" each morning, and the lads were invited to consult with the padres at any time. The one Sunday spent in camp there was a church parade and no training duties were arranged for that day.

Commanding Officer H. S. Longhurst was in command of the Sea Cadet Corps during the first week; and Lt. E. G. Pridham, second in command under Lt. Longhurst, filled the commanding post during the second week. Sea Cadet Officers W. J. Garner, John Madden, Rev. Filer and E. G. Pridham were at the camp the whole time the Corps was away; Harold Coleman, Charles Spearin and Commander Longhurst were there during the first week; and T. A. Hall, George Alexander and John Wolstenholme the second week.

VOLUNTEER TAGGER—Mrs. H. C. Jay, a grandmother, volunteered her services on Saturday to tag for the Peterborough British War Victims' Fund. She is shown ABOVE selling a tag to Pte. Murray Wilson, of Havelock, 2nd Battalion Cameron Highlanders, of Ottawa, who was home on leave. Mrs. Jay's son, Delbert Jay, is a pilot officer overseas with the R.C.A.F., and her husband, Chris Jay, was a sergeant in the 93rd Battalion in World War I. Being a native of Norwich, England, she is keenly interested in the success of the fund, for so many people of that British city have suffered from Nazi bombing.

Sunday's Rain Very Scattered

Week end promise of rain failed Peterborough farmers in a wide area adjacent to the city. Clouds rumbled along the western horizon late Sunday afternoon, then hesitating in their approach parted somewhere off over Cavan and divided as they took off toward the north and south.

"About ten drops" was John Kitney's estimate of the brief sprinkle along the city fringe of Otonabee, and other information indicated that the township generally fared with disappointment. Several patchy local showers were reported.

Smith farmers were slightly more fortunate, and local showers were reported all the way back to Bobcaygeon. The heaviest rains were along the lakefront of Northumberland and Durham.

Lack of moisture is beginning to cause worry across the Peterborough district, but today's probabilities mentioning scattered showers may bring some local relief.

Bicycle Riders Are Fined $2 And Costs

Bicycle-riders who failed to obey the traffic lights at Park and Charlotte street found themselves fined $2 and $2.50 each in police court this morning when they entered written pleas of guilty.

The unlucky cyclists were J. Hallihan, 478 Wolsley street; Lorne Knox, 642 Park street; J. W. Morrison, 480 Donegal street; Les. McIntosh, 356 Park Hill road; J. A. Manley, 497 Elm street; Lawrence Coughlin, 472 Murray street; W. S. Thomas, Stormont avenue; Aileen Step, 266 Wolsley street; Sally Humphries, Stormont avenue, and Ellen Brumm, 292 McDonnel street.

Ed. Allen, Ford avenue, who entered a written plea of guilty to driving without adequate brakes, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs, and the Miners' Safety Appliance Company, Toronto, paid $3 and $1 for a parking offence.

CSM. Bill Blair Is Missing

Mrs. William I. Blaiar (formerly Armene McCarthy), 211 Park street, was advised on Saturday that her husband, CSM Bill Blair, Canadian Paratrooper, was missing in action in France.

CSM. Blair was born in Fredericton, N.B. and trained at Fort Benning, Georgia and Camp Shilo, Manitoba. Four days ago the Examiner carried a front-page picture showing this soldier getting his orders from Major Fuller of Toronto, before setting out for a concentration area.

He spent considerable time in Peterborough between training periods a year ago and was married in May 31, 1943, at the Sacred Heart church, at the same time as his bosom pal, Paratrooper Dave Leether Jr., who later transfered to the Air Force.

Miss Jean Dougherty Is Given Commission

Recent graduate of the University of Toronto in physio-therapy, Miss Jean Dougherty, 584 Waterford street, was immediately accepted into the service of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps with the rank of Lieutenant, and received an assignment which had directed her to an eastern Canadian port as indicated in her latest letter to her parents.

Lieutenant Dougherty joins her brother in the service of their country. She is a sister of Pilot Officer John Dougherty, overseas, who graduated at Crumlin, near London, Ontario, about a year ago. The parents of these two young officers are Mr. and Mrs. John Dougherty, Waterford street. Their father is a veteran of the 1914-18 war.

Miss Dougherty's specialized training was needed by the Army Medical Corps immediately upon her graduation. She was one of the comparatively few physio-therapist graduates who were accepted and given an additional two months' training before getting their assignments.

With The Tourists

By DON McGIBBON

"Yes, this is my first trip to Peterborough and district, but some of the country I've seen in the past few days is enough attraction to make me come back next summer", said Mrs. H. Seidel, Diamond, Ohio.

Here with Mr. and Mrs. E. Ewell, Cleveland, Mrs. Seidel explained Diamond, Ohio, as being halfway between Akron and Youngstown.

"The shopping is fine here," she said, "but although there's plenty of good wool in the stores, I can't seem to find any of the shades I want."

This is Mrs. Seidel's second trip to Canada, and when asked about any differences she could notice between American cities and Peterborough, she said: "Tell me, why do Canadian always say 'aboot', instead of saying 'abaaowt'? That's the only noticeable difference between Peterborough and an American city of the same size", she asserted.

"But don't get the idea we dislike your Canadian accent", she hastened.

While here, Mrs. Seidel and Mr. and Mrs. Ewell intend to catch up on some fishing.

J. Aurebraugh, who is staying at Birch Lodge, Baptiste lake, calls Pittsburg his home town, and, when the Examiner spoke to him Saturday, was making preparations to start for home. Asked how he enjoyed the fishing, Mr. Aurebraugh replied, "You couldn't ask for anything better, than the fishing in these districts, but whether my luck had run out or not, I don't know, but I still didn't catch the one I dreamt of hooking. I'll be back next year though, and I think the country very attractive."

Gas, said Mr. Aurebraugh, was the delicate point in getting to Canada, but he pointed out he had come this far, and hoped to return, on the rations allotted him.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Millbriandt, who were in Peterborough Saturday, prior to continuing to Palmer's Rapids, call Buffalo, N.Y. their home town, but said they couldn't suppress the urge, come summer, to head north for Canada. Although Palmer's Rapids is about 100 miles north of Peterborough, Mr. Millbriandt said he hoped to make it there on the gas he has. He said although the Kawartha lake, and the various summer resorts hereabout were quite a strong attraction for him to abandon thoughts of going to Palmer's Rapids, his wife had friends at Palmer's Rapids, and the two made it a point to visit them at least once a year.

"We do enjoy shopping in Peterborough though, and it's a very pretty city, especially the parks about town, from what we've seen of it. We'll be returning via Peterborough, too", he said.

100 Take Course

HAMILTON, July 10 — (CP) — More than 100 students and educators from all parts of Ontario have enrolled in the Summer School course in career planning at McMaster University, it was announced last night. H. R. Beattie, newly-appointed head of the Ontario Guidance Branch of the Department of Education and former director of Career Planning in Hamilton schools, is conducting the lectures along with R. F. Bennett of Brantford, Ont.

Orange Lodges Join In Church Parade

The annual Church Parade of the Loyal Orange Lodge was held Sunday evening, with hundreds of members from Peterborough and outlying districts in attendance. Representatives from three ladies' lodges, and two Juvenile lodges also took part on the meeting.

Gathering at the Orange Hall, Brock street, at 8.15 Sunday evening the Orangemen formed a procession led by the Salvation Army Band under the direction of G. Routley, and marched to Knox United church, where the service was conducted by Rev. F. Craik.

Rev. Craik spoke on "The Pattern and Power of our Orange Order." He said the principles of the Orange Order have not changed in more than 250 years, since King William proclaimed, 'The Protestant religion, and liberties of England, I will Maintain.'

Mr. Craik told the congregation that Protestantism is not a religion, but Christianity is, as taught by Christ and His apostles. He outlined the pattern of the Orange Lodge as, holding an open Bible, church attendance and Bible prayer; the Lodge room Bible rule of faith and practice; loyalty to defend Britain and our throne; integrity; a determination to keep Canada within the Empire; civil and redigious liberty for every individual; one flag, one school, and one language; and equal rights for all.

Must Set Example

He said, "We must all remember one solemn truth...that is if we wish our children to be Christians, we must really take the trouble to be Christians ourselves." Mr. Craik spoke of the unashamed standards of the Orangemen, and told of unidentified bomb victims in England being buried with the simple inscription on the memoral, "They lived...and died free citizens."

Mr. Craik spoke highly of the brotherhood of Orangemen, and told of a prison inmate, whom prison officials had given up as incorrogable, weeping when a visiting clergyman spoke to him as "Brother." The prisoner wept, and said it was the first time in 20 years anyone had called him "Brother."

"The Orangemen," Mr. Craik said, "have maintained their faith in God."

After the service, the Orangemen marched to Confederation Square, where, to the strains of martial music from the Salvation Army Band, a wreath was placed on the war memorial, to honour the fallen dead. The wreath was placed on the memorial by County Master Mel Holden, Deputy County Master Fred Batten, Mrs. L. P. Campbell, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East, L.O.B.A., and Mrs. R. Pilling, Grand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East, L.O.B.A.

Led By County Master

The parade was led by County Master Mel Holden, and the deputy County Master Fred Batten. Taking part in the ceremonies were: Arthur Holden, Deputy Grand Master, Grand Black Chapter of Ontario East; Roland Darling, Lakefield, Grand Censor of the Grand Black Chapter of Ontario East; Wesley Smith, Lindsay, past Grand Master; Robert Ritchie, associate deputy of the Grand Black Chapter of British America; E. F. Reid, past Grand Master of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East; Mrs. E. Delong, Grand Auditor of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East, L.O.B.A.; 2 Juvenile Lodges, including the local newly-formed Loyal True Blue Lodge; Vimy Ridge, L.O.B.A.; Star of Bethlehem L.O.B.A.; Nassau L.O.L. 457; Downer's Corners L.O.L. 321; Lord Nelson L.O.L. 2440; Diamond L.O.L. 80; J. W. Bell Memorial L.O.L. 1175; Duke of Manchester, Peterborough, No. 50; and Eastern Star L.O.B.A.

The standard bearer was Ken Payne, Past Master 457 L.O.L.

The Marshal of the parade was A. McDonald, L.O.L. 1175.

Alex Heron Graduates With Brockville Class

Signalman Alex Heron, son of Mr. and rMs. John R. Heron, formerly of Peterborough, graduated Saturday with the rank of Lieutenant in the Officers' Training Course at Brockville.

A cousin of Lieut.-Col. Jim Turnbull, O.C. Peterborough Training Centre, Lieut. Heron enlisted in the Royal Canadian Signal Corps in the autumn of 1942. Prior to his enlistment, he was attending McGill University in Montreal, where he was studying third year engineering.

His father, John R. Heron, former managing editor of the Examiner, is well known in newspaper circles, and is now living in Mount Royal, Montreal.

Mrs. D. V. Canning, aunt of the young officer, lives on Gilmour street.

Bicyclist Hurt

When the bicycle on which she was riding collided with the curb at the corner of Charlotte street and Monaghan road Saturday night, Ruth McMurray, 476 Parnell street, was thrown off the machine and sustained a deep cut on the left leg below the knee.

A passing motorist took the injured girl to Nicholls Hospital for treatment.

Inspector James F. Reid, who saw the accident from a bus in which he was a passenger, said that the cyclist apparently was startled by an approaching car, and in trying to avoid it collided with the curb.

DIED IN NORMANDY—Above is Pte. Eugene Mitchell of Cobourg, whom Ottawa has announced died of wounds received during the Normandy campaign. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mitchell, of Cobourg, his wife, Mrs. Beatrice (Peggy) Mitchell, resides in Cobourg.

Bay-Rum Party Is Broken Up, 7 Bottles Seized

Plans for an open-air celebration, with an ample supply of Bay rum as the foundation for the party, were completely spoiled Saturday evening when Constables Leo. Murphy and Allan Edmison unexpectedly arrived in Jackson Park and arrested Enos Meyette, Thomas Clarey and seven bottles of Bay rum.

This morning in police court Clarey pleaded guilty as a second offender to being drunk and was fined $50 or a month in jail by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

Declaring that he had not had a drink all that day, Meyette entered a plea of not guilty to a third offence intoxication charge, but the result was just the same. He was convicted on the evidence of Constables Murphy and Edmison, who made the arrest, and Sergt. W. E. Wigg, who saw him in the police station when he was brought in.

Constable Murphy said that when the police arrived at the park Meyette and Clarey each had a bottle of Bay rum in their hands. Seven bottles were produced as exhibits, one of them only a little more than a third full.

"He smelled like a barber shop," the witness said in describing Meyette's condition.

In the witness box Meyette swore that he had had nothing to drink Saturday and had only just arrived at the park.

"What were you doing with all this stuff?" asked Magistrate Gee, pointing to the bottles.

"They were for Sunday," said Meyette, who added that there was no trouble in buying the Bay rum.

Magistrate Gee sentenced the accused to three months' imprisonment in the county jail.

Return Nurses

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY AT CAUMONT, July 10—(CP)—Eight German nurses, captured in an underground hospital near Cherbourg, were returned by the Americans through enemy lines yesterday in a second bridghehead truce. Last Sunday eight nurses taken in the Pasteur hospital at Cherbourg were returned to their countrymen.

Fund Gets $75 By C.G.E. Softball Game

All types of healthful games are at their best when the game is played for the sake of real sport, and particularly is this so when they are planned as a means of giving support to unfortunate persons in need, for all true sports have a real desire to help those whom the game of life has dealt hardly with.

One could discern this particularly in the game of softball held at the Riverside Park on July 1, between a team from the Royce avenue works of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. and the All Stars from the local plant of the same company, for the entire proceeds were given to render aid to the bomb victims in Britain, through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, and there would seem no finer way in which the players could give their services, in order that the fruits or proceeds of the pleasure they give to a sports-loving people might be utilized to carry a far deeper pleasure to others in distress, through no fault of their own.

Inter-plant rivalry was perhaps the starting point which set the wheels in motion, and then the interest has been on many an occasion shown by the employees of the large industrial plants for the fund came to the forefront, no doubt accentuated by the increased need of the moment, and their friendly rivalry assumed a higher plane, by utilizing it to add another in the long chapter of help given by them to the people of Britain.

Total Aid Now Stands at $7,154

In this manner they were able to raise the nice sum of $75.20, which is credited in their name today, making in all the splendid amount of $7,154.66 that has now come to the fund from this same group, piling ever onwards and upwards towards the suggested total of $10,000 that might in the long run stand to their credit in his one assist in the Empire's struggle for liberty of thought, life and speech.

It is a pleasing matter to be able to add that in addition to chalking up this added achievement to their record, the local team were also the victors in the game itself by an unmistakable margin, giving their patrons a win that in itself would be as gratifying to them as it must have been to those who carried the local standard into the game itself.

To Jack Menzies, Jr., the members of the Toronto team and Messrs. Heal, Hawks, Starr, Mowry, Pryde, Brockley, Burton, Carpenter, Tucker, Playford, Ashmore, Condon, Wilson and Akers, all playing in the local All Stars, besides all others who assisted, the fund management would express its sincere appreciation and thanks for the support thus given to the objects it seeks to assit.

GOGGLES SAVED HIS EYES

Bob McCutcheon, popular garage man at Havelock suffered extensive burns last week, when a truck housing which he was welding exploded. His face, neck and hair were burned, but safety goggles shielded his eyes and they suffered no injury at all. He is continuing on the job because of the shortage of help, and has his face smeared with an ointment to soothe the burned area.

How women who work can get loans

Here's a quick, simple way to borrow $20 to $500 without endorsers—12 monthly instalments of $9.46 each repay $100 loan in full

Evelyn Moore Is Wed In Hastings

HASTINGS, July 10 (ENS)3 — A quiet, but pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at the Presbyterian church manse, when Evelyn Anne, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Moore, of Hastings, was united in marriage to Howard Joseph, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Porter of Walkerville, with the Rev. John Davey officiating.

The bride looked charming in a wedding gown of white silk sheer, with Peter Pan collar, long full sleeves, with shirring at the shoulders and waist. She wore a shoulder length veil of English net in Queen Antoinette style and carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Helen Fleming of Campbellford, cousin of the groom. She was frocked in pink silk sheer, with long full sleeves, full skirt, sweetheart neckline, with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of English moss roses. The groom was supported by Mr. James Moore, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of black and white silk sheer, with white accessories to match, and a corsage of gardenias.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip through showers of confetti to Niagara Falls, Windsor and points west.

For travelling the bride wore a powder blue two-piece suit with white accessories.

On their return they will live on the groom's farm in Percy.

Eileen F. Sellon Is Wed To R.A.F. Officer

A pretty wedding took place quietly Saturday afternoon, when Eileen Florence Sellon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Sellon, 23 Aylmer street, became the bride of Flying Officer Arthur George Steele, R.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Steele, of Wellesly, Cheshire, England. Murray Street Baptist church was tastefully decorated for the ceremony, at which Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe officiated. Harry Northrop was at the organ, and played "Because," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly gowned in street-length brocaded satin, with a finger-tip veil, and carried a nosegay of pink sweet peas. She was attended by Miss Madeline Charlton, in blue crepe silk, a blue feather hat, and carrying a nosegay of sweet peas.

FO. N. Down was best man, and Orville Sellon, brother of the bride, and Norman Harris, were ushers. The reception was held at the bride's home.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

In the summer when the weather is hot and we do not feel like heavy meals, yet still like a little meat, try croquettes. Croquettes can be made of fish, meat, chicken or eggs. They make a light meat course, yet very nourishing. We will today turn our attention to this way of serving meat.

Fish Croquettes

2 cups cooked fish, ½ cup drawn butter sauce, eggs and crumbs. Mince fish, season to taste and moisten with drawn butter sauce. Spread upon a greased platter and when stiff mold into cutlets. Roll in fine crumbs, then in egg, and again in crumbs, leave in the refrigerator until firm and fry in deep fat (375-390 degrees F) from 2 to 5 minutes.

Egg Croquettes

2 cups chopped hard cooked eggs, 1 cup thick white sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, dash of cayenne, egg and crumbs. Chop the eggs fine, moisten with sauce as soft as can be handled and season. Let chill thoroughly on flat dish, well greased, then divide evenly into portions, allowing 2 tablespoons for each croquette. Shape into any desired form. Roll in crumbs, dip in egg, again in crumbs, and fry in deep fat. Drain on soft paper. Serve with or without sauce.

Ham Croquettes

2 cups mashed potato, 1 tablespoon fat, 3 egg-yolks, cayenne, 1 cup cooked ham, egg and crumbs. Mix potato, fat, yolks of two eggs and cayenne, beat until smooth, then set aside to cool. Chop the ham, mix with the other yolk, cook until mixture thickens, turn out to cool. When thoroughly cool, take a tablespoonful of the potato mixture, make a hole in centre, put a large teaspoon of the chopped ham inside, close the hole and form a ball. Dip into flour, then into egg, roll in crumbs, and fry in deep fat for about 5 minutes.

Chicken a la King

2 cups diced (cooked) chicken, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 egg yolks, 1 green pepper minced, 1 pimento cut in thin strips, 1 cup mushrooms sliced, 1 cup chicken stock or milk, 1 cup sour cream, 4 tablespoons sherry, salt and pepper to taste. Melt the butter, add the peppers and mushrooms and saute light yellow. Lift out. Blend the flour with the seasoned butter, then add the chicken and when hot add the cream combined with the beaten egg yolks, the mushrooms, pepper and pimieento. Add the sherry and serve at once. Do not cook after adding the eggs or the mixture may curdle. Stand over hot, but not bubbling water, if necessary. This can also be made using fish instead of chicken.

Frances Dingwall Is Given Shower

Mrs. Dave Wilson and Miss Margaret Best were joint hostesses on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Lorne Scott, 455 Stewart street to a shower for Miss Frances Dingwall, a member of the Royal Bank staff who is being married in the near future. The evening was spent in playing bingo and contests, after which the bride-to-be was presented with a set of pyrex ovenware. She thanked her friends for the lovely gifts and invited everyone to come and see her in her new home. A dainty lunch was then served by the hostesses.

Those present were: Misses Frances Ringwall, Mignon Mayneord, Shirley Delahaye, Sarah Eastwood, Elinor Sheehy, Gwen McConnell, Barbara McConnell, June Burrows, Shirley Crouter, Margaret Best and Mrs. Dave Wilson.

Those unable to attend were: Misses Renee de Laplante, Lois Reid, Helen Collins, and Mrs. Fred Spenceley.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

YOUNG GIRLS SELF-CENTERED
War Will Mature Man; Conversation with Any 'Teen-Age Miss Must Please Her Mood.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 22, a lieutenant in the army. At college I made Who's Who among Students in American Universities and Colleges. I won several medals for debating domestic and public problems, but when I take a girl out I don't know what to say to her. I try to make myself interesting by talking about something that I have done or heard or read and she practically yawns in my face.

Another of my drawbacks is that I am a poor dancer. And still another is that I am blond and do not look my age. I look much younger. Can you tell me how I can correct this boyish appearance and make a hit with the girls?

C. I. J.

WAR WILL AGE MAN

ANSWER: You needn't seek a remedy for aging. Nature and the war will see to that. You will not go home looking like Mama's little boy. You will show the stress and strain that you have been through and in your eyes will be the look of those who have seen death and suffering and tried to fathom the meaning of them.

If you have failed to interest girls by your conversation, it is probably because you have picked them too young. You were above your audience. If you had been talking to a woman, she would no doubt have hung upon your words and found you a fascinating companion.

A teen-age girl is interested in nothing on God's earth but herself and her own crowd and the things they do. If you had kept telling her over and over and over again how beautiful she was, and asking her why she didn't go to Hollywood and be a starlet; if you had talked about the last dance, or where you got the best hamburgers, you would have gotten along with her swimmingly.

Later on she will probably be interested in discussing worthwhile subjects, but when she is in the adolescent stage you have to keep the spotlight on her if you want to make a hit with her.

I would certainly advise you to learn how to dance. No man endears himself to a girl by tramping on her feet and ruining her best slippers.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am married and have a family of four children. The trouble is my wife is insanely jealous and is getting worse every day. She has no earthly cause, for I have been the most domestic of men, devoted to my home and children. My wife's incessant nagging and false accusations are making me a nervous wreck and injuring my business ability.

What should I do? Divorce her, or just leave all and never come back? She won't let me drive my car without her going along. I can't speak to a woman just casually without her making a scene.

HORACE.

JEALOUSY RATED SERIOUS CRIME

ANSWER: I have always believed that jealousy should be treated as the mental disease it is, and that it could be cured by committing the jealous husband or wife to a lunatic asylum, which is where they belong.

We have asylums in which we incarcerate the criminally insane who have committed murder. Surely it is just as much a crime to slay the happiness of a good husband or wife by false suspicions that are nothing but delusions as it would be to take his or her life. The jealous always try to excuse themselves by claiming that they can't control themselves, but they would do it if they knew that their tantrums and scenes would land them behind bars.

DEAR MISS DIX: I worked at a job that I hated. Now I have one that interests me and that I love, but I am offered more money to go back to the old job. What shall I do?

UNCERTAIN.

ANSWER: Stick to the job you like. That is the way you will make a success. Nobody does good work at a job that bores them.

Range Pals Plan Annual Picnic

Misses Jessie and Daisy Bell were hostesses for the first July meeting of the Range Pals, and the work period followed a strenuous ball game, from which Gordon Stockdale's team emerged victorious. Members who have not already turned in their blocks for the flannelette quilt were asked to do so as soon as possible, since the Red Cross will soon need extra quilts for Britain and burned-out areas in Quebec. Plans for the annual picnic, to be held later in July, were discussed, and are well under way.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery were expressed for Miss Blanche Quinn, publicity secretary of the group, who was recently hurt while helping on her father's farm, and is now in Nicholls Hospital. June meetings were held at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ballantyne. The next meeting will be held at the home of Misses Audrey and Norma Timlin.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE: Anyone can tell you are dyed-in-the-wool Northerner, because when you do give us a Southern dish, you make such a fuss about it. Hot breads are so good and so cheap and such a necessity to Southern people I thought you might print my Corn Bread method for it is authentic and anyone from the South will say so too.

Leora's Cornbread

One and one-half cups cornmeal, ½ cup white flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, 2 teaspons salt, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons baking drippings, butter milk or sour milk to make a thin batter—about 1¼ cups. First turn on the oven and place 2 pans 9 x 12 in oven with the bacon fat in them. Sift the dry ingredients together, then add the egg and milk and the melted fat in pans and stir well and pour into pans (which are automatically greased with the melted fat), spreading the batter thin—not more than ½-inch thick in both pans. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes. Serve butter and sorghum molasses—if you are lucky enough to know what I'm talking about. Cornbread should be hot, thin and crisp—never thick and soft like Canadians make Johnny cake.—L. Orr.

Thanks for jacking me up. I was told cornbread was just the thing to serve with any fish dish and served it to some guests for lunch with a shrimp salad. I have to admit you Southerners know a good combination when you eat it.—Thanks.

Godbout Bans Conscription For Overseas

L'ISLET, Que., July 10 (CP)—Premier Godbout, opening his campaign in the Quebec Aug. 8 general Provincial elections, said here Sunday "I was against conscription (for overseas service) in 1939 and 1940, and I am still against it in 1944."

Mr. Godbout also told the rally that farmers' sons "whether they now are in the services or if they did not comply with military service regulations, or even if they are considered deserters, will be exempted of any military service if they are given a certificate by their mayors and agronomists."

"If there is in the Province one farmer's son, an employee on the farm, who did not comply with wartime (military) regulations, I ask him to do it at once and he will be exempted," he said.

"There will be a small punishment, of course, for not having obeyed orders, but who has never been punished for not having complied with the law? You know that I always think of what I say before making a promise, and I may assure you that once again I thought of what I just said, and, if I said it, it is because it is true.

Thousands of senior Air Cadets across the Dominion are this month taking their first officially supervised R.C.A.F. flights at air force stations during the summer camps this year. Ten days' camp spent among their beloved aircraft has always been the big event of the year for these cadets but this summer offered a great deal more to them and they were more eager than ever to get on to these stations. When they clamber aboard aircraft this time it means more than a study of the instrument panel. Previously it was all theory, ground work. There isn't much about an aircraft that these lads do not know. But now the lads know what it is to fly. They can talk with authority on the thrill of speedy air travel.

The lads are given flips in Ansons and other training aircraft piloted by specially selected men. It gives them an opportunity to put their knowledge, gained from intensive study, to the test; navigation, theory of flight, signals perhaps, and other subjects. The layout illustrates that portion of summer camp now holding the spotlight for the cadets. In No. 1 from the co-pilot's seat the flight sergeant, the envy of the rest of his mates, gets the gen from an expert, the official pilot, before the boys take off on their first authorised flight.

No. 2—What a thrill! Seated in the front cockpit of a Harvard the cadet gets an unimpeded view as he flies the skies. The pilot operates the aircraft from the rear cockpit.

No. 3—The cadet sergeant with full accoutrement, harness, chute and head-set climbs on the wing to take his seat in the forward cockpit. He may appear nonchalant but he's thrilled to the core, and why not? Flying in the R.C.A.F.'s best known training plane, a top notch pilot at the controls and the cadet himself part and parcel of the whole business.

No. 4—The porthole-like window of the Anson Mark 5 makes a fitting frame for the happy cadet taking his flip under expert R.C.A.F. supervision.

No. 5—Inside the aircraft the cadets are as comfortable as riding in a cushioned limousine. Looking towards the nose the picture shows three of the cadets inside the Anson while in flight, at the left can be seen the radio transmitter-receiver and to the right the chutes neatly arranged in racks.

No. 6—They're off! A bunch of happy cadets peep from the portholes of a training plane, and one from the co-pilot's seat as they take off for a flight.

No. 7—Arrayed in their harness and carrying their chutes five youngsters walk across the tarmac with their pilot towards the aircraft which will soon bear them aloft on their first R.C.A.F. authorized flight.

Soldiers Battle Zombies At Petawawa

By V. Bower, Ottawa Citizen

PETAWAWA MILITARY CAMP, July 10—Resentment against men of the home defence army—the N.R.M.A. or "zombie" as he is more familiarly called—who will not go active is putting Petawawa on the top of a powder keg according to those in the know at the big military training center.

Already on several occasions lately fighting has broken out between the draftees and the regular general service troops who have volunteered for service anywhere in the world and on at least two occasions the scraps approached near riot proportions. High ranking officers of the military establishment refuse to discuss the situation, but it is common knowledge around the camp, and in the neighboring settlements.

Latest of the clashes occurred at the men's canteen of A1, R.C.A. training centre when shortly after the canteen closed fighting broke out between the two groups with large numbers involved. Reinforcements were rushed in from both sides and only with great difficulty was a serious riot averted. Unofficial information says that on more than one instance it has been necessary to bring out the fire hose to break the scraps up.

On Large Scale

A similar incident on an even larger scale reportedly occurred at the A2 R.C.A. center a few weeks ago when the guard was called to quell the disturbance.

Feeling is high between the two groups. In the town of Pembroke fights on a smaller scale are not rare. Both local police and provost crops admit freely that there is bad feeling between the two groups, and that at times it is difficult to prevent outbreaks.

Servicemen queried in regard to the situation refused to be quoted by name, saying it would involve them in trouble with their superior officers, but freely admitted the situation is bad.

"The 'zombies' don't want to do any fighting," said a typical corporal. "But they hang stripes on them and the rest of us have to take orders from them. I don't like it and the active men don't like it. The 'zombies" group together and make remarks to the active men, they pile into the canteens and take up all the seats. They get the best of the show and the rest of us do the work and take on the fighting."

Officers Refuse Comment

The camp public relations officer, Lieut. W. R. Stewart, interviewed in reference to the outbreaks, said he was unable to make a statement under orders of the commander, Brigadier W. C. Thackery. Other camp officers similarly refused to comment stating it was definitely understood in the camp the subject was closed to discussion with the press and any statement must come from N.D.H.Q.

N.C.O.'s and enlisted men were not so loath to discuss the matter and it was quite apparent that the general service men are boiling at the general attitude taken by the zombies

"Of course they're protected by the law though," said one enlisted man. "The law says they don't have to go overseas if they don't want to. And, believe me, boy, they don't want to."

The typical attitude of the general service men was that the "zombie" was getting the preferences and they wanted to see him give a hand in the action. Some draftees share the same belief for a number of them have already gone active. These now join their general service comrades in a feeling of resentment that the N.R.M.A. man in khaki is not ready to give an equal hand in the fighting.

SWIFT'S WEEKLY FOOD HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly, wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Monday

by Martha Logan

Fresh Berry Pie

Yum yum for luscious uncooked fruit in a tender delicious pie shell

At this time of year in Canada, when fresh berries are at their best, dessert can never be a problem. Just the same it's a challenge to us housewives to dress up the luscious fruit in different ways.

So this week I suggest one of the most delicious. An open-face fresh berry pie: Bake and cool a crisp open-pie shell (see panel). Fill it with your choice of berries or fruit (it will be swell with your home-canned fruits later). Sweeten the fresh fruit with powdered sugar or drizzle it with honey . . . either way it's grand!

Martha Logan

OPEN-FACE PIE SHELL

1½ cups once-sifted pastry flour or 1⅝ cups once-sifted bread flour
1 teaspoon salt
7 tablespoons Swift's Silverleaf Lard
Ice water

Measure once-sifted flour and sift with the salt. Cut in half of the lard finely (to the size of wheat grains) and remaining half coarsely (to the size of small peas). Add the ice water, mixing in lightly and using only enough to make a paste which will just cling together and clean easily from the bowl. Chill, if time permits.

To Make Pie Shell: Roll pie paste to about ⅛-inch thickness. Fit paste loosely inside the pie-pan, excluding all air; trim edge, then prick well. Dampen rim of shell with cold water and cover with a ½-inch strip of rolled-out paste; crimp. Fill unbaked pie shell with dried beans (to keep shell in shape) and bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, until set; remove the beans, then bake shell until paste is cooked and nicely browned.

Orange Lodges Attend Service

HAVELOCK, July 10 (ENS) — An unusually large attendance of worshippers from the Havelock L. O. L. No. 326 and Lady McGill, L. O. B. A. No. 471 attended the morning service at the United Church. Visiting brethren from other Orange Orders were present from Norwood, Hastings, Belmont, Blairton, Polmont and South Dummer. The pastor, Rev. S. A. Kemp delivered an inspiring message, and divided his topic under four headings. 1, We need men in our Societies who can revive a dying cause. Garbaldi and his army although partly defeated revived rallied and won the victory. 2, We need men who use their brains; for example, the value of iron in raw material taken from the mine, and then its tremendous value after adding brains, in the manufacture of watch springs. 3, We need men in our societies who co-operate and pull together. The secret ballot and black ball system are used to keep out any undesirables, but not for personal spite or malice. 4, We need men who will serve and not criticize, who respect self and are respected by th world. Any man who does his best to serve others, is usually respected by everyone. For example—the old violin maker of Moscow, who died like Moses, on the mountain top with God.. This verse should be a fitting motto to all when they have come to the end of the road.

When I am dead, if men can say,
He helped the world upon its way.
If they can say, if they but can,
He did his best, he played the man.
His way was straight, his soul was clean.
His failings not unsound nor mean.
He loved his fellowman and tried
To help them—I shall be satisfied.

A vocal solo "Dear to the Heart of the Shepherd" was given by Mrs. Gideon Morrow, accompanied by Mrs. R. Campney at the organ.

CHICAGO, July 10.—(AP).—Gerald L. K. Smith, leader of the America First party, said in a statement yesterday that his group would meet here July 17 and call on the Democrats to nominate Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana for president. He also said he would ask his party leaders to approve a resolution urging Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to resign the Republican presidential nomiantion "in order that Gov. Bricker (of Ohio) may become the victorious presidential candidate."

175 Killed

TORONTO, July 10 — (CP) — The Industrial Accident Prevention Association, in a statement issued during the week-end, reported 175 fatal industrial accidents in the first six months of 1944, compared with 211 in the corresponding period last year. Total injuries in 1944 were 61,245 as against 64,380 in the 1943 period. Total compensation awarded by the Board for the 1944 period amounted to $6,422,032 compared with the 1943 total of $5,488,068.

Bombard Guam

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said today American cruisers and destroyers shelled Japanese oppositions on Guam Island yesterday in conjunction with a bombardment by more than 70 United States planes. The islands of Rota and Tinian in the Marianas also were shelled by American warships,

Mining News

Goldora Mines reports that the magnetometer survey of the portion of the property adjoining Obaska Lake Mines has been completed. The survey disclosed the presence of numerous diorite dykes, outlined the main greenstone-sediment contact. These conditions, according to the official report, are identical with those associated with the Obaska Lake property.

First hole in the drilling program designed to cross-section anomalies in this area, reached a depth of 183 feet at last report. Two intrusive dykes of feldspar porphyry were cut, both of which show mineralization associated with the altered mineral epidota. This hole will be continued to a depth of 600 feet.

Sun Bear Mines, which recently acquired claims in the Yellowknife district, is making plans for development officials state.

Gan Copper Mines plans to make a magnetometer survey of its property. Diamond drilling has been under way for several months to a depth of 750 feet. One hole previously drilled to 750 feet is to be deepened to 1,300 feet.

Although production of gold in Canada during 1943 was severly affected by labor shortages and the war effort, showing a decline of approximately 25 per cent. from the previous year, the sharp reduction is relatively insignificant when compared with the loss in output suffered by the United States in the same year.

Reduction in United States gold production in 1943, as compared with the 1942 total was a little more than 62 per cent. and the State of California, for many years the leading producing State, saw its production shrink to the lowest level in a good many years.

Official figures just released in Washington reveal that total United States production for 1943 was only 1,394,522 ounces, compared with 3,741,806 ounces in the previous year, Canada's 1943 output totalled 3,652,376 ounces compared with 4,841,306 ounces in 1942.

Cobourg Flier In France Raid

LONDON, July 10 —(CP Cable)— Lancasters and Halifaxes of the Canadian bomber group, covered by fighter formations, attacked enemy flying bomb installations in northern France today without loss, the R.C.A.F. announced.

Four fires were sighted in the target area and Sgt. George Cufe, Cobourg, Ont., said: "Jerry won't put them out in a hurry." There was thick cloud during most of the flight but many pilots reported the clouds opened as they began their bombing run.

Wing Cmdr. J. K. MacDonald, Antigonish, N.S., led the Leaside Squadron which he commands, and other squadrons on the raid included the Lion, Bison, Tiger, Porcupine, Moose, Iroquois, and Bluenose.

During the early morning an R.C.A.F. Wellington squadron of coastal command successfully attacked two forces of enemy shipping off the Netherlands coast.

Sqdn. Ldr. H. G. Keiller, Mitchell, Ont., bombed a merchant vessel which was part of a convoy of five merchant and four escort ships off Ijmuiden. Bombs straddled the vessel and the crew saw a red flash followed by smoke.

Buildings believed to house a German headquarters southwest of Caen in Normandy were hit Saturday night by members of an R.C.A.F. Typhoon Squadron operating from a Normandy airfield. The pilots included Andrew Lambrose, Belleville, Ont.

OBITUARIES

HENRY WILLIAM WICKENDEN

Henry William Wickenden, 114 Maria street, passed away in hospital Saturday after an illness of two weeks. Employed at the Canada Packers as a butcher for 26 years, Mr. Wickenden was in his 59th year and had resided here for 35 years.

Born in England the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Wickenden of England and the late William Wickenden, he came to Canada from the land of his birth. He was a member of St. Luke's Anglican church. He is survived by his wife, the former Lillian Scott, and one daughter, Roana of Peterborough. There was also three sisters living in England.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the Comstock Funeral Home, 305 Water street, with services conducted by Rev. A. J. Arthur of St. Luke's church. Interment in Little Lake cemetery.

CHARLES MORGAN

BONARLAW, July 10—(ENS).—In poor health for the past few years, Charles Morgan of Harold passed away suddenly at his home Saturday night. He was 68 years old. A resident of Huntingdon Township, where he was born the son of the late John Morgan and Annie Bateman, he lived for a few years in Springbrook and operated a sawmill before moving to the farm where he was residing at the time of his death. A Conservative in politics and a member of the Anglican Church, he leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Mamie Heath; one daughter, Mrs. Lindsay Tanner (Annie), at home; and one son, Harold, of Rawdon.

The funeral will be held Tuesday and will leave the late residence at 1:30 p.m. for services at St. Thomas' Church on the 8th line. Interment in the 8th Line Cemetery.

NORMAN WHIPP

Funeral service for the late Norman Whipp, 216 London street, who passed away Sunday after a motorcycle accident, was held Wednesday afternoon from the Comstock Funeral Home, with Rev. H. J. McAllister of the Full Gospel Pentecostal Church officiating.

Many relatives and friends attended the service, and floral offerings bore testimony to the esteem in which Mr. Whipp was held in the community. Interment was made in Norwood cemetery.

Mr. Whipp came to Canada eighteen years ago, from London, England. He was associated with the Wonder Bakeries for the past eleven years. He was in his 35th year.

He leaves to mourn his passing his widow, formerly Mary Buchanan, one stepdaughter, Evelyn Gardner, and a brother George of Toronto.

The pall-bearers were A. Johns, G. Johns, D. Foster, J. Freeman, D. Lewis and D. Kennedy.

Stage Comedy Drama

BAILIEBORO, July 10—(ENS)—A goodly number attended the three-act comedy-drama, "Whittlin'," held in the basement of Christ Church on Friday evening, sponsored by the Sunday School and presented by Bethany Y.P.U.

Between acts Ralph Preston sang comedy songs, "I Can't Find Thing Any More," "I've Given Up My Sugar Ration," and "The First Seven Years Are the Worst."

Mining News

Goldora Mines reports that the magnetometer survey of the portion of the property adjoining Obaska Lake Mines has been completed. The survey disclosed the presence of numerous diorite dykes, outlined the main greenstone-sediment contact. These conditions, according to the official report, are identical with those associated with the Obaska Lake property.

First hole in the drilling program designed to cross-section anomalies in this area, reached a depth of 183 feet at last report. Two intrusive dykes of feldspar porphyry were cut, both of which show mineralization associated with the altered mineral epidote. This hole will be continued to a depth of 600 feet.

Sun Bear Mines, which recently acquired claims in the Yellowknife district, is making plans for development officials state.

Gan Copper Mines plans to make a magnetometer survey of its property. Diamond drilling has been under way for several months to a depth of 750 feet. One hole previously drilled to 750 feet is to be deepened to 1,300 feet.

Although production of gold in Canada during 1943 was severly affected by labor shortages and the war effort, showing a decline of approximately 25 per cent. from the previous year, the sharp reduction is relatively insignificant when compared with the loss in output suffered by the United States in the same year.

Reduction in United States gold production in 1943, as compared with the 1942 total was a little more than 62 per cent. and the State of California, for many years the leading producing State, saw its production shrink to the lowest level in a good many years.

Official figures just released in Washington reveal that total United States production for 1943 was only 1,394,522 ounces, compared with 3,741,806 ounces in the previous year. Canada's 1943 output totalled 3,652,376 ounces compared with 4,841,306 ounces in 1942.

Cobourg Flier In France Raid

LONDON, July 10 —(CP Cable)— Lancasters and Halifaxes of the Canadian bomber group, covered by fighter formations, attacked enemy flying bomb installations in northern France today without loss, the R.C.A.F. announced.

Four fires were sighted in the target area and Sgt. George Cufe, Cobourg, Ont., said: "Jerry won't put them out in a hurry." There was thick cloud during most of the flight but many pilots reported the clouds opened as they began their bombing run.

Wing Cmdr. J. K. MacDonald, Antigonish, N.S., led the Leaside Squadron which he commands, and other squadrons on the raid included the Lion, Bison, Tiger, Porcupine, Moose, Iroquois, and Bluenose.

During the early morning an R.C.A.F. Wellington squadron of coastal command successfully attacked two forces of enemy shipping off the Netherlands coast.

Sqdn. Ldr. H. G. Keiller, Mitchell, Ont., bombed a merchant vessel which was part of a convoy of five merchant and four escort ships off Ijmuiden. Bombs straddled the vessel and the crew saw a red flash followed by smoke.

Buildings believed to house a German headquarters southwest of Caen in Normandy were hit Saturday night by members of an R.C.A.F. Typhoon Squadron operating from a Normandy airfield. The pilots included Andrew Lambrose, Belleville, Ont.

OBITUARIES

HENRY WILLIAM WICKENDEN

Henry William Wickenden, 114 Maria street, passed away in hospital Saturday after an illness of two weeks. Employed at the Canada Packers as a butcher for 26 years, Mr. Wickenden was in his 59th year and had resided here for 35 years.

Born in England the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Wickenden of England and the late William Wickenden, he came to Canada from the land of his birth. He was a member of St. Luke's Anglican church. He is survived by his wife, the former Lillian Scott, and one daughter, Roana of Peterborough. There was also three sisters living in England.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the Comstock Funeral Home, 305 Water street, with services conducted by Rev. A. J. Arthur of St. Luke's church. Interment in Little Lake cemetery.

CHARLES MORGAN

BONARLAW, July 10.—(ENS).— In poor health for the past few years, Charles Morgan of Harold passed away suddenly at his home Saturday night. He was 66 years old. A resident of Huntingdon Township, where he was born the son of the late John Morgan and Annie Bateman, he lived for a few years in Springbrook and operated a sawmill before moving to the farm where he was residing at the time of his death. A Conservative in politics and a member of the Anglican Church, he leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Mamie Heath; one daughter, Mrs. Lindsay Tanner (Annie), at home; and one son, Harold, of Rawdon.

The funeral will be held Tuesday and will leave the late residence at 1:30 p.m. for services at St. Thomas' Church on the 8th line. Interment in the 8th Line Cemetery.

NORMAN WHIPP

Funeral service for the late Norman Whipp, 216 London street, who passed away Sunday after a motorcycle accident, was held Wednesday afternoon from the Comstock Funeral Home, with Rev. H. J. McAllister of the Full Gospel Pentecostal Church officiating.

Many relatives and friends attended the service, and floral offerings bore testimony to the esteem in which Mr. Whipp was held in the community. Interment was made in Norwood cemetery.

Mr. Whipp came to Canada eighteen years ago, from London, England. He was associated with the Wonder Bakeries for the past eleven years. He was in his 35th year.

He leaves to mourn his passing his widow, formerly Mary Buchanan, one stepdaughter, Evelyn Gardner, and a brother George of Toronto.

The pall-bearers were A. Johns, G. Johns, D. Foster, J. Freeman, D. Lewis and D. Kennedy.

Stage Comedy Drama

BAILIEBORO, July 10—(ENS)— A goodly number attended the three-act comedy-drama, "Whittlin'," held in the basement of Christ Church on Friday evening, sponsored by the Sunday School and presented by Bethany Y.P.U.

Between acts Ralph Preston sang comedy songs, "I Can't Find Thing Any More," "I've Given Up My Sugar Ration," and "The First Seven Years Are the Worst."

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

LONDON CHILDREN ON THE MOVE—School children in the London area are shown as they were prepared for evacuation to safety zones in England. London has been under a 24-hour-a-day bombardment by the Nazi flying robots since June 14.

Jack Hardill Is Winner

The effect of the changes which have been made in some members' handicaps is quite apparent when looking over the net scores turned in by the competitors in the weekly sweepstakes at the Peterborough Golf and Country club. Hugh Waddell and Jack Hardill led the field with gross scores of 79 followed by Bob Abbott with a round 80.

Prizes for the day will be distributed on the basis of low net scores and Jack Hardill with gross 79, handicap 16, garners in the first prize ticket with a very brisk 63. Jack is one of the most promising players in the club hitting tremendous booming drives with all the vigor of youth at the same time playing long and short irons with unerring accuracy and putting with the best. The younger Hardill is now in the Navy and may not get as much time to practice the game as formerly but if Saturday's score is any evidence he doesn't need a great deal.

T. T. Rodgers took home second low net prize in the first flight with an 85, handicap 20, net 65. In the second flight Gordon Maniece turned in an 88, handicap 22, net 66 for first place followed by W. E. Lloyed and E. McKerchar who tied with net 68s.

Other scores posted are as follows:

	Gross	Hdcp.	Net
Jack Keyes	88	20	68
Munroe	91	20	71
J. G. Wharry	93	17	76
M. G. Hardill	87	16	71
B. Cowell	97	22	75
George Kelly	98	22	76
O. M. Steer	88	18	70
A. Rutter	91	14	77
R. Abbott	80	7	73

Golf Tournament

Of interest to most keen golfers within a 100-mile radius, will be the Kinsmen's Third Annual Kawartha Lakes Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament to be held July 15 and 16 at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

Not being interested in the professional prizes, which are very handsome, we would like to make mention of the prize for amateurs. Competition for amateurs will be medal play with the field divided into three flights of handicaps, from 1 to 10, from 11 to 20, and from 21 to 32. Certified club handicaps will be used. For an entry fee of $2 amateurs may play for first and second low gross and first and second low net in each flight, for either 18 holes or 36 holes as they desire. An amateur may not win more than one prize. Thus, a lucky player with a very brisk 18 or an exceptional low 36, could claim a prize for either one or the other but not both. The committee will add together the four lowest gross scores frm any one club and will present these four players with suitable prizes.

The proceeds, of course, are for charitable purposes and spectators are assured of an excellent opportunity of watching the top professionals and amateurs of the country perform. Spectators' tickets are 50 cents each and a Spectators' draw will be made for six valuable prizes.

Don't forget to keep July 22 open, for that is the day the Peterborough Club members meet the Kawartha Club to play for the first heat of the Glover-Dobbin Trophy.

Cure Jaw Ailment

LONDON, Ont., —July 10 — (CP) — Authorities at Victoria Hospital here last night said that for the first time in London a successful operation for the relief of Ankylosis of the jaw—an unusual condition in which the upper and lower jaw bones contract and grow together as one—has been perormed. The patient, Miss Vera McMaster, said last night she was "thrilled" to be able to chew for the first time in 25 years.

Godbout Bans

"Our political adversaries are unable to speak of Provincial politics," Mr. Godbout said. "If Mr. Duplessis wants to talk Federal politics, we shall do it, too. If he wants to speak of Mr. Bracken (Progressive Conservative Leader John Bracken) and Mr. McTague (ex-Mr. Justice C. P. McTague), his political organizer, who wants conscription for overseas service, we shall do it again. I was against conscription in 1939 and 1940, and I am still against conscription in 1944.

"It is because I have supported a Liberal Government in Ottawa that you did not get conscription. The present Federal Government understands agriculture, and it is the reason why your sons, the farmers' sons, are on your farms. There is not one farmer's son in the army, if he is useful on the farm and has complied with wartime regulations, because Mr. King (Prime Minister Mackenzie King) is at Ottawa."

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, July 11

THIS DAY promises outstanding success for those who use quick, direct and sagacious activity, in which initiative, ingenuity and originality are emphasized. This may involve a sudden change of plans and objectives, in which publicity, advertising or other clever moves must be brought to bear upon tenacious obstacles, or depressive and static circumstances. Dynamic actions, with a moderate degree of compromise or shrewd yielding may help where intrigues threaten. The mind should be found equal to cope with major obstructions.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of thrilling and sudden adventures in which a degree of dispatch, shrewdness and creative ability may turn the tide of menacing events. The intuitions and intellect may be found keyed to highly productive techniques for reversing difficulties and negotiating dangers by quick grasp of major situations, which may call for radical change. The use of clever strategies or friendly compromise may be effective where lack of tact might confuse the issues. With shrewd and clever work exceptional opportunities for originality and acumen may be anticipated.

A child born on this day may have much stability and discernment of character, with keen and brilliant intellectual and creative abilities.

Robots Hit Sweden

STOCKHOLM, July 10 (CP-Reuters)—The German government has expressed its regret to the Swedish Government that two pilotless planes crashed in south Sweden on May 11 and June 13 respectivefly. A German statement, made through the Swedish legation in Berlin, said that the planes were being used for experiments and that steps have been taken to prevent a repetition of the incidents.

CHANGE THE ORDER

PERHAPS the first thing to remember about the play for a suit contract is to run trumps first, as a rule, to get the defenders out of them and thus prevent defensive ruffs. The second thing is the most important exception—do not lead trumps if that would consume trumps in the dummy which are required for ruffing. The third is the next most important exception—when leading trumps would give the defenders the lead and enable them to take immediate winners to set the contract, picking off losers of yours which might be discarded before you lose the lead to them.

3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

West led the diamond Q. Before playing from either hand, South saw that he stood to lose four tricks if he led trumps at once—one in hearts to the A, two in diamonds and one in spades. But by postponing the leading of trumps, he could get rid of one of his diamond losers on the dummy's clubs.

So he won the first trick with the diamond A, led to the club Q and back to the club A, then led the club K. On this he discarded the diamond 5. Now the opponents could not take more than one diamond trick.

Next he led a trump. East took it with the A, scored the diamond K and led a third diamond. South, however, was able to trump this. He finished the defenders' hearts in two more rounds, then gave up a spade. His own third spade he could always ruff in the dummy. So he lost one spade, one heart and one diamond.

Of course, if the third club trick got ruffed—because one defender had only two cards of the suit—he could not have made his contract anyway.

Tomorrow's Problem

After West takes three clubs, South wins the heart switch and then scores the spade A and leads the 9, what cards should East play to those spade tricks? Why?

Hospital Care Outlined To Lakefield W.I.

LAKEFIELD, July 10 — (ENS) — Mrs. Howard Bullock was hostess to members of the Women's Institute for their July meeting on Thursday afternoon.

The president Mrs. Percy Spence was in charge of the meeting.

The roll call was answered by the members telling of their first holiday: Mrs. A. Windsor recalled her first holiday when as a small child she travelled from Apsley to Peterborough by stage coach and there took the train for Belleville to visit relatives.

Hospital Care

Mrs. Joseph Moore of Hall's Glen was guest speaker and outlined the plan for Hospital Care, sponsored by the Ontario Hospital Association This is a non-profit community service offererd by the hospitals' own association as a non-profit service in the public interest.

Mrs. Moore said that each year one family in five needs hospital care. Accidents, ill health, and sickness strike suddenly and few families are prepared financially to meet such emergencies, but under the new plan for hospital care, people can be free from the worry of hospital expenses.

Mrs. Moore told how Institute members had enrolled last year, and two persons had received benefits from the organization shortly after joining. Mrs. Moore said if the Lakefield Institute members were interested in joining as a group, she would be glad to assist them in any way she could. The cost is actually very low less than 2c per day for the individual and 3½c a day for the family.

A vote of appreciation was given to Mrs. Moore and also Mrs. E. Batten, from Hall's Glen who brought Mrs. Moore to the meeting.

A short discussion was held in the proper method of canning beans and peas. A sale of home cooking brought in $2.50.

The members decided to have their next meeting at either Mrs. A Davis', Mrs. G. Foster's or have a picnic by the river.

The meeting was brought to a close by prayer by Mrs. Ernie Waldon. Tea was served by the hostess and a social half hour enjoyed.

Will Discuss Quota Problem

By THOMAS HAGENBUCH
Associated Press Staff Writer

BRETTON WOODS, N.H., July 10 —(AP)—As committees of the United Nations Monetary Conference plodded through a mass of detail in their work on an international currency fund, it was disclosed yesterday that the complicated problem of quotas has yet to be discussed.

Furthermore, a government spokesman said that a number of countries had come to the conference with formulas for establishing quotas for the fund, and all would be considered. Heretofore, the only formula which had been mentioned in preliminary discussions was that devised by the United States Treasury Department before the conference opened.

Under this formula, the subscription of the United States to the $8,000,000,000 monetary fund would be approximately $2,500,000,000, Great Britain's $1,500,000,000, and Russia's $1,000,000,000.

In answer to a question whether the conference could be regarded as a success if the matter of quotas could not be agreed on, the spokesman declared he felt sure the subject would be settled before the sessions end.

Nevertheless, it was felt certain that the problem of quotas would be one of the major obstacles for the conference to hurle.

French Partisans Extending Control

IRUN, Spain, July 10—(AP)—French Partisans in West Central France, said advances received here to-day, have established almost complete control over 11 departments in what the Petit Gironde of Bordeaux called "an armed insurrection which has proclaimed the Fourth Republic."

Only one through railroad line in that region—the Bordeaux-Perigneux, via Bergenac—is functioning anywhere near normally, and it was re-established recently when the Germans sent three armed columns from Bordeaux to drive back Partisans menacing the submarine base and the Atlantic wall key, these advices said.

The correspondent for the Petit Gironde warned readers that there "is a real front only 50 kilometers (30 miles) from Bordeaux." The day of the Allied invasion in Normandy, he said, was a signal for general mobilization.

In the Dordogne Department, the correspondent said, the entire region except Bergerac and the city of Perigueux, where there is a German garrison, is "dominated" by the Maquis.

Election Keeps Houde Locked Up

MONTREAL, July 10—(CP)—Mrs. Camillien Houde, wife of the former mayor of Montreal, in a letter made public yesterday, says that "the public is suspecting that the only reason for delay" in the release of her husband from internment, "is the forthcoming Quebec general election."

The letter is addressed to Justice Minister St. Laurent, and states that Mr. Houde, interned in 1940 for advising the people of Montreal against national registration, "has conformed himself to all requirements of your laws and regulations."

Mrs. Houde writes that it is five weeks since his second hearing before the advisory committee appointed to study the cases of those interned, and that if her husband is being detained because of the Quebec election, then he "would be detained, not by the state, but by a political party and for political reasons."

Mrs. Houde states that for the last five months she has been refused permission to see her husband and adds:

"When his case was last reviewed. I was not even advised of the date."

CANADIANS DRIVE MILE BEYOND ORNE

Fires Menace 3 Towns; Rain Needed

Careless Settlers Burning Brush Started Holocaust

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

VAL D'OR, Que., July 11—(CP).—Heavy rain clouds formed to-day over the Northern Quebec mining belt and the forest rangers' barometer indicated rain could be expected during the day to bring relief to the area from the forest fires which have raged across a 1,000,000-acre area for two weeks.

Fires still amouldered throughout the area, but I. B. Tremblay, chief of the Fire Rangers, said the situation was under control and would remain that way unless a high wind suddenly arose. The barometer was dropping gradually, if rain fell as was indicated, the fires would be extinguished.

The situation in three communities which last night were believed in serious danger of destruction, showed marked improvement during the night and no homes were destroyed, Tremblay said. At Columbiere, about 10 miles eat of here, a few colonist homes which last night were considered beyond salvation, were saved when fire was turned back into the forest.

Police Chief A. C. Reddington here said last night a good number of men were available as fire-fighters.

All Under Control.

Chief Reddington also said that all fires around this town were under control except for a blaze near the Thompson river, about three miles west of here, which had been encircled and could only become dangerous in case of a high wind.

Tank trucks of the Oil Companies in the district have been pressed intto service as water carriers for districts which have no adequate systems. From these trucks the fire-fighters carry pails of water to throw on the fires. The system has only a certain amount of effectiveness.

The cause of the fires was laid to the burning of brush by settlers and to careless prospectors. E. A. Ouimet, town manager for Val D'Or said the settlers disregard instructions not to burn brush in dry weather.

Settlers, he added, often started a fire just to clear their own land and it got out of control, burning over millions of acres. Prospectors were known to be careless with their fires too and there were hundreds of them in the district.

First damage estimates became available yesterday when it was said the blaze that gutted eight houses and a store there Saturday cost Cadillac residents about $50,000 and that at Pascalis, which was wiped out Friday night, damage was much more than $100,000.

MAY RUN AGAIN—President Roosevelt announced today he would stand for re-election if nominated as a fourth-term president. He has held the post for 12 years.

2,000 Planes Hit Munich; Many Sky Duels

LONDON, July 11 — (CP) — A fleet of 2,000 American planes, 1,100 of them heavy bombers attacked targets around Munich in south Germany today after R.A.F. Mosquitoes before dawn bombed Berlin.

The targets were not immediately identified. Weather was foul, forcing heavy bombers to cast their high explosive loads by instrument through cloud layers.

The Munich attack was the second massed American blow at the Reich in five days. Last Friday, a U.S. armada bombed oil refineries and airplane plants around Leipzig.

The Germans told of sky battles over Munich itself.

The weather curtailed battlefront support operations yesterday and again today, said front dispatches, with clouds so low and dense over Normandy this morning there was no visibility at all.

While one group of Mosquitoes gave Berliners another sleepless night, other formations coursed over north-east France harassing German troop bivouacs and transport. Berlin said Mannheim, near the Reich's western border, was one of the industrial targets. One Mosquito was lost.

The Mosquito penetrations into France were concentrated in the Amiens-Lille - St. Quentin - Laon - Campiegne area, extending north-east of Paris to the Belgian border. Bridges over the Seine, employed by the Germans to rush forces to th battlefront 50 miles to the west, were attacked once more.

In one of the few operations in yesterday's murky weather, rocket-firing typhoons, bomb-carrying Spitfires and R.A.F. Mustangs poured explosives and fire into German troops driven into the woods south-east of Caen by the British-Canadian capture of that city.

Despite the adverse conditions, fighter-bombers ran up more individual flights last evening. American fighter-bombers dive-bombed German gun positions and strong points southeast and southwest of Lessay and east of St. Lo.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory, commander-in-chief of the Allied Expeditionary Air Forces, has said "the Allies have in the air something which we can call supremacy." Montague Taylor, Reuter war correspondent with the R. A. F. in France, reported last night.

Pres. Roosevelt Accepts French

WASHINGTON July 11.—(AP).—President Roosevelt announced today that he is accepting the French National committee headed by Gen. De Gaulle as the authority for civil administration of liberated France.

Mr. Roosevelt's new attitude toward the committee, the president made clear at his news conference, results from the talks which he had last Thursday, Friday and Saturday with De Gaulle. There is no change, the president said, in the policy of this government not recognizing the French committee as a provisional government.

In its capacity of "de facto authority," the committee will be under the general supervision of Gen. Eisenhower, Allied Supreme Commander. Eisenhower will have the decision of when a city or town or department can be released from military administration and turned over to the committee.

The president used the term "de facto authority" in describing the committee's role pending the time that the French people have an opportunity to choose a government for themselves.

"De facto authority" simply means that the committee will in fact exercise the authority of an administrator and will be recognized as exercising it, but from the United States' point of view it will not be diplomatically and politically a government.

MOVE TO FRANCE

LONDON—Reuter's News Agency said that the Supreme Staff of the German Army now is in France, where it was transferred from the Russian front.

T. R. Wood Made Staff Captain

OTTAWA, July 12.—Brother of Major A. E. Wood, who led the Canadian tank assault at Arezzo on the Italian front with the 8th Army, Capt. T. R. "Mike" Wood, R.C.A.S.C., has recently been made a staff captain. During the advance through the German lines in Italy earlier in the year, Staff Capt. Wood served ats brigade supply officer. Following the completion of the first phase of the battle he was promoted to staff captain of the brigade.

It is unusual for an R.C.A.S.C. officer to serve as a brigade staff captain and the appointment is a tribute to Staff Capt. Wood's ability.

Both officers are sons of Lieut.-Col. Edward H. Wood and Mrs. Wood, 150 Metcalfe street, formerly of Peterborough. Lt.-Col. Wood is medical officer of the 2nd Battalion, G.G.F.G., and a veteran of the First World War.

Reds Drive Nearer Baltic Sea

Plan To Isolate 2 Armies In Northern Area

LONDON, July 11 — (CP) — The Red army, continuing its sweeping advance to the Baltic Sea, was within 40 miles of Kovno, pre-war capital of Lithuania, today and only 50 miles from the East Prussian frontier.

A German D. N. B. Agency report said the Red Army had crossed the Latvian capital.

The Germans' escape corridor between the Red Army and the Baltic Sea has shrunk to barely more than 100 miles, Duncan Hooper, Reuter's Correspondent in Moscow reported.

Farther north Soviet artillery is moving up within range of Dvinsk, fortress guarding the road to Riga, Latvian capital.

Meanwhile today's German communique said Russian forces have driven further to the west and southwest beyond Wilno but the garrison of that encircled city continued to "repel attacks from all sides."

Southward in pre-war Poland, other army groups beat toward the rail centre of Bialystok and directly menaced Pinsk. The Germans reported a massive new Soviet offensive in Romania north of the rail centre of Iasi—a drive threatening the Ralati gap and the Ploesti oil fields, already extensively ruined by American bombs.

The Moscow communique said the Germans suffered "tremendous losses" in a general Russian forward surge all the way from the Latvian border to the middle of the Pripyat marshes, some 400 miles southward.

A powerful wedge was driven into Lithuania at about the midway point of the 100-mile battlefront between Daugavpils, in south-eastern Latvia, and the by-passed and doomed German stronghold of Wilno—scene now of bloody street-fighting.

Advancing not less than 28 miles yesterday, Col.-Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's Baltic troops cut the highway between Daugavpils and the Lithuanian city of Kaunas in a drive within 120 miles of the Baltic port of Riga, capital of Latvia.

Bagramian's forces also penetrated to within 20 miles of Daugavpils in a frontal assault.

Ten miles westward from Wilno, rampaging Soviet soldiers overran the rail junction of Landwarow on the route to Kaunas—an advance that supported British press dispatches that Red Army vanguards were within 60 miles of East Prussia The Swedish newspaper Morgon Tiddningen reported the Germans were emptying East Prussia of civilians.

Near Polish Hub

Premier Stalin announced in an order of the day that the 1st White Russian Army of Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, pounding westward on the southern sector of the front, had occupied Luniniec, 30 miles east of Pinsk on the rail route to Brest-Litovsk and Warsaw, and Slonim, 28 miles west of Baranowicze on the railway to the Polish communications hub of Bialystok, now only 85 miles beyond.

Other columns striking north through the Pripyat marshes moved within nine miles of Pinsk.

The fall of Luniniec and the pressure of a companion column driving from the Pripyat marshes on the south was rapidly making the German position in Pinsk untenable.

Nearly 500 places well in yesterday's westward surges.

Montgomery Reports 54,000 Prisoners

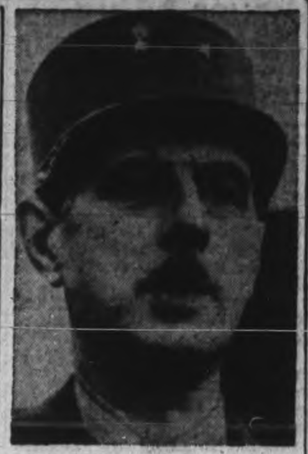
LONDON, July 11 — (CP). — The Allied Forces have captured 54,000 prisoners and "much has been achieved" in fierce fighting since the invasion of Western Europe began, General Montgomery told his troops in Normandy in a broadcast to-day.

"Our gains have been definite and concrete," the General said. "The Allied Armies in Normandy have good ground for solid satisfaction.

"We have taken 54,000 prisoners. We have given the Germans a tremendous pounding. We are firm and secure."

Montgomery added:

"Well done. Well done, indeed."



REACHES OTTAWA — General Charles de Gaulle, colorful leader of the Fighting French was given a rousing welcome as he reached Ottawa this morning.

Huge Assembly Welcomes Gen. De Gaulle

OTTAWA, July 11 (CP) — Gen. De Gaulle, president of the French Committee of National Liberation, told a huge assembly on Parliament Hill today that with victory flushing the horizon and France standing "upright and united" the "living friendship" between France and Canada contributed toward the moral strength of the coalition of free people and became an important in the task of re-organizing the world.

The General declared—

"We feel in the hearts of the peoples who have united to assure the triumph of right and liberty, a tremendous aspiration towards a better future. For, if so many men and women in a free world have voluntarily suffered, fought, worked, if so many good and brave soldiers have died without a murmur, if so many towns and villages have offered themselves up in sacrifice for our common salvation, it would not be tolerable, it would not even be possible, that from so much death, sacrifice and ruin, a greater and better humanity would not emerge."

He added:—

Cooperation Imperative

"But, in a world where all intercourse has unceasingly tightened the interdependence of nations at the same time as that of the individuals, how is it possible to conceive human progress if not within a system of international co-operation?

He said that for the same reasons that a single common war covered the world the peace which must be made must be a single peace "common to all."

"For," he continued, "the same reasons that what is being thought, produced, manufactured anywhere in the world has inevitable consequences upon the destiny of the most

23,000 Pounds Of Shells Fired By Each Canadian Gun In A Day

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS ON THE CAEN FRONT, July 11 —(CP Cable)—The Canadian general commanding all Canadian troops who successfully assaulted Caen with British forces said yesterday: "Our infantry, as always, has been magnificent in this battle" and also praised the work of gunners, signalmen, medical men, and tank crews who helped to produce this great triumph.

(The general was not identified in the dispatch but Maj.-Gen. R. F. L. Keller fo Kelowna, B.C., has been identified as commander of the Canadian 3rd Division fighting in this area.)

"Even when the infantry were about at their last gasp from sheer physical exhaustion and lack of sleep, another task was always accepted and executed with dash and energy," said the general in an interview at his headquarters a few miles from Caen, which fell Sunday.

Men Confident

As he sat in his caravan—which combines office and sleeping quarters—and talked of his men, the guns roared in a barrage supporting the British attack southwest of Caen. The general said infantry reinforcements who join his formation to replace casualties learned quickly about the battle.

He indicated the artillery concentrations which supported the Canadian infantry and tank attack were a feature of the battle.

He said: "My own Canadian artillery, coupled with British artillery units grouped under it for various phases of this operation has done two things:

"First, it has given the infantry selected for the assault great confidence in a terrific weight of shells, and I do mean terrific, which when thrown against known enemy positions enables the infantry to get forward without unusually heavy casualties.

U.S. Units at St. Lo Suburbs Advance on 40-mile Front

All Allied Troops Stage Gains Barrage Terrific

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 11—(CP)—British-Canadian forces in Eastern Normandy struck ahead a mile across the Orne River east of Caen today against the Germans making fierce stand in the suburbs of Vaucelles and occupied the west bank of the Orne Ona four-mile stretch from Caen's outskirts.

American troops bursting forward in a new offensive slugged to a point within two miles of St. Lo, junction-bastion of Central Normandy, and ripped through Nazi defences in two sectors farther east of their flaming 40-mile front.

Canadian forces consolidated their position along the western bank of the Orne from Louvigny to a point northeast of Maltot, five miles southwest of Caen.

The Canadians made a fast mop-up of their sector to reach the Orne's west bank from Caen to the point northwest of Maltot.

British troops were engaged in heavy fighting in the Maltot area and throughout the Caen sector German resistance was stiffening.

British troops in their first advance from positions east of the Orne in several weeks drove south a mile and occupied Colombelles, on the outskirts of the suburb of Vaucelles.

In the Hottot area southwest of Tilly Sur Seulles the Allies have made a local advance of a half-mile on a two-mile front.

Dispatches from Caen reported that town, which British and Canadian troops entered Sunday, was raided by German aircraft this afternoon.

To the west, U.S. troops and tanks, advancing under a pulverizing artillery barragee, gained from two to three miles in the drive on St. Lo, and other troops farther northwest also pounded forward, seizing four towns in a few hours.

Take Two Towns

One of these columns striking south from Carentan captured La Maugerie and La Roserie four miles from Periers, and another hitting west from the Vire River seized Haut Verney and Le Mesnil-Angot three miles beyond fallen St. Jean de Daye.

These two blows were coordinated with the new offensive against St. Lo, jumping off at dawn and closing on the town from two directions. The Americans pushed to within two miles of St. Lo against heavy resistance by crack parachute troops and SS forces.

Troops of the American 1st Army driving on St. Lo reached the outskirts of Luzerne and Mesnil-Roxelin, just north of the city.

The attack was co-ordinated from

8th Army Drives Further North Pomaja Passed

ROME, July 11.—(CP).—Employing encircling tactics against stubbornly-defended and heavily-fortified German positions, troops of the British 8th Army have by-passed Pomaja, about eight miles inland from the Italian west coast, it was announced to-day.

Troops which drove around Pomaja on the east subsequently captured the village of Casale, one mile to the north.

A similar operation enabled American troops of the Allied 5th Army to work steadily northward to-day in a broad enveloping movement aimed at the key Italian port of Livorno (Leghorn).

Allied Headquarters announced that 5th Army forces had by-passed the town of Lajatico, 21 miles southeast of Livorno, in one phase of this movement and had stabbed on ahead against fierce opposition.

The 100th Battalion, composed of American troops of Japanese origin, was engaged in violent fighting on relatively flat ground three miles west of Pomaja and was reported making some progress.

The German garrison at Pomaja thus was threatened on two sides, and the Nazi force at Lajatico was in mucht the same position.

Except for a few spots where the enemy gave ground grudgingly to maintain a unified line, the battle along the entire Italian front was slow and arduous. The Nazis launched a number of fierce counter-attacks.

There were growing indications that it likely would be a matter of many days before the Allies batter their way even to contact with the main Gothic Line defences.

The most impressive gains reported for yesterday's operations were the 8th Army's penetration to the villages of Castel Di Brigolio and San Regelo, nine miles north-east of Siena; a thrust by other 8th Army units five miles beyond Orpini in the Upper Tiber valley; and the steady smash of the Americans to a point six miles north of Volterra.

None of these gains, however, made a substantial alteration in the tactical situation.

Long-Range Gun Batters Hun Depot

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 11 (CP)—A battery of some of the heaviest long-range American artillery yet used in Normandy played hob recently with a German Corps headquarters, with the help of an armed pursuit plane.

The battery was given the range of the German headquarters, and because it had to fire so far behind the enemy lines, was assigned an armed plane instead of the usual slow cub reconnaissance plane to spot its hits.

As the first few shells whammed into the building, survivors of the German staff ran for cars to escape by road, offering a perfect target for the guns of the spotter plane.

Citizens of Caen Digging Out After Bombardment

BY WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN CAEN, July 11 — (CP Cable) — The people of Caen shake their heads and put their hands over their ears when they mention the bombardment of the city which preceded its occupation Sunday by British and Canadian troops.

The northwestern end where the Canadians entered is damaged excessively but still worse is Central Caen where buildings were blown apart and the streets are piled high with rubble.

There seems to be few civilians left in the ruins but those who remain are doing all they can to make the work of the soldiers easier. Today you can see Canadians strolling casually down Rue Guillaume Le Conquerent (William the Conqueror) stopping every few minutes to chat with the townsfolk.

Officer Shot

Hundreds of snipers remain in the ruins however and yesterday a Canadian officer was shot in the throat as he drove down what appeared to be a quiet street. Although some soldiers have abandoned their helmets for more comfortable cloth caps, all carry slung rifles as they patrol the streets.

The civilians say the Germans have agents in civilian clothes sneaking through the shattered city and members of the local French resistance movement are helping to identify them.

Civilians who stayed through the awful bombardment still insist they are happy at the turn events have taken. They greeted the Canadian and British troops with embraces and mere children have shown up as Red Cross workers.

Churches Damaged

It will be days before it will be known definitely just how much damage was caused to Caen's historic churches, although Saint Estienne, which goes back to the 11th century and was intended to have been the resting place of William the Conqueror, appears to have escaped extensive harm.

The Lycee Malerbe adjacent to it was used by Caen civilians for shelter during the shellings and the air raids, the heaviest of the latter coming Friday night when hundreds of heavy bombers pounded the city.

Not many civilians remained throughout the assault but those who did included old women and young children. All seemed to feel the same: "You are here, we are alive and the Boche has left."

Before you are able to express sympathy for these people they smile and rejoice over the departure of the Germans, happy despite the losses and sufferings they have undergone.

One young woman spoke of her brother, a worker for the French Underground who had not been heard from since he left on a mission. A gaunt man wearing his Poilu's helmet and helping our troops through the city related how a friend had been shot when he tried to prevent the Germans from looting.

Coroner's Jury Raps Military

WINDSOR, July 11.—(CP).— No one has any right to endanger life on the public highway by driving at an excessive speed even though there is a wartime regulation which allegedly permits manufacturers of motor vehicles destined for military purposes to exceed the speed limit when the vehicle in question is being tried out as a military vehicle, ruled a coroner's jury in nearby Maidstone, inquiring into the death of Clyde Breaton, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Clayton Breaton of Belle River.

Young Breaton was killed when struck by a motor vehicle operated by Reginald Lyle Miller of Windsor on No. 2 highway June 30.

Miller testified he was driving at about 50 miles an hour when the child started out from the curb. He tooted his horn and the child momentarily stopped then continued. He tooted his horn again, applied the brakes and swung hard to the side but hit the child and the car went over a culvert.

John Braid represented Miller and the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, owner of the car involved.

F.D.R. To Seek 4th Term If Nominated

Prefers to Retire Will Serve If People Call Him

WASHINGTON, July 11—(AP).—President Roosevelt said to-day he will accept Democratic renomination and serve a fourth term if elected.

The President made his intentions public in a letter to Robert Hanegan, Democratic national chairman, who informed him sufficient delegates were pledged for his renomination at the Democratic convention which opens in Chicago next week.

The President said he would prefer to retire, but "I will accept and serve in this office if I am so ordered by the Commander-in-Chief of us all—the sovereign people of the United States."

The President sprang the news of his political intentions on a news conference this morning when a reported asked him if he had anything to say about the convention.

Grinning, the President replied that the reporter was only guessing—and said this time he was right.

Getting quickly to the correspondence before him the President read Hannegan's letter saying renomination is assured and replied:

"If the convention should carry this out, and nominate me for the Presidency, I shall accept. If the people elect me, I will serve."

The President said, however, that he would not "run" for re-election in the accepted political sense, "but if the people command me to continue in this office and in this war I have as little right to withdraw as the soldier has to leave his post in the line."

Country Sound.

With that statement the President was referring to his wartime role of Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces.

"For myself, I do not want to run," Mr Roosevelt said. "By next spring I shall have been President and Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces for 12 years— three times elected by the people of this country under the American constitutional system.

"From the personal point of view, I believe that our economic system is one of a sound, more human basis than it was at the time of my first inauguration....

"After many years of public service, therefore, my personal thoughts have turned to the day when I could return to civil life. All that is within me cries out to go back to my home on the Hudson River, to avoid public responsibilities, and to avoid also the publicity which in our democracy follows every step of the nations Chief Executive."

Japs Retreat Toward Chindwin

KANDY, Ceylon, July 11.—(AP).—Mauled and battered Japanese apparently were in flight to-day from Ukhul toward the Chindwin river in Burma following the final dispersal of enemy forces threatening Kohima and the Imphal plain in Northeast India.

Another enemy force containing elements of two beaten and bloodied Ukhrul divisions was withdrawing to the south, probably in an attempt to salvage heavier equipment to reinforce groupings in the Bishenpur, Palel and Oamu arc which contains the only unbeaten Japanese force in Manipur state. Success of such an enterprise was doubtful, however, because of the dogged British pursuit and drenching Monsoon rains.

Prisoners recently taken and condition of enemy corpses showed the Japanese were starved, dispirited and thoroughly whipped in the abortive enemy campaign in the Kohima, Imphal and Ukhrul triangle which chopped up two of Gen. Mataguchi's fine 5th army divisions.

Several hundred Japanese attempting to join comrades around Tamu were defeated at Chepu, which the British captured. Disorganized remnants were fleeing north along the west shore of the swollen Thoubal river, flooded and impassable.

Four artillery pieces were captured. Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters said the battle for clearance of the Imphal-Ukhrul road now was defintely in the mopping up stage, with groups of bewildered Japanese wandering aimlessly about the fields of British victory.

Ralston Opposes Conscription Won't Release Men From Army

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 11 — (CP). — The old question of whether there should be conscription for overseas service bubbled up through the budget debate yesterday and spurred life into the droning discussion.

Following were opinions set forth:

1. Defence Minister Ralston defended the policy of voluntary enlistments for overseas service. He said he had no intention of releasing fit men from the Army while great battles are in prospect. There are 80,000 or more general service troops in Canada fit for overseas service, enough to meet overseas requirements to the end of the present year.

2. J. G. Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) said that call-up regulations were enforced inequitably as between different parts of Canada. He said more men were being called in certain other military districts that in that of Quebec.

3. J. F. Pouliot (L-Temiscouata) said that people in Mr. Diefenbaker's home province of Saskatchewan would be "scandalized" at the speech he had made. Quebec always was "the goat."

Opposes Plan.

4. George Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley) and R. W. Gray (L-Lambton West), both Government supporters, said they did not agree with Government policy in respect to military service.

Col. Ralston reviewed the Progressive Conservative amendment suggestion that men in the Home Defence Army be either sent overseas or relieved of their duties to take civilian jobs.

50,000 Available

The Home Defence Army troops were engaged on important duties. Of the 73,000 Home Defence troops in Canada, Newfoundland, Labrador and the West Indies, 50,000 were of suitable age and category for overseas service and could be sent there if the need arose.

Soon after Col. Ralston finished John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) returned to the attack with a charge that call-up regulations were enforced inequitably as between different parts of Canada. He quoted figures to show that more men were caled up in Military District No. 3 (Kingston) than in No. 5 (Quebec) and said there was no such things as equality of sacrifice and the Government was causing national disunity.

Col. Ralston said his job was to maintain the Army overseas and if the sending of draftees overseas as reinforcements became necessary he would recommend that course. The Overseas Army, however, would be a better army if kept 100 per cent volunteers.

An average of more than 6,600 men per month had enlisted since February, 1942 and the minister said this showed that his faith in the voluntary system was justified. Compulsion applied at this stage of the war would create feeling between volunteers and draftees overseas and might weaken the comradeship and mutual trust which prevailed in the overseas army.

"I think it almost goes without saying," he said "that any soldier on a dangerous task would prefer to have as comrades those who, like himself, have volunteered to serve."

Here is the way Col. Ralston broke down the number of men called up who have not volunteered for overseas service:—

35,000 On operation duties on the coasts, on anti-sabotage work in the interior of Canada, in Labrador, Newfoundland and the West Indies; 13,000 non-operational troops in servicing establishments, doing work necessary to the army at home and overseas; 14,000 in training centres; 4,000 in depots awaiting classification or posting; 7,000 on leave or on assigned duty at civilian work.

"With regard to sabotage," he said, "there is a disposition of a considerable body of troops in connection with a very particular installation in Canada and those troops now are disposed in guarding that particular development."

The minister said the coastal defence situation has changed since the invasion started and a review now is being made with a view to a reduction in the number of operational troops employed on the coasts. He said he hoped the operational troops in Canada could be reduced, but if reduced he would proceed to discharge only men unfit for overseas service.

Men fit for overseas service and released from present duties would be put back into training for an emergency.

Persons who continually called on the army to supply men for civilian work did not realize that in the last six months the army had discharged nearly 5,000 men a month of which 7,000 were N.R.M.A. personnel. These men were not fit for the army, but went back into civilian work.

3,800 a Month

The minister said from January to May this year the army took on an average of 3,800 volunteers per month included 600 draftees who volunteered for general service. In June the intake was more than 6,000 including 2,500 to 3,000 draftees volunteering for general service.

Col. Ralston said he had reports of satisfaction from field commanders both in Italy and France on the efficient way in which reinforcements were supplied.

"My officers advise me that our reinforcement situation overseas at the end of June on an overall basis was better than called for in our plan."

Col. Ralston said home defence operational troops were disposed in consultation with the United States and in accordance with a joint plan. Members would recall that after Pearl Harbor there were great demand for troops and two more divisions were mobilized. After Kiska was retaken the two divisions were disbanded.

Systems Lauded

Mr. Deifenbaker said Col. Ralston had referred to the success of the voluntary system of enlistment of men for overseas service. After hearing Col. Ralston, Mr. Diefenbaker said he found it difficult to understand the various efforts made to have N.R.M.A. men go active. The speech appeared to repudiate the efforts to have men go active undertaken by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., Pacific Coast commander,, Brig. James Mess, deputy adjutant general in charge for recruiting, and others.

Col. Ralston had said the home defence army of 73,000 men was doing useful work, but army officers were trying to have these men enlist for overseas, said Mr. Diefenbaker.

The minister had "castigated" those who opposed government policy. Col. Ralston had placed those who tried to increase the war effort with those who opposed the war effort. The Quebec Legislature had passed a resolution opposing National Service in the Dominion, but the Progressive Conservatives could not be accused of any such action.

"Secondly, from interrogation of such of the enemy as are left alive and captured, we learn that the Germans are dumbfounded at the number of guns we have.

"For readers not familiar with modern artillery, it might be interesting to note that the complete shell and charge for the average gun weighs somewhere in the nature of 42 pounds. The day before yesterday (Saturday) one of my regiments fired 550 rounds per gun.

"This means that the ammunition the artillery lifted from the ground into the air and into ammunition racks which are well over their heads amounted to more than 23,000 pounds of shells and charges for each gun.

Huns Amazed

"From this it will be seen that the gunners are getting gratis a fine course in physical education. While the gunners loaded and fired the guns, the Germans were shelling them and they were mortared and sniped as well. They did splendid work all the way."

The generals praised the "unceasing efforts" of Canadian signalmen who day and night, no matter how tough was the local situation, kept the signal lines in, even when they frequently were shelled and more frequently broken inadvertently by Canadian tanks and vehicles going into battle.

"The rapid evacuation of our casualties by men of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps was outstanding," he continued. "The Medicals picked up casualties right on the battlefield, got them back through such towns as Buron and Gruchy (small towns northwest of Caen) when the conditions—rubble, broken buildings, fallen rafters and unknown booby traps—were unbelievable."

He said he was proud too of the tank crews who supported the infantry and fought the German tanks and infantry with high gallantry.

"Our tanks never failed us," he said.

Cooked Meats In Big Demand

Local demand for cooked meats has boomed to peaks corresponding with the heights of the weather record. Retail stores have been increasing their orders, and generally have been getting only a fraction of their customer needs.

Doug Gledhill of Canada Packers explained today: "We are doing the best we can, but the demand is exceptionally heavy. It always is during the midsummer months, and our position is somewhat more difficult because the plant is short of the help we require."

That is the reason why many a retailer is not getting the quantity of cooked meats they hopefully order.

Meats were rationed a year ago and deliveries were made on the basis of 1941 sales. This season rationing has been lifted, and the arrivals of hogs at the local plant are adequate, but C.P.C. has been unable recently to overtake the surge in business. Appetites are jaded by the heat, housewives are shunning the electric, gas and fuel, and the corner grocer has been faced with a demand which he has been unable to meet some of these recent days when deliveries had to be cut at the factory, and temporarily, at least, have been virtually rationed.

Obituary

MRS. W. J. ROWAN

BETHANY, July 11.—(ENS). —The funeral of the late Mrs. William J. Rowan who passed away at Nicholls Hospital after an illness of several weeks, was held recently from the Comstock Funeral Home to Bethany United church. A short service in the funeral parlors was conducted by Rev. Henderson of Bethany and Rev. Everson of Springville; and at the church, Mr. Henderson read a favorite hymn of Mrs. Rowan's, "The Great Physician." Mr. Everson delivered a fitting message on 'The Home and Motherhood.'

Of a quiet disposition and highly esteemed in the community, Mrs. Rowan, who died in her 77th year, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lang, and was born at Manvers Station, Durham county. She had lived in Millbrook and Springville as well as on the Rowan homestead in Bethany. Predeceased by her husband, William J. Rowan, she had in past years taken a very lively interest in church and Sunday school work.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. A. H. V. Walker (Olive) of Stirling; two sons, Harold of Springville and Walter of Bethany; and ten grandchildren, Jack Walker, R.C.A.M.C., Queen's University, Rowan Walker Guelph, Mervin and Ivan Rowan of Springville, and Yvonne, Lauretta, Christella Brenda Cameron and Willie Rowan of Bethany.

The pallbearers were Lloyd and Leslie Lang, Wilbert Peel, O. Hutchinson M. H. Johnston and Clarence Rowan. The flower bearers were Ray Hutchinson, Jack McLean, Nellis Rowland, Ralph Rowan, Harold Cathcart and Willis Lang.

Japanese Admit Pressure Growing

NEW YORK, July 11—(AP)—The Japanese radio said today that "a very powerful enemy fleet consisting of two aircraft carriers and more than 30 cruisers and destroyers are plying the waters northwest of Tinian Island" in the Marianas.

The radio report, a Domei agency advisory recorded by United States Government monitors, said 90 planes attacked the enemy-occupied American island of Guam in the Marianas July 10 and that cruisers and destroyers shelled Japanese positions on Guam while other aircraft were bombing Tinian and Rota. All are in the same group as captured Saipan, 1,465 miles from Tokyo.

"Enemy raids against our positions around Saipan are increasing in intensity," the advisory said.

the north and northeast of St. Lo. Fall of that city of 16,000 would force a German withdrawal from the remainder of the Cherbourg peninsula, and Nazi lines were under steady, heavy pressure along a front curving 40 miles to the sea.

5 Miles From Caen

Meanwhile, William Stewart, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported in a front dispatch that British forces, supported by Canadians, were continuing their advance in the Caen sector and were engaged in bitter fighting around the village of Maltot and the wood beyond. Maltot is five miles southwest of Caen.

Stewart said the enemy is putting up fierce resistance, particularly for high ground in the area of Esquay and Maltot dominating the surrounding territory including the valley of the Orne.

Field dispatches declared the Americans were attacking also northeast of St. Lo, in a long-quiet sector. They were driving down both sides of the Vire River.

Part of the decrease of power of Montgomery's punch was caused by bad weather, which made it impossible for the Allied air forces to put in strong, close support.

Although Maltot was lost temporarily, British Tommies clung to Eterville and Canadians cleared the Germans from Louvigny, 1½ miles south of Caen, in the loop between the Orne and the Odon rivers.

Signs that Field Marshal Rommel was being forced into a general withdrawal in the Cherbourg Peninsula came when Lt.-Gen. Bradley's columns pushing south from Caretan and down the west bank of the Vire river threatened German flank positions.

In the area of Caen, important river port which fell to British and Canadian units Sunday, the Allies had cleaned up pockets of resistance, Canadian Press War Correspondent William Stewart reported last night.

Americans Gain.

South of Carentan American forces drove within four miles of Periers, key road junction leading to the La Haye Du Iuits front, and advanced about a mile south of Sainteny, making good progress on the west side of the road, where they Captured La Forges, just south of Sainteny.

In expanding the sector the Americans also captured Graignes 4½ miles south southwest of Carentan.

Similar progress was registered by Americans smashing west from the Vire and south along both banks of the river.

The Americans captured and pushed south of Pont Hebert, four miles northwest of St. Lo. East of the river they captured La Meauffe, four miles north of the same city. These advances represented gains of more than 1½ miles in the last 24 hours.

The capture of Craignes practically merged the Vire river fighting with that south of Carentan.

The combined pressure from these two drives appeared to be forcing the Germans in the Cherbourg Peninsula sector into a withdrawal southward.

This was borne out by the fact that the Americans, who have been encountering an unceasing series of counter-attacks in the La Haye Du Puits area, launched a stiff attack at 10 a.m. yesterday and reported that suddenly at noon German heavy resistance ceased.

There are indications the Germans now are fighting only rearguard actions while they withdraw southward.

Murder Alarm Proves A Dud

The noon-hour lull at the police station was shattered today when the telephone rang and an excited voice called for help at a Park street address, adding "There's a murder here."

Detective-Sergt. W. E. Meagher and Officer John Stevenson jumped into a police cruiser, Officer C. J. McGillen mounted his motorcycle and there was a dash for the address that had been given over the telephone.

But the officers found no battered body, no blood-stains, no smell of powder in the air.

All the fuss had been occasioned apparently by a few drinks and an argument between a landlord and a girl boarder as to the right of the former to evict the latter if he chose to do so. Evidently the landlord wanted the police to act as umpire in the dispute and figured that a murder alarm was the quickest way to get action.

24-lb. Maskinonge Caught At Sturgeon

LINDSAY, July 11.—(Special). —A maskinonge weighing 24 pounds, the largest caught here this season, was hooked and landed by an American party of fishermen from Ohio at Rustic Bay. The lunge—which was 43 inches long and 20 inches in girth—was hooked by Miss Eloise Patton of Lima, O. The fish pulled so strongly that she handed the line to an expert, Lloyd Strayer, Sandusky, O., who played the big fellow for 15 minutes before bringing it to the side of the boat. Two members of the party hauled the lunge aboard. The mouth of the fish bore many scars, souvenirs of past battles with fishermen.

R. M. Brophy Heads Radio Manufacturers

R. M. Brophy, general manager of the Canadian Marconi Company, has been elected president of the Radio Manufacturers' Association of Canada, it was announced at the annual meeting of the R.M.A.C., held recently in Toronto.

Mr. Brophy told the Assocition that to-day in Canada, there are more than 25,000 people employed in the radio industry, and every bit of planning and thinking to keep this high figure of employment from deteriorating, is a duty that will be carried willingly, yet sometimes, anxiously He said: "I feel honoured beyond words to express my feelings at my appointment during such a critical time in our affairs. I pledge myself to serve the interests of the R.M.A.C. to the utmost of my abilities."

He assured the Association that small competitive problems will be kept in their place, by good sense, and a spirit of fair play.

Among the guests at the meeting were: Paul Galvin, president of the American R.M.A.; F. J. Crawford, of the C.B.C.; Lieut. W. E. Phillipps president, Research Enterprises; and Capt. G. A. Worth, Director of Signals R.C.N.

His wife and son are living at 228 Sherbrooke street.

Fewer Robot Bombs Being Hurled Buzzing Sound Is Terrifying

By JAMES F. KING, Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 11.—(AP).—Flying bombs started slamming down on London and Southern England today after the capital's first free night from the German terror weapon in almost a month. The attacks were below the peak of previous assaults.

Damage and casualties were reported light.

An alert was sounded in London during the night, but it did not bother the blitz-hardened residents a great deal. They experienced great relief, however, through the absence of the terrifying "buzz" which makes every flying bomb anywhere near sound as if it were coming in the bedroom window.

While there was no immediate explanation for the let-up in the assault on London, coastal watchers noted that the flying bombs were approaching from a more easterly direction than heretofore.

This evoked conjecture that the Germans were using emplacements farther east along the coast, possibly because of the Allies' smashing bombings of the Pas De Calais area.

During yesterday the rocket bombardment also was on a diminished scale.

A private conference with members of Parliament from London and other areas under attack was arranged today by Herbert Morrison, Minister of Home Security, and Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair, to discuss strengthening civil defence operations, the speeding up of house repairs and revision of the warning system.

There also has been considerable agitation for relaxing the blackout. Mr. Morrison until recently has been firmly against any change in blackout regulations, but now is believed willing to discuss the matter.

France Grows

"In other words, it is impossible to imagine either assured security or solid and lasting progress for any nation or any individual if all nations among themselves, or within each nation, all citizens among themselves, are not willing to consent to work together in normal brotherhood."

Then he concluded:—

"France, emerging step by step from her temporary misfortunes, France enlightened by her suffering, France intending no longer to divide, but to unite her passion for progress and traditional wisdom, states herself ready to play her full part in this universal task. She is certain to find, at her side and in agreement with her, all the peoples who know her well—and first among them she will find Canada."

Gen. de Gaulle spoke with emotion of the relationship of France and Canada.

"I wish to say that for France, Canada is a dearer friend than ever, he said in an early stage of his address in French.

"Certainly the past accounts for a great part of this mutual sympathy. On the one hand—your people who have never opposed ours in any historical event; your people, wise men who have always opened their minds and their hearts to the ideas and sentiments which have elevated the French spirit; your people in the veins of many of whom flows blood which has come from France.

"On the other hand—my country which remembers having been the first to carry Christian and European civilization to this immense land; my country which has never ceased to follow and admire the magnificent efforts of your ancestors and of your kinsmen in their struggle to bring about prosperity through the development of the natural resources of the country and to develop the minds of the people intellectually, spiritually and morally in order to create a state in full consciousness of its valor and in loyalty to the commonwealth of which it is a part.

2 Girls Hurt In Car Mishaps

Two ten-year-old girls were involved in traffic accidents on Peterborough streets at noon today.

Ella Bobick, 10, of 131 Concord avenue, Toronto, received a deep cut below her left shoulder when she ran into the back door of an automobile driven north on George street by Fraser Dunfield, 406 Water street.

The girl was crossing George street at the north side of the Simcoe street intersection and walking from the east to the west side. It is thought that the handle of the rear door inflicted the deep wound in her back. She was taken to the office of Dr. J. A. Morgan.

Ten-year-old Alberta Weaver, 490 Elm street, was struck and knocked down by a car driven north on Park street by Alex. Seppal, 685 Stormont avenue. The accident happened in front of Colmer's store at 465 Park street and the girl was crossing from the west to the east side of the street. She was shaken up but apparently not injured, the driver reported to the police after he had taken her to her home.

ALWAYS TIRED —Yet Sleep Didn't Help!

Doesn't it feel swell to wake up in the morning clear-eyed, refreshed, full of pep? Yet so many, especially over 40, get up tired all over, with aching joints, never really feel their best.

The reason is often a common complaint—system clogged with poisonous food waste. Like many people, you need help to clean out a sluggish system, get back pep and sparkle rightfully yours. The mild action of BILE BEANS is an effective aid thousands rely on.

Made from 10 pure vegetable extracts, Bile Beans are so gentle, yet effective, they are called "The Medicine That Wakes Up Nature". These small laxative liver pills tone up the system by stimulating flow of liver bile, so essential to good digestion and daily regularity.

Why not enjoy that "glad-to-be-alive" feeling every day? Try Bile Beans tonight—they work while you sleep. Over 7 million boxes used last year, convincing evidence of how greatly they are helping others. 37

Rotary Officers Are Installed

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11. — (ENS). — The Campbellford Rotary Club held its annual installation of officers at its regular meeting yesterday with President Dr. Stuart in the chair. The following constitute the board of directors for the coming year: President, H. J. (Bert) Taylor; immediate past president, Dr. E. A. Stuart; vice-president, Ralph Locke; secretary, Morton Sayers; treasurer, William H. Brady; directors, Dr. O. C. Watson and Rev. G. N. Maxwell.

Dr H B Longmore, who was the first president when the club was formed 16 years ago in 1928, was asked by the president to address the board for the coming year. He stressed the need of a definite and well thought out program to the new directors on assuming their responsible positions and to the chairmen of the various public service committees. He noted that they were men who were experienced in the duties assigned to them by the members of the club.

President Taylor on assuming the chair, thanked the members for their confidence and requested Past President Denyes, on behalf of the Rotary Club to present the past president's jewel. This pleasant duty was duly performed and responded to by Dr. Stuart, who thanked all those who had made the past year a success. The date for the annual carnival had to be changed as the Kinsmen's club was holding a street dance that week and on motion the date was fixed for August 22nd. The request from the Kinsmen Club for the use of refreshment booth and bingo table was granted.

The invitation from Past President Denyes to hold the next meeting at his summer cottage was gratefully accepted.

The dinner will be held at 7 p.m. Mrs. Wood will cater and transportation will be arranged for by the committee so that all members can be present at the regular meeting next Monday.

UNITED NATIONS AHEAD, 9 TO 1

Box score of the global war today discloses the United Nations on the offensive on nine fronts, with the enemy leading the assault on only one front (10)—In China, by strong Jap forces. The global front actually has been in existence since immediately after Pearl Harbor, but those were dark days and the United Nations were on the defensive then. When the huge Allied war machine really began to accelerate the picture changed and the enemy began to back-track. The one enemy offensive, in China, is being waged only because the United Nations cannot get war supplies and heavy weapons to forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Revolution Sweeps Colombia City Loyal Troops Advance On Capital

BOGOTA, Colombia, July 11 — (AP) — Numerous Army garrisons and prominent Colombian military leaders declared their loyalty today to president Alfonso Lopez who was held prisoner at Pasto, southern Colombia, by a group of rebellious Army officers.

Vice-President Dario Echandia, who emphasized his loyalty to Lopez, proclaimed a state of emergency after announcing last night he had assumed the Acting Presidency.

(A dispatch from San Jose, Costa Rica, said the Bogota radio had announced loyal armies were marching on Pasto, where Lopez and several Cabinet members were surrounded yesterday and carried off while they were watching army manoeuvres. The radio said the government had decreed control of the press and the country's economy. A panama dispatch said the Pasto garrison was estimated at 5,000 men.)

Communications between Pasto and the rest of Colombia were cut off by the conspirators.

War Minister Gen. Domingo Espinel condemned the movement against the government and expressed confidence it soon would be suppressed.

Dario Echandia, who held tightly to the government reins in Bogota along with other officials of the Lopez Administration emphasized he was determined to stamp out the revolt. He said he would exercise the functions of President until Lopez was freed.

The Acting President said the leader of the Army group, Lt.-Col. Diogenes Gil, had proclaimed himself President—a move that Dario Echandia labelled "an act of individual madness."

Echandia, declaring that the Army's "name is unstained by any subversive movement," said only a small group had taken part in the uprising. He expressed belief that the Army would help re-establish order and called upon the Nation to accord it the "fullest confidence".

Arrested In New York Girl Sent To Mercer

COBOURG, July 11—(ENS)— Brought back to Cobourg after her arrest in New York city, a Woodstock girl who is a probationer of the girls' training school, was yesterday committed to Mercer Reformatory by Magistrate O. A. Langley here. She was charged with being incorrigible and the training school board had applied for a committal of the girl to an institution where she would be subject to stricter discipline and punishment.

The girl's mother was in court and informed the court that the accused had been reminded that she was a training school inmate several times during her employment as a domestic in one of the homes in which she had been placed.

"I don't think they should be throwing that up to her," the mother objected.

Mrs. M. Pender, superintendent of the training school, informed the court that the girl had been involved in an assault against one of the staff, although she had not actually struck the staff member. She had been placed in a home in Cobourg and had run away and was again placed in a home in Port Hope, fhom which she disappeared and no more was heard of her until she was arrested in New York city.

The girl declined to give any evidence on her own behalf and was committed to Mercer.

Gore's Landing News

Humid temperatures again brought a record crowd to the village over the week end, with the pier well patronized with swimmers. Traffic on the county road almost reached pre-war proportions as carloads of people sought relief from the extremely warm weather.

Hundreds of thousands of other Canadians want new radios, new refrigerators, new washing machines, new toasters . . . countless other things they have done without, but intend to buy, when the war is over.

That means busy factories, working to meet the pent up demand of people with money to spend on every conceivable kind of article from homes to meat grinders.

It means JOBS.

Of course there will be post-war "problems". But there will be opportunities too, plenty of them—and scope for individual brains and initiative. Canada will be a busy place when Victory is won.

World Organization For Security

In view of the opinions which the President of the United States made public recently about a world organization for security and peace after the war, it is interesting to consider the views of the Hon. Peter Fraser, Prime Minister of New Zealand, as he expressed them at a press conference during his recent visit to Ottawa. This was Mr. Fraser's initial statement:

"There is one matter I would like to say something about and that is the form of an international organization to follow the war. That will be a world organization. The four nations who are most directly involved, of course, are the United Kingdom, the United States, Russia and China; and they should be permanent members of the council. . . . I also want to say something about the position of all the nations participating in this thing. I would like to say that I am glad that it is generally recognized that world security can only be assured by a world organization, but regional security must first be attained; regional security is necessary and there is room for regional organizations which would have delegated to them matters of defence under a world organization, and looking after the welfare of the natives in any part of the world".

It is clear from this that Mr. Fraser and Mr. Roosevelt are in substantial agreement. The New Zealand spokesman was not ready to give a decided opinion on the matter of regional organizations for security—such as an organization for the Pacific region, which would include his own country, Australia and the U.S. Mr. Fraser is of the opinion that there is great danger in chopping the world up into regions for security purposes; the lesson of the last ten years has been that if peace is threatened in one part of our modern world, it is threatened everywhere, and the establishment of regions might merely confuse the issue at a time when world action, and not regional action, was needed.

Mr. Fraser had definite views about the place of the British Dominions in a world league for security. They would have to enjoy full rights as national entities, and it would not do for the United Kingdom to act as a spokesman for all. Frequently, and particularly on matters of world importance, the views of the Mother Country and the Dominions are identical, but there are cases in which indentity of view is impossible. Mr. Fraser pointed out that in the League of Nations his country often found herself in a minority with Russia, or Ethiopia, or China in opposition to Great Britain. It is absolutely necessary, and characteristically British, that the Dominions must be free to oppose the Motherland when they see fit to do so. "Co-operation, solidarity, help in peace, in war, yes, but not subordinating any opinions that our respective governments arrive at"; that is what Mr. Fraser wants and, as he pointed out, it is the view which Mr. Mackenzie King has frequently put forward on behalf of Canada.

The Dominions, in Mr. Fraser's opinion, must have complete freedom of action, and must, of course, have their turn to sit on the council of a world peace organization. The identity of Mr. Fraser's views with those of President Roosevelt is encouraging, and the particular British application which he gives them is, of course, of special interest in Canada.

Where The Shoe Pinches

It is the Examiner's rule never to print verse, but it is a poor rule which cannot be broken on occasion. On Wednesday last a headline appeared in the Toronto Globe and Mail which read thus: Even Babies Feel Pinch As White Shoes Scarce. At the time we thought this a curious statement, for if it has no shoes a baby is not likely to feel a pinch, but we allowed the matter to pass. Not so our old friend Professor Hontefract, who crystallized his thoughts in the following verses, which we are happy to print:

As I was walking out last week
I saw a little man,
His face was red and o'er his cheek
The little teardrops ran.

"What ails thee now, my little sprite,
That thou art grieving so?"
"Me feet ain't right, me boots are tight,
That's what. So now you know."

I looked for boots but he had none.
He had no shoes at all.
"You lie, you lie, my pretty one."
Then he began to bawl.

"Me shoes ain't nowhere on meself
And that's the pinch I'm feeling.
They're out of sight. They're on the shelf.
They're busting through the ceiling."

"M——zie K——g has put him there,
He's stripping me by inches,
. . . Or feet" (he added) "to be fair,
—And that's where my shoe pinches."

"And don't you know," he cried again,
"That when supply is shorter,
It is the ceiling takes the strain.
If you don't know you oughter."

"Oh, curious child! Why, at your age,
I used to read the comics."
"That's why," he answered, in a rage,
"You're short on economics."

The White Feather Resolution

It is now more than ten years since the Oxford Union Debating Society discussed the matter, "Resolved: that this House will in no circumstances fight for its King and country", and voted in the affirmative. But the fuss about the incident is still going on, and Lord Mottistone recently made shocked reference to it in the House of Lords.

Anyone who had any acquaintance with the Oxford Union could have predicted that such a motion would be passed. The object of the Union is to sharpen the wits of its members, not to legislate for the nation, or hearten Westminster with its protestations of loyalty to statesmen of the stamp of Baldwin and Ramsay Macdonald. Anyone who has had anything to do with a debating society knows that wits can best be sharpened on a novel and preferably an outrageous subject; the old tried-and-true debating subjects are too tame to be of any use. The Union has, in its time, passed resolutions far more extreme than the King-and-country one, and no one has been a whit the worse. The present writer once debated (for the motion) that the Union should be dissolved, and that motion was carried with a great majority. The Union does not take itself nearly so seriously as the rest of the world appears to do.

But the King-and-country debate set the world by the ears, and Lord Mottistone assures us that it gave great satisfaction to Mussolini, and "very nearly decreed the downfall of Britain and the Empire". Rubbish! Lord Mottistone must have been educated by his sisters' governess. Nobody bothered about the motion except a few sensational journalists and a few abnormally stupid people. The Union is a wit-sharpening society, and people who have no wits, or wits which are incapable of taking an edge, should at least learn not take its resolutions at their face value. The Oxonians of 1933 have shown their spirit in this war by wiping out the shame which the Westminster statesmen of their university days brought upon their country.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Help Wind Victims", says a headline in the London Free Press. We hear bicarbonate of soda well spoken of.

A baby girl born in Texas on D-Day has been named 'Invasion'. By the time she is fifteen that child will either make a discreet change, or curse her parents every day of her life.

Mussolini is said to have a movie of the murder of his son-in-law, Count Ciano, which he runs through when his spirits are low. A similar picture, featuring the mother-in-law, might be a great little morale-builder on the home front.

A photographer back from a tour of local vacation resorts tells us that he has never seen so many pretty girls in a single season. Gratifying as this is, its the edible peach crop we are worrying about.

American Government agents have raided a nudist camp. And one of them, we understand, was severely reprimanded when he absent-mindedly began to 'frisk' the prisoners.

Not the least remarkable effect of Senator Bouchard's speech is the way in which it has caused several Tory papers to refer nostalgically to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Nothing wins a statesman universal respect like being dead for twenty-five years.

No 'Common Voice'

By GRANT DEXTER

It is difficult to analyze public opinion in the United Kingdom on future Commonwealth relations. The reason is that there is no common point of view. Opinion in the United Kingdom is not only divided into various schools of thought but lacks clarity because Commonwealth relations are not a matter of public controversy.

Broadly speaking, there was no organized movement at the higher levels of government to influence the decisions of the prime ministers' conference. And right here may be noted a significant change in comparison with 1921 when the centralist movement was greatly in evdience. If you compare the first prime minister's conference which sat at London from June 10 to Aug. 5, 1921, with the conference just concluded, the change will become clear.

In 1921 it was believed that the centralization or unification of the Commonwealth had been achieved and that thereafter it would operate under an Imperial cabinet and speak with a single voice. The voice, of course, would be that of the government of the United Kingdom. It is unnecessary to burden the record with evidence in support of this statement, but a few references may be helpful.

The British White Paper on the 1921 conference said that it had disclosed "a deep conviction that the whole weight of the Empire should be concentrated behind a united understanding and common action in foreign affairs." Prime Minister Hughes of Australia referred to the 1921 conference as being "an Imperial cabinet" whose decisions bound the Commonwealth. Prime Minister Massey of New Zealand agreed with him. Prime Minister Lloyd George put it this way: "The instrument of the foreign policy of the Empire is the British Foreign Office. This has been accepted by all the Dominions as inevitable." Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, said: "In former days the policy of Great Britain was the foreign policy of Great Britain alone. Now it is the foreign policy of the British Empire." The Times and other leading newspapers expressed similar views.

In 1944 there was no ramp. Some newspapers like the Beaverbrook Express and the Harmsworth Daily Mail misrepresented the proceedings of the conference in an attempt to make their readers believe that a centralizaiton policy was being approved. But these reports were speedily disowned by a spokesman for the British Government. The Times, which in the past has ardently championed centralization, was moderate in the days preceding the conference and by the time it ended was so far gone the other way as to ask who had even suggested the "single voice" policy.

There was, however, an element in the United Kingdom which favoured the Halifax idea of a world ruled by Titan powers, in which the British Commonwealth somehow should function as one of the Titans. This element was composed largely of that portion of the Conservative party which has never believed in collective security and which belittled the League of Nations from the outset. It is in direct succession to Baldwin and Chamberlain and the appeasers of 1935-1939. For more personal references the reader may consult, among many reference books, Lord Robert Cecil's autobiography.

Then there were the old line Imperialists—the Bennetts, the Amerys, Griggs, and so on. Some, like Lord Beaverbrook, belonged to both schools—that is, they were appeasers as well as Imperialists. But in the main they are separate.

There were, as well, elements in the Labour party which inclined to a unified Commonwealth. Emmanuel Shinwell is the leader of this small and negligible group.

And finally there were the federationists whose leader is that sincere and able historian Lionel Curtis. There were indications that Chatham House—the headquarters in the United Kingdom of the Institute of International Affairs—was inclined to support the Curtis policy.

It would be true, as a generality, to say that British opinion as a whole would have welcomed a decision by the Dominions to throw their weight behind the United Kingdom in some centralist fashion. There is apparent nearly everywhere in the United Kingdom a haunting fear of emerging from the war relatively weak in comparison with the United States and Russia, and therefore incapable of shouldering the responsibilities of a great power. This fear leads to an unrealistic but, emotionally, a strong desire to add to the United Kingdom the power of the Dominions. But while this feeling is general, few believe that it is practical or, for that matter, that a unified Commonwealth would stay put, even if achieved. The more intelligent people are aware how dangerous it would be to the future of the world organization and to the Commonwealth itself to repeat the ill-starred experiments of 1921 which ended with Chanak.

The general fear of the future was not a serious factor in the attitude of the United Kingdom at the conference. And over against the small groups which desired centralization were arrnaged very powerful forces indeed. The foreign office definitely was opposed to centralization unless the Dominions were prepared voluntarily to surrender theri soveregnty in foreign policy. The foreign office insisted that the United Kingdom government must always be free to act.

The Dominions office was equally resolute in opposing centralization and for substantially the same reasons as the foreign office. Both these departments which occupied key positions so far as the conference was concerned, favoured consultation and collaboration and were of the view that present methods could be further improved and developed.

Other influential groups were opposed to centralization. The international wing of the Conservative party Cecil, Eden, Law, Cranbourne, and many others—exerted a great influence. For one thing they held the portfolios of foreign affairs and the Dominions office. The Liberal party, for what it is worth, was solidly against Commonwealth unification. So, too, with minor exceptions, was the Labor party.

The attitude of all groups toward international organization, of course, does not necessarily provide the decisive test on Commonwealth speaking with a single voice, could play a much more effective role in international affairs and world organization than could five autonomous members of the Commonwealth. This, however, was an argument which carried little weight. If the Commonwealth decided to gang up and present a solid front to the world, it was generally agreed that the world would understand the meaning of such a reversal of past policy. It would be the signal for other groupings. The Titan world would have been born and the conception of a world organization of freedom-loving nations, large and small, would speedily fade out.

And anyhow the single voice, common policy proposition simply would not work. Not one of the Dominions was prepared to sacrfice an iota of its sovereign right to speak for itself. If by consultaiton agreement could be reached so that all five policies were virtualy the same, so much the better. If not, no harm would be done. The most forthright exponent of this point of view was not Mr. King but Mr. Fraser.

If the Dominions had insisted upon making the foreign office their mouthpiece, there would certainly have been no squawinkg in the United Kingdom. But most people in the United Kingdom had taken no stock in the Halifax speech or in the tendencious reports of the imperialistic press. The British Government, quite evidently, had been proceeding for months on the assumption that the Dominions were going to run their own shows in the world and would continue to do their own talking.

ROLLING TOWARD BERLIN —By Goldberg

It Will Be Torrid Tomorrow

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

There was a time when we rather used to admire the restraint of the gentlemen who compose our official weather reports. There was something attractive in the cool British restraint with which they avoided all excessive or extreme terms. They went up in our estimation when they described the day the thermometer hit zero as "cooler," and when thirty below evoked only a chaste "cold."

But for some reason we are now beginning to doubt that understatement is a virtue. After all we are not Californians. If it pours with rain in Ottawa we don't need to describe it as a "light mist at intervals." And if it gets as hot as you know where, there is a certain satisfaction in seeing an official admission of the fact.

Our conversion to this point of view was completed last week. Tuesday was hot and damp but all the weather prophets would admit was that it was "becoming warmer." Wednesday was a scorcher, or it woud have been if it hadn't been so muggy that it felt like the steam room of a Turkish bath. Here our icy-veined scientists allowed hemselves to become emotional to the extent of admitting that it was "decidedly warm!" Decidedly warm forsooth! It was hot, darned hot, and everybody knows it.

And Thursday was just about as bad although officially it was only "partly cloudy and warm." What does the weather have to do in Ottawa to be described as "Hot"?

In the eastern United States they do these things much better. New York City had temperatures and humidity almost identical with those of Ottawa on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week. But in Mayor LaGuardia's village there was no effort to deny the facts of life. When it was hot and humid the official report read "Hot and Humid." And when the prospects were that it would become hotter and more humid (Temperature 93, Humidity 75 per cent) the weather bureau reported "It will be worse tomorrow."

The New York newspapers follow the official lead but add supplementary comments. "Hot—and How!" reported one. "You said it Brother!" added another. If the people of Manhattan have to suffer, at least they have official confirmation of the fact. No pussy-footing there.

But in Ottawa it was only "decidedly warm!" We can't even enjoy our suffering because the weather man won't admit the facts.

If this literary restraint is allowed to pass unchallenged it may spread to other fields and take much of the colour out of life. Suppose it had prevailed in the past and the forebears of our weather stylists had done the ghost writing for the men whose words have come ringing down the years. Would Patrick Henry have been allowed to exclaim "Give me Liberty or give me Death." Not a chance of it. "Give me Liberty or give me a Prolonged Illness" would have been his rallying cry. And so with others, as for example:

Nelson: "England expects every man to do pretty well."

Caesar: "I came, I saw, I more or less prevailed."

U.S. Grant: "I propose to fight it out on this line if it takes most of July."

Lincoln: "Government of the people, by the people, for some of the people."

Henley: "I am the second mate of my soul."

Byron: "The Isles of Greece, the Isles of Greece where burning Sappho loved and hummed. . . ."

Pershing: "Lafayette we are getting pretty close."

Marie Antoinette: "Let them eat cookies."

No! Let us put an end to this prissy business. If it is going to be cold let it be so announced; if it is to be wet let the warning be broadcast, and if it is to be hot and sticky let the accurate words be used. Let us have published recognition of our climatic delights and distresses.

Selfish Motives?

An employe in the advertising department of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was permitted to tell a Parliamentary Committee that newspapers which criticized the over-cluttering of CBC programs with advertising were actuated by selfish motives. Rough stuff—revealing ignorance. Could he have known that all the news broadcast by CBC comes from the newspapers? If he did not know he probably could not, as a "commercial manager," conceive it possible that for many years the newspapers gave this news free to the CBC as a patriotic duty. Surely contrary to all "commercial" practice for them to supply a rival with their vital commodity without charge, and even now continue the supply at an annual sum absurdly low in proportion to its cost and value.

The CBC's "national news bulletins" and other newscasts are made up from news supplied as it happens by the newspapers and those bulletins are by long odds the most important items on the CBC programs. In the circumstances "commercial managers" of the CBC might be expected to show a little more courtesy to the newspapers. The other day the general manager complained that the newspapers did not give enough free publicity to the CBC programs. Crocodile tears!—Ottawa Journal.

We'll Take Care of Bureaucracy

Keynoting the Republican National Convention at Chicago, California's Governor Warren said that the fight of the American people with the coming of peace must be against the "ominous, gargantuan figure of an arrogant, power-intoxicated bureaucracy."

Strong language, that; yet not to be despised. For what it tells is the deep-rooted hostility of English-speaking peoples to anything that endangers liberty. Recently, in England, the Government was compelled to agree to the setting up of a Select Committee of Parliament to scrutinize Rules and Orders made by the Executive in the process of delegated legislation. A year ago the British Government had opposed such a move, holding that it might impede or delay business. But so stern became the demand, so insistent was Parliament that its rights must not be surrendered altogether, that in the end it prevailed.

The truth is that the Anglo-Saxon-Celtic peoples, attached deeply to freedom and to parliamentary and constitutional methods of government, will never permit the growth of bureaucratic or totalitarian methods. In war, for the sake of victory, they will delegate powers to the Executive, surrender temporarily rights and privileges, but they will never surrender them permanently.

Those who fear continuation of bureaucratic government after the war don't know the English-speaking temperament.—Ottawa Journal.

Music Lessons

Glancing over the long list of successful entrants in recent music examinations the other day, we were moved to mild speculation as to how many youngsters had been exposed to music lessons in order to make such a fine showing. Unless memory is misleading, the number must be impressive, for we seem to recall many occasions when the appeal of more wordly activities spelled finish to musical careers of certain—and uncertain—promise. And the unfortunate aspect of the matter is that, almost without exception, the pupils who quit early later regretted their action. As they grew older, they realized they had exchanged substance for shadow, for there are not many accomplishments which bring more lasting satisfaction than the ability to make music.

It is true, of course, that some children are given music lessons who would never become musicians if they practice faithfully all their lives. Usually, in such cases, the lessons begin under duress and last only until some overpowering juvenile lure leads to silent or discordant instrumental rebellion. It is a satisfactory conclusion when such rebellion ends the lessons, for they are a waste of time under the circumstances.

There are other cases, however, of children who like music and who have an apparent aptitude for it—but who like the other pleasures of youth equally as well, if not more so. When one of these is seduced by the crack of bat and ball, the thud of foot meeting football, the jingle of bicycle bells or the giggled joys of conversation, then a day of regretful realization is sure to come usually too late to do anything about it.

So, on behalf of all those who might have been, we would paraphrase the poet and solemnly admonish all children who might be, to be warned by our lot—as we know they will not—and learn about music from. . . . Well, from anyone capable of teaching it, before it's too late.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

PIPES IN BERLIN

According to one's viewpoint, the war has brought a terrible or a glorious shortage of bagpipes in Scotland, Mayor Kenneth Dobbie of Dumfries moans: "How can our boys march into Berlin without bagpipes?"

How, indeed? The "Ladies from Hell," greatest fighting men in the world, need them to ring out their flaming spirit. And think what terror the skirl o' th' pipes will strike in the heart of the Wagnerian-weaned Nazis! — Detroit Free Press.

STEWARDESS WOULD FIGHT

Miss Grace Tymon, of Glasgow, is an experienced stewardess. She has seen plenty of action at Rangoon and Gibraltar. She claims, too, to be the only woman in Britain to hold a First Class Gunner's certificate.

She is up in arms against a decision to refuse women authority to sail as stewardesses in invasion ships.

She says: "There are thousands of stewardesses who are not now allowed to go to sea, but who would jump at the chance if the men in power would only come to their senses."—London Daily Sketch.

A Bible Message

Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep. . .

I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture. The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly. . . .

Ah the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep. . . .

My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand.

My Father which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand. (John 10: 7, 9, 10, 15, 27-29.)

Tag Day Winners Are Announced

To assist in the Tag Day appeal last Saturday on behalf of the British War Victims Fund, prizes were offered to the one procuring the highest amount in each two hour shift, by H. L. Garner, Ed. Riley, J. W. Steinkraus, W. C. Hughes, and Fred Cripps.

For the first two hour period the prize went to Girl Guide Margaret Deal who is also an Examiner carrier sales merchant with a total of $17.99. In this period Mrs. A. Nelson was the runner up with a total of $16.03.

The second period serviced entirely by members of the Peterborough Navy Auxiliary had Mrs. R. Burns as winner with $26.01 and Mrs. F. Board was the runner up with $22.32, while the third period from 12 p.m. to 2 p.m. saw Mrs. B. McLean as winner with $13.69 followed fairly closely by Mrs. C. H. Crouter with $12.54.

The 4th period from 2 to 4 serviced entirely by Hostess Girls from the Uptown Recreation Centre had Loretta Condon as winner with $10.56, Miss Dorothy Pearson with $8.16 coming second place, and in the final period Mrs. H. J. Mackey of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion came first with $8.55 followed by Mrs. J. Mitchell with $6.78.

COLLEGE VALUABLE FOR GIRLS

Brings Peace to Home, Teaches Students to Stand on Own Feet, Breaks Up Puppy Love.

ONE of the problems that is keeping many parents awake these summer nights is whether they should send Arabella off to school or not. Arabella is dying to go because her dearest chums are going, and because she is enraptured at the thought of having a complete new wardrobe, from sport suits to a formal, and because she has heard perfectly thrilling stories about the fun the girls have in the dormitories, and because she has begun to chafe at being bound to Mother's apron strings.

But Mother gets cold feet when she thinks about sending her little lamb out among the wolves. Who will hold her by the hand so she won't get run over crossing the street? Who will see that she brushes her teeth and changes her stockings when she gets her feet wet? Suppose she catches a cold. And, oh, kind Heaven, JUST suppose she really got sick, with nobody but trained nurses and doctors to take care of her. And, anyway, why send her off to school when the home schools are so good?

Of course, if the girl is a highbrow, the question automatically settles itself. She should be given every educational advantage. But Arabella is no intellectual ball of fire. She has only the common, or garden, variety of feminine mind, and the only subject in which she will ever major is how to catch a husband and keep him.

Finances Important In Girl's Education

Besides which, there is the financial angle, which is very acute in these days of rationed food and soaring taxes. Obviously it is folly for a family to go on a starvation diet to educate a girl who will never catch the higher culture, no matter how long she is exposed to it.

But, be these things as they may, I think it is highly desirable that parents should send their teen-age girls off to school if they can afford it. For one thing, it is worth its price in the peace it brings to a household. It inaugurates an armistice that stops the eternal fight between Arabella and Mother over dates, and how late a teener should stay out at night, and lip stick, and the monopoly of the telephone, and all the other issues that make the average home with the average adolescent girl in it a dark and bloody battle-ground. Many mothers and daughters are estranged for life by these quarrels, and the tragedy can be avoided by sendiing Arabella off to school.

Another advantage in sending Arabella off to school is that it is a diplomatic method of breaking up undesirable social contacts and a painless cure for calf love. School girl intimacies depend upon propinquity. Remove that and bosom friends just naturally drift apart. New associates, other interests, a different point of view crowd out the old, and when Arabella comes home from school, even after the first term, she finds that she has nothing much to say to Sally any more, and she wonders what ever made her think she had a crush on the boy at the soda water counter.

And whether Arabella acquires any book learning or not when she goes off to school, she does get some education she can never get at home. She learns to stand on her own feet. She learns how to give and take, how to make friends, and has her self-esteem deflated. And getting away from a worshipful mother is worth many college degrees to any girl.

Ruby G. McMillen Is Wed To William A. Roberts

Rev. J. F. Sutcliffe officiated at the ceremony in the parsonage of Murray Street Church, when Ruby Grace McMillen, daughter of Mrs. L. McMillen, of Havelock, and the late L. McMillen, became the bride of William Arthur Roberts, son of W. H. Roberts, and the late Mrs. Roberts, of Peterborough.

For the ceremony, the bride chose a street-length dress of white sheer, with full bodice and skirt, gathered at the waist, and short sleeves. She wore white accessories, a white cross, the gift of the groom, and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Walter Jones was her only attendant, in a street-length gray flowered dress, white accessories, and a corsage of red roses. Karl McMillen, brother of the bride, was best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. A. F. Pinn, 23 River Road, north, where the bride's mother received, assisted by the groom's sister, Mrs. Pinn. For a wedding trip to Hamilton and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a gold two-piece suit, white accessories, and a corsage of red roses. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will live at 199 Simcoe street, Peterborough.

Mission Band Guests of W.M.S.

The Nettie McKenzie Mission Band of Knox Church were the guest of the W.M.S. at the July meeting. Forty-three members were present. Those taking part in the program were Betty Crowe, Shirley Killingbeck, Margaret Johnston, Marilyn Todd, Gwynneth Todd, Esther Brown, June Drummond and Roy Weldon.

After the meeting the W.M.S. gave the members of the band their annual party. A vote of thanks was moved by Joyce Hanes, seconded by Margaret Johnston.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

My little chat with you today is going to be about pies. Recipes are printed below for some delightful fruit pies that are so tasty in the summer time. Fresh fruits such as raspberries, cherries and fresh pumpkin, prepared in your kitchen make delicious light desserts for summer dinners.

Cherry Pie

1 quart cherries, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, and powdered sugar. The common sour red cherries are the best for pies. Line a deep pie dish with rich paste, fill nearly full with stoned cherries, sprinkle with sugar, sifted with the flour. Cover with an upper crust, rolled as thin as possible. make vent in centre and press the edges together firmly so that the juice will not escape during the baking period. Bake in a hot oven (450 degees F) for 10 minutes, then reduce the heat to (425 degrees F) for 30 minutes. Always serve cherry pie the same day it is baked, or the under crust will become heavy. Sprinkle powdered sugar over each piece before serving. Follow these same directions when making any kind of small fruit pies.

Pineapple Pie

2 cups crushed pineapple, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, juice of ½ lemon, 2 egg yolks. Scald the pineapple, mix corn starch, salt and sugar and stir into pineapple. Stir and cook 10 minutes, add lemon juice and beaten egg yolks slowly, cover and let cook 5 minutes. When cool turn into baked pie shell and cover with either whipped cream, or a meringue made from the white of the eggs. You can also cut fancy figures, or circles out of the remaining pie crust and put on top of the pie.

Pumpkin Pie

1½ cups pumpkin, 2-3 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 2 cups milk. Steam or bake fresh pumpkin and put it through a sieve, add remaining ingredients in order given. Tun into a crust-lined pie plate and bake. Use a high temperature at first (450 degrees F) to cook the bottom and sides of the crust, then reduce the temperature and continue baking (at 325 degrees F) until a knife blade inserted into the centre will come out clean. Never let the pie boil, as that will make it watery. A delicious addition is ½ cup finely chopped nut meats. Whipped cream and a tart jelly are also delicious with pumpkin pie.

NEWLYWEDS — Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. McQuarrie, whose marriage was solemnized in Murray Street Baptist Church Saturday afternoon, are pictured above as they left the church after the ceremony. The bride, the former Iris Borland, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Borland, 744 George street, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. McQuarrie, of Edmonton. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe officiated, assisted by Rev. J. Ferguson, of Toronto.

Peterboro Lock Defeats Quaker Girls

Behind steady pitching by Beryl Lee, Peterborough Lock defeated Quaker Oats 12-9, in a fast-played Ladies' Softball League game Monday evening at Ashburnham Bowl.

Neither team scored in the first two innings, but both began to warm up in the third when the Lock Company dashed off 6 runs and the Quaker Oats came back with 5. The fifth frame gained Peterborough Lock 3 more counters, and in the next inning the Porridge team attempted to match the Lock Company's score, but only scored twice. With 2 more runs in the seventh, Quaker Oats brought the total score up to the first half of the eighth to 9-8, with the Lock Company holding he 1 run edge. The Lock Company cinched the game in the first of the ninth with a three-run rally, and although the Quaker Oats tried hard to even the count, only managed to register a single run to make the final score.

The Lock Company's hurler, Beryl Lee, struck out 8 and handed walks to none.

Gertie Masters was in the pitcher's box for Quakers, striking out 2 and walking one.

Margaret Duvall batted two sizzling home runs, one in the sixth and the other in the seventh, for Quakers. Gertie Masters also struck a home run for the Porridge team, her effort coming in the ninth. A good game was played on second base by Irene Gandy, for Quakers.

The Lock Company's only home run of the game was batted by Audrey Patton, that team's catcher. First for Peterborough Lock was ably handled by Anna Howran.

The teams:

Peterborough Lock—Vera Carr ss, Isobel Mathews 2b, Isobel Varcoe lf, Beryl Lee p, Anna Howran 1b, Olive Varcoe cf, Myrtle Falls rf, Betty McMahon 3b, Audrey Patton c.

Quaker Oats — Betty McIvor lf, Irene Gandy 2b, Phyllis Kabel ss, Carlotta Laing 3b, Gertie Masters p, Margaret Duvall cf, Helen White c, Velma Crane rf, Frances O'Heron 1b.

Umpires—Payne, plate; Barrett, bases.

Battles Katan

The main bout at the Tunney wrestling show at the Brock Street Arena tonight brings together the popular Whipper Billy Watson, the British Empire champion and Palermo John Katan, the rowdy grappler who thinks he ought to hold that title. Watson is fast and clever, Katan powerful and ruthless and the battle between them should be plenty hot. Also on the card are Verne Baxter who meets Pierre De Glane in the semi-final and Bunny Dunlop and Cherie Valina who clash in the preliminary.

The 7,000 fans who gathered at baseball's national shrine, Cooperstown, N.Y., yesterday for the annual major league exhibition game saw exactly one play when a rainstorm broke up the proceedings. The opposing nines were the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers and the opening pitch by Frank Overmire of the American Leaguers resulted in a single for Johnny Rucker, first man up for the Giants. After a wait of 40 minutes the game was cancelled.

Bob Montgomery, New York's lightweight champion and Beau Jack, No. 1 contender, both of whom are now in the U.S. Army, are expected to be matched shortly for a bout at New York in a war-bond rally. The scrap, it was announced last night at New York, hinges on War Department approval.

Because of inability to muster a representative team on account of travel difficulties in the United States, the American Lawn Bowling Association, eastern division, yesterday notified A. A. Langford, secretary of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association, London, Ont., of the cancellation of this year's international match.

The outstanding clash so far in the City Softball League should be the battle tonight between the two leading clubs of the loop, Switchgear and Plazas who meet in a game that will either permanently decide the winner of first place or leave the two all tied up with a sudden death game necessary to settle the leadership. This is the last game in the regular schedule for both outfits and Switchgear have a lead of one game over the second-placers. That means, of course, that if Manager Murph Chambers' athletes can defeat Plazas for the third time this season tonight Switchgear will wind up at the top of the heap. On the other hand a Plaza victory will leave the two teams tied for first slot. With so much at stake and with keen rivalry between the two outfits there should be a whale of a lot of excitement before the issue is decided tonight. It looks like a tossup, the result depending on which club happens to hit its stride for this all-important battle. Neither camp has announced its pitching selections. Switchgear have Bert Harrison, Ronnie Akers and Freddy Elliott all ready to go while the Plazas pitching staff of Dave Wilson, Terry Woods and Frank Stokoe are all available for duty. The game is called for 7 o'clock and it should really be a honey.

Umpire baiting in the City Softball League for the balance of the season is strictly out, the executive of the league announced after a meeting last night in which a report from Umpire Bailey of incidents connected with a recent Switchgear game in which a couple of players were ejected was dealt with. The executive has made it plain that the umpires who were appointed at the beginning of the season are to be protected against undue verbal attacks by the players and that players who fail to obey that ruling will likely find themselves suspended by the executive. In other words the umpires are in charge of the games and they will have the backing of the league. Legitimate complaint on an interpretation of rules is one thing, it is pointed out but loud and abusive criticism of other rulings is something else again. With the playoffs coming up the clubs will have to be on their best behavior or find themselves short a few players.

Local Stars Chosen

At a meeting of the City Softball League executive Monday night the lineup of the Peterborough All Stars to meet Tip Tops here on Friday evening in a benefit game for Kinsmen's charities was selected. All the clubs in the loop are represented in the players named to do the honors for the loop in this classic battle with one of Canada's outstanding teams. The starting lineup will be as follows: Ossie Anderson, Soldiers, 2b; Mike Conroy, St. Peter's, lf; Johnnie Playford, Switchgear, cf; Barney Ashmore, Switchgear, 1b; Joe Blewett, Plazas, rf; Eddie, Starr, Plazas, c; Jack Tucker, Plazas, ss; George Hawks, Plazas, 3b; Cam Ecclestone, Tip Tops, p. Alternative players will be Outfielders Stan Murduff, U.E.W. and Tony McIlveen, Soldiers, Catcher Holly Mowry, Switchgear and Infielders Johnny Condon, St. Peter's and Art Heal, Plazas. Kinsman Jim Ellis of Plazas will manage the All-Stars and incidentally the equipment for the game will be provided by the Plaza club. Everything is now ready for Friday night's battle which looks like the big sporting event of the summer season. Certainly the appearance here of the famous Tip Tops against an all-star Peterborough team with Cam Ecclestone doing the gunning for the Petes will pack in the customers There are ten gate prizes to add to the excitement and it is all for a great cause.

Brintons and Johnson Motors will battle tonight in an important Girls' League game at the Ashburnham Bowl at 7 o'clock, and it should provide a treat for the league patrons. Both teams want the game badly and they will have their strongest lineups in action in the hope of bringing forth the bacon. There is a feeling among the fans that the Outboard Marines are likely to prove one of the toughest obstacles in the way of the Brinton bid for its third championship in three years. They are playing better ball all the time and Brintons are likely to find them formidable opponents in tonight's contest. Incidentally there will be no game tomorrow night, the game scheduled for then having been played Monday but Brintons will be back again Thursday night when they are billed to meet the Aircraft in what should be another very interesting tilt . Batteries for tonight's game have not been announced but it looks like Helen Mark for the Outboards and Bernice Stinson or Phyllis Corrigan for the Brintons.

Squawking Players

"Hal Dean, Edmonton Bulletin sports writer, is very much in line in his contention that hockey and baseball officials do not make near the mistakes that come from squawking players," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Review. "Declaring that in the great majority of cases, puck refs and ball umps are sincere men, who call each play as they see ti, he suggests that the kicking player is usually the poorer type, who employs such tactics when he has created a blunder in the playing code. Following such a line of thought, we cannot forget a conversation we had a couple of years ago with umpire Bill Summers of the American League. On that occasion, the arbiter stated tha stars of the Foxx, Gehrig, DiMaggio and Gehringer type, never objected to the umpire calls, and he had particular praise for Foxx whom he termed the real thoroughbred, stating that the double X man refused to follow the lead of other slipping stars, who resort to ragging the ump when his hitting sights were dimmed. The very fact that the history of both ball and hockey does not reveal one instance of a crooked official, proves that the player who yells loudest over the judgment of the man in charge is using such objections as a smooth cover up for his own shortcomings, and the majority of those supporting the game will subscribe to such a thought."

* * * * * *

This Hank Biasatti, amateur ball player must get around according to Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon-Herald who writes: "When Biasatti eats, sleeps and does any soldiering would appear to be the $64 question. He plays for London in the Intercounty League, Chatham Army in the Kent County League, and was also supposed to play for a Detroit all-star team against Mickey Cochrane's Great Lakes Naval Training Centre club, but his name wasn't noticed in the box score of the latter game. But you ain't heerd nuttin' yet. The stylish first sacker has been selected to play in an all-star game in Toronto, on August 23. For our money, Hank Biasatti can cover first base for any ball team, and the Toronto Maple Leafs made no mistake when they claimed him as their own private property."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Both Soldiers and U.E.W. introduced new players last night in the person of two well-known local athletes....Lieut. Joe Dunkerley, former Collegiate rugby and St. John's junior O.H.A. hockey player was in left field for the Military Training Centre and starred with two great catches....Ray Harding, goalie of the Petes' hockey squad in recent seasons made his debut at first base for the Union and started a fast double-play....Mac McPherson, Millbrook pitcher with U.E.W. absorbed his first lacing since coming into the loop last night but there was a reason for it....The big fellow had been ill for two or three days and started under a handicap....Soldiers were minus Harry Morgan, Doug Mortimer and Shortstop Jenner last night....All are away on furlough....It looks like Bucky Walters for the Nationals and Hank Borowy for the Americans as starting picthers in tonight's All-Star game at Pittsburg....Practically all of Canada's eastern professional golf stars will be here this week-end for the Kinsmen's tourney at the Kawartha Club.

Don Bradman, great Australian batsman, made a record score for England-Australia test match cricket 14 years ago today at Leeds, England, when he hit up 334 runs. His mark was beaten in 1938 by Len Hutton of England who scored 364 runs. Bradman's mark, however, still is the best test match score for an Australian.

Soldiers Whip U.E.W. 11 to 4 For 4th Straight

Soldiers said it with base hits, including homers by Ossie Anderson and Pete Procyk to wallop U.E.W. 11 to 4 at Riverside Park Monday night in a City Softball League game and run their winning streak to four straight triumphs.

The Military Training Centre outfit came through with 13 hits in less than six innings at the expense of big Mac McPherson and although Don Isaac who took over the pitching chore at that stage stopped them cold for the rest of the engagement the damage had been done.

U.E.W. made their chief fight in the last half of the first inning when after spotting Soldiers three runs in the opening end of the frame they came back with four in their half to take the lead. Soldiers tied it up again in the second, went out in front by scoring two runs in the third and were never threatened after that.

Big Earl Revoir winning his fourth game in a row passed two batters and allowed two doubles and a triple in the first inning for four Union runs but after that not a U.E.W. spike dented the home plate. Revoir allowed only four hits and not a run after the opening inning and although U.E.W. could get men on in every frame they could not break through Revoir's delivery for hits with runners in scoring position.

Ossie Anderson with four hits, including a homer led the Soldier attack while Girard was the only U.E.W. batter to get more than one blow.

The fielding features were supplied by Joe Dunkerley in left field for the winners. In his City League debut Joe came through with a couple of beautiful catches. He ran far out into deep left centre field to pull down a drive from Griffin's bat, taking the ball on the run over his shoulder and robbing the hitter of a homer. Later he dashed in to make a fine running catch of a short fly to left that looked like a sure hit.

Anderson gave the Soldiers a great start by crashing the second ball pitched by McPherson down the left field foul line for a clean homer. Paris singled over second. McIlveen walked and Procyk got a single on a popper back of short to fill the bases. Dunkerley flied to centre and Griffin's wide throw home coupled by a bad toss to McPherson after fielding the ball enabled not only Paris but McIlveen to score. Junk-

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Now the fun is on in earnest as far as the men's schedule is concerned. Every game from now counts and counts fast. With the schedule just about half over the boys have started to play for keeps. Last night's games were watched by a goodly crowd and when the scores were handed in it was found that not only does Tom McMillan keep the lead in No. 1 group but he increased it by two points.

And in group two R. Payne's rink nosed out in front by one point over Bill Jeffries and Herb Martin when his rink won from C. Giroux.

If Harold Darling could have won his game from J. Cullen he would have been right on Tom McMillan's heels. And the same goes for Bill Jeffries' rink, if he had won from H. Coleman he would have taken the lead in group two.

We'll see what happens in Group No. 3 and 4 this evening. Adding it all up it looks about the best schedule we've had for a long time.

The ladies are all set for the Tip Top Tailor tournament tomorrow at 5.30 o'clock. We understand that they have 18 local entrys—nice going.

Outboard Marine Holds Annual Picnic Nicholls Oval

The second annual picnic of the Outboard Marine Social and Athletic Club, held at Nicholls Oval Saturday afternoon, drew a crowd of upwards to thee thousand employees and their families and friends, and a fine program of sports and entertainment was presented to the enjoyment of all who attended.

Chairman of the picnic was J. McIsaac, and C. Brien was secretary. T. McMillan and W. Barrick were in charge of refreshments; T. Snowden and G. Ruttle in charge of entertainment; W. Bannon, grounds; R. Fuller games and rides; A. Watkins, sports; M. Baker, treasurer; L. Maguire publicity; B. Barrick, staff photographer; and Aileen Sisson and Marie Kearns, prize distributors.

Part of the program was supplied by the Y.W.C.A. girls, who put on several splendid dancing numbers and counted as a huge success. An added attraction to the stage show, a tumbling act by nine year old Merilyn McInroy, 24 Cricket Place, was the hit of the entire performance. George Morrow acted as master of ceremonies for the entertainment and gave several selections on his accordion; while Bob Carr, the centre of attraction for the kiddies in the afternoon with his clown antics, put on a number of comic and juggling acts during the program. Roundly applauded also was the Ripley team, which offered a fine repertoire of acrobatics and feats of equilibrium.

In the sports field the Johnson Motors girls beat the Quaker team in a spirited exhibition game to the tune of 11-3, and a regulation Industrial League event found the Johnson Motors Men nosing out the Aircraft team by a score of 10-9. Walter Bannon served as master of ceremonies for the sports events.

The premier prize of the many draws at the picnic, that for the outboard motor, was won by J. Henry, 523 Aylmer street. Other contest winners in the races for children and grown-ups and in the special events were as follows:

Toddlers' Race, 3 years and under: Donald Dunn, Larry Warren; Girls, 4-5 years. Marian Harrington, Barbara Tiffin; Girls, 6-7 yrs. June Collins, Joanne Kearns; Girls, 8-9 yrs. Yankee Battery To Start All-Star Game

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

PITTSBURGH, July 11.—(AP).—All-star baseball spins the major-league wheels to Pittsburgh for the first time tonight with Billy Southworth leaning heavily on Cincinnati's Bucky Walters and a starting lineup with a .307 batting bulge to keep the National League's three-year losing streak from becoming a habit. It's 11 to 10 in these parts that he'll succeed.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Americans is expected to call on a Yankee battery of Hank Borowy and Rollie Hemsley to start the junior circuit toward its ninth victory in the 12-game series.

A sell-out crowd of nearly 40,000 is predicted with fair and cooler weather.

Both skippers delayed their arrival until the morning of the game after announcing lineups sprinkled with left-handed hitters. Lefty Hal Newhouser of Detroit is almost a certainty to see service for the Americans, but the National have only one southpaw, Ken Raffensberger of the Phils, who may not get a call.

McCarthy has Borowy and Bob Muncrief of the Browns fully rested since their last appearances on Thursday.

Last year's game won by the Americans, 5-3, was the first played entirely under the lights and the second comes at an appropriate time with the majors meeting today in joint session to enact legislation expected to provide unlimited week-night play for all desiring.

The American League gave its okay to more games yesterday as it urged prompt renewal of the agreement establishing a high commissioner. The National considered both proposals and the anti-farm system plan made by General Manager Jack Zeller of Detroit, but withheld announcement pending the joint session.

Walters Likes Night Pitching Jobs

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP).—Bucky Walters, Cincinnati's star right-hander who is expected to start for the National Leaguers in the all-star game at Pittsburgh to-night, is without question the king of night-game pitchers in the major leagues.

With the big show being played under the lights at Forbes Field, the figures for Walters' night work take on added significance.

Bucky has started nine after-dark games for the Reds and hasn't been knocked out yet. He has won eight of the nine and sports a seven-game winning streak under the arcs. The only game he lost at night was a 2-0 affair to the Phils May 18 when Southpaw Ken Raffensberger quelled the Reds with a three-hitter.

Altogether, Bucky has worked 84 innings in the nine games, a couple of which went into extra innings. He yielded only 66 hits in this span. His best effort was a two-hitter at Pittsburgh for a 3-0 triumph June 20. During this same period he issued only 24 walks, hit one batter and fanned 22. Indicative of his effectiveness in the pinches is a total of 63 opposing runners left stranded.

None of the American League twirlers can approach Walters' mark.

Bob Muncrief of St. Louis Browns, Dutch Leonard of Washington Senators and Bobo Newsom of Philadelphia Athletics appear the best night-game twirlers on the American League squad.

Muncrief has started two after-dark games and won both, while Leonard had won three and lost one. Newsom has captured two of three games in which he figured.

TORONTO, July 11.—(CP).—It's no secret that horse-racing gets in the blood and practically never can be shaken. That's true whether you are merely an innocent bystander staking the baby's chance for a new pair of shoes against a beautiful hunch, or an owner with the fever nestled deep among the corpuscles.

The owner of course is always bitten worse and suffers all the pangs of parenthood with his brood of two or twenty racers. Bearing all this in mind Ken' (Vancouver Province) McConnell passed on an anonymous bit of philosophy for the breeding training and racing of thoroughbreds.

"First get good brood mares with good records for producing winners. Get a proven stud horse. Then run the stock on a good farm. Get a good trainer and helper and pay both well. Then consolidate in your soul equal portions of faith and hope, tincturing the whole with agony while learning to lose as gracefully as you win."

Words of wisdom, all of them, especially the described technique fr losing, of which there is usually much.

Tuesday Topics:

While his rather hapless Toronto Maple Leafs had a day or two off to lick their wounds, Manager Burleigh Grimes took the opportunity to get in a spot of horseback riding. Returning, he reported he could ride the nags a lot better than the umpires—and furthermore they couldn't talk back or thumb him out of the dugout like a real, live ump.....While attention of most horse followers is rivetted on the doings of the runners, the harness racers are quielty going about their business and getting the season underway. The Maritime circuit has been going some time, while in Tillsonburg, Owen Sound and the few other strongholds in Ontario the sulky wheels are whirring.... Bill Quackenbush, Detroit Red Wings puck light,, doesn't sit and twiddle his thumbs during the summer. He is keeping in the pink by cavorting with John Inglis soccer squad of Toronto.

Deloro Spitfires Defeat Bonarlaw

BONARLAW, July 11 — (ENS).—An exciting game of softball was held on Wednesday night at Deloro when the Deloro Spitfires defeated the Bonarlaw Graves 10 to 9. The Bonarlaw team held the Spitfires 6 to 0 until the last half of the seventh inning, when an error let the Spitfires score 3 runs. The game was tied in the eighth inning. The final score was 10 to 9.

Nashua Paper Trims Canada Packers 15-6

Nashua handed Packers a 15-6 trimming in an Industrial League game played Monday evening at Brinton field.

Highlight of the game was the slick pitching turned in by Nashua's Montgomery. White played a good game in right field for Nashua, and Loucks handled the short-stop assignment for Nashua efficiently.

On the Packers' side, G. Downer played an interesting game in right field, and some clever left-fielding was turned in by Todd. The Packers' hurler, Foley, pitched a steady ball.

The teams:

Nashua—Lewis cf, Hughie 2b, L. Maudsley c, E. Maudsley 1b, Creary 3b, Martyn lf, Loucks ss, White rf, Montgomery p.

Canada Packers—G. Downer rf, S. Detlor 1b, Todd lf, Betley 3b, Seymour 2b, A. Downer ss, Lefave cf, Foley p, Traynor c.

By innings:

Nashua	105 031 203	—15

3 Players Fined For Slugging Fans

By The Associated Press

Furnishing immediate action on Sunday's ruckus at Jersey City, International League President Frank Shaughnessy yesterday fined Baltimore's Stan Benjamin $100 and suspended him indefintely. Frank Skaff and Ab Tiedemann drew fines of $50 and $25 respectively for their part in the affair which saw the three players leap into the stands to battle with heckling fans.

Hurt by the absence of Benjamin, who had been batting .322 as of Wednesday, the Orioles lost last night to Jersey City, 6-5, as the Little Giants moved into first place. Jim McAlarney started for the Giants, but was lifted in favor of Ken Brondell, who went on to win. Hal Keline was charged with the defeat.

Montreal Royals dropped back into second place as they lost to Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-2. Walt Chipple drove Moe Aderholt in with a long fly for one run and Red Durrett doubled in the second to account for the Royal scoring. The Leafs rallied in the eighth to win on a walk and singles by Kress and Schoff.

Rookie Johnny Maldovan turned in a four-hitter for Newark Bears as they defeated Syracuse Chiefs, 4-1.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

SOLDIERS AT CAMP GROUNDS

Word has been received that the Uptown Canteen is again entertaining members of the Local Training Centre at the Scout Grounds on Sunday, July 16. The apparent success of the last Picnic on the Scout Grounds goes without saying when the committee found it best to revisit the grounds. We wish them all Good Hunting.

Close For Summer

We were glad to get the report for the Sacred Heart Pack last week, our only regret being in the fact that it will be the last news for some time as the Pack stops work for the summer season. At this final meeting Commissioner Wolfe was present to take the opening salute. Jack Kennealey and Lionel Johnson will probably remember this meeting for some time to come as it was the occassion of their bidding farewell to the Pack as they were accepted into the Troop by Scouter Johnson. Before leaving the Pack Jack and Lionel renewed their Cub Promise to Akela and received best wishes for Good Hunting from the Pack.

Both Scouts and Cubs took part in the program that followed. Commissioner E. Wolff expressed his pleasure in being present, realized the importance of Scouting to the Boys, and that they would be willing to back up the movement wherever possible, especially by taking a keen interest in their Scout Work.

In closing Commissioner Wolff wished Scout Claire Dionne the best of luck in his new venture, serving in the Forces with the Navy.

Akela Collett extended a welcome to the visitors, and expressed his thanks to the Women's Auxiliary for the splendid work that they are doing.

In reply, Mr. O'Rourke, acting chairman of the Group Committee thanked the officers and all that attended for their loyal support.

Assistant Commissioner A. Hope, who appeared as a very bashfull lad soon lost his shyness, and led the group in a sing-song which was enjoyed by all.

L.A.C. Pete Dominik former cub and Scout Leader of the group, and on whose shoulders can be placed a great deal of credit for the building of the Sacred Heart Group, dropped in to say hello. Pete is home on furlough.

A tasty lunch was served by the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary. The evening was brought to a close with Prayer and the lowering of the Flag by the Scouts, every one joining in the singing of the National Anthem.

Scouters Week End Camp

Scouter Ford is sending out letters to every Scout and Cub Leader regarding the holding of a week-end Camp to be held on the Scout Grounds on Saturday and Sunday, July 22 and 23. The members of the Local Association are also being invited to attend and it is a good chance for all to have a real get-together, not just one of our short 3 hour periods but a time to get down to the business of the care of the Grounds, placing of fire places, etc. We would ask Scouters and Scouts alike to see that these grounds are looked after in real Scout style and not like an ordinary picnic grounds. The place should be left as you find it. It is urged that every officer possible will do his or her best to attend this camp.

St. Johns

The Cub pack held its final indoor meeting two weeks ago and held its first regular summer outdoor meeting at the Oval last Friday evening. Most of the time has been spent in games. Plans for the two day camp next Saturday were discussed. We would thank those parents for their donations of rationed goods. During the past weeks the following tests were passed. Bobby Burgess, Union Jack, David Bacon, Book Balancing, John Biddle Collectors badge George Hall and Billy Cummings, Signalling, the last three tests being passed by Scouter Ford as the examiner.

The meeting next week will be held at the Parish Hall when those attending camp are requested to bring their equipment with them so that Akela and Baloo can check over prior to leaving Saturday morning. A short meeting will be held on the lawn. Those who are bringing rationed goods are to have the same at Baloo's or Akela's on or before Thursday. Those attending Camp will meet at the Sunday School at 8.45 a.m. Saturday morning, July 15. Have a good breakfast before you come.

Around Town

We note that Honorary Commissioner John T. Hornsby is floating around town taking a much needed holiday. Pete Dominik of the Air Force is in town on three weeks furlough looking like a lost sheep. Akela Quirt McKinney is down at Kingston attending a 6 weeks summer school, no doubt leading the lads and lasses in singing some of those Negro Spirituals. Ken Brown is home on furlough with wife and two cubs (Future one we hope) and we are glad to hear that all are well. May see you on the Scout Grounds next week Ken. No official report but we heard that Scouters McNabb and Ingham were out at the Grounds last week with a bevy of Scouts and that Scouter Ford and Dominik were seen prowling around that same spot. We are glad to know that Assistant Commissioner Hope will be at St. John's Cub Camp and wish him real rest with the Pack.????.

We understand that there is a movement under foot to have a caretaker out at the Scout Grounds next year but we would like to see a well dug or pump sunk or something, your scribe is looking forward to carrying water for some twenty-four people next week end.

The Skipper.

Canadians Hit Sicily One Year Ago

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, July 11—(CP Cable)—The liberation of Europe which draws closer with every Allied advance began a year ago today when Canadian, British and American troops landed on the shores of Sicily.

In the early hours of July 10, 1943, Allied soldiers took the first step in what has since been a series of successful actions to wrest Europe from Nazi and Fascist control. Two months later the Fascists had fallen with their leader Mussolini, and today Hitler's Nazi walls too are beginning to crumble.

Canadian soldiers formed only a fraction of the mighty forces engaged in thes last months, but they have been an important fraction, and their contribution in the coming victory will be a proud chapter in the Dominion's history.

After 3½ years of waiting and training, the Canadian 1st Division with the younger but equally well-prepared 1st Armored Brigade took part in the initial major offensive of the Sicilian landings. Of these troops only the Calgary armored regiment had seen previous action against the enemy in the brief, bloody Dieppe landing.

They Didn't Fail

The Canadians didn't fail in their first test, and they went from one success to another through Sicily and Italy, gaining confidence and experience with each battle. They were battle-tried veterans before they encountered their first truly bitter enemy opposition in the Moro Valley last December.

When Spring came the Corps was ready for a two-division assault, and in mid-May it struck. The Canadians fought with valor and skill which won them recognition throughout the Allied World.

This new assault through the vaunted Hitler line, up the Liri and Sacco Valleys, was something different from previous Canadian battles—bigger, more massive, more powerful than anything the Canadians had known before this war.

The Hitler Line break-through ended the single-division complex—if such it may be called—of the Canadians. With that success Canada's military status expanded in direct relationship to the expansion from a division to a corps.

Scarcely had the Canadians in Italy laid down their arms for a brief rest when their brothers in England struck out, again with British and American forces, against the west wall of Europe. The 3rd Division—as untried as the 1st had been a year ago—showed that its soldiers were made of the same stern stuff.

Canada's hundreds of thousands of soldiers are still greatly outnumbered by the millions of Britons and Americans in action or ready for action. But her place in military history does not suffer in comparison.

Oshawa Tank Unit Facing Tough Fighting With 8th

BY DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8th ARMY IN ITALY, July 11 — (CP Cable) — The great bulk of the British 8th Army stirred restlessly before the German line pivoted on Arezzo yesterday and lunged into new gains east of the Tiber.

Polish troops on the Adriatic coast were reported within eight miles of Ancona after new advances nortwest of Osimo. In the Tiber Valley north of Lake Trasimeno, British and Indian troops advanced five miles to clear a village at the peak of a winding mountain road northeast of Montone and consolidated their grip on Mont Curso, north of Montone.

Tanks of an eastern Canadian Regiment under Maj. A. E. Wood of Ottawa co-operated with British infantry in beating off an hour-long counter-attack against their positions below a rocky hill west of Tuori, seven miles southwest of Arezzo. Artillery and mortar fire supported the Germans.

(Two Eastern Canada tank units, the Ontario Regiment of Oshawa, Ont., and the Three Rivers Regiment of Three Rivers, Que., have been disclosed as operating in the 8th Army's advance around Lake Trasimeno and to the north.)

Stalled 3 Days

In equally difficult country a few miles to the south western tanks (presumably of the Calgary Regiment, another armored unit of the 1st Canadian Army Tank Brigade) put in a day and night of shelling and mortaring, climaxed by a counter-attack which was repulsed by a heavy artillery barrage during Saturday night.

The Canadians have hardly moved for three days in the rugged hill country west of the Chiana Valley. They are holding down positions at the foot of a slope while the British infantry fighting with them get what protection is possible in the flinty rocks.

The Canadian armor has been using night movement for the first time in an attempt to make headway. Eastern tanks were sent up a rugged, almost pathless slope, but they withdrew when two overturned. Tank bull-dozers were then sent up, but two of them were destroyed by enemy fire and the crews withdrew under covering fire from a tank under Lieut. Murray O'Dell, St. Thomas, Ont.

A Brainy Chimp

NEW YORK, July 11. — (AP).—Joe the chimp is no chump. Doubly-irked by a toothache and the heat in his cage at the Central Park Zoo yesterday, the eight-year-old chimpanzee unscrewed a water connection and took a shower. When his keeper came Joe pointed to his jaw, A loose tooth was removed by the keeper with a pair of pliers.

Stalin Salutes Son's Bravery

LONDON, July 11 — (CP). — Premier Joseph Stalin saluted the gallantry of his own son in his Sunday night order which announced the Russians had captured the town of Lida.

Col. Vassily Stalin of the Soviet Bomber Command was cited along with other high officers for the latest achievement of the 3rd White Russian Army under Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky in Stalin's order of the day broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet Monitor.

Vassily commanded a fighter force which co-operated in mass raids on Lida before the capture of that city on the third White Russian front, a dispatch to Pravda said yesterday.

The 24-year-old Colonel's fighters protected bombers during the attacks while the junction was crammed with German equipment, the dispatch said.

Each Country Has 1 Member

By THOMAS HAGENBUCH
Associated Press Staff Writer.

BRETTON WOODS, N.H., July 11 — (AP). — The makeup of the executive management committee of the projected World Monetary Fund has been the subject of sharp debate at the United Nations monetary conference, it was disclosed on Monday.

Although the committees took the Sunday off for the first time since the sessions started, a conference spokesman said disscusions were continuing on how members should constitute the fund's executive committee and how they should be elected.

It has been agreed that each country represented in the fund will have one member on the Board of Governors which in turn will name an executive group to manage the fund's day-to-day operations. A proposal that appears to have strong backing is one providing for the election of an 11-man executive committee. Five would be named automaticaly by the countries having the five largest quotas. Under a tentative quota lineup, still lacking conference approval, the five largest quota nations would be Britain, the United States, Russia, China and France.

LESS WEAR AND TEAR

Installation of magnetic drain plugs in war machines has succeeded in attracting sufficient metal filings to eliminate much motor wear.

My NEURITIS? You'd be surprised!

He was 68 years old, in the grip of neuritis, with every prospect of a miserable old age. Then a relative advised Kruschen Salts. Within a fortnight he obtained relief, as he tells in his letter:—

"For eight months I had severe pains in the lower part of my back and at times they were almost unbearable. Also I felt useless and worn out. My age is 68, and I was told that I had neuritis and probably would have it, more or less, as long as I lived. A relation of mine gave me half a bottle of Kruschen Salts to try. After taking it for about two weeks I felt the pain getting less. That was about four months ago. I continued with Kruschen, and if you had seen me then and now you would be surprised. In fact, I am a different man. I have lost the pain entirely. My appetite is good and I sleep well." —H. W. S.

Pains in the back are often due to poisons in the blood — poisonous waste products which are not being properly eliminated from the system. The six salts in Kruschen help your kidneys and other organs of elimination back to healthy, normal action, so that poisonous waste matter does not remain, in your system to harm you.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable of all Drug Stores. 25c and 75c.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)

Lost: One Husband's Heart

SHE COULDN'T UNDERSTAND why her husband was drifting away from her. It never even occurred to her that her own "one neglect"—carelessness about feminine hygiene—was to blame. Today, so many modern wives use Lysol disinfectant. It cleanses quickly, thoroughly, and deodorizes, too. Yet it's so gentle for douching; doesn't harm sensitive tissues—just follow easy directions. Use economical Lysol. Write to Lehn & Fink (Canada) Ltd., Dept. N.H., 9 Davies Ave., Toronto 8, Ontario, for FREE Feminine Hygiene Booklet (in plain wrapper).

TWO WOUNDED.

Two district men are reported today to have suffered wounds in the fighting overseas. They are Pte. Thomas Henry James Rowe of Apsley, the husband of Mrs. Bertha E. Rowe and BSM. Hubert Melbourne Hooper R.C.A. who is the son of Mrs. Gertrude Thetford, 36 Carlisle avenue, Bowmanville.

APPRECIATION

A resolution by the executive of the Local Council of Women was passed recently, "that a letter be sent to the Peterborough Examiner expressing appreciation of the improvement in the garbage collection since it has been managed by the city." Through this medium it is passed on to the members of the council and especially of its property committee of which Alderman Swanston is chairman, and will certainly be accepted gratefully and as a little reutrn for all the time and thought given to the transfer of the service from private to municipal operation.

Peterborough citizens will get a chance to see an Orange parade Wednesday night when the local lodges will march through the downtown streets, falling in at the C.N.R. station at 8 o'clock.

STOLEN CAR FOUND

A car stolen from Williamson Brothers' garage, George street south over the week-end has been recovered by Toronto police, a message received by the local police department last night stated.

ITS FACE LIFTED

Visitors to police court will probably not recognize the court-room when they see it next. The hall of justice is having its face lifted today. The dingy wall and ceilings have been washed and re-decorated and the transformation is almost startling.

NO POLICE COURT

There was no regular session of police court this morning. In the first place no magistrate was assigned to Peterborough today owing to the holiday setup and secondly the decorators had charge of the court room. One minor case was disposed of until tomorrw by Vincent Eastwood, J.P. who held his court in the guard room downstairs.

REACH OBJECTIVE

Though the final figures are not yet in, it was announced today by Gordon Monkman that the Hurricane Stamp Drive Fund, just recently concluded, reached its mark and will go a little above the $25,000 objective. Later in the week it is expected the breakdown between the city and rural public schools, the separate schools, the Collegiate and the Examiner news carriers, will be available.

With The Tourists

By DON McGIBBON

When Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Barmon's grandchildren, from Buffalo, N.Y., arrive in Peterborough for their holidays sometime in the near future, it will mark the third generation of Barmons who have vacationed here, and enjoyed the country hereabouts.

"Why, with 34 years of coming to these parts behind me, you could practically say I was actually brought up here," smiled Mr. Barmon, in Peterborough this morning. He is staying at Chemong Lake, and just for the record, said he doesn't think there's a nicer spot in the world to holiday, than at Chemong Lake.

With enough gas to get by, Mr. Barmon said Peterborough is one of the few cities he has visited that doesn't possess some annoying feature, such as lack of street signs, no parks, etc.

As for fishing....well, he said he just hasn't tried hard enough yet.

"I've had a grand time here, and I will be back next summer, or, if my plans go through in order, I may be back again later on this year," asserted H. Patty, who, with Mrs. Patty spent the last week or so at The Chateau summer place, Bancroft.

Here with Mr. and Mrs. J. Lobens, all four hail from Meadeville, Pennsylvania, which, they explained, is a town of about 20,000 population, 40 miles south of Erie.

"It's the place where all the zippers are made," Mrs. Lobens added. "The only town in America noted for zippers," threw in Mr. Lobens.

Mrs. Patty said although she hasn't done a great deal of shopping in Peterborough, she is exceptionally pleased with the quality and quantity of the articles in the shops. The entire party agreed that the food price control system in Canada was something to boast about, and advanced the impartial opinion that the Canadian cost-of-living seemed to be much lower than that in the States.

"While some goods are more expensive here than in the States," pointed out Mr. Lobens, "as a rule your money has a greater buying power than American money in the States. Cigarettes, and a few other things here are more expensive, but most articles I bought were a great amount less expensive, than the same articles in the States."

Fishing, of which they have done much, is the favorite sport of the group, and before returning to Meadeville, they hope to be able to drag out some really big ones. And they are sure they will.

"When you're looking for a good spot to fish, people in this section are as helpful as possible, and I think the courtesy shown American tourists is one of the reasons for such a large influx of tourists every year," stated Mr. Patty. "I know that it's one reason why I've been vacationing here longer than I can remember, and other people say the same thing," he said.

Staying at Lakeview House, Young's Point, and having plenty of fun, are Mr. and Mrs. W. Riddell, Pittsburg, Penn., Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Knight, Mingo Jct., Ohio, Mr. Charles Diederich, Lydnhurst, Ohio, and Harry Slates, Mingo Jct., Ohio, and Sam Brierley, of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight explained Mingo Jct., as a small place, on the shores of the Ohio River, about 90 miles south of Cleveland, and Mr. Diederich placed Lyndhurst, Ohio, as a suburb of Cleveland.

The party arrived in Peterborough, July 1, and will be here until the 15th of July, in which time, they hope to snag some bigger fish than they have already, and complete a tan that has most of them covered right now.

"Do you know the shopping here is simply marvellous," beamed Mrs. Knight. "Why, you can get things here for half the price as in the States, and you don't have to be bothered with a lot of ration coupons like we do. People over here ask us how we manage with two pairs of shoes a year. We don't know!"

"I think people here are much more sociable than any other place I've visited," said Mr. Knight.

"This is the 13th year the party has visited Peterborough. They're hoping for some good fishing in the next 3 or 4 days. Most of the fish already hooked, has been caught by Mr. Ridell,....Mr. Riddell said.

When asked about the forthcoming presidential elections in the United States, they said...."Now that IS a military secret,....although one of the party, who will be unnamed, offered he was going to vote for Dewey.

113 Parking Fines During Past Month

Traffic infractions during June as reported to the Police Commission Monday included 113 parking penalties and four offences under the traffic bylaw, three cars parked in prohibited areas and one too near a hydrant.

There were also 32 charges laid under the Highway Traffic Act, of which 25 were against drivers who failed to stop at through streets, two exceeded the speed limit, one for careless driving, one driver did not have a rear vision mirror, and also two persons riding on the one bicycle.

Judge Smoke remarked that he sometimes wondered whether the dollar penalty for exceeding the parking limit was having any effect.

"I think it has," Mayor Hamilton assured the chairman of the commission. "I know some of them are pretty wrathy at times."

Then there was a citizen who received a letter from a district resident, about thirty-five miles from the city, bitterly complaining of a fine and costs amounting to $3.50 for some traffic misdemeanor, and commenting caustically "that's no way to treat people who drive all the way to Peterborough to do business."

Mayor Hamilton Urges Gifts In Personal Way

During the past three or more weeks the rising tide of damage to life and property created by the latest type of indiscriminate warfare, through rocket or pilotless planes or bombs on the civilian life in the southern part of England, including London, has reawakened in a larger degree the concern of many loyal citizens of the Empire in these parts, to the more urgent need of assistance in a practical way to carry them over what now appears may be the final stage of a desperate enemy attempt to block the way to a sure victory for the Allied cause in the not too distant future.

In spite of the awful scars this latest type of warfare is inflicting, Prime Miniser Churchill spoke in most emphatic terms that this latest affliction would have to be borne in patience until the source is liquidated, and in so doing once again demonstrate the price that people in the Motherland are willing to pay for victory, for they unmurmeringly rallied once again to the old bulldog spirit that has so far led them on from out of the darkness of 1940 to the light of the year 1944.

When it is realized that these death-dealing instruments of horror have caused more civilian casualties than those which occurred in the first 15 days of fighting on the Normandy front, it is little wonder that the leaders in any community who take their responsibilities seriously within the Empire should feel much concerned, and feel impelled to take some steps to alleviate the situation with the means that lay at their hands.

When the cable of thanks from the Lord Mayor of London reached His Worship Mayor Hamilton last Friday in response to the last gift of five hundred pounds sent by the residents of this city and district a short time previously, the very inference that its wording gave of the present need due to this latest devilish type of warfare, which kills just for the sake of killing, spurred his worship immediately into action, for on talking the matter over with the secretary of the fund, he promised to send a cheque on his return to his office, in the hope that the lead he thus gives would point the way to many of the citizens whom it is felt are fully able to do likewise for the same humanitarian cause.

Today his worship is joined by a number of citizens, including Alderman R. M. Glover, well-known protagonist of anything for the benefit of mankind as he himself sees it, all of whom would add their plea for the same cause at this time, and back it up with their own personal gift, for example is always a better monitor than precept.

In this manner, his worship the mayor supported by other residents of this city, would make an earnest plea that this day and opportunity for doing some real good for both the Empire and humanity's sake be embraced in a personal practical way by all readers, to whom the sacrifice will be very small in comparison to those who have and are suffering the full brunt of the war, and in this manner be worthy also of the sacrifice so many heroes have made in giving life itself that others may have freedom and liberty in the days that are to come.

Two Drowned In Rice Lake Off Sheep Island

GORE'S LANDING, July 11 — (ENS)—An elderly Hamilton man Albert Lenz and his four-year-old step grandchild, Allen Lewis of Detroit were drowned here shortly after 10 o'clock this morning when a rowboat upset off Sheep Island, Rice Lake, close to this village.

Lenz and his wife, and also his daughter, Mrs. Lewis of Detroit, and her stepson Allen Lewis had left Gore's Landing on a fishing trip. About twenty feet off Sheep Island Lenz tried to change places in the boat with his daughter, it was reported, stumbled, and in a flash the skiff upset.

Lenz was more than sixty years old, but definite information was not available at the tourist camp here where the party recently arrived for a holiday.

The young woman swam to the island, and Mrs. Lenz clung to the capsized boat and was rescued but Lenz who could not swim tried to save the boy and the two were drowned.

Most of the men around Gore's Landing were absent on fishing trips when cries for help were heard and it was some time before rescue operations could be started.

The Lenz family were holidaying at Gore's Landing and the boy's father is also here.

110 Boys Attend Vacation Club

As popular as ever in the appeal it makes to the younger crowd, the "Y" Vacation Club for boys got off to a successful start on Monday, and last-minute registrations zoomed the total of youngsters who will take part in the club's full two-week program of activities to 110. Indeed, it was finally necessary to close off registrations, as the number of boys might otherwise have mounted out of proportion to the facilities available; and the committee states that it cannot accept any further registrations now.

The first day started with an opening assembly, and the feature of the program arranged for Monday was a talk to the boys by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe on "A Baseball Hero.' Mr. Sutcliffe outlined the career of Christie Matthewson, the idol of all young boys, and his remarks appealed greatly to the youthful audience.

A special treat was arranged for the Vacation Club this afternoon and the whole group went to see a showing of the film at the Capitol as guests of Art Cauley, the manager. Thursday it is expected that the club will be given an opportunity to look around the Peterborough works of the C.G.E. The bird hike on which Alex Kay will take the boys Friday afternoon is to start from Jackson Park and go along the railroad track in the direction of Lily Lake.

1,500 Have Typhus

NEW YORK, July 11.—(CP). — German authorities have transferred from 1,000 to 1,500 typhus-infected Russian prisoners of war from a quarantineship in Oslo harbor to a prison camp north of Lillehammer, Norway, the Stockholm newspaper Afton Tidningen said in an article reported to-day by the United States Office of War Information.

SERVING IN FRANCE—LAC. Albert E. Page is now in France with the Royal Canadian Air Force according to word received by his wife, formerly Dorothy Cardwell, who is now living in Peterborough. LAC. Cardwell before enlisting worked at the C.G.E. He attended Queen Alexandra Public School, and in December, 1941, joined the R.C.A.F., training in Toronto and Ottawa, going overseas in May, 1943.

14 A.R.P. Police Appointed As Auxiliaries

Appointment of fourteen auxiliary constables by the Police Commission Monday afternoon gave effect to a recent recommendation of the finance committee of the city council. They will be sworn in to the service of call probably next week on the return of Crown Attorney McElderry at present on vacation.

The men were proposed by Constable A. Dalton and approved by Chief Thompson, and their appointment was implemented by Judge Smoke's resolutio., seconded by Magistrate Gee. They are as follows:—

Wesley Magee, R.R. 3, Pteerborough; Harley Weir, 772 Water street; Frank Shaw, 35 Lafayette avenue; Harold Bannon, 271 Perry street; C. Knox; James Young, 141 Rubidge street; Clair Heard, 148 Park street; James McCullough, 415½ Water street; Gene Hurtubise, Jr., 114 Stewart street; Bruce Telford, 80 McDonnel street; Harold LeVasseur, McDonnell street; Harold LeVasseur; Harold Legrow, 175 Lock street; Thomas Sarginson, 39 Lafayette avenue; George Sage, Cameron street.

The experience of these men as special constables of A.R.P. during the local Civilian Defense activities was an induction to community service, and although A.R.P. organization has been disbanded this group of the police section wished to continue their association and interest, if possible. They proposed their help to the finance committee of the council, and Chief Thompson told the Police Commission yesterday that they could be of help to the permanent force on such occasions as Hallowe'en when auxiliaries are needed.

The council adopted the finance committee's recommendation "that arrangements be made by the Council to insure these men against injury that might be suffered in the course of their duties as auxiliary police and to recompense them for any loss of time from their usual work in connection with police duties."

Chief Thompson said it was unlikely that they would be required during their working hours, and that the item of expense would be negligible.

Mayor Hamilton supported the council's resolution, which was unanimously adopted.

Last Big Rain Friday, June 23

Peterborough's last heavy rain was Friday, June 23, James Harrison of the Peterborough Utilities filtration plant, informed the Examiner this morning.

This was the eighteenth day of comparative drough in the local area. Farmers and processors of agricultual products are becoming worried about the lack of rain as the midsummer sun sponges from the ground the deeper resources of moisture are drying up.

"We had some spots of rain Sunday evening," Mr. Harrisn said, "but everyone knows they were only a few drops. Then, on Sunday, June 25 we had a light precipitation of .05 of an inch, and that was of no help either.

Rainfall on the 23rd of June was 1.63 inches, and you could call it a 'good heavy rain.' The total for June was 3.64 inches."

Probabilities today were a repetition of the brief and too familiar "fair and warm" with no rain in sight.

Letter Is Addressed To Teenage Peterboro

A letter addressed to teenage Peterborough through Mayor Hamilton was received yesterday at the City Hall from Leslie R. Bean, 38 Belsize Avenue, Woodston, Peterborough, Northamptonshire, England, as follows:

"Dear Sir:

I should like very much to communicate with someone in your city; some one about my own age, 18-19. If you could help me do this, I should be very grateful. Thanking you very much. Yours sincerely, Leslie R. Bean."

Pensions Advocate To Hold Sittings Here

Arrangements for the hearing in Peterborough of pensions applications as a convenience to ex-service men have been intimated by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions and Health of the Federal government.

It is understood that the district pensions advocate in Toronto will visit Peterborough from time to time to receive any representations whatever relating to pensions and that announcement of his coming will be made for the benefit of those who have matters for consideration. The element of convenience is the eliminating of trips to Toronto as heretofore.

SERVING WITH THE NAVY — Stoker J. Evans, R.C.N.V.R., ward of Mrs. M. Barltrop, 112 Murray street, is now serving overseas with Canada's Navy. A former Havelock boy, Stoker Evans has lived in Peterborough for the past three years, working in the aircraft of the C.G.E. He joined the navy in the fall of 1943, and trained at Kingston and Halifax. He celebrated his nineteenth birthday in April.

Benjamin Swartz Injured By Car

Walking across Charlotte near Aylmer to a mail box, Benjamin Swartz, 553 Homewood avenue, was struck and knocked down by an automobile Monday night. Swartz, who escaped with a cut on his hand, reported to the police that the driver of the car did not stop after the accident but drove away.

According to the injured man, the car involved had been driven south on Aylmer street, and without making a stop, turned west into Charlotte and came into collision with Swarz, who had parked his car at the south-west corner of the intersection.

Lieut. J. B. Raine Sends His Thanks

Mayor Hamilton has received from Lieutenant J. B. Raine, R.C.N.R., Commanding Officer of the Corvette "Peterborough" the following letter, which he shares with the citizens generally:

"Dear Mr. Mayor—Exigencies of the Service have precluded my writing sooner to thank the City of Peterborough, on behalf of myself, my officers and ship's company, for the heart-warming way in which we were treated.

It would be difficult for mere words to fully express the feeling of appreciation and affection which this ship has for its city.

The gifts we were given, the reception tendered us, and the spirit behind them, will, believe me, be long remembered by us all.

Your city has a fair name and I can assure you that your namesake will keep it so.

With the very best wishes to the City of Peterborough from H.M.C.S. "Peterborough."

K. T. McQuaig Hurt In Motor Collision

K. T. McQuaig, R.R. 6, Peterborough, sustained a cut below the left elbow, requiring five clips to close, in a collision between a car he was driving and a truck at Romaine and Park streets, Monday.

Arthur North, Little Britain, was driving a truck owned by Hogg and Lytle, Oakwood, east on Romaine street, and at the intersection of Park street his vehicle and a car driven north on Park street came into collision.

McQuaig, the driver of the car, was the only one injured, but both vehicles were damaged considerably in the crash.

DOCTORS ON CALL

The Peterborough Doctors are observing Wednesday Afternoon as a Half-Holiday throughout the year. Those on call on Wednesday Afternoon and Evening of this week are: Dr. Walsh, Dr. Fitzpatrick, Dr. Howson, Dr. McCulloch.

IN MEMORIAM

WARD—In loving memory of Emma Burns, wife of Alfred Ward, who passed away 15 years ago to-day on July 11, 1929.
Thy will be done, seems hard to say
When one we loved has passed away
Some day perhaps we'll understand
When we meet again in that better land.
—Sadly missed by Husband and children, Willard and Muriel (Mrs. Mongraw).

McARTHUR—In loving memory of Douglas McArthur, who passed away July 12, 1943.
Time speeds on, one year has passed,
Since death, its gloom, its shadow cast,
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light and ever will,
His vacant place there is none can fill.
Down here we mourn but not in vain,
For up in Heaven we will meet again.
—Ever remembered by his loving Mother, sisters and Grandmother.

McCALL—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Wilbert McCall, who passed away July 11, 1941.
Just three years have passed, dear Mother
Since God called you home to rest,
And to-day brings back fond memories,
To the ones who loved you best.
How we miss your dear face, Mother
To greet us at the door,
And as the years roll on
We shall miss you more and more.
—Lovingly remembered by her Husband and family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank especially the staff and nurses of Nicholls Hospital also the attending Doctors and many friends for their numerous acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy and floral tributes during the illness and death of our mother.—Harold Rowan Mrs. Victor Walker, Walter Rowan and their families.

Miss Mildred McFarland wishes to thank the dictors, sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital who attended during her recent operation and also the Peterborough Lock Co., the Peterborough Women's Service Corps Band and friends who sent flowers, fruit and cards.

Mining News

Aumaque Gold Mines advises the Toronto Stock Exchange that an additional 276,750 shares have been taken up under option agreement with Harvey Marvin, leaving a balance of 968,244 shares under option until Sept. 29, 1945. Issued capital is 2,031,756 shares.

Astoria Quebec Mines advises the Toronto Stock Exchange that payment has been received covering the July 5 instalment, comprising option on 100,000 shares. Next instalment is exercisable by Aug. 5. Issued capital is 3,762,311 shares, leaving 1,237,689 shares in the treasury.

Island Mountain Mines Co. reports production for the month of June amounted to $30,647 from the treatment of 1,529 tons of ore for an average recovery of $20.04 per ton. This compares with May production of $31,093 from 1,704 tons and an average of $18.25.

Drilling has started on the property of Val d'Bell in Vauquelin Township, Quebec, an official advises. The first hole is down 35 feet.

Sampling of the No. 1 vein at Aubelle Mines near the north boundary of the company's property in the Mud Lake district, Quebec, was started during the latter half of June, according to a report from J. P. Norrie covering that period. Thirty trenches were opened on this vein and all are being sampled. From old record, it is believed that 8 drill holes were put down along this vein which produced some important gold values. Mr. Norrie believes much more drilling will be necessary to ascertain the commercial value of the vein.

Four-year Peaks

Gold, base metals and industrial shares recorded index gains of more than a point yesterday to mark up new peaks for four years or longer as buying interest returned to the Toronto market after the long weekend holiday. Western oils dipped in the afternoon to show a small loss.

The gold group opened strong and the seniors moved with the trend. Dome gained ¾, Lake Shore added ½ and Hollinger ⅛. The Yellowknife stocks posted wide gains. Conwest closed at 2.60 for a gain of 40 cents, Giant added 5 cents, Bear Exploration 7 and Negus 5.

Wright-Hargreaves was a leader of the group. It traded 9,000 shares and advanced 30 cents to 4.35. Proprietary Mines gained 40, Hallnor 25 and other golds gaining 5 to 10 cents included Aunor, Chesterville, Kirkland Lake, Lake Dufault, Little Lon Lac, McVittie-Graham and Premier.

2 to 15 Feet Wide

Mark Smerchanski, mining geologist, who is in charge of the work at the property of Mills Red Lake Mines, Ltd., lying to the northeast of Madsen Red Lake, reports that an oxidized diorite zone has been traced for 1,500 feet. The zone is from 2 to 15 feet wide. Mineralization is pyrite, with some pyrrotite and chalcopyrite has been seen in a few places. The zone is cut by narrow quartz stringers.

In general, the formation is excellent in that the Keewatin formations are intruded by diorite. Prospecting of the ground and cutting of control lines for detailed geological mapping is being carried out. Company intends to start drilling as soon as possible the favorable formations.

District Men Serve In R.C.O.C. Band

KINGSTON, July 11—The band of the Canadian Ordnance Corps Training Centre, Barriefield Camp, left Sunday for Ottawa where they have been posted. The band is recognized as one of the best bands in the Canaidan Army. Following reorganization at Ottawa, it is expected the band will go on tour of Canada, and the bandsmen express the hope they may go overseas as a unit.

Among the bandsmen who have gone to Ottawa with the band, are many men from Peterborough and outlying districts, including S. V. Peryer, Peterborough, who's father, Capt. W. Peryer is the bandmaster of the Prince of Wales Rangers; J. H. Bools, Lindsay; L/Cpl. S. M. Merry, Cobourg; W. R. Hughes, Lindsay; A. Marsden, Roseneath; W. A. Hooper, Lindsay; D. D. Bennett, Campbellford; and W. J. Burke Lindsay.

The band will be under the direction of Capt. W. K. Wilson, a graduate of the Atheneum School of Music, Glasgow, Scotland who, in civilian life, was on the Regina Symphony Orchestra, since 1927, he became director of the C.O.C.T.C. band in January, 1942.

A farewell party was tendered the bandsmen at the sergeants' mess at the C.O.C.T.C., attended by all staff training officers, and the senior N.C.O.'s of Barriefield Camp. During the evening, Lieut.-Col. W. G. H. Wurtele, M. C., V.D., Acting Commandant during the absence of Col. A. E. Duncanson D.S.O. V.D., paid tribute to the bandsmen for their work at the training centre. Lieut.-Col. R. G Peat, who had just returned to Barriefield from overseas duty that day, also spoke of the accomplishments of the C.O.C.T.C. Band, and expressed his best wishes for continued success.

The C.O.C.T.C. band was formed in March, 1941.

The organization of a new band at Barriefield will for the second time be the responsibility of Bandmaster (W.O. 1) A. H. Perrott. Bandmaster Perrott formed the C.O.C.T.C. band immediately on his arrival at Barriefield Camp. Under his baton, the bands of the Lindsay Citizens, the Veterans of Brantford, the Dufferin Rifles, and the Georgetown Lorne Scots have won a total of nine first prize awards, and 16 gold medals in competitions at Toronto and Waterloo.

Pte. E. Mitchell Dies Of Wounds

MILLBROOK, July 11— (ENS). —Mrs. John Sloan has received word that her grandson, Pte. Eugene Mitchell of the Seaforth Highlanders, who has been on active service in Italy, has died of wounds. Previously word had come that Pte. Mitchell had been wounded, and the date of his death in the word that came on Saturday was mentioned as May 24. He was born at Millbrook 22 years ago, educated here and at Cobourg, working in the Dominion Wheel and Foundry Company, Cobourg, before enlistment in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment at Kingston in 1942. Training at Peterborough and Camp Borden, he went overseas in May, 1943, transferring to the Seaforths, and seeing service in Africa and Italy. He has an 8-months-old baby daughter Margaret Linda, who has never seen her father. His wife was the former Margaret Monnell of Cobourg, and he has a brother, Pte Hubert Mitchell, in the services. The latter is with the Irish Regiment and is at Camp Borden. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mitchell of Cobourg are his parents.

Mrs. F. H. Brewin Dies At Stoney Lake

Mrs. Amea F. Brewin, wife of Rev. Francis Henry Brewin 19 years rector of St. Simon's Anglican Church, Toronto, died yesterday at her summer home at Stoney Lake. She had been in poor health for some time. Since Mr. Brewin's retirement several years ago she had lived in Guelph and latterly in Cobourg.

Born in Frederickton, N.B., Mrs. Brewin was the daughter of the late A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways in the Laurier Cabinet. Following her marriage she spent some time with her husband in England. Prior to coming to Toronto she resided in Woodstock and Ottawa, where her husband was rector. She was a life member of the W. A. and former president of St. Simon's W. A. For many years she had spent the summers at Stoney Lake and interment will take place at Lakefield, Ont.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. R. P. Vivian, Port Hope; Mrs. Woodbury Willoughby Washington, D.C., and Mrs. R. M. Crow, Montreal, and a son, F. Andrew Brewin, Toronto, first vice-president, Ontario Section, C.C.F.

Enquiry Brings Request For New Chief

QUEBEC, July 11 — (CP). — Recommendation that the Quebec Provincial Police be "centralized in the hands of a competent chief whose orders cannot be disputed, whose authority is not divided," as made yesterday in the report of a Royal Commission which recently completed investigation into operations of the force.

Mr. Justice Lucien Cannon, the Chief Justice of the Superior Court at Quebec City, was the commissioner who conducted the investigation.

His report added that the Police Chief should be stationed in Quebec, "the seat of Government where the Attorney-General — the minister responsible for police administration— has his office, in order that the latter may exercise his authority immediately and directly."

Diivsion of the Provincial Police into two districts — Montreal and Quebec—offered serious inconveniences, the report said.

"The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, a model police force, is directed from Ottawa, where the Department of Justice is located, by a commissioner whose authority is not divided or sub-divided," the report said. "The Mounted Police is a closely knit body whose traditions are the main strength and also supply its inspiration though it operates in the whole of Canada and its nine provinces."

The Provincial Police should comprise "the judicial police, the constabulary and the highway police and should be placed under the control of one chief having the jurisdiction—not only in theory but in fact—throughout the province."

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, July 12

A CLEVER and considerate understanding of sudden and surprising openings for advancement, highly productive work of important scope and significance is foreseen for today. Properly handled this promising situation may be expected to rise to unforeseen heights of accomplishment with singular levels of good fortune and happiness. There may be peculiar and intriguing situations, together with some trivial annoyances or oppositions. Take time for thought, shun extravagance and impetuosity. There may be want of support from elders or superiors, who should be placated.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have the opportunity of reaching highly desirable objectives by their own cleverness and sagacity. This may be against the definite opposition or lack of support of elders, superiors or those in influential standing, possibly in connection with government affairs. It would be wise to placate these rather than to take a stand of antagonism. There may be other trifling annoyances to meet with good grace and friendly understanding. The forces and faculties may be found keyed to clever performance and tact.

A child born on this day should have excellent latent abilities and intuition for coping with peculiar or involved situations, probably in public affairs.

Punishment Of Bouchard Bobs Up Again

OTTAWA, July 11 —(CP)—J. G. Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member for Lake Centre constituency in Saskatchewan, said yesterday in the Commons that all members of parliament had a right to resist invasion of the prerogatives of parliament after he referred to Senator T. D. Bouchard, a Quebec member of the Upper House.

(Senator Bouchard recently spoke in the Senate of what he termed a separatist movement in Quebec. Later he was relieved of his post as head of the Quebec Hydro Electric Commission.)

Mr. Diefenbaker said he did not wish to offend the rules of the House, which forbid discussing debates in the Senate, but he believed all members must be aware of the need of continued freedom of speech for the people's representatives.

He discussed events during the reign of Henry VIII when the rights of Commoners of the freedom of speech were upheld, and said they had the right to express themselves without punishment outside parliament.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who so often spoke of the rights of parliament, had remained silent in the face of "a most serious threat" to parliament.

"When a man speaking in parliament is punished outside parliament. . . ." Mr. Diefenbaker was continuing when he was interrupted by Speaker J. A. Glen, who said he felt the member was dealing with a question not within the Commons.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he was dealing with the punishment of a member outside parliament, but he would bow to the ruling of the speaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker made his remarks during continued debate on the budget.

Soldiers Whip

in flied to Platt.

U.E.W. got those back in a hurry. Quigley walked. Platt flied to centre. Murduff doubled to right, Quigley going to third. Thrasher walked filling the bases. Griffin dropped a double into right scoring Quigley and Murduff. Girard tripled into left, sending Thrasher and Griffin home. Doughty lined in Anderson's hands and Isaac grounded to Anderson. Chambers' single to centre, two stolen bases and Thrasher's bad throw on Revoir's bunt enabled Soldiers to tie it up in the second.

In the third Herrick's double over third and Dunkeley's single to centre sent Herrick in with the run that put Training Centre in front. Junkin rolled to McPherson. Chambers singled to right, scoring Dunkerley but was out trying to stretch the hit into a double.

That made it 6 to 4 and Soldiers went further in front in the fourth when Herrick doubled after Anderson and McIlveen had singled to drive in two more runs.

In the sixth after Anderson had singled and the next two went out Procyk drove a long homer into left field along the foul line. McPherson walked Herrick and was then relieved by Isaac. Dunkerley singled to centre and when Griffin threw high to third Herrick scored. Junkin fanned to retire the side. That was the end of the scoring for neither team made a hit or a run in the last three innings.

Ralston Denies Riots Staged

OTTAWA, July 11 — (CP). — Defence Minister Ralston said in the Commons yesterday that only two men were involved in each of the two clashes between general service men and home defence draftees at Petawawa Military Camp recently.

Answering Gordon Graydon, the Progressive Conservative House Leader, Col. Ralston said that one clash had occurred about three months ago and the other about two weeks ago. In no case, he said, had it been necessary to use a fire hose to quell a disturbance as had been reported in newspapers.

He also said that the Chief of Police at Pembroke, near Petawawa had said there were no disturbances there recently.

(On Saturday both Lloyd Logan, editor of the Pembroke Standard Observer and Police Chief R. A. Carnegie of Pembroke spoke of the clashes and Editor Logan said that the only big one occurred on July 2. He said that on that date 300 men had clashed as a result of an argument on selective service, with a dozen soldiers suffering minor cuts and bruises before a fire hose broke up the melee.)

Hasty Pees Padre To Preach Service

MARMORA, July 11 — (ENS) — Hon. Capt. R. W. Lane, former chaplain of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment who took part in the landing in Sicily and later was attached to the Canadian Engineers is holidaying with his wife and family at Crowe Lake and will be the preacher at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sunday morning, July 16. The padre will be pleased to meet any relatives of local boys serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment overseas.

Ontario Delegates Tour Detroit Parks

WINDSOR, July 11 — (CP) — More than 100 delegates to the Ontario Parks Association convention toured Detroit Parks and Recreational Developments yesterday as guests of the Detroit Department of Parks and Recreation. The delegates were told of post-war plans to erect 16 community centres at a cost of $80,000 each.

The convention opened Saturday evening.

A meeting of the executive at the opening of the convention was attended by John Oakes, Niagara Falls, president; A. L. Moore, of Windsor, first vice-president; R. A. Allen, Welland, second vice-president; A. T. Whitaker, Brantford, secretary, and E. H. Foster, London, past president.

Government Beaten In House Of Lords

LONDON, July 11.—(CP-Reuter)—The government was defeated by one vote in the House of Lords today during debate on the education bill.

It was on the same bill that the government suffered its last defeat in the House of Commons.

At that time Prime Minister Churchill demanded that an amendment to the education bill be treated as a vote of confidence in the government. On the second vote the government was upheld by an overwhelming majority, although a number of members of parliament contended that Mr. Churchill was adopting the wrong attitude in considering an education bill vote defeat as want of confidence in the government's prosecution of the war.

Train Trouble

IRUN, Spain, July 11 — (AP).—The Germans have announced a second postponement of the arrival at this frontier of approximately 900 Allied war prisoners and civilian exchanges "because of transport difficulties in France." The Germans first said the group would arrive on July 7.

Strengthen Ties

LONDON, July 11 — (CP). — Confidence in complete victory over Germany and in the strengthening of ties between Soviet Russia, Britain and the United States was expressed by Mikhail Kalinin, chairman of the U.S.S.R. Presidium and President Roosevelt in an exchange of July 4 messages, the Moscow radio said last night.

CONCEAL THE FACTS

GIVING YOUR partner information by means of your leads, plays and discards is vital to good defense most of the time. Very fine defense, however, includes recognition of the times when it is more important to conceal facts from the declarer than to give them to your partner.

North: ♠ A 9 4 2 ♥ 3 2 ♦ A 9 5 4 ♣ 10 4 3

West: ♠ 7 ♥ J 8 6 5 ♦ 10 3 2 ♣ A K Q 6 2

East: ♠ Q 6 3 ♥ K Q 10 9 7 ♦ 8 7 6 ♣ J 9

South: ♠ K J 10 8 5 ♥ A 4 ♦ K Q J ♣ 8 7 5

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♠	3 ♥

West scored the first three tricks in clubs—the K, Q and A—and then led his heart 5. The declarer saw the possibility of two more losers, one in hearts and one in spades if he failed to catch the Q.

The heart loser could be discarded on a diamond, but not until after the trumps were out of the way. With only four trumps out against him, he decided to try to catch the Q by playing the A first and the K next.

After winning the fourth trick with the heart A, he led the spade J to induce West to cover if he had the Q. When the latter played the 7, he came up with the dummy's A and then led the spade 9 from dummy, to tempt a cover from East. The latter did not fall for this, but he did something just as bad.

East had heard about the "three trump echo." He knew that, if you had three trumps and played the middle one first, then a lower one, your partner would know you had a trump higher than the first one. So he had put the 6 on the first spade trick and the 3 on the next. South, seeing that, reckoned that East was signaling he had a third trump, which of course was the Q. So he finessed the 9, which won, then dropped the Q with the K. After that it was easy to take three diamonds, go to dummy with a trump and discard his losing heart on the diamond A. If East played the spade 3 first and the 6 next, South would have used the K, setting up the Q to beat the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A Q 8 7 3 2 ♥ 8 6 5 4 2 ♦ Q 9 ♣ None

West: ♠ 9 6 5 4 ♥ K 3 ♦ 8 5 3 2 ♣ A K 7

East: ♠ K J 10 ♥ A Q 9 7 ♦ 10 ♣ Q 9 5 4 3

South: ♠ None ♥ J 10 ♦ A K J 7 6 4 ♣ J 10 8 6 2

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If South gets into the wild contract of 3-No Trumps on this deal and the defenders take the first three tricks in clubs, what should South play on each of these tricks? Why?

Gen. Eisenhower Warns Fight Will Be Long

By MERRILL MUELLER
NBC Reporter,
Distributed by The Canadian Press

GEN. EISENHOWER'S HEADQUARTERS, July 11 — (CP) — The Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Forces to-day warned against the growing optimism prevalent throughout the world and predicted long and bitter fighting before the final victory in Europe.

Enumerating the long list of Allied successes in Russia, Africa, Italy and France since he first came to Europe at the fall of Tobruk two years ago, General Eisenhower said the trend toward over-optimism was understanable. But he emphasized it was the duty of people in responsible (positions to state the facts.

Over-optimism doesn't take into consideration one main point—that we are now in a position to hit the Germans where it hurts and the Germans will fight back harder than ever.

Thus General Eisenhower made it clear that while the possibility of a crack in German morale was not excluded, he believed Gestapo control was so complete over Germany that internal collapse was a false hope. We must be prepared now in all operations—home front and fighting front—for bitter fighting right around the German perimeter. There will be fighting of the most strenuous character with heavy losses.

The continuation of the American push on the Western flank is all part of the great plan, but there is nothing spectacular in it at the moment. It is low, painful slugging.

General Eisenhower was greatly pleased with the Russian victory at Wilno. He said that 25 German divisions northeast of Wilno are badly compromised by its capture.

Scientists Work

The supreme commander discussed sympathetically the trials that London and Southern England are going through under flying bomb attacks. He said no military man is taking lightly these experiences.

We have been successful in keeping some of its seriousness down and the great group of Allied scientists studying it all the time may evolve something even more effective. This new weapon is only effective in hitting large areas and in the near future there doesn't seem any indication that it will be any more efficient than it is now.

The general said the flying bomb was a damnable thing and he didn't like it. It gives the Germans a cheap air force just as wild in its attacks as the original Luftwaffe.

General Eisenhower said Allied air operations were beyond praise for endurance, skill and enthusiasm, but but weather prevented coordination of the huge air power with tactical ground fighting and thus saved the enemy.

The weather was so bad the general said with a grin that even the British admit is was unusual.

A Ground Skimmer

LONDON, July 11.—(CP). — R.A.F. Fighter Pilot FO. W. A. Doyle of Winnipeg landed at his Normandy air field yesterday with visible evidence that he had gone in at hedge-clipping altitude to shoot up a German motor transport column. The ground crew found ears of corn imbedded in the radiator of his Spitfire, while twigs were hanging from his cannon barrels.

Ralston Will Windup Debate

OTTAWA, July 11—(CP)—Highlight of the possible windup of the budget debate to-day may be the speech expected to be delivered by Defence Minister Ralston, who is scheduled to reply to critics of the government's manpower policy which is aimed at maintaining a volunteer army overseas and draftee army at home.

It was reliably learned that Col. Ralston will argue there is no necessity of involving conscription to send drafted men overseas. It is understood he will argue there was an increase in the number of volunteers for the active army last month, that casualties have been lighter than estimates, and that there is still a necessiy for keeping a substantial home army on duty on Canada's coasts, Newfoundland, the West Indies and perhaps the Aleutians, and that a great many of the home draftees have been given summer leave to help on the farms.

Hope was expressed here during the week-end that the budget debate would end to-day or to-morrow.

Foulkes' Career Steady Climb Up Army Ladder

By The Canadian Press

Maj.-Gen. Foulkes always "had a hankering" to be an army man—even before the time he came to the Dominion from his native England as a lad. Now at 41 he has realized his ambition and is one of Canada's front line generals.

Charles Foulkes was educated in Canada at Central Collegiate, London, Ont., and graduated in arts from the University of Western Ontario. But the urge for a military career soon asserted itself and he was commissioned a lieutenant in the Canadian Machine Gun Corps in 1923.

That was the start in a steady climb up the military ladder that was speeded by war. One of the army's outstanding staff officers, Gen. Foulkes now commands a Canadian division overseas, an appointment announced last January.

Gen. Foulkes applies himself diligently to his work and is of a serious turn of mind. But he tempers this with a happy chuckle that breaks out frequently and is one factor that makes him popular with all ranks.

Short and wiry, Gen. Foulkes was born at Stockton-on-Tees, Durham, in 1903 and came to Canada as a youngster, settling with his family in London.

After three years with the Canadian Machine Gun Corps during which he had been promoted to captain, Foulkes reverted to the rank of lieutenant in 1926 when he transferred to the Royal Canadian Regiment as a permanent force officer. After regimental duty and promotion to captain in 1935 he served as staff officer at M.D. 2 (Toronto) and M.D. 3 (Kingston).

A Big Achievement

The year 1937 was one of the highlights of Gen. Foulkes' military career. He was successful in entrance examinations for the Imperial Staff College at Camberley, England —a major achievement since only two vacancies a year are open to Canadians.

At the outbreak of the war he was staff officer at M.D. 1 (London). He was appointed brigade major to a Canadian Infantry Brigade and went overseas. Late in 1940 he returned to Canada, becoming general staff officer of a Canadian infantry division.

After a stay in Canada when he assisted in training the division with which he returned overseas in 1941, he was made brigadier of an infantry brigade in August 1942. He commanded the brigade in the 1st Division for eight months and then was appointed brigadier, general staff, 1st Canadian Army in April 1943.

His promotion to the acting-rank of major-general followed in January 1944 and he was simultaneously given command of the Canadian division he now heads.

Gen. Foulkes was appointed a Commander of the Order of the British Empire in the last New Year's Honors List. His wife and family reside in Victoria.

300 GM Workers Out On Strike

OSHAWA, July 11—(CP)—More than 300 material handlers in the north plant of the General Motors Company of Canada Ltd. walked out at the start of their shift to-day threatening to halt production on military vehicles, tank hulls and other critical war material.

W. A. Wecker general manager of the plant said the strike was in protest against a National War Labor Board decision refusing an appeal of Local 222 United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) last Thursday.

"The strike is a complete violation of the U.A.W.-C.I.O. contract as well as the U.A.W.-C.I.O. no strike pledge," Mr. Wecker said. "In the existing agreement the union undertakes not to permit its members to cause any strike or stoppage. There is an elaboate procedure for settlement of complaints without resorting to strike action including the right to apeal to the government."

The Union had appealed a decision by the Ontario War Labor Board refusing material handlers an increase from 77 to 82 cents an hour key men from 82 cents to 88 cents and group leaders from 87 to 92 cents.

T. D. Delamere company counsel saiad the National War Labor Board hearing that the company had no objection to establishment of a range of rates but was opposed to a flat direction to pay top rate.

Make This Vacation Pay Health Dividends

If ever there was a time when many people needed to make the most of their vacations, it is this year of hard work and worry and anxiety.

Shortage of gasoline and rubber may be a real blessing to you in the way of health.

Instead of a mad rush from place to place, leaving you tired out on your return, you are likely to be more anchored in one place where you can relax and enjoy a real rest.

What an opportunity this affords you to rebuild your wasted energy and fit yourself for the enjoyment of real health and vitality.

And what a favourable time to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food so as to supply to the system the essential minerals and vitamin B_1 which are so lacking in the diets of many people.

Possibly your worries and cares have got you down so that you cannot rest and sleep as you should. There may be headaches and digestive troubles and almost certainly tired feelings and lack of energy and ambition.

Why not make this vacation pay you real dividends in health. For health after all, is the greatest wealth and should be cherished in these days when nearly everything else may be taken from us.

It is becoming common practice, now, to buy the new, large economy size Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and keep it on the dining table with the salt and pepper shakers so that none of the adult members of the family, who require this tonic treatment for the blood and nerves, may miss a single aftermeal dose.

Why not try out this plan this summer and make it a worthwhile vacation for all the family.

10 Million Pounds Lard Sent To Russia

OTTAWA, July 10.—(CP).—Shipments of nearly 10,000.000 pounds of Canadian lard have been made to Russia, relieving a surplus situation which had developed in the Dominion it was learned to-day.

The supplies are being forwarded under mutual aid arrangements, it was understood.

Officials said that early this year the accumulation of lard supplies—a reflection of the heavy marketing of livestock — had listed a major problem.

On March 1, 1943, total lard holdings were 2,200.000 pounds. On Jan 1 this had increased to 5500,000 pounds, and then the total rose to 9,800,000 pounds on Feb. 1 and 15,800,000 on March 1.

Authorities sought export outlets for lard supplies but by Apirl 1 the total was reported at more than 19,000,000 pounds.

Since then exports to Russia and limited shipments elsewhere has reduced the total "substantially," officials said.

They said that details of export shipments could not be given immediately for security reasons.

The accumulation of a lard surplus caused anxiety because the storage space was urgently required for other purposes and there was fear a decline in lard values might result in a weakening of hog prices.

Apsley Welcomes Home Pte. Elwood Young

APSLEY, July 11 — (ENS). — The citizens of Apsley and surrounding district met in the Town Hall grounds on Saturday evening to welcome home and honor the first wounded hero, Pte. Elwood Young. On the platform with Pte. Young were Reeve N. V. Lean, and Councillors W. Staples, N. Wilson, M. Tucker, and the township clerk Rev. C. A. G. Spence.

Acting as spokesman for the gathering Mr. Spence expressed the pleasure of the people in welcoming home one of the native sons who had played such a gallant part while fighting in the King's Forces, and that the occasion of his homecoming should not pass without the expression of feeling. Reeve Lean then presented a pen and pencil set.

Mr. Spence recalled when he with many others assembled here had welcomed home heroes from World War I. and also recalled the hope expressed then that the rising generation should never know the meaning of war. The singing of the Doxology and "God Save the King" brought the meeting to a close. Some of the gounger people enjoyed dancing following this in the Parish Hall to music furnished by Halliday's Orchestra.

REDS IN GERMANY WITHIN A WEEK

5th 8 Miles From Leghorn City

8th Army Guns Shell Ancona On Adriatic Side

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ROME, July 12 — (AP). — Elements of the Allied 5th Army now stand within eight airline miles of the vital Italian port of Livorno (Leghorn), while British 8th Army forces in the upper Tiber Valley have occupied Meone Morra and Mucignano and cleared the enemy from 3,000-foot-high Mount Civitella, it was announced to-day.

Indian troops were credited with the capture of Mucignano.

American light armored forces of the 5th Army pushed forward two miles along the Italian west coast yesterday in the face of bitter German resistance and captured the town of Castiglioncello within eight miles airline of Livorno.

Some eight miles inland, however, American infantry ran into stiff oposition while advancing from Casale, toward Pastina, where the Germans showed the utmost determination to delay their progress.

American troops further east also encountered tough going north-east of Lajatico, where the Nazis counter-attacked fiercely, but they repelled the thrust and Lajatico itself was brought under attack. Late front dispatches said the Nazis stil were holding out within the town.

Allied tanks crossed the Nestore river, upper tributary of the Tiber, and advanced some distance beyond the river. Further east in the Pietralunga area, a German counterattack caused a slight loss of ground by the Allies.

Italians Advance.

Meanwhile on the Adriatic coast Italian troops were credited with a slight advance in the vicinity of the Musone river and the city of Ancona was brought under artillery fire by the Allies, who now are only eight miles away.

In falling back north of the Musone river the Germans gave up the villages of Pettovaliane, Troviggiano and Avendale.

Headquarters disclosed that Bersaglieri motorcycle patrols of the Italian corps of liberation have been leaing the Allied advance at some places in the Adriatic sector and said Polish troops also have been active in this region.

In recent fighting, it was estimated, the Poles have captured 1,700 Germans killed 1300 and wounded 3,900 in addition to capturing 81 [illegible].

Allied airmen flew more than 800 sorties yesterday during which they carried out a heavy-bomber attack on the French harbor of Toulon. Enemy communications behind the Italian battlefront also were attacked and fighters carried out offensive sweeps over Yugoslavia and Albania. Four planes were reported missing.

Plane Crashes Into Workers' Trailer Camp 16 Killed, 5 Critically Injured From Burns

SOUTH PORTLAND, Me., July 12—(AP)—The toll of dead in the crash of a light U.S. Army plane into a 100-unit war workers' trailer camp here reached 16 today and five critically injured persons continued on the Maine General Hospital danger list.

Mrs. Florence Gorham, 34, whose husband Gordon, 42, was among the dead listed earlier, died at the Maine General Hospital. She suffered severe burns.

Besides the dead and 23 injured admitted to hospitals, an undetermined number of trailer occupants suffered injuries and were given treatment at the scene after the plane ploughed into the camp late yesterday while trying to make a landing at the nearby Portland municipal airport.

Eight of the dead, three of them children, remained unidentified and authorities relied on fingerprints as the only source of identification, they were so badly burned.

Johnson's Fighter Wing Sets Record Of 47 Planes

By ALAN RANDAL, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 12.—(CP Cable).—Competition among all-Canadian fighter wings operating from Normandy in support of the Allied invasion reached such a pitch by today that pilots are plaguing operations officers to have one more show "laid on" so they can top the score of German planes downed by rival wings.

A summary of the operations of one Normandy-based fighter wing during four weeks of the invasion period shows that 170 Nazi aircraft have been shot out of the skies. This summary covers the period up to Monday since when poor weather in the bridgehead area has reduced tactical flights to a minimum.

Since D-Day Wing Cmdr. J. E. (Johnny) Johnson, who holds the D.S.O. with two Bars, the D.F.C. and Bar and the American D.F.C., has skyrocketed to new fame as Britain's leading ace with a score of 35 German aircraft downed. Johnson, a native of Nottingham, England, now heads a Canadian fighter wing.

He downed his 35th enemy victim June 30 to top the record of 33 set up by Group Capt. A. G. (Sailor) Malan, from South Africa, who now is on ground duty. At the same time Johnson's wing went on to win a bet made with the late Wing Cmdr. Lloyd C. Chadburn of Aurora, Ont., holder of the D.S.O. and Bar and the D.F.C., six weeks before D-Day.

The two Wing Comanders wagered their respective Wings would outscore the other during the month ater the invasion was launched. After Chadburn lost his life over France in the early days of the invasion, the wager was taken over by Sqdn. Ldr. Walter Conrad, D. F. C., of Richmond, Ont., of the Red Indian Squadron.

47 to 40

Until Johnson's Wing scored seven victories in one operation July 5 Chadburn's Wing now led by Wing Cmdr. R. A. Buckham, D. F. C., of Vancouver, was only two behind. The latest available accounting showed Johnsons' Wing is in the lead 47 to 40.

Meanwhile, however, another Canadian-led Wing under Wing Cmdr. George Keefer of Charlottetown, although not included in the wager, is just as interested in finishing at the top and in the last reckoning was tied with Johnson's wing with 47 enemy planes destroyed.

Furthermore, Keefer's pilots claimed 23 enemy aircraft damaged against 11 by Johnson's wing.

Flt. Lt. Charlie Trainor, Charlottetown, who until June 28 was scoreless, entered the Ace class by being credited with 7½ victories in the subsequent seven days.

Other Canadian airmen who have achieved notable scores during the first month since D-day, with their total kills for that period are Flt.-

Burma Action Gaining Ground

KANDY, Ceylon, July 12—(CP)—The campaign to root the Japanese from Monsoon - drenched North Burma and drive a land supply route to China reached another minor milestone yesterday with the juncture of the Chinese 22nd and 38th Divisions about seven miles west of Mogaung.

This freed the jungle-girt mountain area between Kamaing and Mogaung of all but isolated bands of stragglers. Headquarters said the road was cleared completely of organized resistance and that the Chinese had made local attacks at the beleaguered base of Myitkyina, last of three North Burma bastions still partly in Japanese hands.

Total Japanese dead in North Burma stand at more than 16,000, of which more than 10,000 were killed in May, June and July.

Clear Valley

The Japanese have been cleared from the Mogaung and Fort Hertz valleys and south of a line running from Mogaung to Myitkyina except for stubborn remnants of the Myitkyina garrison. These still are clinging to deep dug perimeter defences but their elimination is merely a matter of time.

Considerable air activity was reported despite the Monsoon. Americans bombed an airfield at Lashio, terminal of the Burma Road.

Meanwhile a strong Japanese force near Chepu, southwest of captured Ukhrul, has been routed after a two-day battle, the Southeast Asia command announced, and the position of enemy forces remaining in India was declared becoming rapidly worse.

Escape routes south and southeast of Ukhrul were blocked at many points. Following on the heels of two beaten Japanese divisions, British troops have pushed to Ongshim, nine miles to the southeast, in an advance after the final dispersal of enemy units threatening Kohima and the Imphal Plain.

In northern Burma organized enemy resistance has been cleared from the Kamagin-Mogaung road through juncture of columns moving in opposite directions along the road.

This success meant that approximately 300 miles of the new Ledo supply road to China has been cleared of enemy forces.

2,000 Planes Hit Reich On Two Sides

Munich Railyards Battered; France Hit Also

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 12—(AP)—Nearly 2,000 American planes battered the great South German city of Munich again today while another force from Italy struck once more into the south of France, bombing four rail targets.

More than 1,200 of the planes assaulting Munich on this second successive day were heavy bombers; the rest were long range fighters.

Up to 750 fighters convoyed the bombers to Germany's fourth largest city, a railway bottleneck for traffic into Italy and France.

Mosquitos Out

The German communique said the assault of 1,100 heavy bombers on the Munich region yesterday was a "terror attack."

The city cradles numberous German war industries. These attacks came after night raids by R.A.F. Mosquitos.

American medium and light bombers attacked three important fuel dumps behind German lines in Normandy today.

Two forces of Marauder medium bombers hit a fuel dump 10 miles south of Caen in the Cinelais Forest. Troop concentrations there also were attacked. Two other groups followed up with a 45-minute assault on a dump in the Ecouvres Forest 35 miles south of Caen. Light bombers went after a cache of gasoline and oil in Andaine Forest eight miles east of the front.

All the dumps contained fuel of Marshal Erwin Rommel's seven tank divisions massed against the British and Canadian forces.

A German convoy approaching besieged St. Lo on the American end of the French front was strafed, as were machine-gun positions nearby.

On the eastern and western Normandy fronts yesterday Allied fighter-bombers and rocket planes destroyed 28 German tanks and damaged 16 more. This is equal to about one-fifth of the tank strength of a German armored division.

The coup against the enemy armor was executed despite bad weather which kept support sorties down to a low total of 1,700. The weather continued bad last night and operations for the third night running were confined to simultaneous attacks by R.A.F. Mosquitoes behind the German battlelines and in the Reich itself. The Mosquitos attacked industrial targets in the Ruhr Valley without loss.

The Main Thing

BRIGHTON, July 12. — (CP).—Vicar of St. John's Hove's Church, Rev. H. F. Tomkinson, claims that many bridal couples think of everything, flowers, cars, reception, guests, awning, printing — but forget one thing—to look at and study the marriage service. He now proposes to instruct his parishioners in the real meaning of the service in two Sunday evening services.

Power Welcomes De Gaulle At Quebec City

QUEBEC, July 12 —(CP)— Gen. Charles de Gaulle, president of the French Committee of National Liberation, arrived at Ancienne Lorette airport today from Ottawa for a three-hour visit to the provincial capital.

A light rain was falling and heavy clouds made visibility poor and the plane circled the airport for a half-hour before landing.

A large crowd was waiting at the airport and cheers broke out when the band of the Royal 22nd Regiment played the French National Anthem. When Gen. de Gaulle stepped from the plane, he came to attention, saluted and then shook hands with Air Minister Power, representing the Dominion Government.

Hon. Wilfrid Hamel, Quebec Minister of Lands and Forests, represented the Province of Quebec and Maj.-Gen. T. L. Tremblay, Inspector General of the Canadian Army for Eastern Canada and Wing Comdr. C. J. H. Holmes, office commanding No. 8 Air Observers School here, also were present.

Maj. Gabriel Bonneau, French delegate to Canada, introduced the general to the officials present after which he inspected a 100-man guard of honor composed of men from the Advanced Infantry Training Centre at nearby Valcartier.

Inspects Guard.

At the flag-covered city hall, near the Louis Hebert monument erected to the first French farmer to come to Canada, General De Gaulle was welcomed by Mayor Borne and signed the Golden Book. Later he inspected a guard of honor of men of the Canadian Legion and Army and Navy Veterans' Associations.

The General thanked the citizens of Quebec for their welcome. He said he would return to France with the message that Frenchmen had their best friends "on this side of the Atlantic."

From the city hall, the party proceeded to the citadel where the General visited the King's bastion and then left for Spencerwood to meet Sir Eugene Fiset, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province.

20-Mile Gain Ripped Out By Red Armor

4,000 Huns Killed As Russians Speed Toward Baltic

MOSCOW, July 12 —(AP)—The Red Army, knocking large new holes in the already-sagging German lines, surged westward today from a point less than 49 miles east of the east Prussian border at a pace which, if continued, would carry the fighting to German soil by the end of the week. Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's cavalry and tanks drove the spearhead toward east Prussia in a 20-mile advance where the spit of the province known as the Swalki triangle sticks out north of Grodno. General advances along the 350-mile front between Latvia and the Pripet marshes swept through more than 400 places yesterday, killing at least 4.000 German soldiers and bringing about the capture of hundreds more.

The new forward sweeps placed the Red Army actually within striking distances of Kaunas, 45 miles away; Grodno, 56; Bialystok, 51; and Daugavpils, less than 18. Military observers in Moscow saw a direct threat to Bialystok and Grodno in the strong central blow. Pinsk, at the edge of the Pripyat marshes to the south, already was lost tactically to the Nazis, although resistance continued there.

(As the Russians sped onward, the German radio commentator Kurt Dittmar last night gravely warned the German people that "the supreme test" now has come, since "the distance between us and the battlefield has almost vanished."

(The Office of War Information quoted the Stockholm newspaper Afton Tidningen as reporting the "highest state of alarm" in East Prussia.

(Afton Tidningen said the Germans had closed the frontiers and mined all approaches, adding "the people fear Russian parachutists will land before the actual attack on East Prussia."

Fear Workers

(The article declared further 300,000 foreign workers in East Prussian factories have been shifted to the interior of Germany because of fears they might "attack the German troops in the back.")

Bright, hot and clear weather gave the Russian Stormoviks, Boston bombers and the new Soviet medium bombers a chance to get out in tremendous numbers against the retreating German columns. An observer just back from the front said the Stormoviks have been chopping German communications to shreds.

Red Army troops streaming toward Kaunas astride the railway west of Wino engulfed more than 100 communities, including Woronow.

The nearest approach to the East Prussian border came in the Lida area to the south.

The westward advance toward Gordno and Bialystok, both prize junctions on the Warsaw railway, continued on a wide front ranging from Lida, northeast of Grodno, to points southwest of Baranowicze.

Sues For $35,000

SARNIA, July 12.—(CP).—Mrs. Bell Macdonald of Montreal has filed a claim for $35,000 against the city of Sarnia for the death of her husband here last September, it was announced at a Council meeting last night. Jeremiah Macdonald died in hospital Sept. 23 after spending a night in a cell at the police station. Dr. W. G. Gray said Macdonald died from a middle meningeal hemorrhage following a fractured skull. Mrs. Macdonald claims police were negligent.

Bad Weather Affects Orange Parades

(By The Canadian Press)

Wartime conditions with the aid of inclement weather which was fairly widespread today interfered somewhat with Ontario Orange celebrations in connection with the 254th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne but scattered gatherings throughout the province were fairly well attended.

Major celebration, in the eastern part of the province, and Brampton, 15 miles northwest of Toronto, were addressed by officials of the Grand Lodge of British America, while T. L. Church, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Toronto Broadview, was the scheduled speaker at a meeting in Toronto's High Park.

T. Ashmore Kidd, Grand Master for British America, was to speak at Kemptville's afternoon celebration which drew most of Eastern Ontario's Orangemen. Loftus H. Reid, grand secretary of British America, was to address Brampton's gathering.

At Goodwood, north of Stouffville, R. Hardy Small, Grand Treasurer of the main lodge, was to speak along with W. G. Armstrong, editor of the Sentinel.

Toronto's park meeting was preceded by a "walk" from Queen's Park with City and York County Orangemen participating. One women's lodge took part in the four-mile parade.

In Northern Ontario, Algoma Orangemen gathered at Rydal Bank, 35 miles southeast of Sault Ste. Marie, while celebrants in the North Bay-Powassan region gathered at the latter place for a scheduled sports and speech program.

An afternoon parade was scheduled for Sudbury with a subsequent meeting in Bell Park, followed by a dance to-night in Alder Street Hall. In the Kingston district, the only observation was at Centreville, 20 miles north of Kingston. Brockville Orangemen attended the Kemptville gathering.

Kitchener lodge members reported they were confining their celebrations to atttendance at a meeting in Brantford next Saturday.

At Welland regular Orange day parades this year were postponed to Saturday, July 15, because of war conditions. A big local Orange day parade will be held in Brantford, July 15, with Past Grand Master L. H. Saunders as one of the speakers.

144 Panzers Destroyed In Normandy

British, Canadians Pushed Back In Centre Of Line

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 12 — (CP). — American troops smashed back heavy German counterblows at the centre of the lines, and drove forward on both wings of the 48-mile front to-day, as terrific German counter-attacks to the east pushed back the British-Canadian lines between the Odon and Orne Rivers. The village of Louvigny, 2½ miles south-west of Caen was lost, Headquarters said.

Yanks Drive On

The Americans slugged to within two miles of the western anchor town of Lessay, and even closer to St. Lo. The fierce repulse of the German armor in the centre cost the Germans 20 more tanks, raising to 144 the total destroyed in Normandy in the last few days.

German armored resistance has been especially strong in the Caen sector, but the British forces held solidly to their line in the trans-Odon River salient, and to "Crucifix Hill" north-east of Esquay despite the most violent efforts of Rommels 11 divisions to retake it. A whole German regiment of up to 3,000 men was liquidated, and hundreds were captured.

Get No Rest.

Headquarters said that German armor still is strong and is fighting back vigorously, most notably in the Evrecy-Caen area, but is is being steadily worn down and given no rest.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, said in a front dispatch that south-west of Caen the Canadians still are in the line alongside British troops, but the Tommies have borne the burden of the recent heavy fighting.

In violent fighting, Americans closed on St. Lo—the Germans central bastion in Normandy—from two directions, and the Nazis counter-attacked to cover a withdrawal to the west.

20 Burned Up

Throwing their heaviest assault toward Le Desert, six miles northwest of St. Lo, German tanks and troops charged head-on into U.S. lines, and more than 20 enemy tanks went up in flames before the Nazis retreated. Le Desert, west of St. Jean de Daye, was left in a no man's land with the doughboys a couple of hundred yards from that village.

The west wing of the American attack advanced nearly a mile, seizing the villages of Angovile Sur Ay and La Bourdonnerie, and carrying to within two miles of the hinge town of Lessay.

On the inland side of their front, Gen. Bradley's men opened another attack at dawn against the road junction of St. Lo, digging out entrenched Germans with bayonets. They struck from points two miles north and four northeast of St. Lo, and cut the road from St. Lo northeast to Bayeux in the push closing in from the east side of town.

NAZIS EFFORT

Jap Holdings Pounded Daily

PEARL HARBOR, July 12—(AP)—Japanese holdings along more than 4,000 miles from the Kuriles to Ceram were listed in latest advices today as targets of the Allied air arm.

[illegible] the sea, American warships shelled Guam Sunday for the second straight day. (Tokyo radio said that between July 1 and 10 Guam has been raided by 770 planes which caused "some damage.")

Aground, marines and soldiers mopped up enemy pockets on Saipan. The air blows drew the Japanse air force into battle in only one instance, over repeatedly-attacked Yap in the Western Carolines where Liberators operating from the Southwest Pacific shot down five or more than 20 interceptors as well as destroying an undetermined number of parked planes Monday.

Yap was one of several Carolines bases hit. Other blows were dealt Truk, Woleai and Palau.

In the Kuriles, navy search planes had to contend only with light anti-aircraft fire in hitting Paramushiro and Shumushu.

In the Northern Marianas, Pagan Island was attacked by "shore-based fighters," the phraseology of Admiral Nimitz' Tuesday communique making it obvious that the planes flew from the new Isley airfield on the south end of Saipan. The fighters encountered intense ack-ack

U.S. Raids On Oil Targets Reducing German Mobility

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 12 — (AP) — American air attacks on 64 German oil installations have curtailed the enemy's petroleum production to a point where the shortage is having an important effect on the mobility of Nazi ground forces, a senior U. S. Air Force officer declared today.

The objective of thwarting German mobility has been "achieved," this officer said.

He said the German Air Force, the other chief objective of United States air attacks in recent months, was decreasing in strength in France. He said the Nazi force had lost more planes than the Germans could produce every month since January.

The exact German air strength in Germany itself is not known definitely, but the current oposition over the Reich is not comparable to the interception strength as recently as January.

The strategic United States Air Forces being hurled against the Germans are the 8th in Britain the 15th in Italy and the Eastern Command in Russia. Losses of these forces droped to 1.4 per cent. of the sorties flown in June from the previous peak average of five per cent.

In six months, the U. S. strategic Air Forces have hit 51 oil refineries, 13 synthetic plants and 89 aircraft factories in attacks from Britain and Italy, and recently from Russia.

The forces have destroyed 6,109 German planes in the air and 1,546 on the ground since January. This German loss of 7,655 planes compares to American losses of 3,425. Of these 2,339 were four-engined bombers and 1,086 were fighters.

The senior officer disclosed that recent industrial targets included plants working on jet-engine propulsion, used in the robots bombarding London.

He said Britain, the United States and Russia were in agreement on priorities regarding the different types of targets and added:

"There will be additional attacks on the German fighter plane industry whenever needed."

He said the big two-way drive against German aircraft factories was so effective that the Nazis could not recover from it, and "made possible the invasion without German Air Force opposition."

Eden Announces Agreement For Repatriating Nationals

LONDON, July 12.—(CP-Reuter).—Foreign Secretary Eden announced in the House of Commons today an agreement between the British government and Dominions and government of India and the German government whereby all British commonwealtth civilians detained in Germany or German-occupied territories and all German civilians detained in the British commonwealth and mandated territories or any territories occupied by British troops will be repatriated.

Mr. Eden, who said the Swiss government acted as the intermediary, added "from this agreement are excepted on both sides any person who does not wish to be repatriated, any person whose repatriation is considered dangerous to the security of the detaining power, and any person serving sentence in prison for breach of the common law."

The agreement did not apply to merchant seamen, who are regarded as prisoners of war, he said.

Series of Exchanges.

The agreement is to be carried out, he said, by a series of exchanges and in each exchange the principle of numerical equality will be observed as far as possible.

It is also provided under the agreement that each side should take into account as far as possible the wishes of the other side as to the order of priority of the repatriation of individuals and groups.

Since most of the German civilians who are eligible under this agreement are in overseas territories they will have to be brought from distant points to a port of exchange, Mr. Eden pointed out.

He said it was not possible to make available more than one ship and the Swedish motor vessel Drottingholm had been specially chartered for this purpose.

The Drottningholm, carrying 900 German civilians formerly detained in South Africa and who are to be exchanged for British civilians in the German-occupied territories, reached Lisbon yesterday in the first exchange.

Mr. Eden said special arrangements will be made in the case of Dominion nationals.

Trade 900

In exchange for the 900 Germans from South Africa, said Mr. Eden, the first British party from Germany, about 400 persons, will arrive at Lisbon within the next few days, and the remaining 500 will follow shortly afterwards in relays.

Mr. Eden said he hoped that

EDEN ANNOUNCES

Three-Way Pact Seems Likely

LONDON, July 12 — (CP) — The decision of the United States to recognize the right of the French committee of national liberation to handle civil administration in liberated areas of France coincides with British views and means a three-way agreement may be announced soon, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden indicated in the House of Commons today.

Mr. Eden said he had "good hopes" that the announcement of a formal agreement between the two governments and the French committee would be made shortly.

He announced that the British government had already endorsed the outcome of discussions which had taken place in London between government officials and representatives of Gen. De Gaulle, and added: "We have thought it desirable, however to make no statement of our position on these matters until after General De Gaulle's visit to Washington."

Mr. Eden said the British government "naturally welcomed" the U. S. government's decision, since the recent Anglo-French discussions in London "were conducted on the basis that the French committee would in fact exercise governmental authority in France as the country's liberation proceeds."

Peterboro Boys Among First To Enter Caen

Peterborough officers and men were among the first Canadian soldiers to enter the old Norman city of Caen in its final wresting from the Germans on Sunday, as related with vivid and grim detail by Ralph Allen in a copyright despatch published today by the Toronto Globe and Mail.

Local men interviewed by the Globe's war correspondent in the Caen sector are Major Neil Gemmell, Major Jack Peterson, press photographer and reporter with the Examiner when he enlisted with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, Corporal Herb Bowen and Lance-Corporal Marty Gahagan, and also Lieutenant John Dure of Brighton.

Mr. Allen comments that the clearing of the northwestern section of the strongly held German positions was relatively easy compared with the bloody battles of Saturday "in breaking through the hard crust of the approaches around Gruchy and Chateau St. Louis.

Two Hours For 100 Yards

"It took us two hours to make the last 100 yards into Gruchy," Major Gemmell told Mr. Allen in an account of the Saturday progress. "We left our starting point under our barrage at 7.30 Saturday morning and by five minutes to eight we were deep into the German positions, a short distance from our objectives. It took us hours to get there. German mortars were blanketing the whole area, raining down on us impartially. The edge the Jerries had was that they were in trenches and we were not. Even when we did, they threw our own grenades right back at us, until we started holding them two seconds with the pins out before throwing them."

Gemmell told his story in a hoarse whisper, Mr. Allen continued in his graphic report of that phase of the Caen battle so replete with personal interest to Peterborough.

"He had lost his voice halfway through the Grouchy battle when he worked his way back through mortar fire to call for tanks to come up and drive the Germans out of their trenches."

When supporting tanks arrived "the Jerries just ducked and let them roll over. Then they'd stick their heads up and go on shooting or throwing back our grenades. The tanks, of course, couldn't reach them at that close range. Over on the right around the Chateau they were dug into a complete ring of hedgehogs with the underground tunnels holes."

Few Germans Remainel

The Germans died almost to a man. The next morning (Sunday) Canadian soldiers found one alive and healthy beside a dead companion in a trench that had finally collapsed under the weight of a steady procession of tanks.

"It took us two hours to dig him out," Major Jack Peterson told Mr. Allen. "He had cupped his helmet over his face for breathing space and when we got to him the first thing he saw was L. Cpl. Marty Gahaghan looking down at him over a Lee-Enfield. The German shrugged and closed his eyes, expecting to be shot, as all these SS. prisoners expect to be. 'Why, you so-and-so,' he yelled, 'if I wanted to finish you, do you think I'd have spent half the morning getting my hands blistered.'"

At one phase of the battle Saturday Cpl. Herb Bowen, Peterborough, found himself the senior of a company. That was when the fighting was at its hardest.

Quoting Mr. Allen again, Lance Corporal Tiny Chisholm, Montreal, and Bowen "cooly and painstakingly used every trick they had ever learned about close-in fighting each took careful stock of the resources at his command, and led his own battered little band on to its own little part in the general victory."

Private Herbert Bowen is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowen, Grandview avenue, North Monaghan. He enlisted in a Central Ontario Regiment in 1940, is now twenty-three years old, and was employed with the Peterborough Lumber Company when he joined the Canadian Army.

An older brother, George Bowen, is in England, and another brother, Clarence, was drowned with Canadian commando troops while training for landing operations along the English Channel coast two years ago. Two brothers-in-law of these young soldiers are overseas, William J. Quinlan in France and Private F. L. Graham of Lindsay in England.

The Bowen family moved to Peterborough eighteen years ago from Cordova Mines, Belmont township, where the boys and girls of the family were born. They received their education at May's School in North Monaghan.

Mrs. Bowen informed the Examiner that she had received three letters from her son Herbert Tuesday afternoon. One of them, dated June 11, mentioned that he had "landed on the beach three days ago," presumably on the 7th or 8th of last month, the day after D-Day.

Flying Bombs Harass London

LONDON, July 12. — (CP). — A scattering of flying bombs banged into Southern England and the London area to-day as it was disclosed that some of the projectiles have been dropping silently in long glides that make them more difficult to escape.

After London had experienced its second successive raid-free night a few of the bombs buzzed over in the early daylight hours but this flurry was followed by another quiet spell. One of the bombs which smashed a house and killed an occupant this morning, came in in a long, slow glide. Witnesses described it as "almost like a feather." Ordinarily the robots roar over then drop in a steep dive as soon as the engine stops, but in this case the motive power apparently stopped some distance from the impact point.

It was announced officially that Australia House in the Strand, one of London's familiar buildings, was damaged by recent hits.

Southern England had no respite from the robots, which were reported to have caused additional casualties and damage there during the night.

Londoners, meanwhile, welcomed the news that the Government had re-opened four prohibited coastal areas in south-west England to assist in evacuation of civilians from sectors which had been targets of the flying bombs.

The newly opened areas include such popular seaside resorts as Weymouth, Torquay, and Bournemouth which have been closed to the public for the greater part of the war. With the peak of the holiday season approaching, crowds already were trying to book accommodations in those towns.

Clear Forest

The doughboys driving on St. Lo by-passed, then captured St. Andre de L'Epine. On the west coast south of La Haye du Puits, the Americans cleared the great forest, Mt. Castre, to the southeast.

Medium and light bombers intervened explosively in the ground fighting, striking the fuel supplies of Rommel's tanks and trucks behind the line. They also strafed German reserves moving up to St. Lo, and hit a bridge near Paris.

British 2nd Army troops knocked out about 80 tanks "during the last 72 hours" in fighting northwest of Caen and in the Orne-Odon corridor, Reuter War Correspondent Charles Lynch said in a dispatch last night.

Batter 35 Tanks

A British spokesman told Lynch 35 Nazi tanks were knocked out in the battle for Caen and from 35 to 40 Monday in fighting between the two rivers. In addition, six were knocked out Tuesday around Hottot and Tilly, 13 miles west of Caen, and two more in the fight for Hill 112 and the village of Eterville.

William Stewart, Canadian Press War Correspondent, said in a front dispatch last night that Hill 112 was in British hands although earlier in the day it had been held for a time by the Germans. He reported British forces astride the Evercy-Caen highway between Eterville and Hill 112.

Canadians were not involved in heavy fighting in this area, Stewart reported, saying the action was a local one not on a scale comparable to the assault in Caen in which the Canadians played a large part.

He said Canadian infantry, supported by Armor and artillery, have been engaged in patrolling and probing enemy defences along the Orne River.

American forces made a gain of three-quarters of a mile south of La Meauffe along the Vire River four miles north of St. Lo. It was south of St. Lo that American Thunderbolts caught a German Panzer column on the open road and destroyed or damaged 31 armored vehicles.

Planes Get 16

R. A. F. rocket-firing aircraft accounted for 16 others in heavy fighting around Hottot and Vimont. British troops forced their way forward for limited gains in the fighting around Hottot, south of Tilly Sur Seulles, and the Germans reacted violently.

Only limited gains were made by Lt.-Gen. Bradley's forces west of the Vire River and south of Carentan, but the threat in these two sectors forced the Germans to withdraw south of La Haye Du Puits toward Lessay.

Advanced American units were within three miles of Lessay on the outskirts of Angloville Sur Ay, is three miles south of La Haye Du Puits.

Bad weather again hamstrung the Allied Air Forces. The 1,700 sorties flown by the Tactical Air Forces almost all were from airfields in France.

St. Lo was the pivotal point in the American sector. Late dispatches from the front reported one of the heaviest tank battles of the war was being fought outside this communications centre.

The American drive on St. Lo had big possibilities. If the old hill city fell to Bradley's troops the Germans likely would have to back up some 15 miles southwestward from St. Lo and southward from the Lessay sector to Coutances, near the base of the Cherbourg Peninsula.

Graydon Voices Party's Stand

OTTAWA, July 12 — (CP). — Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, spoke briefly in the Commons yesterday on his party's position with regard to manpower. He quoted from the party's Winnipeg platform calling for compulsory national selective service with those selected to serve in the armed forces available for service anywhere.

"The policy adopted at Winnipeg is the policy of the Progressive Conservative Party an din accord with it I now call upon the Government to immediately pass the Order-in-Council making the Home Defence Army available for service anywhere and demand that the mobilization call-up be applied equally to that end that equality of service shall be achieved in all parts of Canada," he said.

Tribal Ships Were Near Scharnhorst

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, July 13—(CP)—Little Canadian warships danced in within reach of the Nazi battleship Scharnhorst's 11-inch guns during the preliminary sparring that led to the knockout of the naval heavyweight last winter, it was revealed here.

After the Scharnhorst had been brought to bay, and while the British battleship Duke of York was closing in for the kill, three of Canada's Tribal class destroyers—the Iroquois, Haida and Huron—were sent in against the 26,000-ton craft as she tried to escape the Royal Navy's trap off Northern Norway last Dec. 26.

They were recalled before they could get into position to launch their torpedoes, but they got up to within nine miles of the Scharnhorst—well within range of her heavy armament. None of the Canadian craft was hit.

Members of the Iroquois' crew told of her part in the battle during the vessel's latest visit to Canada.

"Every man of the ship's company was beaming at the prospect of action," said Cmdr. J. C. Hibbard of Victoria, "and there was great disappointment when we were called off."

The Canadian warcraft were on a convoy bound for Murmansk that served to draw out the Scharnhorst from her Norwegian refuge.

"We were bait for the Scharnhorst and we knew it," said Cmdr. Hibbard. "Before the battle developed, I told the engineer officer, 'the Scharnhorst is at sea, and she'll bloody soon find us.' Well, she did."

Went To Russia

"I don't think she knew what she was up against" he added.

As an odd sidelight on the battle, he reported that members of the Scharnhorst's crew were seasick. This unseamanlike condition apparently had been brought about by their prolonged stay in port as their vessel stayed clear of the stalking ships of the Royal Navy.

Up until the time of her arrival back in Canada the Iroquois had helped shepherd six convoys through to Murmansk, all without losing a ship. It was a far cry, Cmdr. Hibbard recalled, from the 1940 days when the route was almost suicidal and Allied losses on it were "tremendous."

After the Scharnhorst battle and at the end of her run, the Iroquois' Company celebrated Christmas belatedly Dec. 29 in a Russian port. They were given every comfort and even turkeys from Britain were awaiting them.

On her tour of duty the Iroquois had had her share of fighting—with aerial and underwater opponents. She made several attacks against submarines, though no confirmed kills were marked up for her. However, she had a bat of at least one German airplane.

On one tour of duty further south the Iroquois once picked up a large number of survivors of a merchant ship sunk by German Focke-Wulf planes.

Skipper of the Iroquois at the time was Cmdr. W. B. L. Holms of Victoria. The ship's officers included: Paymaster Lieut. Dave Gilbertson, Simcoe, Ont., Secretary; Lieut. Tom Seagram Waterloo, Ont., Anti-Submarine Officer.

VAL D'OR, Que., July 12 — (CP) — A heavy rain—expected to last all day—started to pour down at 3:30 a.m. today on the whole northern Quebec Gold Mining belt the fire rangers expected the downpour would be enough to squelch the fires—already reported subsiding—which have been burning through thousands of acres of bush and forests since last week.

T. B. Tremblay, Chief Fire Ranger in the area, said the rain would probably be sufficient to put out the fires entirely in some districts while elsewhere the arduous work of protecting communities and mining establishments from the ground hugging flames would have to be continued.

No colonist settlements or mining buildings were reported in any immediate danger here and Police Chief A. C. Reddington of Val D'Or said the situation was "well in hand" but that there was always the danger of a high wind 'stirring up a lot of trouble."

The men were better equipped now to meet an emergency than they were a week ago. Persons who had never known what a forest fire was like now had some training as firefighters and a sufficient number of trucks were available to evacuate any place where the danger might be imminent.

Drums of water were placed along the highways at all strategic spots and gasoline trucks were available to carry water to any spot it was needed.

The Russians said more than 2,600 Germans were killed on this front yesterday.

The Russians forced the Niemen river on a 19-mile stretch south of Lida, capturing the town of Byelitsa in a drive pointed directly toward Gordno.

Aiming at Bialystok, another group from Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 1st White Russian Army fought to a point 13 miles west of Slonin and captured Ozernitsa, 23 miles east of Wolkowysk, last major German stronghold before Bialystok itself.

3 Direction Attack

Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's 1st Baltic Army troops were curving in upon Daugavpils from the east, southeast, south and southwest in another of the encircling movements so common in Russian offensives. During the day 1,500 Germans were reported killed and an equal number captured in this sector.

Enemy resistance in by-passed Wilno had been reduced to isolated groups in the centre of the city and these were being methodically eliminated in close fighting in the narrow streets.

The last of the large forces of Germans cut off east of Minsk as the Russian steamroller swept forward have now been killed or captured, the communique said. The final day's bag of prisoners totalled more than 2,000, including General Volker, commander of the 27th German Army Corps.

(A compilation of the day-by-day totals announced by Moscow placed the number of German casualties in the area at approximately 55,000. Since the start of the present Russian offensive more than 110,000 Germans have been taken prisoner, it is estimated.)

Beta Sigma Phi Chapter Officers Are Installed

The first chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in Peterborough, Alpha Theta, was formally installed at an impressive candlelight ceremony on Tuesday evening at the Empress Hotel by Mrs. Melita O'Hara, official travel counsellor of the organization for Canada and the United States. The ceremony was attended by Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, international honorary member of Beta Sigma Phi since 1938 and Mrs. G. S. Cameron, social sponsor.

Assisting at the initiation was Mrs. Maurice Holt, former director of the Omicron chapter of Niagara Falls and incoming director of the new chapter in Peterborough. Mrs. G. S. Cameron was formally installed as social sponsor of the chapter, to act along with the director in an advisory capacity. Songs of Beta Sigma Phi were sung during the initiation by Miss Iris Whalon, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Wilfrid Preston. Mrs. Allister MacRae assisted in receiving the members with Mrs. James King.

The executive of the new chapter, introduced at the banquet which followed the initiation, is as follows: President, Mrs. Allister MacRae; vice-president, Mrs. James King; recording secretary, Miss Leona McMillan; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ben. Baker; treasurer, Miss Margaret Louden; program chairman, Mrs. Stewart Munro; co-program chairmen, Mrs. Lawrence Craig, Miss Eileen Schoales; program secretary, Mrs. Claire Sullivan; social chairman, Mrs. Wilfrid Preston; assistant chairmen, Misses Connie Nicholson, Iris Whalon and Betty McDonald; ways and means chairman, Miss Grace Lundy; assistant chairmen, Misses Frances Merrett and Marilyn Plunkett; publicity chairman, Miss Dorothy Lipsett; assistant, Miss Phyllis Turkington; historian, Miss Marilyn Munro; co-historian, Miss Shirley Pringle; scrapbook chairman, Mrs. Donald Duncan; co-chairman, Miss Betty Mantell; victory chairman, Miss Lorraine McCarroll; assistant chairmen, Misses Moira Whalon and Jean Cox; contact chairman, Miss Olive Morley; assistant chairmen, Misses Janet Kearns and Isabelle Taylor; parliamentarian, Miss Margaret Preston; assistant, Miss Norma Shaughnessy; courtesy chairman, Mrs. Paul LaRochelle; assistant chairmen, Misses Joan Rahmel and Madelyn McWilliams.

In a short address to the pledges, Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, international honorary member of the organization, spoke of the broad education to be gained from the course of study in Beta Sigma Phi, and said that it would be a great asset to the community. She felt that the pledges would receive much more han they gave to their sorority, since all had some special talent or interest, and would be encouraged and instructed along that line. In conclusion, she said, "I have always felt that one of the most tragedies of this war has been the taking of the talented young men away from their work. Young, able women will be needed to bridge this gap. I feel that this sorority can help you to find your place in the better Canada of tomorrow."

Mrs. G. S. Cameron, social sponsor, spoke briefly to the group and expressed her pleasure at being asked to sponsor the chapter. Mrs. Maurice Holt gave the address of welcome to the pledges, and Mrs. Allister MacRae replied. Mrs. Melita O'Hara gave the installation message, and brought greetings from international headquarters in Kansas City. The opening ritual was read by Mrs. Stewart Munro, and the closing ritual by Mrs. Allister MacRae. Mrs. Alene Holt led and accompanied the singing of winning song for 1944 in a contest sponsored by the international sorority, "Song of Victory." She also accompanied for the singing of the national anthems of Canada and the United States, which closed the evening. Mrs. O'Hara was chairman.

WITH FIRST WAVE—C. C. Pilon, Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., received a letter this week from his son, Dick E. Pilon, which informed him the boy was in the paratroop company which landed first in France on D-Day. The husky paratrooper, who is just 20 years of age, is pictured ABOVE. His father lives at 314 Pearl avenue.

planes, including heavy bombers from both Britain and Italy, pounded three vital German targets yesterday—the Munich area, Toulon on the Mediterranean and flying-bomb sites in Northern France.

One force of Mosquitos last night hit industrial installations in the German Ruhr and others attacked Nazi transport and supply dumps in the Chalons-Vitry area 90 miles east of Paris.

German flying was so restricted over the Normandy battlefields yesterday that only three Nazi craft were destroyed. Eleven Allied planes were lost.

The Munich attack cost 20 bombers, seven of which landed in Switzerland, and two fighters.

Radio Paris said the raid by the Italian-based 15th U.S. Air Force yesterday against the French naval base of Toulon was the heaviest of six attacks on the port and caused "very grave damage."

Bristling Hedgerow Of Bayonets Blocks Huns On Crucifix Hill

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ON THE CAEN FRONT, July 12, 9.03 a.m. (AP) — Marshal Erwin Rommel's counter-assault against the British and Canadian captors of Caen appeared today to have spent its fury after heavy losses in some cases.

Under cold, grey skies this morning, British Tommies held a solid line in the Trans-Odon salient. Their bayonets made a bristling hedgerow atop bloody "Crucifix Hill" northeast of Esquay, which the Germans tried so desperately to capture yesterday. The night passed quietly along the whole front.

British field headquarters officers said about 50 German tanks were believed knocked out or destroyed in the two-day battle up to dusk last night and that virtually one entire German SS. Panzer Grenadier Regiment was wiped out in bitter fighting that flamed around Hill 112, Maltot and Louvigney.

A third of the "liquidated" regiment was captured alive. Several hundred prisoners were caged yesterday. The remainder, comprised of two battalions numbering 250 to 300 officers and men each, either sprawled dead on the battlefield or were carried off on litters.

Disgruntled German prisoners of another unit said they had been shifted to counter the British thrust toward Esquay and were thrown into the battle after a 24-hour march.

"We had been promised rest and relief," a captive said. "Instead we were ordered to take Hill 112 as soon as we arrived at the front."

Expect Turkey To Enter War This Summer

By FRANK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ANKARA, July 11.—(Delayed). —(AP).—Conversations are afoot here which may lead to Turkish participation in the war before the end of the summer.

The talks are between representatives of Turkey, Russia and Britain.

These conferences of the Soviet and British ambassadors and Turkish leaders, principally Premier Sukru Saracoglu, have been taken up at the point where the Cairo conferences last year left Turkey's position in relation to the United Nations undefined.

They must first surmount the bitterness created by Allied charges that Turkey failed to keep her word and the Turkish counter-charge that the Allies failed completely to equip Turkey for war as had been promised. Actual military talks can begin here.

The United States is being kept informed of developments. It was understood here that simultaneous consultations were taking place in Moscow and London, and perhaps in Washington—to which Lawrence A. Steinhardt, U.S. ambassador to Turkey, recently returned.

(A London dispatch said the Germans showed signs of keen anxiety over the situation and a transocean news broadcast from Berlin said there was no doubt that "something of great import is being discussed in Ankara."

(The broadcast added that the Turkish cabinet had met last night with President Ismet Inonu and that the parliamentary group of the People's party had held a secret conference with Premier Sukru Saracoglu.)

Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, was said to have called upon Saracoglu yesterday before leaving Ankara for Istanbul.

Tory Amendment Defeated By 112 to 40 In House

BY JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 12 — (CP) — Commons members spoke cheerfully of being out of Ottawa within two or three weeks with the main budget debate completed last night and their program calling for immediate examination of resolutions covering taxation and other changes in detail.

By a vote of 112 to 40, the House voted down a Progressive Conservative amendment, regretting, among other things, that the Income Tax had not been removed from overtime pay and that the government had not developed a better manpower policy.

After further discussion the government motion to go into committee on the resolutions was approved without a recorded division.

The principal tax change proposals in the budget call for abolition of Compulsory Savings, Free Entry under the Tariff and removal of the Foreign Exchange Tax on farm implements and concessions to business on excess profits tax designed to assist it in converting to peace operations in the post-war period.

Finance Minister Ilsley estimated total cash requirements in the present fiscal year at $6,000,000,000 and revenues at $2,617,000,000, indicating that some $3,200,000,000 will have to be obtained by borrowing.

Next week the House will begin sitting morning, afternoon and evening in the usual pre-adjournment effort to complete business quickly. The session started in January.

During the evening sitting a debate within a debate developed as Brooke Claxton, Parliamentary Assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said there was no truth in a statement reported to have been made in Quebec by Frederick Dorion (Ind.-Charlevoix-Saguenay) that the Government had put the Bank of Canada, the National Film Board, and the Wartime Information Board in the hands of Russian Jews.

The right to serve Canada should not be denied men of ability because they belonged to a particular religion. There should be unity in Canada.

Mr. Dorion replied that the Liberal party had been the worst propagandist against Canadian unity.

Vincent Dupuis (L-Chambly-Rouville) said Mr. Dorion was a demagogue who was raising prejudices.

L. P. Picard (L-Bellechasse) said he appealed for tolerance and understanding among both French and English Canadians. There were extremists on both sides, but they were a minority. Mr Dorion's statements were dangerous to unity.

Mr. Ilsley said the C. C. F. claim that he had presented a rich man's budget meant there was something wrong with the judgment of that party. Enormous taxes had been taken from those with higher incomes and with wealth.

Other points set forth by the Minister were:

1. Concentration of Victory Bonds in a few hands after the war is discouraged instead of encouraged by present taxation policies.

Poor Financing

2. The C. C. F. proposal of guaranteeing Victory Bonds always would remain at par had no regard to the cost in financing this would entail for the country. If it was done no one would lend money to the government at lower rates when they could obtain Victory Bonds guaranteed at par bearing interest of three per cent.

3. He replied to advocates of a new system of financing to avoid debt by saying that money could be raised only by "brutal compulsion" or by paying people to save their money by offering a monetary inducement, which meant the payment of interest.

4. To those who were concerned about the size of the National debt he pointed out that government revenues in th last fiscal year, exclusive of borrowing, were 80 per cent. of the direct funded debt at the end of the immediate pre-war fiscal yar. The debt had increased $6,317,000,000 since the war began but in paying interest on its national debt the nation, as far as internal debts were concerned, was simply making a transfer of income among its own people. Today only 3.23 per cent. of the funded debt was payable abroad.

5. The net carrying charge of the Government's direct and indirect funded debt was $164,300,000 on March 31, 1920; $149,700,000 on March 31, 1939, and $183,500,000 on March 31, 1944. Substantial reductions in interest rates had been obtained, and the Canadian National Railways had produced a surplus last year.

Irresponsibility.

6. The Progressive Conservative sugestion for elimination of "double taxation" if approved would mean dropping the corporation tax. The proposal showed a degree of irresponsibility not in keeping with the official critic of an Opposition.

7. To remove the tax on overtime earnings would be inequitable and impracticable. It would undermine the basic principle of taxing according to ability to pay.

8. Increasing the income tax exemptions from $600 to $800 for single persons and from $1,200 to $1,600 for married persons would result in a loss of taxation revenue of $135,000,000. The relief given would be greater the greater the income of the taxpayer. This would accentuate the anti-inflation problem rather than make it less.

Two Bodies Are Recovered From Rice Lake Drowning

GORE'S LANDING, July 12 (ENS)—The body of three-year-old Allan Lewis of Hamilton was recovered here last evening at six o'clock. The body of his grandfather, Albert Lenz of 402 Jackson St., W., Hamilton, was brought up earlier in the afternoon. The two were drowned yesterday morning when a rowboat upset about 50 feet off Sheep Island, in the first drowning tragedy in the Rice Lake area this year.

A happy fishing party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lenz, their daughter Mrs. Violet Emmerson and their grandson, Allan Lewis, started out from their sumer cottage yesterday morning and headed towards Sheep Island. About 50 feet from Sheep Island they anchored the boat and started fishing. The boy wanted to change places with his grandfather and as the exchange was taking place, Mr. Lenz stumbled over some fishing gear and in the resultant confusion the boat tipped over and spilled all four into the water.

"When I came up I could see that mother was hanging on to the boat and father was swimming over to save Allan. I saw him go down a couple of times after the boy. I decided to swim to shore for help and when I got on shore for help I saw that only mother was hanging to the boat and father and Allan had disappeared. I shouted at the top of my lungs for help and in about a half hour I caught the attention of a fishing party and they came in and got us," Mrs. Emmerson told police.

Three American summer visitors heard Mrs. Emmerson's cries for help and came in towards Sheep Island to investigate. They attached a line to the overturned rowboard and drew it towards shore until Mrs. Lenz was able to touch her feet on bottom and make her way to land. Mrs. Lenz told her rescuers that she could not have held out much longer. She and her daughter were then taken back to the mainland.

Be No Inquest

Provincial Constable Russell Pollard of Port Hope was summoned and took charge of the searching operations for the two bodies. The body of Mr. Lenz was recovered by John Deer of Gore's Landing in about twelve feet of water and the boy's body was brought to the surface by John McKenzie of Gore's Landng. Coroner Dr. W. E. Wilkins of Cobourg said that no inquest would be held.

Father of the boy is Pte. Robert Lewis of Windsor, Nova Scotia. At the time of the drowning he and Mrs. Lewis were at the cottage. Mrs. Lewis is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lenz and is stepmother to the boy. She and Pte. Lewis have been honeymooning at Gore's Landing.

Town Council Seeks Lease On Wading Pool

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 (ENS)—At a special meeting of the town council held Tuesday afternoon in the clerk's office it was decided to apply to H. L. Killaly for a lease for the wading pool sponsored by the Kinsmen's Club and to sublet to the club, subject to satisfactory indemnity insurance.

The date for the civic holiday was set for the first Monday in August and the regular meeting of the council will be held on Thursday evening, August 3.

Potato Growers Plan Inspection

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 (ENS) — A meeting of interest to all potato growers in Northumberland county is being planned for the end of July at the farm of Charles Maguire Colborne, who is one of the growers of certified seed. The place is to meet early in the evening to inspect the potato fields and then gather on the lawn for the program.

The boys of the Brighton Potato Club will participate in the event and agricultural representative Banbury is contacting the O. A. C. authorities and hopes to have a good program of pictures and lectures.

Domestic Rates May Be Revised

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 (ENS)—The regular meeting of the Campbellford Water and Light Commission was held Monday evening with all members present. Chairman Benor presided.

The matter of revision of domestic rates and water storage was discussed and it was decided to call another meeting to further consider this important problem. It is of interest to the people of the town to know that samples of the water are sent to Toronto twice a week for inspection and that all water used is chlorinated.

The secretary reported that the revenue for the first six months is up approximately one thousand dollars over the corresponding period in 1943 and arrears were being liquidated.

Campbellford Man Dies Suddenly

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 (ENS) — While sitting on the verandah of his home on Sebastapool street, here William Ayrhart suddenly expired from a heart attack. Mr. Ayrhart was born in Marmora 78 years ago and is survived by his wife and three sons, Harry and Russell of town and Ernest of Amos, Quebec. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 3 p.m. from the family residence. Interment in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Obituary

ANDREW MILNE

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 (ENS) — Andrew Milne died Tuesday afternoon folowing a stroke with which he was seized on Sunday, June 25 while attending service in St. Andrew's church. Mr. Milne was 73 years of age and was born in Seymour Township. He belonged to one of the pioneer families of Northumberland County and formerly resided on the farm on the 4th Concession of Seymour. About 15 years ago he retired and purchased a home on Booth street in Campbellford.

He took a prominent part in Municipal and Church affairs, having served in the Township council for some time and also was secretary of Burnbrae Cheese Factory for a number of years. Since coming to town he had been interested in the marketing of farm products and was manager of the Egg-circle. He took a prominent part in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church as a member of the Board and as Treasurer of the Church. He was always interested in what is good. Surviving are his wife, three brothers, William Alexander and Charles and two sisters Miss Eva and Mrs. Allan Hutchinson. The funeral will be held in Burnbrae Church on Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. the Rev. J. O. Ralston oficiating. Interment in Burnbrae Cemetery.

Scorched Earth

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN NORMANDY July 12.—(AP).—"The Germans now are adopting a scorched earth policy in France," said a senior American civil affairs officer at one corps headquarters. He said that in a trip around the front line area just evacuated by the retreating Nazis he had found evidence they are seizing hostages and pillaging farms and homes on widespread scale.

Building Threatened

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 (ENS) — A fire of unknown origin threatened the large frame building at Hogle's Nursery this afternoon but with the help of the Fire brigade was extinguished before any serious damage was caused to the building or contents.

The James Boys

Last Thursday it was reported from Excelsior Springs, Missouri, that Mrs. Ann Ralston James had died at the age of 91; this woman's only claim to fame was that she was the widow of Frank James, the outlaw who, with his brother Jesse, led an infamous band of desperadoes during the 60's and 70's of the last century. She died protesting that nothing would ever draw the 'true story' of the James Boys from her, and this has led sentimentalists here and in the United States to revive the legend that Frank and Jesse were sadly wronged youths who were driven to a life of crime by the unjust treatment of their country's government. Now it is the function of a newspaper to comment on current affairs rather than on long-forgotten wrongs, but in this hot weather we may be excused for devoting a certain amount of time and space to the facts about the James Boys.
